$2.2 Million HUD Grant For Development

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded a $2,175,000 community development block grant to Quincy, it was announced by Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

The money will be used for social services to low and moderate income residents, rehabilitation of parks and playgrounds and to promote economic development by capitalizing loans.

The bulk of the money will be divided up among these target areas:

Atlantic, $426,345.
Houghs Neck, $185,909.
Southwest Quincy, $294,917.
South Quincy, $115,264.
Wollaston, $179,678.
Montclair, $216,178.

A total of $50,000 will be devoted to the commercial area revitalization area while $174,464 is earmarked for scattered site home rehabilitation.

By TOM HENSHAW
A new route for the controversial Granite St. - Revere Rd. Connector, slightly north of the old one, will have a public hearing Thursday, July 23, at 4:30 p.m. by the State Department of Public Works.

Thirteen businesses would be displaced.

Planning Director James Lydon said the proposed route was changed to permit access to Hancock St. while the connector was being built under it at the intersection of Revere Rd.

The new route is a few feet farther north than the old one so that Revere Rd. itself can be preserved as a surface connector between Hancock and Mechanic Sts. and the new highway.

The connector starts at Granite St., crosses the MBTA tracks, goes through the Ross Parking Area and right through the middle of the building that was vacated by Sears Roebuck last fall.

Many of the same business establishments that were to be taken under the old plan on the other side of Hancock St. also will be lost under the new. They include:

Premier Furniture, 14 Revere Rd.; Napoli Pizza, Sportlight Cafe, Hair for All Seasons, South Shore TV, 1570-76 Hancock St.; Community Opticians, Import Village, Beacon Fabrics, plus a management firm and a tax consultant, 1562-68 Hancock St.

Also going under the new plan will be Standard TV, 1554 Hancock St.; Book Haven, 1552 Hancock St.; and Colpitts Travel, 1550 Hancock St., to create access to the two ends of Hancock St. while work is in progress.

The new route will take some 17 feet off the southern end of the old Gilchrist building in the Ross Parking Area, now occupied by T. J. Maxx.

"It's not enough to terminate T. J. Maxx's lease," said Lydon.

The Bicycle Revival shop and the Household Finance office in the Parkway, which were scheduled to go under the old plan, will be preserved under the new.

Lydon said Stephen Weiner, the developer who was interested in building a mall in the John Hancock Parking Area, has shown an interest in developing the corner at the connector and Hancock St.

The John Hancock mall has been pushed onto the back burner.

"The mall is a long range plan now," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "The money market is not right at the present time."

"When you're dealing with retailers it's difficult to project needs three, four or five years down the line, particularly when they are not sure what the city is going to do."

"We've got to get the road and do a few other things before we can generate a lot of enthusiasm among retailers."

Sheets Wants Crackdown

Heavy Fines Proposed For Quarry Vandals

City Councillor James A. Sheets is proposing the stiffest penalties yet for revellers and vandals who are making life miserable for residents who live around Swingle's Quarry in West Quincy.

"It's like a war zone there on a warm weekend," said Sheets.

A meeting of residents of the Copeland, Crescent and California Sts. area last Thursday produced horror tales of vandalism that included a garage door torn from its hinges for use as a bathroom.

With that in mind, Sheets introduced an order in the Council Tuesday night that would create a "No Trespassing" area around the quarries under penalties of stiff fines.

The first offense would call for a $150 fine with $200 fines for each succeeding violation. In addition, there would be a $100 fine for deliberately tearing down the "No Trespassing" sign.

Sheets said the situation is so critical that he added an emergency preamble to the order which would make it effective the moment it is passed by the Council and signed by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

The quarries in question include the water-filled Swingle's and Granite Railway, which attract swimmers, and Badger's Quarry, which has been filled in but is a site for parties.

Sheets said some provision will be made for people to obtain permission to visit the quarry area on legitimate pursuits. The location is popular as a practice area for rock climbers.

Tobin Visits N.Y. Seeking 'A' Bond Rating

Quincy was one of 37 communities in Massachusetts whose ratings were suspended a few months ago while the effects of Prop 2½ were analyzed by Moody's.

Tobin said the rating service wanted to know what the city has done to meet the challenge of 2½ in the handling of its debts and expenses and the generation of additional income.

"They seemed to be impressed," he said.

With Tobin at the meeting with Moody's were Treasurer Robert E. Foy III and former auditor Charles L. Shea, filling in for acting auditor William Grindlay, who is busy with year end figures.

$13,000 To Study Vacant Schools

Quincy has received a $13,000 grant from the state to study ways of utilizing recently vacated school buildings. The Planning Department will administer the grant.

McCauley Promises Seniors More Security

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for mayor, has promised to give security in the city's senior citizen housing complexes a top priority in his administration. "I will push for state and federal assistance to obtain security personnel for the Quincy Housing Authority," McCauley said in talks before groups at Sawyer Towers and 1000 Southern Artery.

He noted that Quincy police, at his request, have increased their patrols in the streets adjacent to the elderly housing developments.

McCauley also outlined for the senior citizens the new ambulance program that was recently put into effect in the City.

T.J.'s Red Carpet Gets Earlier Closing Hours

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Ten to 15 area residents and a ward councillor attended Tuesday's License Board meeting requesting immediate revocation of the license held by T.J.'s Red Carpet, 12-16 Brook St., because of neighborhood disturbances. Though the license was not revoked, the board did vote 2 to 1 to roll back the Wollaston establishment's hours to 9:30 p.m., effective in five days.

City Clerk John Gillis voted against the earlier closing hour contending a paid police detail would help the situation. Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald were in favor.

According to a June 11, police report by Officer John Gilfeather and Detective Robert Miller, the establishment violated its 1 a.m. closing by allowing customers to drink inside and outside the premises.

Gilfeather said he spoke to managers of the establishment about the violations on several occasions this year and last year.

Abutter James Leone, representing area residents, then told the board of patrons drinking beer outside the lounge, being loud and noisy, fighting in the street, illegally parking, throwing empty bottles on private property, and using private property as bathrooms.

Leone said the situation, especially after midnight, is "intolerable - with capital letters."

"Sleeping is out of the question," continued Leone, "and I act as the city's best employee - cleaning up the area every morning." He also presented the board a petition signed by nearly 50 residents requesting revocation of the license.

Other residents recounted similar complaints.

Councillor James Sheets said there was failure on the part of the owners historically to control the problems.

Sheets' subsequent recommendation of revocation of the license was met by applause from the area residents.

Councillor Francis McCauley told of a Houghs Neck establishment Almost Joey's, which was closed because it was not run properly.

McCauley recommended if the situation can't be brought to a satisfactory conclusion, "put padlocks on the doors."

Red Carpet manager Edward Delaney told the board he tries to control patrons and clean the area. He also presented a petition of 100 people in favor of keeping the establishment open.

City Clerk John Gillis said there was not enough in the police report to warrant revocation of the license.

He also pointed out that this was the first time the establishment has been before the board on a liquor violation.

Final Contract Signed

Cable TV Wiring Starts In Quincy Point

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin signed the final contract to bring cable television to Quincy last week and almost immediately the first wires went up on a pole at the corner of Elm and South Walnut Sts., Quincy Point.

David J. Keefe, general manager of Quincy Cablesystems, said service is expected to begin to subscribers in Quincy Point and parts of South Quincy sometime in December.

The target date for wiring the whole city is June, 1982.

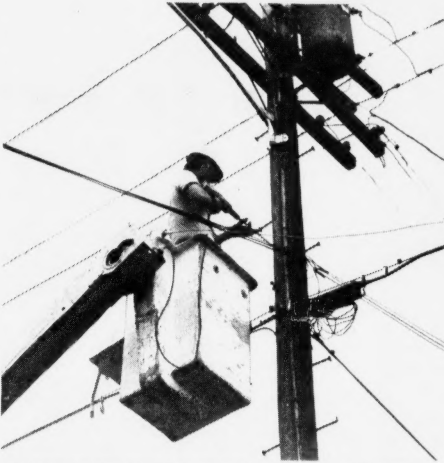

Keefe also announced that three percent of the stock in Quincy Cablesystems has been put up for sale to non-profit organizations in Quincy and there have already been five takers.

One quarter of one percent each has been purchased by the South Shore YMCA, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, the Ward 2 Civic Association, Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, and the 59ers Club of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

Each paid $2,000, said Keefe.

"We canvassed 90 organizations and these five committed themselves to purchase the stock," he said. "There are discussions pending with some others to buy the rest of the shares."

Keefe said it is the first time in Massachusetts that stock has been offered for sale to non-profit groups after the provisional license has been awarded.

Cablesystems has been negotiating for space on existing poles since the provisional license was awarded three and a half months ago. All the "make ready" work has been done.

The poles now carry wires for Mass Electric, the telephone company and the fire alarm system.

Keefe said the city will be wired up in these five phases:

- Quincy Point and South Quincy east of the MBTA tracks.
- Wollaston and North Quincy east of the T tracks plus Squantum, Norfolk Downs and part of Montclair.
- Wollaston and North Quincy west of the MBTA tracks and north of Furnace Brook Parkway.

• Houghs Neck, Germantown, Merrymount and Adams Shore.

• West Quincy south of Furnace Brook Parkway and west of the T tracks.

Keefe said home installation will be free during the first 60 days that service is offered.

Teacher Laid Off, Plans School Board Run

Nicholas C. Verenis, 34, of 82 Andrews Rd., Wollaston, a civics teacher at North Quincy High School whose name appears on the list of teachers laid off, has taken out nomination papers to run for School Committee.

Verenis was joined this week at the election office by City Councillors John J. Lydon Jr. and James A. Sheets, who took out papers to run for re-election in Wards 3 and 4 respectively.

All incumbents have now either announced or taken out papers for re-election except Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, Ward 5 Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, and School Committeewomen Mary Collins and Joan Picard.

Tobin apparently is not going to run for re-election since he is expected to be nominated by Gov. Edward J. King for the post of clerk magistrate in Quincy District Court.

A Tribute To The Gridley

Friends and neighbors of the Gridley Bryant School in West Quincy recently penned this tribute to the venerable school, which closed for the last time June 25.

The Gridley Bryant School has had a rich 85 years of service to the education of children in the Quincy public schools.

It was named after a self-educated engineer, a builder by trade, who helped lay the corner stone of the Bunker Hill Monument.

Gridley Bryant continues his contributions to society and to history by devising innovative appliances for the railroad. Along with Solomon Willard, he devised a way of hauling and dressing Quincy granite.

In 1891, Quincy showed her appreciation of Solomon Willard by naming a school after him; and in 1896, it honored Gridley Bryant with a similar school.

In January, 1897, the Gridley Bryant enrolled 275 students from the Willard School, spanning grades one through eight. Oddly enough, when Gridley closed in June, approximately one third of its students will be given back to Willard.

The contributions of many people have made the history of the Gridley Bryant School rich and meaningful.

Miss Margaret Sweeney, who started her 40 years of service in 1908 at the Willard School, became the first woman principal in the Quincy public schools at the Gridley Bryant.

Dedicated educators past and present have enriched the Gridley with instructional programs and the Student Centered Learning System approach.

The current superintendent, Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, was an assistant principal at the Gridley.

The most important integral part of any educational facility is the community and the Gridley Bryant School community highlighted the growth of the school with its mini-fairs, international nights, and an active P.T.C.C.

On June 26, the Gridley Bryant School closed its doors for the last time, ending 85 years of service to the children and the community. The graduating class and all the students of past classes have taken with them a proud heritage and valuable experience which cannot be erased by time.

Will History Repeat For Geary?

Will history repeat?

Nineteen years ago, a 38-year-old Wollaston resident came out of political no-where to become lieutenant governor.

Francis X. Bellotti was just another candidate most of the so-called experts said. They didn't give him a chance.

But what they didn't know was that Bellotti was all over the state gathering delegate support long before the Democratic state convention in Springfield that year.

He got the nomination and went on to defeat Republican Francis Perry of Duxbury in the final election and became one of the powers in state politics.

GEARY

Now, another young Wollaston man, 33-year old William Geary of Elm Ave. hopes to do the same thing. He's off and running already.

In fact last night (Wednesday), a 7-to-9 p.m. reception was scheduled for him at the Quincy Historical Society co-hosted by City Councillors Steve McGrath and Joanne Condon.

This is Geary's first run for elective office but he's no stranger to political circles.

He was appointment secretary to Gov. Mike Dukakis and was first assistant to State Secretary Michael Connolly. He was involved in bringing the state Constitution to Quincy for the big celebration in 1979.

Geary, executive director of the Boston Advertising Club, is off to an early campaign start. Like Bellotti.

And like Bellotti, he hopes to nail down the Democratic nomination by lining up early support before the other contenders really get warmed up.

INTERESTING to note that Gregory Brooks, candidate for a City Council at-large seat not only frankly admits he is a Republican but is running as a Republican.

It wasn't too long ago that most Republicans hoped voters wouldn't notice they were Republicans in a Quincy non-partisan election. Quincy is so strongly Democratic.

In fact today there are only two Republicans in elective office: Councillor Francis McCauley, candidate for mayor, and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo.

But Ronald Reagan's stunning victory over Jimmy Carter and his more recent budget wins over Thomas (Tip) O'Neill indicate that being a Republican isn't a political liability anymore. Even in Quincy.

The GOP elephant 30 years or so ago was king of the Quincy political jungle. Then it almost became extinct. But there seems to be new life in the old boy now. And that's good. The last thing we need is a one-party system.

CHIEF ASSESSOR John P. Comer was elected as Massachusetts' representative on the American Legion National Executive Committee at the recent Legion convention in Springfield.

Comer, who was state commander in 1975-76 now fills the highest Legion post in the state.

William Timcoe, past commander of the Houghs Neck Post, was elected Norfolk County Commander.

Paul A.M. Hunt, past commander of the Morrisette Post, was appointed state judge advocate by the newly elected commander, Henry Troville of Somerville.

STORK DEPT: Richard Koch, Jr., candidate for City Council at-large, and his pretty wife, the former Nancy Kelly, are expecting their first little constituent mid-July.

BILL BRABAZON, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brabazon (she's the City Council's secretary) is now a member of the Nashua N.H. police department. Bill was graduated with honors from the Northeastern University Criminal Justice School and was an Army MP for two years. He's a former Quincy Sun news carrier. (And that makes us feel a little older.)

Readers Forum

Takes Issue With LaRaia Letter

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to respond to the comments that Mr. LaRaia made in the readers column on June 25, 1981. He viciously attacks our present Mayor, Arthur Tobin on such subjects as layoffs, firings, and questions his fairness, compassion, and understanding. It is this readers opinion that Mr. LaRaia has forgotten about his past administration in this City. From 1975 to 1977 this city became the laughing stock of Massachusetts. How can one forget city officials being indicted and convicted of criminal charges? Who could forget Mr. LaRaia's January massacre when hundreds of people were either fired or laid off from positions; or the huge deficit he left the city when his term expired.

It appears Mr. LaRaia does not realize the "pride and progress" that the current Mayor has brought back to this City. The billion of dollars in development and construction which will be a tremendous boost in tax revenue dollars and it will be us the taxpayers who will reap the benefits. The job of being Mayor of this City is thankless enough where, especially at the present time, you are damned if you do and damned if you don't. I would like to thank Mayor Tobin for the professionalism, patience, and understanding he has demonstrated while in office. I would like to conclude by telling Mr. LaRaia that the citizens of Quincy are sick and tired of his personal vendetta against the present mayor.

A Tribute To Paul Sullivan

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Tuesday evening, (May 26) I attended the Willard School Spring Concert, held at the Lincoln-Hancock School. I am so impressed with the music ability given (our) children by all the music instructors who teach in the Quincy School System. Particularly, Mr. Paul Sullivan, our daughter's violin teacher for the past two years.

We have met many good teachers, but Mr. Sullivan is the most devoted, sincere, conscientious, and understanding teacher we've known. Our Quincy students are "losing out" on not re-hiring him!

Please, please, reconsider this man, he is so dedicated. The children "love" him. He has dedicated many "non-paying" hours for the benefit of his students taking a string instrument. How many teachers have this "undying" interest and concern for their students? Even with the knowledge that he is "losing his job?"

A remarkable man! (and there are others). Music and sports are as vital as scholastic achievement for children. The two former provide a release of energy and emotion for students to become well rounded healthy individuals.

Thank you.

5. The Squantum Naval Air Station was closed in: 1946? 1953? 1959?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The New Haven Railroad branch that served Quincy was named the Old Colony Division.
2. The Rev. John McMahon is pastor of St. Mary's Church.
3. Lakeside Ave. is in the Houghs Neck section of the city.
4. False. The Merrymount section of the city is in Ward I.
5. Glad Tidings Church is located at 158 Washington St.

People Want Limit On State Spending

Brownell Survey Results

Favor No Change In Prop. 2½

Nearly half of the respondents who took part in a recent survey by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell said that they want Proposition 2½ implemented with no changes at all.

And there was overwhelming support (85 per cent) for freezing state spending at the 1981 level and returning the additional revenue to the cities and towns as local aid.

"It is clear to me," said Brownell, "that the citizens of Quincy want the state to cut excessive spending and work under the same fiscal constraints as the municipalities.

"This survey reinforces my long held view that the state government must assume the burden it has placed on cities and towns with state-mandated programs."

Brownell's survey was conducted by mail between May 8 and June 8 among 350 residents of the Second Norfolk District who voted in the Nov. 8, 1980 election. The response rate was about 25 per cent.

Brownell's office summarized the results of the survey like this:

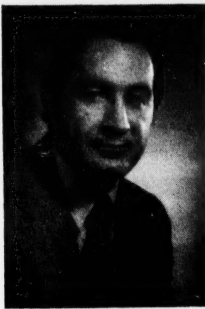

- 49 per cent said they wanted Proposition 2½ to be implemented with no changes at all.

- 46 per cent would prefer to see economies in service or service reductions at the local level; 51 per cent want no service cutbacks at all.

- 35 per cent said they feel significant savings can be achieved in spending for public education.

- 51 per cent would like to see some form of user's fee for school athletics.

- 85 per cent said they wanted state spending frozen at the 1981

THOMAS F. BROWNELL

level and the savings returned to the cities and towns.

The survey also indicated a lot of constituent dissatisfaction with state programs.

- 72.5 per cent said they were in favor of curtailment of spending for welfare.

- 47.5 per cent called for cutbacks in the state university and community college system.

Respondents in the poll also were against any new taxes to replace funds lost by the limits placed on the property tax levy.

- 42.5 per cent gave their support for user fees for municipal services.

- 36 per cent preferred a local room and meals tax.

- 30 per cent said they supported a broadening of the sales tax, that is, taxing items not now taxed.

- 27.5 per cent leaned toward some form of graduated income tax.

- Only 10 per cent said they would favor an increase in the state income tax.

"Clearly," said Brownell, "this survey indicates strong objections to the imposition of any new taxes.

"The citizens of Quincy have expressed their belief in tax reform, and as a ranking member of the House Taxation Committee, I will carry the message forth."

He said he intends to distribute the results of the survey to members of the Joint Taxation Committee and also to the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation and Citizens for Limited Taxation.

Although nearly half of those in the survey said they wanted no changes in Prop 2½, there were those who expressed a desire for constructive modifications.

- 36 per cent said they would like to see allowance made for an inflation factor after 2½ is implemented fully.

- 12.5 per cent thought that municipal energy costs should be exempted from the property tax limitations.

- 20 per cent would change the time frame in which 2½ is to be implemented fully from three to five years.

- Only 4 per cent said they favored transferring the authority to override the provisions of Prop 2½ from the voters to the local government body.

"The voters of Quincy responded to this survey with a great deal of responsibility and genuine analytical thought," said Brownell.

"Tax policy questions on Prop 2½ are at best complicated and the respondents were quite aware of which changes would cut the intent of Prop 2½ and which would effectuate a fine-tuning to make property tax limitation a lasting policy."

War Hero Dog Star At 175th Fourth Here

Marine Cpl. Derek, a Doberman pinscher who saw action in World War II on Guadalcanal and Pelilieu, was the star of the Fourth of July festivities at Merrymount Beach.

Residents of Snug Harbor celebrated their first Independence Day in their new homes with a full day of activities for kids and a block party at Palmer St. and Taffrail Rd., music by Ted Brown's orchestra.

Elsewhere in the city on the 175th birthday of the United States:

Atlantic youngsters ate 2,200 ice cream cones and drank 1,200 bottles of soda pop at Welcome Young Field and there were eight ponies and a merry-go-round for riding at Bishop Field, Montclair.

William C. Russell, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, was the speaker at Squantum and the championship St. Josephs Cadets drill team performed at Fore River Field, Quincy Point.

Cerasoli Drug Bill Nears Passage

A bill filed by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli that would set stiff penalties for the sale of drug paraphernalia is on the verge of becoming law.

The bill went to a third reading in the House Monday and Cerasoli said it has a good chance of passing within a week.

It calls for a mandatory sentence of up to two years in jail and a $1,000 fine for anyone convicted of selling drug paraphernalia with the intent to use it with illicit drugs.

Sale to minors calls for a mandatory sentence of up to five years and a $5,000 fine.

Cerasoli said his bill is based on a model drug paraphernalia act drafted by the U.S. government, which has been upheld in 11 federal district courts and two appellate courts.

The model act has been adopted in whole or in part in 19 states.

Drug paraphernalia is identified as including certain kinds of rolling papers, roach clips, coke spoons, free-base kits and bongs.

To demonstrate what he means, Cerasoli dropped by the Sun office the other day with a collection of objects people are using these days to get high.

They included:

- A type of frisbee called a "buzzbee," which has a metal cup and tube in the center in which to burn marijuana. It can be tossed around literally among smokers. It costs $7.95.

- A plastic gun, called a "power hitter." The cigarette is placed inside, lit and the smoke is pumped out of the barrel into the smoker's mouth.

- A forked pipe with two tubes that can be stuck to the dash board of the car with a suction cup and used by two smokers, including the driver, as they motor down the street.

"These items have no legal uses," said Cerasoli. "But they are not in themselves illegal. My bill will close that loophole."

Particularly insidious, he said, is the fact that many of these articles are sold in Christmas stockings, which has a tremendous appeal to youngsters.

"It looks like it's good for you, but it is not good for you," said Cerasoli.

McDuff Seeks Ward 2 Seat To Support 2½

John H. McDuff Jr. of 216 South St., Quincy Point, citing a need for "elected leaders who will work to make Prop 2½ a success rather than trying to destroy it," has announced his candidacy for the City Council from Ward 2.

McDuff, who was a candidate for a seat on the School Committee in the 1979 election, lists himself as a member of Citizens for Limited Taxation, the organization that spearheaded the drive to adopt Proposition 2½.

"Too many politicians are crying about 2½ and cutting police and fire service to frighten the public," he charged in his announcement.

"Many of them are in the pockets of the special interest groups who are out to scuttle 2½ and they have betrayed the taxpayers who elected them. I will work to cut out the fat, not essential services."

McDuff predicted a bright future for Quincy, "so long as we don't become obsessed with office buildings, skyscrapers and condominiums to the detriment of the homeowner and the small businessman.

"Bigger is not necessarily better. We must not allow our city to be turned into a miniature Boston, with its crime, violence and destruction of neighborhoods."

"If I am elected I will do my best to keep Quincy a city we can enjoy living in."

"I will fight to protect the vital interests of the people of Quincy Point, both economic and social. Ward 2 has a tradition of electing high caliber men to office and I want to continue that tradition."

McDuff, 47, is a graduate of Emerson College and is a supervisor at Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston, where he has worked for 19 years.

He is a member of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, Massachusetts Citizens for Life, the Massachusetts Citizens Rights Association and the Massachusetts Conservative Caucus.

He worked to elect Ronald Reagan president in 1980.

Patrick Conroy Announces For School Committee

Patrick J. Conroy Jr., 24, of 272 Billings St., North Quincy, has announced his candidacy for School Committee to fulfill "the dire need for competent, aggressive and success-oriented leadership."

"For four years, the trademark of the Quincy School Committee has been failure," charged Conroy.

"They have failed to adequately manage not only the budget but also the physical and human resources base which has been entrusted to them."

"Further the School Committee has failed miserably to plan beyond the present. They have refused to accept the challenges of the 1980's."

Conroy, a 1980 graduate of the University of Massachusetts, ran for School Committee in 1979, finishing a strong fourth with 9,235 votes. In 1977, he failed in a bid for Ward 6 councillor.

Conroy castigated the current School Committee for what he called its failure to look ahead.

"Making important decisions only in response to a crisis will never improve education or reduce costs in the long run," he said.

"Yet the only significant actions taken by this School Committee have been in response to crises, and these actions have focused on the present and the very short-term future."

"The incumbents have failed to clearly articulate the importance of quality education, to our community and to our nation."

"At a time when less than half the citizens of Quincy have a direct interest in the schools, it is necessary to re-emphasize that good schools make for good communities."

"It is important to remember that public schools exist to meet the needs of society, and society's needs are best met by educated and technologically competent citizens."

"The next two years," said Conroy, "will be a turning point for public education in Quincy."

"The school system will either regain its prominence as an outstanding learning institution or it will become a caretaking operation for children who can't afford to pay tuition anywhere else."

"I believe I can lead the Quincy Public Schools toward excellence by managing the budget efficiently and effectively, planning for the needs of education and of society in the 1990's and beyond, and making the tough and unpopular decisions that sometimes need to be made for common good."

"I wish to serve on the School Committee in order to return to the people of Quincy some of the investment they have made in me."

"I believe my intelligence, my honesty, and my dedication will help me lead the Quincy Public Schools into the next century."

Conroy, who is employed by the Defense Department as a contract negotiator, attended the Quincy Public Schools, and is presently enrolled in the Graduate Business School of Babson College.

Christmas Festival Organizers Named

General Chairman George F. White announces the table of organization that will prepare for the annual Christmas Festival Parade which is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 29, in Quincy Center.

White, who is also budget coordinator for the 30-member festival committee, made the following appointments:

Carol Pisano, activity coordinator.

William Morrill, band coordinator and parade marshal, assisted by Bryant Carter.

David Kcefe, float coordinator, assisted by committee members Frances Flynn, Gloria Noble, Thomas McDonald, Bernie Reisberg, Ginny Ballou and School Committeewoman Mary Collins.

Agnes Trillcott, Disney costume characters, assisted by Brendan Gallagher and Gene Scutti.

Lts. John Flaherty and Anthony Malvesti, police and fire department activities.

Remo DeNicola, entertainment, assisted by Paul Schwabe.

Richard J. Koch, city liaison, Santa's mail boxes and nativity pageant.

Koch and Gloria Noble will again co-chair the Christmas Poster Contest.

Edward Holland, ROTC Sea Scout activity.

Bob Noble, parade sign coordinator.

City Councillors Joanne Condon and Stephen J. McGrath, city activity liaison.

School Committeewomen Pat Toland and Mary Collins, School Department activity liaison.

Paul Schwabe, awards night chairman, assisted by Carol Pisano, Tom Barry, Helen Chatterton and Remo DeNicola.

Herb Fontaine, publicity.

Steve Norton, Santa's arrival.

Joanne Condon, fund-raising committee.

Koch Stresses Importance Of Citizen Participation

Richard J. Koch, Jr., candidate for Councillor at large, addressed a group of campaign workers recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Bowes of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, stressing the importance of citizen participation in municipal government on an elective level rather than as municipal committee appointees.

Koch congratulated the number of new candidates obtaining nomination papers as Councillor at large candidates. He suggested others interested join in the Democratic process closest to the residents, the election of mayor, city council and school committee. The daily school, public safety, water, sewer, library, recreation and playground services are governed by local elected officials, he noted.

Koch said that for too long people have been discouraged to seek office with segments of the news media and political factions critical of political office rather than the office holders who cause the criticism.

He encouraged young people to become part of the political process and seek with vigor and enthusiasm their goals in public service.

Koch also suggested perseverance to overcome established political organizations and well financed campaign committees with the substitution of personal sacrifice, work and dedication to offset the seemingly impossible task of winning.

Koch explained his first attempt at political office two years ago resulted in his being runnerup to a former Mayor, Joseph LaRaia, by less than 200 votes. Koch received over 11,000 votes in the election.

by
Lee A. Welky D.M.D.

Q: My child has difficulty speaking, and it seems to be due to a little piece of skin that's attached under his tongue near the tip. Can this be corrected?

A: Yes. The piece of skin is actually only a tight muscle attachment, or frenum, which keeps the tongue from moving properly during speech. An oral surgeon can do a frenectomy, which releases the tight muscle and allows the tongue to move normally.

Q: I only have one anchor tooth on my left side, but it's broken. If I want to have my teeth fixed and this tooth is needed, how can a dentist get to it if part of it is under the gum?

A: He may use electrosurgery, which "melts" the extra gum tissue away. Healing usually is very quick, with little or no bleeding or discomfort.

Obituaries

Lucie Spicer, 77, Ledger Ad Manager

Funeral services were held Sunday for Lucie A. Spicer, 77, retired classified advertising manager of the Patriot Ledger, who died Friday at City Hospital.

The Rev. William Underhill of St. Chrysostom's Church officiated at the services at Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home.

A native of Norwich, Conn., she started working at the Patriot Ledger in 1927 and at one time held the dual role of advertising manager and company auditor before her retirement in 1972.

She was the newspaper's first female advertising manager.

A graduate of Becker's Business College and the New England Conservatory of Music, she worked at the Worcester Telegram before moving to Quincy 54 years ago.

She was a member of the International Classified Managers Association, the Northeast Classified Advertising Management Association, a director of the Quincy Credit Association and a member of the Newspaper Controllers Association.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Joseph A. Facella, Retired Western Electric Employee

Funeral services for Joseph A. Facella of Quincy, a retired employee of Western Electric in Watertown, were conducted Monday at Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Facella died June 25, at Quincy City Hospital after being stricken at his home with an apparent heart attack.

A World War II Army veteran, he had lived in Quincy for 15 years.

Born in New York City, he had also lived in Dorchester.

Mr. Facella was a member of Covenant Congregational Church, Quincy, and the Bethesda Lodge of Odd Fellows.

He is survived by his wife, Joyce Y. (Stevens) Facella; a son, Mark D. Facella; three daughters, Lynne M. Facella and Lori Ann Facella, both of Quincy, and Barbara Harrington of Florida; a brother, Anthony Facella of South Weymouth; two sisters, Josephine Piermatteo of Florida and Anna Facella of South Boston; and four grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Contributions can be made to the Memorial Fund of Covenant Congregational Church, 315 Whitwell St., Quincy.

Louis S. Belyea, 2½, Germantown Drowning Victim

A prayer service for Louis S. Belyea, Jr., 2½, of Quincy, who drowned Saturday off Palmer Street Beach, Germantown, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at Scally Funeral Home, 54 Pleasant St., Dorchester.

Mrs. Kathleen M. Belyea, of Doane St., told police she had taken Louis with her to visit a friend, Terry Marchetti of 391 Palmer St., Saturday evening.

Mrs. Marchetti's son, Derryn, 3, and Louis played on the beach, until Louis wandered into the shallow water.

Reported missing, the child's body was found floating in the water by neighborhood youngsters Jimmy Fidler, 9, Jimmy Cross, 13, and Fred Prendable, 12.

Attempts by police and others at the scene failed to revive the child. Doctors at Quincy City Hospital, where Louis was taken by ambulance, tried unsuccessfully for 30 minutes to revive him.

Louis was the brother of Kathleen M. and Robert S. Belyea, both of Quincy.

Burial was in Mt. Benedict Cemetery.

11 Young Mothers Receive Diplomas At Bethany Ceremonies

Eleven young mothers recently received Quincy High School diplomas in a brief ceremony free of pomp and circumstance Monday evening.

What the special commencement in the Allen Parlor of Bethany Church lacked in magnificence, it made up in family style closeness.

It was the second annual graduation from the Bethany Teen Mother's Program, which started three years ago. About 60 people were present, including School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, School Committee members Christopher Kennedy, Patricia Toland, Mary Collins and John J. Sullivan. The opening blessing was given by Rev. J. William Arnold of Bethany Church. The closing benediction was offered by Father William McCarthy of St. John's Church. Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel services, gave the welcome.

Dr. Creedon told the group that the Bethany Program will continue next year because of community and state support.

City funding for the program was cut months ago during the school budget slashing process required by Prop 2 1/2.

But an imminent $25,000 state grant will help keep the program alive another year, Dr. Creedon said. He said the teen mother program has the support of state officials, especially Dr. David Cronin, assistant commissioner of education.

The program has also received a $2,000 pledge from Hingham Congregational Church.

Dennis Ryan To Head Raymondi Committee

Dennis F. Ryan, retired clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court, has been named general chairman of Daniel G. Raymondi's campaign for mayor of Quincy.

Ryan, who is also a former school committeeman and member of the City Hospital Board of Managers, retired from his court duties last spring after more than 30 years service.

"It is with a deep sense of honor and personal pride that I make this announcement," said Raymondi.

"Mr. Ryan has been a dear and loyal friend and a close and trusted advisor. His personal knowledge, background and expertise in local government will be an invaluable asset to our campaign."

"Through his positive direction and leadership we will provide the citizens of Quincy with an aggressive and honest campaign."

Ryan, who lives at 84 Fenno St., Wollaston, said.

"The challenges of the 80s will be to supply the leadership and vision necessary to make the Mayor's office the positive force in city government that it should be."

"Dan Raymondi has deep roots within our city."

"His public life as an experienced elected official, as a successful trial attorney and as an experienced public official has been one of thoughtful evaluation and a marked sense of leadership. His family and educational background have instilled within him a sense of morality and a dedication to purpose."

"As a city councillor and as a respected practicing trial attorney, I have had the opportunity on numerous occasions to witness first hand his compassion and respect for his fellow man -- traits that are solely lacking in elected officials today."

"As the newly appointed Chairman of the Downtown and Economic Development Committee of the City Council, I have seen the results of his efforts in guiding numerous development projects through the City Council and into the building stage."

"Dan Raymondi will be a firm and fair mayor who will be responsive to the needs of the people. He is one of a few leaders who can remain independent while administering our great city."

"This campaign will be a dynamic and stimulating one which will enable the residents and tax payers of Quincy to clearly define his qualifications, professional background and accomplishments. Dan Raymondi is the kind of person Quincy needs for its next mayor."

Squantum Church Begins Summer Sermon Series

A series of summer sermons on the Book of Revelation began last Sunday at the First Church of Squantum.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on, "Can This Book Be For Us?"

The series will continue throughout the summer, except for a few weeks in August when Dr. Langevin will be away. It will deal with the issues raised by the visions

John the Seer had of things which were to come while he was imprisoned on the Isle of Patrons in the first century.

The issues broadly speaking, are "eschatological" meaning they refer to the end of time.

Greeters for the morning were Gloria Cutler and Doris Sinckler. Violinist James E. Summer played Handel's "Sarabande" as a prelude to the service and Tartini's "Adagio in G" as the offertory.

He was accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

Members of the youth choir were presented choir pins by Mary Ruth Scott who directs the choir.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Steve Williams and Bonnie Adams.

All summer services at the First Church of Squantum will begin at 9:15 a.m. until September.

Vacation Bible School At St. John's

St. John's Church, Quincy Center, has invited parents and parishioners to view a slide presentation tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. on the Church's first Vacation Bible School being held this week.

Those attending can also see crafts made by the children and enjoy a program of music by the children led by Julie DiScipio.

One hundred children are participating in the activities which consist of crafts, music, Bible stories, recreation, snack time and a missionary outreach.

About 35 adults have volunteered their services as teachers and aides under the direction of Carol Horn, program director, and Rev. William R. McCarthy, spiritual director and advisor to the staff.

9 Residents Attend Christian Science Mother Church Annual Meeting

Nine Quincy residents attended the recent 86th annual meeting of the members of the Mother Church of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

They are Holly and Warren

Bolon, Barbara and David Chapin, Irene and Al Larrington, Shelly and William Ellington, and Esther Beach.

Several thousand church members attended the two-day event.

The Christian Science Church was founded by Mary Baker Eddy in 1879 and now has congregations in 56 countries.

Cortese Vows To Seek New Senior Security

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for Ward 2 city councillor, said he will inquire extensively into the possibility of a new security system for senior citizen housing complexes in Ward 2.

Cortese said he has learned from discussions with Clement A. O'Brien, executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, that federal funding is available in the form of block grant money.

"There is pending as part of this grant an application for a possible $100,000 that could be utilized for improving security measures, if granted," he said.

Cortese said there is a definite need for security at all the senior citizen locations due to crimes such as vandalism, theft and general harassment of the elderly.

"I intend to diligently pursue this in future discussions with those currently involved in making decisions in this regard," he said.

"I have the qualifications necessary to pursue this important need to the entire community and I intend to do just that."

Cortese is a retired member of the Quincy Police Department.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

8-Run Inning

DiNardo's Grand Slam Powers Morrisette

Morrisette Legion breezed by Milton, 12-2, Monday night behind the seven-hit pitching of Mark Millane and Bruce Tobin to improve its Zone 6 record to 8-2.

Morrisette will play Quincy tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at Adams Field, will host Canton Monday night at 8 at Adams and will meet Norwell next Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

Gary DiNardo had a grand slam home run, triple and single to spark Morrisette over Milton. Morrisette scored four runs in the first on walks to Danny Boyle, Marty McLoughlin and Jim Balzano. Millane's two-run single, a fielder's choice an error and Kevin Howlett's single.

In a wild second inning Morrisette scored eight runs on seven hits, a walk, two errors and a hit batter. DiNardo had his grand slam and triple in this inning and Millane and Howlett each had two hits and drove in two runs.

Millane was the winning pitcher, going five innings and giving up six hits and two runs. Tobin pitched the last two innings, giving up a hit for his second save. Balzano played an outstanding game at third base.

Last Sunday Morrisette upset Brockton's defending state champions, 4-2, at Brockton, with Paul Earle pitching an outstanding game. He pitched a three-hitter and struck out eight.

Millane was the hero as he pinch hit for Earle in the ninth inning and hit a two-run homer over the left field fence. He also pitched the final inning, striking out two.

Morrisette scored twice in the first inning as Boyle doubled, McLoughlin doubled and Balzano singled. These were its only runs until Millane's heroics in the ninth.

Steve Pecenich continued his fine hitting with two and Howlett also had two.

Last Friday night Morrisette handed Hingham its first loss of the year, 6-0, with DiNardo pitching a one-hitter and striking out seven for his third victory.

Morrisette pounded out 14 hits with Pecenich having a triple, two doubles and a single and driving in two runs. Balzano and Boyle having doubles, Rob Beniers two hits and an RBI. Millane a double and single and two RBIs, and McLoughlin two hits. The outfield played great ball with Beniers and Boyle making fine running catches.

Morrisette scored twice in the second when Brian Reale reached on an error, Pecenich tripled and Millane singled. In the third it added a run when McLoughlin singled, Balzano sacrificed and Beniers and Pecenich singled. In the fifth Balzano doubled, Beniers singled and Pecenich singled for two more runs. In the sixth Beniers reached on an error, Reale singled and Pecenich's double drove in Beniers with the final run.

In its previous game Morrisette was upset by Randolph, 2-1.

Wollaston scored five runs in the first inning but Hingham came back to take a 9-8 decision as Dave

Sports

Rohrer pitched excellent ball in relief after taking over for starter John Beatey.

Wollaston also lost to Milton, 5-2, as Milton pitcher Dave McL can pitched a no-hitter and struck out 12.

Wollaston will play at Brockton Monday at 6 o'clock (Edgar Playground), and will be at Weymouth Wednesday at 6.

Quincy continued to play in hard luck and Monday night lost to Hingham, 9-5, after leading, 4-3, going into the seventh inning.

Quincy will face Morrisette tonight (Thursday) at 6 at Adams Field, will host Norwell Monday at 6 at Adams and will be home to Holbrook next Wednesday night at 6 at Adams.

Awards Presented At North Track Banquet

The North Quincy track teams, which recently finished successful seasons, held their annual awards banquet recently at Vallee's in Braintree.

The awards to the outstanding girls' team, which finished as unbeaten Suburban League champions, dominated the league meet and finished a close second in the Eastern Mass. and state meets, were presented by Coach Lou Tozzi.

The awards to the boys team, which finished 5-3, were given by Coaches George Liset and Bart Petracca.

The spring track girls' MVP was Michelle Millane, whose only defeats this year were in the Eastern Mass. and state meets and who won the New England discus championship at Concord, N.H., defeating Kathy Durante of Winchester, who had upset her in both the Eastern Mass. and state meets.

The coaches award went to Kara Crehan, who had an outstanding year in the high jump and won the New England title after winning the state meet. She topped Elizabeth O'Connor of Weymouth South, who had defeated her in the state coaches meet and the league meet.

Karen Lindenfelzer was the unsung hero in spring track.

The winter MVP was Mary Kate Kennedy, the coaches award went to Nancy McCarthy and the unsung hero was Deirdre Donovan.

In cross country Sheila Barrett was the MVP and Linda Kennedy won the coaches award.

A special award, presented by guest Patti Lyons Catalano, the second-ranked women's distance runner in the world, went to Deirdre Corrigan. Patti, who was accompanied by her husband, Joe Catalano, former Quincy High coach, donated her second place Boston Marathon trophy to Corrigan as the senior who deserved special recognition.

Tozzi presented gifts to the nine girls who formed the foundation of the tremendous season and placed in at least two of the state meets this year. They were Mary Crehan, Nancy McCarthy, Mary Kate Kennedy, Sheila Barrett, Linda Kennedy, Karen Lindenfelzer, Michelle Millane, Kara Crehan and Deirdre Donovan.

Captains' awards went to Corrigan, Linda Morash, Robyn O'Donnell and Mary Crehan.

Walter McConaghy was the boys spring MVP, John Mantalos received the coaches award and Joe McDonald was the unsung hero.

Lou DiPietro was the winter MVP, Gary Morin won the coaches award and Jack Brown was the unsung hero.

Morin was the cross country MVP and Rick O'Brien won the coaches award.

Tim Allen received the senior achievement plaque and Brown, McConaghy, DiPietro, Allen and McDonald received captains' awards.

Special guests, in addition to Patti and Joe Catalano, were principal Peter Chrisom, Asst. Principal Mrs. Feeney, Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone and Quincy Track Coach Geoff Hennessy.

Certificates went to all the boys and girls who broke school records. The captains presented gifts to the coaches and flowers to Mrs. Tozzi. Tozzi presented a slide show of the season's highlights and all the athletes received letters.

• Junior Farm League

Nationals Defeat Americans, 5-1

In the annual Junior Farm League all-star games last Saturday, the Nationals defeated the Americans, 5-1, in the 10-year old game and the Americans topped the Nationals, 7-1, in the "B" 8-9-10-year old game.

In the 10-year old game Mike Walsh, Tim Brillo and Mike Toland pitched two innings each for the Nationals, scattering six hits and striking out 11. Sean Cappis of the Giants was the games MVP and had two hits and two RBIs. Jeff Adams was MVP runnerup and had a home run. Sean Burke had an RBI single and Jeff McClory and Eric Jancaterino had singles.

For the Americans Eddie Hanson, Paul McClellon, Mike Kiley, Jimmy Gordon, Eddy Ryan and Eddie Brosman did the pitching and gave up six hits and struck out 14. Danny Steele was the team's MVP and had a long triple and made an excellent catch. Kiley tripled and scored the only run. Chris Kiler tripled and Bobby Herman, Danny Piccini and Matt Beardsley had the other hits.

In the "B" game for 8, 9 and 10-year olds, Eric DeBoer, Matt Smith, Pat O'Donoghue, Billy Monteith, Lance Gilbert and Danny Gilmartin all pitched for the winning Americans, scattering four hits and striking out 11.

Matt Smith of the Red Sox won MVP honors and had a two-run homer, an RBI single and a great catch at shortstop, starting a double play. He pitched one inning and allowed no hits and struck out two. Steve Kaval of the Indians was runnerup MVP and had two hits and two RBIs. O'Donoghue had a long homer and pitched well and Kevin Daly, Tim Roche and Chris Abate had the other hits. Billy Monteith walked and had an RBI.

For the Nationals, Mike Connor, Joe Crespi, Robert Crespi, Mark Cafano, Jason Leahy and Tim Murphy all pitched well. Peter McLoughlin singled, walked and scored the only run, Cafano singled and had the only RBI. Cafano and McLoughlin were co-runnersup for the game's MVP. Tommy Mayo and Connor had the other hits.

• Junior League

Laracy Fires One Hitter As Foley Sets A.L. Pace

Foley Plymouth-Chrysler continues to lead the Junior Baseball League's American League with a 14-3 record.

In its latest game, Foley blanked Remick's, 7-0, as second baseman Bob Laracy was called upon to pitch his first game, with one of the starters on vacation. He responded with a one-hitter, striking out seven and walking only one. No Remick base runner reached second.

Laracy also had two singles and drove in two runs. Kyle Robertson had two singles and scored twice and Sean Gately and Mike Routier had singles.

Foley also bombed Houghs Neck Legion, 15-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Chris Marshall, who improved his record to 5-1. Jay DiBartolo had two long home runs, Tom Tegen had a homer and single, Dan Biagini had two singles, Robertson had two singles and scored twice, Gately had a two-run triple, Kevin Duffy had a single and scored twice and Mike Sanda and Sean Mulkern had singles. Foley jumped off to an 11-0 lead in the first two innings, and the subs had plenty of chance to play. Joe Gately and Jackie Green played well in the field.

Biagini, whose brother Bob is playing in the Red Sox farm system, improved his average to .690 (38 hits in 55 times at bat).

4 Track Club Members Make Youth Games Team

The Quincy Track Club had a big day at the Youth Games tryouts last week at White Stadium with four members assured of spots on the Boston team in the Nationals in August.

Several others could be selected as they finished second to those who won two events. (Team members can compete in only one event in the Nationals).

Mike Williams won the 14-15 220 with a time of 23.9. This will be Mike's fifth year in the Nationals.

Maureen Roche won the 14-15 long jump at 15-4 1/2 and will be in the Nationals for the fourth year.

Finn Kelly won the high jump at 4-10 and also won the 880 in 2:25 in the 12-13 division. He was a National Junior Olympic champion in 1979 but this will be his first National Youth Games.

The big surprise of the day was Patrick Murphy winning the 9-11 440 in 1:18.9.

Alternates are Tracy Parker in the 12-13 high jump, Julie Supple, 14-15 high jump; Lorrie McNeill, 9-11 long jump; Tony Rugnetta, 9-11 long jump.

Also, Jamie McARDIE, 12-13 long jump; Marie D'Artiglio, 12-13 long jump; Matty Werth, 9-11 880; Mike Petta, 9-11 100; Denise Petta, 14-15 100, and Kristine Picarski, 14-15 220.

The "B" team concluded its season with a cookout and awards ceremony at Veterans Memorial Stadium last Saturday. Fifty boys and girls were promoted to the "A" team and over 200 received certificates from Coach Jeff Hennessy for completing the season.

Trophies for most improvement in June went to Marianne Gorman and Sutee Sirikanjanachae. MVP trophies went to Steve Barikus, Regina Murphy, Matt Flynn, Ann Marie Curtin, David Cawthorne, Elizabeth Renda, Brian Barrett, Marta Martinez, Robert Kearney, Robin Guilfooy, Brendan Farrell, Tracy Cullen, Jimmy McAdams and Laura Ciulla.

POOL CUES

True, your home swimming pool can provide limitless fun and relaxation - but it can also be a source of danger. Hospital records are replete with records of fatal accidents (especially among children), which took place in this environment. Here's some pool cues to keep in mind.

The two most important safeguards pool-owning homeowners can provide are (1) permanent fencing, with a self-locking gate, around the pool or yard area and (2) proper adult supervision when there are swimmers in the pool.

Post written instruction, including directions for artificial respiration, in the pool areas. A casual mention of the rules is easily forgotten. Allow only one person on the diving board at a time and forbid swimming under the board.

Make sure that extension cords for radios and other appliances used near the pool are properly grounded and that children do not take glass, stones, or hard balls into or alongside the swimming pool.

McClellon Fans 13 Red Sox Win Junior Farm Title

The Red Sox scored three runs in the third inning and defeated the Giants, 4-1, last Friday to win the Junior Farm League championship.

The Red Sox had won the American division and the Giants had taken the National division in a playoff game with the Braves.

Paul McClellon pitched a five-hitter, struck out 13 and walked four to cap an outstanding season. Kevin Daly was the offensive star with a three-run homer in the third, a walk and two runs scored and also played an outstanding defensive game. The top defensive play was turned in by Joey Hannon, who made a great running catch in center field and doubled up the runner at first. Martin Feeney and Timmy Roche each had a hit and Roche also walked. Dan Steele, Matt Smith, Brian Zimmerman, Michael Hughes and Mike Doherty all reached base with Hughes and Doherty scoring on Daly's home run. Ken Staskiewicz, Jamie Greene, Chris Kyler, Nicky Levins and Matt Ryan all played well.

For the Giants Dave Murphy pitched excellent ball over the last three innings, giving up one hit and striking out five. Mike Connor and Sean Burke also pitched. Peter McLoughlin, Sean Cappelis, Sean Burke, Connor and Bobby Kane singled, Kane driving in the only run.

David Connolly made a great catch in center and doubled a runner off second. Cappelis also made a fine catch in left and Paul Flynn, Karyn Mosher, Derek Adams, Tim Collins, Tom Bagley, Jeff Clifford, Carmine Oliva and Jennifer Cook all played well.

The Giants scored nine runs in the third and six in the fourth to bomb the Braves, 18-1, in the playoff game to decide the National Division title.

Murphy pitched a two-hitter and struck out 13. Murphy's three-run homer sparked the nine-run third. Kane had a home run, double and single, Burke had a homer and double, Connor had a triple and single, McLoughlin singled twice and scored three runs, Flynn singled twice and Cappelis singled and made two great catches in left. Connolly tripled and Bagley had a single. Cook and Adams each walked twice and scored twice. Mosher walked twice and scored a run, Collins walked twice and Oliva and Clifford played well in the field.

Hershey Track, Field Meet July 8

The Baintree Park Department will hold the local competition of the Hershey Track and Field meet on Wednesday, July 8, at Baintree High School.

The meet starts at 1 o'clock and is open to all boys and girls from 9 to 15 who do not belong to any

For the Braves Danny Crespi had a long triple and Sean Murphy hit the ball hard.

In regular season play the Orioles finished their season with an 8-5 win over the Tigers with Eddie Ryan the winning pitcher, striking out 17. Steve Nabstedt led the attack with a home run, double and single and scored twice. Jeff Pugliese had two hits, including a triple, and John Kelly, Bobby Herman and Eric Sherman also had hits. The Tigers trailed, 8-0, but came back with four runs in the bottom of the fourth and one in the fifth. Fine defensive plays by Pat McNamara, Russ Conley, and Tommy McNamara enabled the Orioles to hold on to their lead.

The Orioles also blasted the Yankees, 14-7, pounding out 17 hits. Herman was the winning pitcher, striking out nine. Herman also led the offense with three hits. The Orioles scored five runs in the first, led by John Kelly's three-run homer. Danny Gilmartin, Sal Manganaro, Brian Manteville (home run) and Pugliese had two hits each and Sherman, Kevin Kelly and Ryan one apiece. Joe Nabstedt reached base three times and scored twice. Ryan made an outstanding diving stop to start a double play.

The Red Sox defeated the Angels, 9-5, with Steele the winning pitcher, striking out 16 and walking only two. The Sox clinched the win with seven runs in the fourth inning. Daly led off the inning with a walk, Feeney reached on an error, Roche was hit by a pitch filling the bases. Staskiewicz walked to force in the tying run, McClellon lined a base hit off the pitcher's glove for two runs, Smith lined a single to drive in two more runs and McDonough doubled to score Smith and raced around to score when the ball went past the right fielder. Eric DeBoer pitched well for the Angels and struck out 16, but walked nine. He allowed only four hits. Kirk McDonald had a two-run homer and single.

The Red Sox edged the Braves, 1-0, on McClellon's one-hitter. He struck out 17 and walked only three. Ryan scored the winning run in the fifth inning when he walked and scored on Feeney's line shot to left. Smith and Zimmerman had the other Sox hits. McDonough and Staskiewicz played well behind the plate. Bob Crespi pitched well in a losing cause, striking out eight, while Timmy Brillo made several outstanding plays in the field.

track club. The competition will include the standing long jump, softball throw, 50, 100, 200, 400 and 800 meter dashes and the 1500-meter run.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Baintree Park Dept.

AT THE RECENT Quincy High School Hockey Boosters Club dinner the officers were presented an award for their outstanding work during the past season. ● Babe Ruth Baseball

Morrisette Moves Toward Playoff Berth

Morrisette continued to play well and edged its way toward a playoff berth in the Babe Ruth League's National League with a 9-2 victory over Golden Print.

Morrisette started with three runs in the first inning, the key blow being a bases loaded single by Joe Grimaldi. In the third Vin Cristiani blasted a triple and he and Jack Outerbridge scored on a two-base error for a 5-0 lead. Golden scored its two runs in the bottom of the fifth, Mike Bourikas having a triple and Jeff Timberlake a double. Morrisette salted the game away with four runs in the seventh with Jerry Frazier and Ricky Kelley having the key hits.

Outerbridge pitched well, keeping eight hits well-scattered and striking out six. He also had a double. Cristiani scored three runs, Brian Scalata played well in the field and also scored two runs. Lou Gonzales walked four times and he, Frazier and Kelley played well in the field. Chr. s Rossi played well behind the plate for Golden and had two hits.

Morrisette defeated the VFW, 6-1, behind the pitching of Cristiani, who allowed only four hits, struck out seven and walked one. Morrisette scored four runs in the first inning on an error, a single by Tom Connolly, two walks and singles by Grimaldi and Frazier.

In the fourth Eric Roukey tripled and Ed Boyle doubled for VFW's only run. Morrisette had men on base in nearly every inning, but VFW pitcher Charles Jaehng pitched out of trouble until Morrisette added two runs in the sixth. Gonzales doubled and, with two outs, Cristiani singled Gonzales home and Scalata singled in Cristiani.

Outerbridge had three hits, Cristiani, Gonzales and Connolly two each and Frazier, Scalata and Grimaldi one apiece. Outerbridge played excellent defense at third base and Scalata started an excellent double play at second. Boyle had two hits and Steve Hogan and Roukey the others for VFW.

Hancock Bank defeated the Police Club, 14-7, with Paul Scibilio getting the win with relief help from Andy Lenhardt and John O'Connor. Steve White, Steve Higgins and Mike Conlon paced a 13-hit attack. Eight runs in the first two innings iced the game for Hancock.

Q. MY OLDER HOME HAS MANY LAYERS OF PAINT ON IT. IT HAS SMALL LINES ALL IN THE PAINT FILM SOME OF WHICH ARE STARTING TO OPEN UP. WHAT SHOULD I DO?

A. Most probably the paint film is suffering from checking. This develops when a paint film begins to lose its elasticity. Generally this happens on older homes that have many layers of paint on them. The older layers become very brittle and crack with changes in temperature and humidity. It is best to remove all the old paint and prime before adding any more paint to the problem. The best solution might not be the easiest but the "problem solvers" at Hancock Paint will give you all the information you need to make a decision.

WEEK OF: JULY 2

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Caring friends can help you over a hurdle, but you must be willing to ask for assistance. Organizational work rather than a creative job is your current specialty.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

By being less possessive you can improve an already good relationship and amaze an already impressed employer. Weekend activities can be more physically demanding than usual.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Remember the advice you've been giving lovelorn friends? You may try taking a dose of it yourself. On the job, you could be nominated for a significant award.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Cooperative endeavors bring about satisfying results, and it's a good week for entering into sharing arrangements. Financial prospects start blooming by Monday or Tuesday.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Your own little world is the scene of the week's happiest adventures. Personal history is important now; look for new ways to carry on old traditions.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

Raise the standards of a friend rather than allow him/her to lower your own sights. If planning a trip, determine whether it's rest or recreation that you're after.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Entertaining Leo makes a lot out of precious little this week. Generally, opt for bright colors and bold touches, and try hard not to resist change.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Charm gets you through most of the week's career-related trouble spots. Clear up romantic misunderstandings — there will be a few this weekend — the moment you spot them.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

A week in which recreation becomes hard work — and work becomes fun and games. Colleagues are more amiable, neighbors more demanding, and loved one more cautious than usual.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Not the best week for starting a diet or launching a big project. Much better now to conclude small tasks, shape long-term goals, and let loved one pamper you.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Appreciation from higherups helps boost your morale and even perks up a sagging relationship. Unusual ideas prove ultimately successful, so file them away for the future.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

A tempting opportunity may not work out because of personal obligations. Modest windfall or bonus favored for Monday-Tuesday. Earthy tones suit your present moods.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Ruled by the heart, you're highly romantic and quite emotional. Long-range thinking is accentuated this year; plans made now will affect you over the next decade. An important alliance may be formed late in 1981.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 2nd, actor Brock Peters; 3rd, director Ken Russell; 4th, actor George Murphy; 5th, circus master P.T. Barnum; 6th, actress Janet Leigh; 7th, singer Ringo Starr; 8th, singer Billy Eckstine.

$8.57 Million Increase

Quincy Cooperative Assets Up 6.7%, Herbert Reports

Assets of the Quincy Cooperative Bank have reached $137,070,000, up $8,570,000 from last year, a growth of 6.7%, President John R. Herbert told shareholders at the annual meeting last week.

This means that over the last six years the assets of the bank increased $54 million dollars for a growth figure of 65%, Herbert said.

Other indications of the bank's growth reported to the shareholders were its total of $1,334,000,000 in transactions, a considerable increase over last year.

Its total interest payment to customers of $9,309,110 was up $1,737,802, an increase of 22.9%.

Shareholders reelected Heslip E. Sutherland, retired director and former president of the bank, as clerk of the corporation.

Also re-elected were directors David J. Coleman, Dominic R.

JOHN R. HERBERT

Tedeschi and Francis J. Mitchell.

In his annual report, Herbert discussed the bouncing interest rate illustrated by highs and lows in 26-week certificate rates of 7.75% to 15.78% in 12 months.

The worst effect of this wide swing in rates, he said, was to families seeking mortgages to buy homes. As rates peaked, many could not afford to enter the housing market. Some who did secure mortgages found that their banks had sold the loans.

"Through good planning in our investment of shareholders' dollars," Herbert said, "We have not been in the position of having to sell our mortgage loans."

"For the past fiscal year, we wrote $14,307,916.66 worth of mortgages. There are two comments that should be made on this figure.

"The first is that the available interest rate was approximately two percentage points over the preceding year, and the second thing is that for a very large part of the year we were offering the lowest interest rate of any bank around.

"In other words, we did our best to make mortgages available."

Dick Cahill Joins Million Dollar Club

Dick Cahill, vice president of the five-office Quincy division of Jack Conway, Realtor, has earned membership in the Million Dollar Aruba Club by selling 25 per cent of the deluxe condominiums at 100 Grandview Ave.

Cahill personally sold 13 of the $43,000 and up condos which, along with sales of single-family Quincy homes ranging up to $80,000, put his total sales and listings at $1,071,250.

He attributed his success to "being able to anticipate the growth of the condo market here which dovetails readily with the new life-style of young singles, both married and unmarried, as well as senior citizens, who can afford this type of housing."

Only 14 condos are left in the 53-unit complex.

Cahill has been with the Conway company since 1975 and was named vice president of the Quincy division in 1979.

He is also second vice president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors and is co-chairman of its Multiple Listing System (MLS) Committee, and chairman of its Professional Standards Committee.

A coach for the girls' softball league of the Koch Club, he is also an instructor in Massachusetts real estate law at the Conway Company's licensing school in Hanover.

A million-dollar-a-year producer for Conway since 1976, he has now won a free, all-expense-paid trip for a week to Aruba.

He and his wife, Carol, live in Quincy with their daughter, Joan.

Multibank Raises Quarterly Dividend 10%

The Board of Directors of Multibank Financial Corp. announces a 10 per cent increase in its quarterly cash dividend.

Zooleck NEACCE Second V.P.

Ronald E. Zooleck, CCE, executive vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, was elected second vice-president of the New England Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives (NEACCE) at its recent summer conference.

NEACCE is the professional organization for Chamber of Commerce professionals in New England and has over 200 members from the six New England states. It has been in existence since 1911, providing educational and informational services and programs for its members. Zooleck's responsibilities will include program professional development providing training programs in economics, communications, finances, business leadership and training.

Zooleck is the chief executive officer of the South Shore Chamber and has served on the group's Executive Board. He has been in the Chamber profession for 19 years, beginning in Connecticut where he served as President of the Connecticut Association. He presently serves as a member of the Board of Directors and as Treasurer for the Mass. Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives (MACCE).

The new rate is 44 cents per share compared to 40 cents per share in the prior quarter. The dividend is payable July 20, to shareholders of record July 10, 1981. This increase represents an annual dividend rate of $1.76 per share compared with the previous per share annual rate of $1.60.

David B. Lynch, Chairman and President, said: "We are pleased that this further increase in the dividend rate is made possible by Multibank's continued progress."

Multibank Financial Corp. is a registered bank holding company with seven member banks - Durfee Attleboro Bank in Bristol County; The Falmouth National Bank in Barnstable County; First Agricultural Bank in Berkshire County; Mechanics Bank in Worcester County; Northampton National Bank in Hampshire County; Security National Bank in Hampden County; and South Shore Bank in Norfolk County; as well as other affiliated divisions and subsidiaries.

School Committee To Sue Over Budget Issue

By FRANK MORTIMER
The School Committee is suing

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin for failing to place its budget before the City Council for approval.

Committeeman Frank Anselmo's motion to sue was seconded by Committeewoman Joan Picard and approved unanimously. Member John J. Sullivan was absent.

The decision came during last week's school committee meeting.

"No mayor has the power to be a one-man dictator for the School Committee," Anselmo said.

School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon supported the motion.

"I believe it's very important the School Committee does this," he said. "Otherwise I don't see what point there is in having a school committee."

"I think it's important you initiate legal action now. If the tax rate gets set it will appear the school committee has accepted the (mayor and City Council's) action."

Creedon also opposed deleting six security jobs and 13 teaching positions in art, music, and physical education that were included in the committee's budget at a cost of $300,000.

"If you take any action to cut that, it will appear you recognize and support the action of the City Council," he told the committee.

The School Committee's $28.4 million proposed budget exceeded Tobin's $26.7 recommendation when the committee voted to pay $1.4 million in raises owed to school employees as well as to save the teaching and security positions.

The City Council approved Tobin's lower budget June 15 as part of a $66.4 million city spending package.

Tobin had sent the School Committee's budget to the City Council with a recommendation that it approve only the $26.7 million "spending allowance" he submitted for the schools in February.

But Tobin never issued an appropriation order for the committee's budget, thereby making it impossible for the council to approve more than his own $26.7 million budget.

The council can cut a budget but cannot add without a mayoral appropriation order.

Members of the School Committee expressed concern last week over how the schools will get a share of any additional state aid coming to the city.

The committee unanimously approved a motion by Mrs. Picard to ask the mayor and City Council to give the schools a percentage of any additional state aid.

There was debate over what that percentage should be. Dr. Creedon said that since schools spend about 45 per cent of city funds, the same percentage of additional state aid should go to schools.

"They're going to laugh at that," advised Committeewoman Patricia Toland. Mrs. Picard decided to move that the schools receive state aid in proportion to the depth of cuts in its budget -- about 20 per cent.

Mrs. Picard asked that copies of the request be sent to all city departments "so they don't think we're putting a fast one over on them."

The committee's concern over its share in expected local aid was spurred by reports that the city intends to use all additional aid to make up part of a $6.2 million deficit in the city budget passed by the City Council June 15.

Acting City Auditor William Grindlay confirmed Monday the city's intention to use all additional state aid to offset part of the deficit.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins strongly criticized the council for appropriating more money than the city can collect in taxes under Prop 2½.

"I think that it is the most fiscally irresponsible move the City Council ever made," she said during the School Committee meeting. "The City Council should have made the cuts, then if the state aid came, restore the jobs."

"This is what the School Committee did."

King Invited To Sign Bills Here

Sen. Paul D. Harold, on behalf of the Quincy legislative delegation, has invited Gov. Edward J. King to the city to sign bills creating revolving accounts for City Hospital and Quincy Junior College.

Harold said it could happen as soon as July 9.

Legislation setting up the revolving accounts that would free the hospital and the junior college from the municipal budget is expected to clear the Legislature in a matter of days.

Harold said the junior college bill has passed both the House and the Senate and is expected to be on the governor's desk momentarily. The hospital bill has passed the Senate and House approval is expected shortly.

Harold said he has spoken to Gov. King and, while the governor did not say he will sign the bills, he appeared to be "favorably disposed."

Both bills will be effective retroactively to July 1 when they are enacted.

It takes a solid bank to meet the challenges of the 80's.

Even though the economy during 1980 was volatile and unpredictable, the South Boston Savings Bank, Massachusetts' highest earning savings bank, continued to grow. To see our strength, just look at our financial summary.

In 1980, interest paid depositors rose to a new high of $34.5 million. Assets increased 5.2% to $459 million. And deposits were up to 2.8% to $421.3 million. South Boston Savings Bank's growth continues, thanks to our depositors and their expanding needs.

Assets comprised residential and commercial mortgage loans in Boston, the surrounding area, and across the country. Plus government, municipal and corporate securities and money market instruments.

These assets give the South Boston Savings Bank the strength to meet the ongoing challenges of the 1980's. The record of growth and reliability South Boston Savings Bank started in 1863 continues with our commitment to improve service to the public in the years ahead.

Aug. 18 Deadline For Papers City Election Shaping Up As One Of Most Hotly Contested

With nearly six weeks remaining in which to qualify for a place on the ballot, the city election in the fall appears ready to become one of the most hotly contested in years.

Already preliminary contests are indicated for mayor, for the three at-large seats on the City Council, for the three openings on the six-member School Committee, and for the Ward 2 City Council seat.

The preliminary election is Sept. 22.

In the race for mayor, provided they file their papers with 50 valid signatures before the Aug. 18 deadline, are two members of the City Council and a political unknown.

Councillors Francis X. McCauley, 51, of 210 Manet

Ave., Houghs Neck, and Daniel G. Raymond, 33, of 88 Elm St., Quincy Center, will be the big vote-getters in any preliminary balloting.

The man who will make the preliminary election necessary is John T. Ibbister, 43, of 77 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, the third man in the race.

Incumbent Mayor Arthur H. Tobin is not expected to run for re-election to a third two-year term. He reportedly is awaiting appointment by Gov. Edward J. King as clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court.

Prospective candidates have until Friday, Aug. 14, to take out nomination papers.

Ten candidates are already in the field for the three at-large seats on the Council, including incumbents John J. Quinn, 57, of 86 Grandview Ave., Wollaston, and Joseph J. LaRaia, 48, of 54 Grogan Ave., West Quincy.

Quinn will be seeking his 12th two-year term on the Council and LaRaia, a former mayor, will be after a seventh term in a twice-interrupted string that dates back to the 1960-61 Council.

The third incumbent, McCauley, is running for mayor.

The field of 10, if all qualify and no more are added, will be the largest number of candidates for the Council at-large since 1967

Questions Raised But: Less Hostility To East-West Connector

By TOM HENSHAW

"There is less opposition than ever before," said Bernard Reisberg, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, "but there are still things that have to be proven to us."

Members of the QCBPA listened to some of that proof Tuesday as the Planning Department sought to explain its proposed new route for the controversial East-West (or Revere Rd.) Connector.

"I wish they wouldn't call it a connector," said Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and chairman of Progress for Downtown Quincy, a supporter of the road.

"It's an unfortunate choice of terms. A connector means something that connects two points and bypasses what is in between. What we're really talking about here is an exit."

"I would rather see it called 'the Business District Exit' or something like that."

The connector would cut across the downtown retail district from Granite St. to McGrath Highway, enabling traffic from the proposed Burgin Parkway Extension to exit into Quincy Center.

The new plan would displace 13 business establishments but would keep Hancock St. open for business while the connector is being built underneath it at the intersection of Revere Rd.

"The new plan makes better sense than the old one," said Pearce. "Hancock St. is very much a part of the business district. I'd hate to see anything happen to it."

The State Department of Public Works has scheduled a public hearing on the connector for Thursday, July 23, at 4:30 p.m. in the City Council chamber.

"Let's build the connector now and forget about development on the east side of Hancock St. for the time being," said John Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

"When they tie the two together it creates a series of problems and opposition. We've got to have the street. So let's build it and the development will follow."

"If we don't do it now, Hancock St. will die, and the Quincy shopping center will move to the Penn St. area between Grossman's and Capen's Bridge."

"I'm enthusiastic about any solution that keeps Hancock St. open," said William Austin, president of the South Shore Bank. "I believe in the connector but I'd hate to see the merchants get hurt."

No New Auditor Until October

Selection of a new auditor for Quincy has been postponed until some time in October.

The six candidates for the post were notified this week by City Council President Leo J. Kelly that the appointment will not be made while the city is undergoing an outside audit and a new accounting system is being installed.

"With these two projects currently ongoing in the city," said Kelly, "it is felt that this is not a good time to bring a new auditor on board."

Each was told that they would hear from Kelly again in the fall.

The new auditor would succeed Charles L. Shea, who retired in March. William Grindlay has been acting auditor.

SW Smoke Detector Program Meeting July 14

A public meeting will be held Tuesday, July 14, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln-Hancock School to explain the new smoke detector installation program that is being initiated in Southwest Quincy.

The Planning Department will provide the detectors and have them installed in locations determined by the Fire Department ment under the federal Community Development Block Grant.

Income guidelines range from a household of one with a maximum gross income of $14,500 to a family of eight or more with an income of $25,000.

Applications will be distributed at the meeting.

MICROPHONE to monitor Squantum's share of the noise made by airplanes taking off from Logan Airport is connected symbolically in the Squantum Community Center. Massport Mike To Measure Squantum Air Noise Massport placed a noise monitoring microphone next to the home of Faye Anderson, 127 Bayside Rd., Squantum, last week to measure noise levels of jets departing from Runway 22R at Logan Airport.

"It will provide the citizens of Squantum and their elected officials with a permanent record of noise exposure on the peninsula," said David W. Davis, executive director of Massport.

"And it will provide Massport and the Federal Aviation Agency with information necessary to measure and analyze the effectiveness of the departure route that most effects Squantum."

Bernice Mader, chairman of Citizens Against Airport Noise, called the microphone "exciting" but she warned that the fight for peace and quiet in Quincy is not yet over.

"Very soon, Gov. King will get control of the Massport board," she said. "That is when the fight gets hotter. We all know where the governor stands on air noise -- he's above it."

And she concluded by quoting Winston Churchill: "We will fight on the beaches..."

The microphone will be operative 24 hours a day, turning on and sending impulses to a computer at Logan Airport whenever the noise level goes above 60 decibels, the level of normal conversation.

The location in Faye Anderson's yard is symbolic, since she is president of the Squantum Air Noise Committee and has complained loud and long about the noise of aircraft over Squantum.

"She has a special place in my heart -- and in my ears," said Davis.

The Squantum mike is the 17th in a ring of noise monitoring microphones that have been placed around Logan Airport as part of its noise monitoring system that was installed in 1975.

Also attending the microphone ceremonies in the Squantum Community Center were Sen. Paul D. Harold, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey and City Councillor Francis X. McCauley.

No Problems

They Sleep Better With Fire Patrols

"There were no incidents, no problems," said Mrs. Michael Larkin, "but I think people slept a little better Monday night."

That was the night that volunteer residents began patrolling the School and Granite Sts. area where an arsonist is believed to have touched off at least three, possibly four, fires in the past week.

The patrols were organized by Michael Larkin, 192 School St., with some 28 to 30 persons keeping fire watch on the neighborhood while their neighbors are asleep.

"We are patrolling basically from the time people go to bed at night until they get up in the morning," said Mrs. Larkin. "The people want to know that there is someone out there."

"I can't tell you much about it. We are deliberately vague about details. We feel that if we publicize the patrols, where they will be and what time, it will defeat their purpose."

She called the patrols "an extension of the eyes and the ears of the police."

"If the patrols spot something, the police are called," said Mrs. Larkin. "They do the professional work."

A meeting has been scheduled for Monday, July 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Fort Square Presbyterian Church to listen to a talk by Deputy Chief Carl Valenti on fire prevention.

"These people are understandably concerned," he said. "This is a serious problem."

Deputy Valenti noted that there have been three suspicious fires in the area, the most serious a blaze that gutted a two-family house at 171 School St. on July 1.

The other two were set in a cellar window at 181 School St. and a back hall at 173 School St. Both were extinguished or burned out before any serious damage could be done.

In addition, there was an attempt to burn a building at 176 Granite St. Saturday night by piling rubbish against the side of the structure and setting it afire.

Valenti said other fires were apparently set at Sid's Tuxedo Shop on Quincy Ave. across from Central Fire Station and in a garage at 197 Franklin St. but they appeared unconnected to the School St. fires.

"It's getting so," said Mrs. Larkin, "that people come out on the street when they hear a fire truck or a police car go by. They are afraid when they hear a siren."

when 11 hopefuls went to the post.

That field included Quinn, Tobin, McCauley, plus George B. McDonald, now county commissioner, Carl W. Anderson, a veteran councillor, and Frank Anselmo, currently a School Committeeman.

The other political heavyweights in the 1981 race are Patricia M. Toland, 49, of 82 Cedar St., Wollaston, a School Committeewoman; and Richard J. Koch Jr., 26, of 40 Putnam St., Quincy Center, who narrowly lost out in 1979.

Gregory P. Brooks, 24, 949 Hancock St., Quincy Center; William J. O'Hare, 27, 59 Hamden Circle, Wollaston; Dennis Buckley, 26, 24 Summit Ave., Wollaston.

The School Committee has attracted seven candidates for the three openings, with all three incumbents - Mary P. Collins, Joan C. Picard and John J. Sullivan - seeking re-election, although Mrs. Picard has not yet taken out papers.

Three other incumbents, Anselmo, Mrs. Toland and Vice Chairman Christopher F. Kennedy, are not up for re-election.

The other candidates include: James J. O'Brien, 19 River St., Quincy Point; John J. Tompkins Jr., 41, 19 Holmes St., Norfolk Downs; Nicholas C. Verenis, 34, 82 Andrews Rd., Wollaston; Patrick J. Conroy Jr., 24, 272 Billings St., Atlantic.

Verenis is a North Quincy High School teacher who lost his job under the Proposition 2½ cut-backs, and Conroy is making his third try for public office, having run before for the City Council and the School Committee.

There will also be a preliminary contest for the Council in Ward 2, the Quincy Point ward, where Raymond is giving up the seat to run for mayor.

Joseph Cortese, 48, 48 Ellerton St., and Theodore P. DeCristofaro, 58, 17 Murdock Ave., are strong candidates with John H. McDuff Jr., 47, 216 South St., the dark horse.

Council President Leo J. Kelly, 49, 143 Spring St., Houghs Neck, is facing opposition in Ward 1 from David MacMillan, 43, 19 Bell St., Houghs Neck, who also ran against him in 1979.

Other councillors thus far have free rides to re-election:

John J. Lydon Jr., 40, 468 Beale St., Wollaston, in Ward 3; James A. Sheets, 46, 926 Furnace Brook Parkway, West Quincy, in Ward 4; Stephen J. McGrath, 27, 36 Bass St., Wollaston, in Ward 5; and Joanne Condon, 41, 175 Quincy Shore Drive, Atlantic, in Ward 6.

Open On Sundays? No!

Retail store owners would like to stay open on Sundays so they can do more business.

Right?

Wrong!

A recent survey by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce shows that 95 per cent of its retail membership opposes Sunday openings, according to Ron Frazier, General Manager and Manager Public Affairs.

The results:

Sixty-six per cent do not open on Sunday, do not want to open on Sunday and do not want a local option.

Twenty-nine per cent do not open, do not want to open but do favor a local option.

One per cent do not open, but want to and favor a local option.

One per cent do not open, want to but do not favor a local option.

Three per cent do open on Sundays, want to open but don't want a local option.

The Chamber quotes such opposition reactions as:

"I like some time off also. Six days, five nights, that's enough."

"Impossible to find qualified help to work on Sundays."

"Increase overhead. Spread six days sales over seven. No additional business."

"I'm a small businessman who likes to be home once in awhile."

"No financial gain, only loss."

"No one wants to work on Sundays."

"Never on Sunday."

Frazier says the Chamber will send its survey results to a special legislative study committee that will be making recommendations to the state legislature regarding Sunday retail openings.

BETTINSON

PUBLIC RELATIONS
DEPT: WJDA'S Win Bettinson, editor of the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter, came up with this one recently:

A clothing store in a midwestern city set aside 200 umbrellas for the use of pedestrians on rainy days. Any person could walk in and ask for one without leaving a deposit. He simply left his name and address. At the end of eight months a count showed: 197 umbrellas on hand. One storm casualty. Two stolen. And, many new accounts opened.

WHAT CAN YOU do around Boston a tankful of gas?

You can do Quincy, for one thing.

The city of Presidents will be featured tomorrow (Friday) at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 4's "Evening Magazine," on a segment entitled "A Tankful Away."

Hostess Joyce Kulhawik and the TV cameras visited City Hall, the First Parish Church, the Adams Academy building, the Adams Mansions, Wollaston Beach, and Black's Creek.

TOGETHERNESS

Rep. Michael

Morrissey and his wife, Joanne, have completed a Western New England College (Springfield) course for their Master's Degrees in Public Administration. They have been attending the college's outreach program at Hanscom Field one night a week for 2½ years.

MORRISSEY

"It's one way to see your wife if you're in politics," Mike muses. Joanne is a nutritionist for the Department of Education. She and Mike met in 1973 while attending U-Mass at Amherst. For the record, at Hanscom, Mike got 10 A's and two B's and Joanne 9 A's and three B's. He's thinking of going to law school.

THE MOTHER OF a former Little Leaguer, Mrs. Frank Ray, Butler Rd., sends along this item she came across in the Lady of Mercy Church bulletin in Merrimack, N.H. Called "Little Leaguer's Prayer," she says both youngsters and parents might find it appropriate just about now:

Lord give me strength to hit the ball
And if I do, don't let me fall.

Help me to pick the one that's right

Then let me knock it way out of sight.

Then let me run with deer-like grace,

Don't let me miss, but tag first base.

Then on to second, stay with me Lord

'Cause this one out, we can't afford.

Then let me zoom like a flying bird

Right down the line and on to third.

Then let me slide with feet outburst

Across home plate in the swishing dust.

But first of all, Dear Lord, I pray

Just tell the Coach to let me play!

Quincy Quiz

Two winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Barbara Gilfeather, 55 West Elm St., Wollaston wins a T-shirt and Donna Uvanitte, 10 Beebe Rd., Adams Shore, wins a bumper sticker.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Three members of the Quincy School Committee are up for re-election this year. Name them.

2. What familiar landmark is located at 444 Washington St., Quincy Point?

3. True or false: Central Junior High School occupies the old Quincy High School building.

4. What is the name of Quincy's superintendent of public buildings?

5. John Adams of Quincy was president of the United States from: 1797 to 1801? 1797 to 1805? 1825 to 1829?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Perry Beach is in the Houghs Neck section of the city.
2. True. The Mayor, the City Council and the School Committee are the only municipal officers elected by the voters of Quincy.

3. Albert Kramer is the presiding justice of the Quincy District Court.

4. The Islamic Center of New England is located at 470 South St.

5. The Squantum Naval Air Station was closed in 1953.

Criticizes Harold On Endorsement

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

At a time when government is experiencing a renewal of the definitive differences between the Republican and Democratic parties, it is nothing less than ludicrous that our Democratic State Senator should ally his support and endorse a Republican Mayoral Candidate.

Although the Mayoral election is non-partisan, this merely affords voters, regardless of their declared parties, to elect according to their conscience the best candidate without being bound by virtue of how they registered at City Hall.

Conversely, the State Senator of our district, representing this City, was elected in a partisan election to represent Quincy as a Democrat. Had he discovered that his political ideology was vacillating between parties, it would have been only just and fair to his constituents to have run as an Independent.

For state elected officials the choice of political party is no longer, as it has been for the past eight years, a mundane, inconsequential factor, but rather a crucial and binding decision. A decision which should reflect commitment rather than personal whim.

Commendations For Brownell, Morrissey

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

During the recent House debate on the state budget, Representatives Thomas Brownell and Michael Morrissey voted for an amendment to the budget bill that would have returned millions of dollars more in local aid to the cities and towns.

They deserve to be commended for taking a position in favor of their constituents but contrary to that of the House leadership. We believe your readers should know about this refreshing act by your State Representatives.

Thank you for your consideration.

DOVE Needs $100,000 For New Home

DOVE has found a new home and now needs $100,000 to buy it. DOVE — an acronym for Domestic Violence Ended — uses the house as a shelter for battered women and children who are victims of domestic violence. The group is forced to vacate its current shelter Aug. 31.

DOVE President Rosemary Kirwan said that $7,000 has already been raised toward the purchase of the new home, $6,000 of it from Dick Cahill and Tom Rudolph, managers of Jack Conway offices in Quincy and Brockton respectively. Another $1,000 was raised by DOVE volunteers over the holiday weekend. The fund-raising drive will continue in supermarkets and package stores on the South Shore.

Dr. Bernadette MacPherson of DOVE said the organization sheltered some two dozen women and children from family violence over the Fourth of July weekend.

Judges, Emcee Selected For Miss Quincy Bay Pageant

Two of the state's best known political figures are expected to be on hand for the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant Friday July 17 — one working, the other just looking.

Avi Nelson, the radio talk show host who has run for Congress and the U.S. Senate, will fill the newly created "celebrity" slot on the panel of judges.

And Gov. Edward J. King has assured the Pageant Committee, chaired by Pat Jones, that he will make a guest appearance at the event.

Tom Kennedy, one of Boston's leading radio personalities at WHDH, will return to act as master of ceremonies at the pageant, which will be held at 9:30 p.m., July 17, on a portable boardwalk on Hancock St. in front of the Hancock Bank.

Joining Nelson on the panel of judges will be:

The pageant, which is co-sponsored by the QCBPA and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, is the highlight of the annual Sidewalk Bazaar, July 16, 17 and 18.

The Neighborhood Club of Quincy will host the annual dinner party for all the contestants, Friday, July 10, at 6 p.m.

In the past three years, the pageants have drawn more than 90 contestants from 15 South Shore towns and have attracted crowds estimated in excess of 20,000.

Navy Secretary Visits Shipyard, Squantum Field

The new Secretary of the Navy, Curtis D. Wilbur paid an official visit to the Fore River Shipyard to inspect the battle cruiser Lexington, which was being converted into an aircraft carrier.

Wilbur came to Quincy by automobile from Charlestown and was shown around the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s shipbuilding plant by the general manager, S.W. Wakeman.

Then the party visited the flying field at Squantum and viewed the facility where destroyers were turned out almost overnight during the World War.

Fred H. Borden of Wollaston, the yacht builder, told Wilbur he was prepared to purchase or lease the Squantum shipbuilding plant in the interests of the Dollar Steamship Line.

Wilbur said the state had first option on the facility if it were to be given up by the federal government.

Margaret King Re-elected To MTA Executive Committee

Margaret O. King, a teacher at Quincy High School, was re-elected to a two-year term on the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) at the recent annual meeting in Boston.

She will continue to serve on the 12-member Executive Committee, the principal policy-making body of the MTA.

She is head of the mathematics department at Quincy High School, a member of the executive board of the Quincy Education Association and president-elect of the Norfolk County Teachers Association.

The MTA annual meeting heard sharp criticism leveled at Proposition 2½, which could result in the layoff of as many as 12,000 teachers statewide.

Carol A. Doherty, MTA President, called upon the state legislature to "act quickly to amend Proposition 2½ before it completely destroys public education in Massachusetts."

MARGARET KING

William H. Hebert, told the delegates that the state needs "a carefully thought-out tax reform and state aid package to erase the problems caused by Proposition 2½."

"We just shift the tax burden in this state from those who have paid too much for too long to those who can afford to pay their fair share," he said.

MAGNETIC DENTURES?

Q: My grandfather told me he has magnetic dentures. Are there really such things?

A: Yes. If the jawbone is so worn that dentures will not stay put, magnets can be placed in both dentures. As the jaws close, the magnets repel each other exerting force to keep the teeth in place.

Q: I've been wearing dentures 23 years and have hardly any bone left in my lower jaw. My lower denture is very loose. With so little bone, could I expect a better fit from a new one?

A: You'll never get suction, but a new full denture will surely fit better than an old one, even with a fairly flat ridge. Often the denture can be extended longer under the tongue to make up for the lack of bone.

During the early 1960's Dan Raymondi was a football star at Quincy High School. In fact, he was good enough to be named a High School All-American. But Dan didn't just run for touchdowns in high school. He also ran for Class President. And he was elected to the post in both his junior and senior years.

After high school Dan went on to Holy Cross where he excelled in academics (Dean's List student) and athletics (captain of the football team). Later, while a full-time student at Boston College Law School, Dan ran for and won a seat on the Quincy School Committee.

Four years and many accomplishments

later, Dan's sense of civic duty prompted him to run for the City Council. That was six years ago. And in his 10 years of public life, Dan has never lost an election. During that time he has done a lot for his constituents, especially while serving as the newly appointed Chairman of the Downtown and Economic Development Committee. He's also served as an Assistant District Attorney and Public Defender at Quincy District Court.

Now, Dan Raymondi would like to be able to do even more for the residents of Quincy. So he's running again. Only this time he's in the race for Mayor. Dan is very serious about his mayoral bid. Because to him public service is no game.

Funds Increased $50,000

Wollaston Home Program In 2nd Year

The Wollaston Home Improvement Loan Program is entering its second year with an increased amount of funds, $50,000, for the home rehabilitation effort.

The program, with funding from the federal Community Development Block Grant, is operated through the Planning Department and the Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association in Wollaston.

Through the program, Wollaston residents can eliminate health and safety hazards in their homes and lessen the financial burden of heating costs through conservation improvements.

"Only through such a coordinated effort can the Wollaston neighborhood be conserved and improved for the benefit of all residents," said City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath.

He pointed out that to be eligible for the loans, residents must live within the Wollaston Community Development Target Area and the homes must be one or two-family owner-occupied residences.

There are also maximum gross income guidelines calculated by household size like this:

Household of one, $12,200; two, $13,950; three, $15,700; four, $17,450; five, $18,500; six, $19,600; seven, $20,700; eight or more, $21,800.

The income guidelines have been raised over the past year at McGrath's insistence to permit more families to participate in the program.

Dr. Charles Merrill CP Trust Coordinator

Dr. Charles D. Merrill, 204 Billings St., North Quincy, administrator of the Longwood Hospital, Jamaica Plain for five years until its closing, was recently appointed Trust Coordinator for the Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc.

The new position entails specific duties of community organization between the Huntington General Hospital and the Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. which is the recipient of a bequest made available through the hospital to provide services to multiple handicapped children from Jamaica Plain and surrounding communities.

The Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, is a non-profit health agency, 105 Adams St., Quincy, which sponsors a number of programs and services in the area of physical restoration, habilitation, education, recreation, provocation, and socialization. It operates a Clinic which offers therapeutic, educational and day care services for children up to age eight, not only for those having cerebral palsy, but also individuals having any stable neurological disorder imposing multiple handicaps.

Dr. Merrill is the former president of the Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., and former accreditation consultant with the NEASC, a Fellow in the American Public Health Association, a member of the Phi Delta Kappa, a member of the National and Massachusetts Leagues for Nurses, and a member of the American Academy of Medical Administrators, as well as being a member of many other societies and associations.

Quincy School Closing A Night To Remember

More than 350 attended Quincy Elementary School's closing ceremonies, "A Night to Remember", recently.

North Quincy High School's Color Guard posted the colors to begin the evening.

Mrs. Louise McDonald, president of the school's parent teacher organization, gave the welcome.

Mrs. McDonald asked students to remember good times at Quincy School and to bring those memories to their new schools.

PTO officers Cathy Rizzitano, Vicky Tasney and Mary Lou Clark welcomed visitors and helped serve refreshments. There were musical selections by the Quincy School Choir.

Christine Swierk, a sixth grader, related her memories of Quincy School.

Speakers also included Eugene Ronayne, assistant principal; Daniel Malvesta, principal; School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and School Committee member John Sullivan.

"Closing the Quincy School has been a difficult time for everyone; staff, students and families," Malvesta said. The many years of education provided by the Quincy School has helped to nurture the traditions and spirit of this unique part of our city called North Quincy.

"Tonight, we tried to honor and remember all of those hundreds, indeed thousands, of people who have served or studied in the Quincy Elementary School."

The school's American flag was then retired to the Heritage Room in the old Lincoln School.

Obituaries

Thomas F. Roache, 84, Retired Firefighter

A funeral Mass for Thomas F. Roache, 84, of Squantum, a retired Brookline firefighter, was held July 3, at St. Mary of the Assumption Church, Brookline.

Mr. Roache died June 30, at Brockton Veterans Administration Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Brookline, he was a member of the first graduating class of St. Mary's School.

A Navy veteran of World War I, he served on the USS Kearsarge and the USS Delaware. He also served in the Marine Corps during World War II.

Mr. Roache was a member of the Brookline Fire Department for 20 years. He worked at Phillips Industrial School following his retirement.

He was a member of the Stephen F. Rutledge VFW Post in Brookline.

Mr. Roache is survived by his wife, Helen J. (Cotter) Roache; a son, Edmond T. Roache of Weymouth; a daughter, Sister Mary Roache of St. Mary's, Melrose; and a brother, James Roache of Brookline.

Funeral arrangements were by George J. Lacy Funeral Home, 129 Harvard St., Brookline.

Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

William C. Reardon, 77, Retired Crane Operator

Funeral services for William C. Reardon, 77, of Quincy, a retired crane operator for General Dynamics, were held Monday at Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Reardon died July 2, in Quincy City Hospital.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he was former owner of Reardon's Oil Service, Quincy.

He is survived by his wife, Carolyn (Blanchard) Reardon; two sons, William C. Reardon Jr., of Quincy and Robert F. Reardon of Ellenwood, Ga.; two daughters, Carolyn B. Reardon of Quincy and Elizabeth R. Kitson of Pembroke; a brother, Reginald Reardon of Milton, N.H.; and seven grandchildren.

Rev. Steele Martin, Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiated at the services.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Memorial Fund of Christ Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave.

The cause of a motorcycle accident on Sea St. that took the lives of Dawn Magee, 19, 79 Lenox St., Houghs Neck, and a Braintree man may never be discovered.

Police Lt. John Flaherty said there were no witnesses to the accident, which took place about 5 a.m. Monday, and there was no evidence of another vehicle being involved in the mishap.

Police said the motorcycle with Miss Magee and David P. Ruggles, 30, of Braintree aboard apparently struck a curb and sailed 35 feet through the air and into an apartment house at 141 Sea St.

They may have been trying to make a right turn from Quincy Shore Drive onto Sea St. at the time.

Flaherty said investigators are awaiting the results of toxicology and blood alcohol level tests which should be available in a week to 10 days.

A funeral Mass is to be said today (Thursday) at 9 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church for Miss Magee, who was a student at the University of Massachusetts.

Visiting hours were from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

She leaves her parents, John W. and Donna N. (Fullerton) Magee, a brother, John Magee Jr., a sister, Kris Ann Magee and grandparents, Alberta Fullerton and Edna Magee, both of Quincy.

Burial plans are incomplete.

Bernadette Walsh, 68, Former Teacher

A funeral Mass was scheduled for 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Mrs. Bernadette (Casale) Walsh of Wollaston, a Quincy school teacher for many years.

She died Monday at City Hospital at the age of 68.

Mrs. Walsh, a Wollaston resident for 31 years, formerly taught at St. Ann's School, Wollaston; Immaculate Conception School, Weymouth; and Sacred Heart Elementary School, Weymouth Landing.

She leaves her husband, Leo J. Walsh; a son, Richard J. Walsh of Quincy; and a sister, Alice L. Casale of Wollaston.

Viewing hours were from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

John P. Kramer, 70, Retired Welder

A funeral Mass for John P. Kramer, 70, of Quincy, a retired welder, was held Monday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

Mr. Kramer died July 2, in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness. He had lived in Quincy for 10 years.

Born in Boston, he had also lived in Dorchester. A World War II veteran, he was a retired welder for R. F. Systems, Cohasset.

Helen Moore, 70, Bargain Center Employee

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday for Helen (Nason) Moore, 70, a retired employee of the Bargain Center, who died Saturday in Carney Hospital, Boston.

Home, 26 Adams St.

A native of Brookline, she lived in Quincy most of her life.

She leaves two nephews, George Nason and John Nason, both of Maine, and a niece, Bernice Backman of Falmouth.

She was the widow of the late Clarence Moore.

Deaths

Nicola DiBona, 64, of Quincy, at home, June 30.

Capt., Mrs. Gerald Stephens New Salvation Army Officers

Captain and Mrs. Gerald L. Stephens are the new commanding officers of the Salvation Army Quincy Temple Corps.

The Stephens succeed Major and Mrs. Charles Waddington who served for 4 years and are now assigned to Springfield.

The Stephens, who previously lived in Eagle Mills, N.Y., have three young children: Kevin, Shawn and Kristen Ann.

Prior to becoming a Salvation Army officer, Captain Stephen's early years were spent in the insurance business. He held licenses to sell insurance and mutual funds.

To satisfy a life-long interest in the operation of the airline industry, he began a career with American Airlines in Buffalo, N.Y. in 1954.

He started in flight operations and worked in all departments to eventually become airport passenger service manager in Cleveland, Ohio.

Interested in photography, he started a small commercial photography business as a sideline.

Through a casual acquaintance with Salvation Army leaders in Ohio, he developed an enthusiastic interest in the army.

In 1968, he became director of public relations and service units for the Northeastern Ohio division of the Salvation Army in Cleveland, Ohio.

Through this work, he met and married the former Captain Kathleen Beatty, then commanding officer of Cleveland West Park Corps, in 1970.

Captain Stephens entered the School for Officers Training in New York City in 1971. He and

WHEN I DIE DON'T HAVE A FUNERAL FOR ME

JUST THROW ME IN THE GROUND

That is a common statement. There is a problem with it, however, when someone we love dies survivors react with strong emotions. We feel sad, we are upset and we cry. We find it hard to believe that death has come. Without formal ceremony we may lose an opportunity to gain support from friends and loved ones. By not seeing the deceased we lose the chance to confront the reality of death. Funerals and visitations can help. Some psychologists have said that the funeral and visitation is an important first step in adjusting to our loss. Lack of a funeral and visitation will have no effect on the deceased but it can have serious consequences on the survivor.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Thomas F. Roache, 84, Retired Firefighter

A funeral Mass for Thomas F. Roache, 84, of Squantum, a retired Brookline firefighter, was held July 3, at St. Mary of the Assumption Church, Brookline.

Mr. Roache died June 30, at Brockton Veterans Administration Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Brookline, he was a member of the first graduating class of St. Mary's School.

A Navy veteran of World War I, he served on the USS Kearsarge and the USS Delaware. He also served in the Marine Corps during World War II.

Mr. Roache was a member of the Brookline Fire Department for 20 years. He worked at Phillips Industrial School following his retirement.

He was a member of the Stephen F. Rutledge VFW Post in Brookline.

Mr. Roache is survived by his wife, Helen J. (Cotter) Roache; a son, Edmond T. Roache of Weymouth; a daughter, Sister Mary Roache of St. Mary's, Melrose; and a brother, James Roache of Brookline.

Funeral arrangements were by George J. Lacy Funeral Home, 129 Harvard St., Brookline.

Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

William C. Reardon, 77, Retired Crane Operator

Funeral services for William C. Reardon, 77, of Quincy, a retired crane operator for General Dynamics, were held Monday at Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Reardon died July 2, in Quincy City Hospital.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he was former owner of Reardon's Oil Service, Quincy.

He is survived by his wife, Carolyn (Blanchard) Reardon; two sons, William C. Reardon Jr., of Quincy and Robert F. Reardon of Ellenwood, Ga.; two daughters, Carolyn B. Reardon of Quincy and Elizabeth R. Kitson of Pembroke; a brother, Reginald Reardon of Milton, N.H.; and seven grandchildren.

Rev. Steele Martin, Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiated at the services.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Memorial Fund of Christ Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave.

The cause of a motorcycle accident on Sea St. that took the lives of Dawn Magee, 19, 79 Lenox St., Houghs Neck, and a Braintree man may never be discovered.

Police Lt. John Flaherty said there were no witnesses to the accident, which took place about 5 a.m. Monday, and there was no evidence of another vehicle being involved in the mishap.

Police said the motorcycle with Miss Magee and David P. Ruggles, 30, of Braintree aboard apparently struck a curb and sailed 35 feet through the air and into an apartment house at 141 Sea St.

They may have been trying to make a right turn from Quincy Shore Drive onto Sea St. at the time.

Flaherty said investigators are awaiting the results of toxicology and blood alcohol level tests which should be available in a week to 10 days.

A funeral Mass is to be said today (Thursday) at 9 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church for Miss Magee, who was a student at the University of Massachusetts.

Visiting hours were from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

She leaves her parents, John W. and Donna N. (Fullerton) Magee, a brother, John Magee Jr., a sister, Kris Ann Magee and grandparents, Alberta Fullerton and Edna Magee, both of Quincy.

Burial plans are incomplete.

Bernadette Walsh, 68, Former Teacher

A funeral Mass was scheduled for 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Mrs. Bernadette (Casale) Walsh of Wollaston, a Quincy school teacher for many years.

She died Monday at City Hospital at the age of 68.

Mrs. Walsh, a Wollaston resident for 31 years, formerly taught at St. Ann's School, Wollaston; Immaculate Conception School, Weymouth; and Sacred Heart Elementary School, Weymouth Landing.

She leaves her husband, Leo J. Walsh; a son, Richard J. Walsh of Quincy; and a sister, Alice L. Casale of Wollaston.

Viewing hours were from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

John P. Kramer, 70, Retired Welder

A funeral Mass for John P. Kramer, 70, of Quincy, a retired welder, was held Monday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

Mr. Kramer died July 2, in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness. He had lived in Quincy for 10 years.

Born in Boston, he had also lived in Dorchester. A World War II veteran, he was a retired welder for R. F. Systems, Cohasset.

He is survived by a brother, Dr. Edward F. Kramer of Northampton; two sisters, Madeline Kramer of Quincy and Mrs. Thomas E. Crane of St. Petersburg, Fla. and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Mattapan.

Helen Moore, 70, Bargain Center Employee

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday for Helen (Nason) Moore, 70, a retired employee of the Bargain Center, who died Saturday in Carney Hospital, Boston.

Home, 26 Adams St.

A native of Brookline, she lived in Quincy most of her life.

She leaves two nephews, George Nason and John Nason, both of Maine, and a niece, Bernice Backman of Falmouth.

She was the widow of the late Clarence Moore.

Atty. John M. Corcoran Re-elected Quincy Red Cross Chairman

Quincy Atty. John M. Corcoran was re-elected to a second term as chairman of the Greater Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross at the organization's 60th annual meeting recently.

During his first year term, Corcoran saw the chapter move its headquarters twice: from its 20 year home at 57 Revere Rd., Quincy, to Braintree and then to its offices in the South Shore Regional Red Cross Headquarters, 200 Middle St., East Weymouth.

He also led the local group in celebrating the 100th birthday of the American Red Cross.

The Greater Quincy Chapter will celebrate its 60th anniversary Sept. 21.

Other officers elected at the meeting at the Viking Club, Braintree, were Mrs. Helen A. Shea of Quincy and Mary P. Valle of Squantum, assistant vice president of South Shore Bank, vice chairman; Frederick J. Sheehan of Weymouth, a Quincy attorney, secretary; Doris A. Morford of Weymouth, assistant vice president of Quincy Cooperative Bank, treasurer; Gail Morse of Cohasset, manager of the South Quincy Branch of the Quincy Savings bank, assistant treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Mrs. Dottie Dignan of Braintree; J. Ian Dodds of Hingham, president, Boston Gear Incom International, Inc.; and Roydon Burke of Quincy.

William Y. Walker, chairman of water safety for the chapter, presented Sandra Stover with a certificate of appreciation for 520

Hosts Braintree Friday Morrisette Hopes To Rebound After 2 Straight Losses

Morrisette Legion's baseball team was held to four hits Monday night and lost to Canton, 5-1, for its second loss in a row, dropping its record to 8-4 in Zone 6.

Morrisette is a game behind Weymouth (9-3) in Division B, while Braintree leads in Division A.

Morrisette will host Braintree Friday night at 8 at Adams Field, will be home to Holbrook Monday at 8 at Adams and will meet Wollaston next Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

Mike Morris was the starting pitcher Monday night for Morrisette and pitched well except for the second inning when Canton scored all its runs. Morris was the victim of poor support in that inning. A bases loaded triple by Canton's shortstop was the big blow.

Marty McLoughlin, John Balzano, Brian Reale and Jim Bandera had the only hits for Morrisette.

Last Friday Weymouth came from behind to edge Morrisette, 6-5, in a game that had been fogged out two nights earlier.

Weymouth had taken a 1-0 lead in the top of the first but Paul Earle singled in the tying run in the bottom half. Weymouth scored twice in the fourth for a 3-1 lead, but Morrisette scored four in the bottom half for a 5-3 lead. Bob Beniers' two-run double was the key hit.

In its previous game Morrisette had pounded Quincy, 11-2, with Gary DiNardo improving his pitching record to 4-1.

Morrisette collected 15 hits with Danny Boyle, McLoughlin, Beniers, Mark Millane, Steve Peevich, Kevin Howlett and Mike Marshall having two hits each.

Quincy will face Randolph Friday at 6 o'clock at Adams Field, will be home to Brockton Monday at 6 at Adams and will meet Weymouth next Wednesday at 6 at Adams.

Wollaston lost a 2-1 squeaker to Randolph, despite another outstanding pitching performance by Rich Hallberg. Hallberg earlier had defeated Randolph by the same score.

Steve Belcastro drove in Wollaston's only run in the seventh but he was thrown out at third base trying to stretch a double.

Wollaston will play at Canton Friday at 6, will be at Braintree Monday at 6 and will face Morrisette next Wednesday night at 8 at Adams.

BILL O'CONNELL of North Quincy has been awarded a varsity baseball letter at Bentley College. O'Connell, a freshman, started every game in center field this season, finishing with a .228 batting average and had 17 RBIs, fourth best on the team. He also scored 15 runs and had 16 walks for an on base percentage of .350. A 1980 graduate of North Quincy High, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O'Connell of Farrington St.

Pellegrini Baseball Clinic At Adams Field Aug. 5

Boston College coach and former Red Sox player Eddie Pellegrini of Weymouth is now conducting his ninth annual free baseball clinics throughout the Greater Boston area.

Pellegrini and his staff will be at Adams Field in Quincy Wednesday, Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. The clinic will be sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Dept. and Pepsi-Cola bottling company of Milton.

The objective of the program is to make major league playing and training available to hometown youngsters and all those over six years of age are eligible to attend.

Pellegrini, who is being assisted by John (Tinker) Connelly of Northeastern University, Dick "Moe" Maloney of Watertown High and Bobby DeFelice, former Red Sox minor league catcher, began his two-a-day clinics on June 24 and will have conducted nearly 50 when they end on Aug. 5. The staff conducts morning and afternoon clinics nearly every day.

Pellegrini may best be remembered as the rookie who hit the game-winning homer — his first time at bat for the Red Sox. He followed that with another homer, triple and double in his second game. He spent 10 years in the major leagues with the Red Sox, Pirates and Reds.

Pellegrini has earned a reputation as the game's Goodwill Ambassador. As many as 500 eager youngsters have shown up at one of the free clinics.

He has been coach at Boston College since 1954, turning out many championship teams, winning a number of post-season playoff spots, several regional and college world series teams.

BoSox Club Sponsoring 15 For Ted Williams Camp

The BoSox Club has announced that, again this year, the club will sponsor 15 young baseball players for a full week of instruction at the Ted Williams Baseball Camp in Lakeville.

All young players, 11 to 16 years of age, are invited to write to the BoSox Club and in their own words tell why they would like to be selected to go to the camp for a week in August.

In the past many Quincy players have been selected to spend a week at the camp.

Letters should be sent to the BoSox Club, Fenway Park, Boston 02215. All letters must be received by July 24.

Prior to camp the winners and their parents will attend a BoSox Club luncheon.

Hancock Bank

Setting Hot Pace

Hancock Bank is leading the South Shore Bankers Softball League with a 9-0 record, holding a three-game lead over State Street Bank (6-3).

South Weymouth Savings is 6-4, Bay Bank Norfolk 4-4, Quincy Savings Bank and South Shore Bank 3-6 and Quincy Co-operative Bank 1-9.

Last week Hancock walloped South Weymouth, 11-1, and South Shore edged Quincy Co-operative, 13-12, while the Quincy Savings Bank Norfolk game was fogged out.

Houghs Neck Wins Behind Ciardi's One-Hitter

Joe Ciardi, making his first Babe Ruth League pitching start, turned in a one-hitter as Houghs Neck defeated Barry's Deli, 4-2.

Ciardi struck out 10 and walked only two as he lost a shutout when Barry's scored both runs in the fifth inning which gave Barry's a 2-1 lead.

Bill Foley had two hits, including a two-run triple to give HN the lead, and 13-year-old Greg McGlame singled in Foley with an insurance run. Peter Furtado, Chris Hurley, Chip Griffin, Ciardi and Joe Conti all had hits for Houghs Neck.

The Problem Solver

Rick Nichols, Store Manager

Q.

MY OLDER HOME HAS OIL-BASED PAINT ON IT. IT'S IN GOOD SHAPE. CAN I APPLY THE COLOR I LIKE IN LATEX OVER THIS?

A.

With good surface preparation latex paint can be applied over oil-based paint. Wash off any chalk, (most important) sand, scrape, and prime any bare spots, before applying the latex finish coat. Latex does have some advantages over oil-based house paint. Good color retention, quick dry and painting over slightly damp surfaces are some advantages of using latex paints. For the best solutions to your problems be sure to ask the "problem solvers" at Hancock Paint.

Presidents Marathon Set For Sept. 13

The second annual City of Presidents Marathon (26.2 miles) will be held Sunday, Sept. 13, at 9 a.m. with the course being run almost entirely within the city of Quincy.

Many veteran marathoners competed in the first race last year with Quincy's Jim Capezuto winning in 2:36:47. The race is run twice over the same 13.1-mile loop. There are some hills, but for most part, the course is flat and fast, taking the runners by the John Adams and John Quincy Adams birthplaces, the Adams Historical site and other nationally known landmarks that have made a place in history. The race starts and finishes in front of the First Parish Church.

Entry fee is $5.00. T-shirts will be given to all participants and certificates to all finishers. The race is sanctioned by the N.E. Athletic Congress, is fully certified and can be run as a Boston Marathon qualifier.

The marathon is sponsored by the South Boston Savings Bank and The Patriot Ledger.

For further information regarding the race and entry blanks, call race director Brian Devin at 436-3000, or write to the City of Presidents Marathon, 79 Coddington St., Quincy 02169.

DiBartolo Leads Foley To A.L. Championship

Jay DiBartolo pitched and batted Foley Plymouth-Chrysler to the Quincy Junior Baseball League American League championship with a 7-4 victory over the Elks.

The win improved Foley's record to 16-3.

In the National League Boston Gear and Rotary have identical 16-3 records and clinched playoff berths.

DiBartolo pitched a five-hitter, struck out seven and walked only one and he also hit a three-run homer, a solo homer and a triple. Both homers (he has eight this year) went out of Artery Field with plenty to spare. Sean Gately had two doubles and just missed a homer by inches and he also made a fine running catch in left field. Tim Tegen, catching his first complete game, did a fine job handling DiBartolo. He also had two singles. Kevin Duffy and Bob Laracy had RBI singles and Kyle Robertson and Dan Biagini each had a hit and scored a run. Chris Marshall scored a run and played a fine defensive game as did Chris Meyer at first base.

Foley has a five-game lead over Sears with four games to play.

Foley's rolled over Keohane's, 12-0, with DiBartolo pitching a two-hitter, striking out five and not walking a batter. He also had a single and scored a run. Marshall had three hits, including a long home run out of Artery Field and scored twice. Gately had three hits including a triple, Meyer had two singles and scored two runs, Biagini had two singles and scored twice, Duffy had a double and Robertson and Laracy had singles. Foley's turned in another outstanding defensive game and played errorless ball. The team has allowed only six runs in the last 30 innings.

Burgin Platner enjoyed a fruitful week with three victories.

Burgin scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to edge Sears, 8-7. Matt Ostiguy singled, Tom McDonald walked and Mark DiMattio singled to load the bases. A walk to Steve Hensley forced in the tying run and Chris Conway was hit by a pitch, forcing in the winner.

Sears opened with a run in the top of the first when Jim Dineen singled and Tom Casey doubled, Burgin tied it in the bottom half when Brian Mosher singled, McDonald walked and Mosher scored on an infield out.

Sears took the lead with a run in the second on a Dan Ramondi single, a walk and an infield out.

Sears took a 4-1 lead in the third when Bob Hubbard walked, Casey doubled in Hubbard and Casey scored on a passed ball. Burgin scored a run in the bottom of the inning when Mosher and Ostiguy singled and DiMattio reached on an error.

Burgin moved to within 4-3 in the fourth on Hensley's home run over the left-center field fence.

In the fifth Sears scored two more runs on singles by Casey, Steve Austin and Tom Logan, but Burgin tied it at 6-6 with three runs in the bottom of the inning. DiMattio and John Mooney singled and Hensley walked to fill the bases. Nine-year-old Dale Santosuosso singled home two runs and Bob Thomas singled home the tying run.

Sears took a 7-6 lead in the top of the sixth on Logan's single, a stolen base and Austin's single, setting the state for Burgin's winning rally in the bottom half of the inning.

Burgin breezed past Colonial Federal, 17-8, with McDonald having two triples and two doubles, DiMattio three singles and a double and Ostiguy, Santosuosso, Hensley, Walter Downing, John Quinlan, Conway and Thomas a single each.

For Colonial, Tank McNamara had a home run and single, Happy Happs a double and John Gleba, Pete Farrand and Dave Sacchetti a single each.

Burgin also bombed Houghs Neck, 23-2, with Mosher having three singles, Ostiguy a triple and double, McDonald a homer and two singles, DiMattio two singles and a double, Thomas two singles and Chris Boudreau, Billy Murphy, Hensley, Quinlan and Downing a single each.

For Houghs Neck Mark Lindenfelzer had a double and Joe Inello and Austin O'Malley a single each.

Phillies Tryouts July 11

The Philadelphia Phillies will hold a tryout camp Saturday, July 11, at 10 a.m. at Rockland Memorial Stadium with area scout Ed DiRamio of Quincy in charge.

Players 16-21 years of age in full uniform are invited. Legion players must bring a letter of approval from their coach.

WINNERS in the Merrymount Association holiday road race were, left to right, Paul Kane, first place in the over-30 class and second place overall; Matt Corbett, overall winner in 14 minutes, 58 seconds; Regina Hussey, first place in the over-40 class; and Paul Hussey, third place in the over-40 class.

Milano, Logan Trying Out For Olympic Hockey Team

Rich Milano and Patrick Logan of Quincy, two of 10 top hockey players (17 years old) from Massachusetts are in Colorado Springs this week trying out for the 1984 Olympic hockey team.

Milano, a senior next year at Don Bosco High, was cut from the varsity squad last season and played for the South Shore Braves of the New England Junior League. Quincy High coach Bob Sylvia, who also coaches the Braves, is one of Milano's staunchest boosters.

"Rich just wouldn't quit," said Sylvia. "He came over here from Don Bosco's junior varsity and held his own for the Braves against some outstanding opposition. He really impressed a lot of people."

"Rich is just coming into his own as a hockey player. He'll have to face some tough competition out there, but I wouldn't count him out of it. I'm sure they'll be impressed with his desire. I've got a lot of respect for him and I hope he makes it."

Logan played for Don Bosco last season as a sophomore. He played in many South Boston leagues before going to Don Bosco and this spring played for the Suffolk County Seals.

He has already been to Oregon and Detroit in youth hockey.

Donahue Seeks Berth On Olympic Track Team

Brian Donahue of Quincy, a graduate of Abp. Williams High School and one of the top shot putters in the country on the prep school level, will be trying out for the 1984 Olympics at the end of this month in Colorado Springs.

He also has been invited to a New York Olympic training camp in August.

Donahue, who competes for the Quincy Track Club, went to Exeter Academy last season and the 18-year old, 6-4, 245-pounder kept lifting weights and worked on his specialty.

He won the shot put in the Dartmouth Relays and finished third in the Junior Nationals in Knoxville, Tenn. Late in the spring he was first with a toss of 66-1 in the International Prep Invitational championships in Chicago against athletes from the U.S. and abroad.

Brian will attend the University of Texas next fall. "I had a lot of schools to choose from, but I felt Texas offered me the best opportunity in track because of the weather and because of the calibre of competition I'll be facing.

Brian's uncle, John, now a resident of Texas, was the state shot put champion while attending Quincy High.

His brother Fred was one of the state's top weightmen a few years ago while at Quincy High but a dislocated elbow ended his career.

"I've been throwing the shot since I was 12," Donahue said. "My brother used to have me out working with him. I loved football (he was an outstanding schoolboy football player), but I felt the Olympics was something I had a chance to attain and I feel you only get so many chances in your lifetime for something special like that. I've been thinking about the Olympics for three years."

At Exeter last year he set a school record of 63-10½ and also set a record in the New England championships.

"Brian is an outstanding competitor and I think he has a fine chance of making the Olympics," said Quincy Track Club coach Jeff Hennessy. "He represented us in the Dartmouth Relays and the Junior Nationals in Knoxville and did a great job."

ROTARY MOWER LEADING HOME MENACE

Ever since the rotary mower became popular about 15 years ago, it has been a leading cause of home accidents. Each year (according to Public Health statistics) more than 140,000 injuries requiring medical attention are caused by these mowers.

Consider what goes on under the housing. With a motor turning up at 3600 revolutions per minute, each blade tip of a 20-inch mower is making more than 60 revolutions per second. That's a hand or foot could be slashed 120 times in one second. Actually, amputation can occur in 1/120th of a second - the very first pass of the blade.

Unfortunately, children are often the victims. Twenty to thirty percent of mower victims are children under the age of 13.

Children don't have to suffer these accidents. They should be kept out of the area when the mower is being operated and immature children should be refused permission to operate them under any circumstances.

THE COMPANY THEATRE will present "Andy Hardy!" July 10, 11 and 12, at 8 p.m. at First Congregational Church of Weymouth. Michael Costa of Squantum, a junior at North Quincy High School, will play the title role; Beth Capodanno of Weymouth will also star in the show.

Courtney Mann In 'America' Re-enactment

Courtney Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mann of Quincy, was a member of the Park St. Church Children's Choir, that reenacted the first singing of the national hymn, "America", on the steps of the Boston church July 5.

The song, which was written by Samuel F. Smith, was first performed by a group of children from the Park St. Church on Boston Common on the Fourth of July in 1831.

Michael Costa To Star In 'Andy Hardy'

Michael Costa of Squantum will star in the title role of The Company Theatre's production of "Andy Hardy!" July 10, 11 and 12, at 8 p.m. at First Congregational Church of Weymouth.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Other local residents taking part in the production are Zoe Bradford and Jordie Saucerman of Houghs Neck, directors of the theatre which they founded in 1978 to provide semi-professional theatre for South Shore youths ages 13 to 20.

The production is a nostalgic theatrical revival of the MGM Mickey Rooney - Judy Garland musicals which broke box-office records during a time of economic depression.

It follows the adventures of Andy Hardy, a high spirited all-American adolescent who decides to "put on a show" to help out with family finances.

The show is complete with tap dancing, chorus lines, and popular numbers such as "Lullaby of Broadway", "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee", "Steppin' Out with my Baby", and "Babes on Broadway".

Crane Library Offering Summer Children's Programs

The Thomas Crane Public Library invites children to "Step In the Read Direction" and participate in its summer programs which begin the week of July 6.

Programs will be geared to two age groups: ages four to seven, and eight to 12. There will be films, stories, book talks and other activities.

The Central Library, Quincy Square, will begin its programs for younger children Tuesday, July 7, at 10:30 a.m. and Thursday, July 9, at 10:30 a.m. for older children.

Programs at the North Quincy Branch Library begin Wednesday, July 8, at 10:30 a.m. for younger children, and Friday, July 10, at 10:30 a.m. for older children.

The Wollaston Branch Library begins its programs for younger children Tuesday, July 7, at 10:30 a.m. There is no older children's program.

Complete program schedules and summer reading lists are available at all library units.

Some of the films scheduled to be screened for older children are: "Rookie of the Year"; "Hunted in Holland"; "The Amazing Cosmic Awareness of Duffy Moon"; and "Braverman's Condensed Cream of Beatles". Younger children will be treated to old favorites like: "Where the Wild Things Are"; "I Know an Old Lady"; and "The Three Gifts". Other engaging, less familiar films for young children are: "Toccata for Toy Trains"; "Toolbox Ballet"; and "Treasure in the Pyramids". Films are provided through the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System, and all film programs are subject to change.

RECIPIENTS OF $500 SCHOLARSHIPS from Quincy Savings Bank and Quincy Symphony are recent graduates Errol C. DiBona, Quincy High School; Deirdre A. Neal, North Quincy High School; and Mark F. Griffin, Quincy Vocational Technical. All will attend Berklee College of Music in the fall. Presenting the sixth annual music scholarship checks is William B. Parker, assistant vice president of Quincy Savings Bank. At right is Anthony C. Ferrante, coordinator of music education for the Quincy Public Schools.

Celebrity Dunk At Houghs Neck

Members of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church plan to raise money in an unusual way this week.

They will be dunking celebrities.

Three celebrities have already signed up for the dunking, Ed Baccari, principal of the Atherton Hough School; Jack Nigro, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council; and Sandy Rounseville, also known as "Comfortman", proprietor of Beacon Fabrics.

The celebrities will man the dunking booth set up at LaBrecque Field, Sea and Darrow Sts. and for 50 cents people can throw three baseballs in an attempt to dunk them in the water.

Baccari will be in the booth from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.; Rounseville from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.; and Nigro at 9:30 p.m., all tomorrow (Friday).

The fund-raiser will continue today (Thursday) through Saturday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. with the proceeds going to the church's general fund.

Cerebral Palsy Outing July 12

Over 300 cerebral palsied children and adults, and members of their families, will attend the 22nd annual summer outing at the South Shore Plaza Twin Drive In Theatre, Braintree, Sunday, July 12 at 12 noon.

The event is sponsored by the Quincy Lodge of Elks headed by Exalted Ruler David Montani, and Michael A. Sances, chairman of the Elks Cerebral Palsy Committee and member of the CP Board of Directors.

This year's outing will be dedicated to the late George C. Fay, past chairman of the event and member of the Quincy Elks and the Board of Directors of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. For many years Mr. Fay was the primary force behind the outing.

Entertainment will include singing, professional acts, clowns and rides on the theater's amusements. Refreshments will be hot dogs, hamburgers, tonic, milk, candy, watermelon, cookies, potato chips, popcorn, and ice cream served at noon as the guests arrive.

Arthur Ciampa, Executive

Director, Thomas Zukauskas, Associate Director, and William J. Trifone, President of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., and other members of the board of directors will represent the organization at the outing.

Any CP children or adults and their families who live in the South Shore Area are invited to attend the picnic.

Charles Pearce Re-elected To CSBS Advisory Council

Charles A. Pearce, president Quincy Savings Bank, has been elected to a second two-year term representing District One on the Advisory Council of the Conference of State Bank Supervisors.

His election was announced at the organization's recent 80th annual convention at the Galleria Plaza Hotel in Houston, Texas.

The Advisory Council is the leadership group of the Conference's associate member banks and advises the parent organization's board of directors on policy matters.

The Conference represents the bank commissioners of the 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and numbers approximately 6,200 state chartered banking institutions as supportive associate members. It is primarily concerned with assuring optimum performance of bank supervisory/examination functions at the state level and preserving a strong, independent state banking system.

Elliot To Manage W. Quincy Office Building

The commercial real estate firm of Peter Elliot & Co. has been named exclusive leasing and management agent for the new Quincy-West Executive Office Park in West Quincy.

The city's newest office building is located at 40 Willard St. near the Southeast Expressway and East Milton Square and will be ready for occupancy in September.

William Kiniry Joins Quinoil

William G. Kiniry, formerly area manager with Texaco, has joined Quinoil Industries Inc., of Quincy, as general sales manager.

Grace Carr Promoted By John Hancock

Grace M. Carr of West Quincy has been promoted to unit supervisor in general agency operations at the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Mrs. Carr will be responsible for the supervision and administration of production records and for career development planning compensation for general agents.

She joined Hancock in 1977 as a record clerk and was promoted to profile tape analyst in 1979 and section head in the contracts area in 1980.

Richard Butler At Round Table

Richard J. Butler of Quincy, a Knights of Columbus insurance agent, was among some 5,500 members of the Million Dollar Round Table from 39 countries who attended the 54th annual meeting in New York.

Butler, an associate with the Joe Imbriani Agency of Greater Boston, earned his invitation to the meeting by writing more than $3 million in life insurance for the Knights in 1980.

Raymondi Supports Victim Rights Bill

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for mayor, has announced his support of a victim rights bill presently before the State Legislature.

"A much needed step in putting the state on the side of crime victims rather than the criminals," he called it.

The bill filed by State Senator Sam Rotundi would inform victims of the disposition of the case, see that stolen property is returned as soon as possible and advise victims of any other rights.

Speaking at a coffee party in the home of Paula Arcadipane, 24 Whiton Ave., Raymondi said:

"For too long the rights of criminals have taken precedence over the rights of those who have been harmed. As a former assistant district attorney for Norfolk County, I know the pain and consequential suffering a criminal can cause a person."

The victim service program would be funded through surcharges placed on persons convicted of misdemeanors and other crimes.

"I believe that this bill can be of special importance to our elderly citizens in Quincy," added Raymondi.

"Senior citizens, who, unfortunately, are prime victims of vicious criminals, would be aided with services such as case progress notification, financial compensation, family support services, escort services and other means of recovering from the trauma of undergoing a crime."

McCauley Assails City's Labor Relations Record

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley has denounced as "dismal" the present administration's labor relations record in dealing with city employees.

"The failure to comply with state laws governing collective bargaining may cost Quincy taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in the coming years," he said.

McCauley outlined his experience with collective bargaining and labor relations in a recent meeting with union officials.

He noted that, as a member of the Quincy Housing Authority, he helped to set up the secretaries and clerical employees' union, and, as a member of the School Committee, he served on the negotiating team for five years.

"Contracts with city employee unions must take into consideration employee needs as well as the taxpayers' ability to pay," he said.

"Once a contract is signed, both the city and the union must be prepared to live up to the terms of the contract."

Less Hostility To Connector

"However, I'd like to know a little more about the whole plan before I comment on it."

"The consensus has to be that it will be an economic boost to Quincy," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "We have several major office developments that are contingent on the connector."

"Here we have a major intersection of Route 3 and 128 opening up to downtown Quincy by way of the Burgin Parkway Extension and there is no way to get to the downtown business district from it."

"This will allow traffic to go left and right into the business area."

Meanwhile, said Reisberg, downtown businessmen have raised a number of questions about the project, the most important of which are these:

• Is there guaranteed funding for the project?

"What happens if they get halfway through the construction and they run out of money?" said Reisberg. "They will have to satisfy me and the association that the funding is there."

• How are they going to keep Hancock St. open during the period of construction?

"The first plan for the connector closed Hancock St.," said Reisberg. "They say the new one will keep it open. It's hard to believe but they say it can be done."

"If Hancock St. were closed it would cripple every business in downtown Quincy."

Reisberg said that he and several other merchants saw a model of the new plan a couple of weeks ago. "It looks much better than any plans we've seen before."

"We were satisfied somewhat," he said, "but not really enough to go along with the project. As of now the QCBPA does not take a stand on it. It depends on how they answer our questions (Tuesday night)."

Many of the downtown merchants said they preferred to listen to an explanation of the new route before commenting on it.

"I saw the outline of the plan," said William Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank, "but I haven't seen any detail. I have a lot of questions to ask about it."

"How will it be financed? Is it solid enough to build over at the old Sears building? How do they plan to keep Hancock St. open? How will the road intersect with Parkingway and the service road?"

"I'd like to hear the answers before I make any comment on the plan."

"I'd like to take a close look at it before I say anything," said Burt Cook of Tag's.

"I'd like to see the particulars before I make any comment," said Bob Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods. "We need answers this time. What we don't need is another selling job. No one has shown us any facts yet."

Gov. King To Sign Hospital, QJC Bills Here

Gov. Edward J. King will visit Quincy today (Thursday) to sign into law bills creating revolving accounts for City Hospital and Quincy Junior College.

The double signing is scheduled to take place at 10 a.m. in the City Council chamber at City Hall.

The acts will enable the hospital and the junior college to support themselves on their own incomes independently of the city budget, which is limited by the constraints of Proposition 2½.

"This is the most creative and innovative response to Prop 2½ in keeping with the spirit of the law," said City Councillor James A. Sheets, who was instrumental in shaping the junior college measure.

"It has to be quite an accomplishment getting these bills through the local government body and the Legislature," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, who started both bills on their way earlier this year.

The junior college bill went through final passage last Thursday and the hospital bill was passed Monday afternoon with the final House vote 139-0 for enactment.

"I spoke to the governor," said Sen. Paul D. Harold, who saw the bills through as Senate chairman of the Local Affairs Committee, "and he said he would sign it Thursday."

Michael Kitchen, director of City Hospital for the management firm of Hospital Corp. of America, said he was pleased that the legislature acted so swiftly to enact the bill.

"This will be a great assistance to us in getting the hospital back on its feet," he said.

Mayor Tobin noted that the junior college had just received accreditation for the first time from the New England Association of Colleges and Universities.

"We know now that the junior college is not going to close its doors but will remain an excellent education institution and the only self-supporting municipal junior college in the state," he said.

"City hospital was always a drain on the city treasury and the junior college was to a lesser extent. Now neither one of them will be a burden on the taxpayers of Quincy."

*Before Taxes

In 1980, interest paid depositors rose to a new high of $34.5 million. Assets increased 5.2% to $459 million. And deposits were up to 2.8% to $421.3 million. South Boston Savings Bank's growth continues, thanks to our depositors and their expanding needs.

Assets comprised residential and commercial mortgage loans in Boston, the surrounding area, and across the country. Plus government, municipal and corporate securities and money market instruments.

These assets give the South Boston Savings Bank the strength to meet the ongoing challenges of the 1980's. The record of growth and reliability South Boston Savings Bank started in 1863 continues with our commitment to improve service to the public in the years ahead.

Southwest Needs

Study To Start Soon

A pilot study is set to begin of the Southwest Quincy Neighborhood Strategy Area under the new Neighborhood Improvement Planning Program.

The purpose of the study is to identify existing conditions and needs in the areas of housing, land uses, traffic, parks and recreation, public utilities, community facilities and neighborhood services.

Then a program of recommended neighborhood improvement activities will be developed to meet the defined needs.

City Councillor James A. Sheets and the Planning Department have called a meeting today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School to introduce the study to the residents.

The study is expected to be completed in February, 1982, at which time implementation of the recommendations will begin.

Later, the program will be expanded to include all of the city's Community Development Block Grant target areas.

Historic Quincy

A Tourist Guide

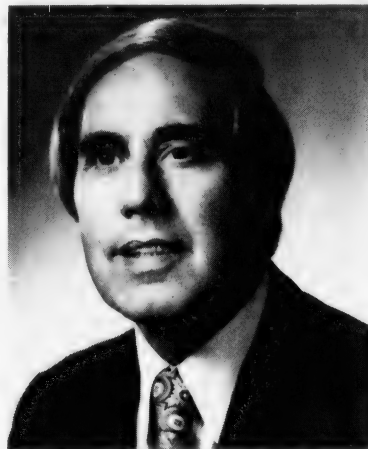

City Of Quincy

Massachusetts

Office of The Mayor

Welcome To Historic Quincy

Welcome to Historic Quincy, a city rich in history and tradition.

It is difficult for residents and visitors alike to walk the streets and pathways of our city without feeling the spiritual presence of the great men and women of our glorious past.

These are the same streets that once felt the tread of John and John Quincy Adams, the second and sixth presidents of the United States. Born in farmhouses side by side, they remain the only father and son to occupy the presidency.

John Hancock walked here, too, wooing and winning the beautiful Dorothy Quincy in the days before he signed the Declaration of Independence in a bold hand so large that King George III could read it without his glasses.

It was here that the Massachusetts Constitution --- the model for the United States Constitution --- was drafted by John Adams, his firebrand cousin Samuel, and James Bowdoin in the very house where John Quincy Adams was born.

Rails for the first commercial railroad in the country were laid here to transport Quincy granite for the construction of the Bunker Hill Monument and the first ironworks operated here, modest forerunner of the great American steel industry of today.

The list of Quincy people and places that played such important roles in the development of our country is endless . . .

I am proud to be mayor of a city with such rich heritage and to hold the same office once occupied by Charles Francis Adams of that noble family line.

Again, welcome to Historic Quincy.

May your visit be a pleasant and inspirational one.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR H. TOBIN
Mayor

The Adams Cottages

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents who are father and son stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages, now painted red, at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was restored by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1681 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Parks Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are currently being restored by the USNPS to the style of the early 1800s. The John Adams Birthplace is closed to the public while rehabilitation work is going on. The John Quincy Adams Birthplace is open to the public but is devoid of furnishings. An interpretive program is given on the grounds free of charge, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Adams Birthplaces Are Now 'Stone' And White

For more than 80 years, they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research done by the new owner, the U.S. National Park Service, has changed all that.

The USNPS, which is restoring the cottages to the style of 1807, when the last Adams lived there, discovered that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

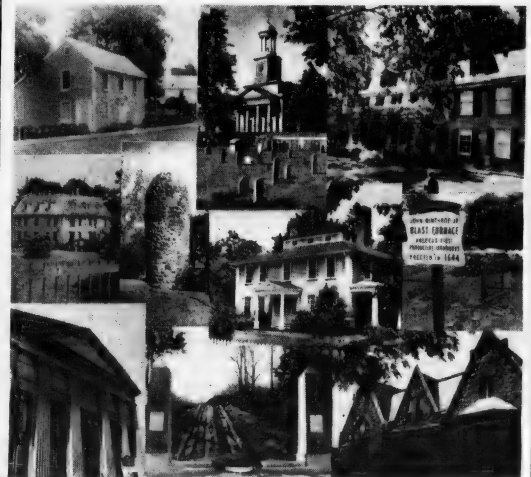

And what Abigail wanted,

Abigail usually got.

Sometime during the 1890s, both houses were painted red, and several generations of visitors went away with the vision of the little red farmhouses at the foot of the hill in their minds.

In the summer of 1980, the cottages were repainted the way Abigail wanted them, the "stone" color, a sort of off-white, being specially mixed from a late 18th Century formula.

ADAMS MANSION NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The Adams Mansion

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"... it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed and warm than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of one Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was at first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith. "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House, which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Parks Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site, located at 135 Adams St., is open to the public from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents with children under 16 admitted free.

The Adams Family

HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

2. JOSEPH ADAMS (1626-1694), son of Henry, farmer and millster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS (1654-1737), son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS (1691-1761), son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, known as Deacon John.

5. JOHN ADAMS (1735-1826), son of Deacon John and second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS (1722-1803), revolutionary firebrand; great, great grandson of Henry and cousin of President John.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS (1767-1848), son of John, sixth President of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS (1807-1886), son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II (1833-1894), son of Charles Francis, state legislator and thrice candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II (1835-1915), son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy school system.

8b. HENRY ADAMS (1838-1918), son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS (1848-1927), son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III (1866-1954), son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

10. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS IV (1910-), chairman of the board of Raytheon Co.

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives in First Parish Church.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chappel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56 --- which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate --- and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of its benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

The First Parish Church at 1306 Hancock St., also known as the Church of the Presidents, was accorded the status of a national landmark by the U.S. government in 1971 and placed on the National Register of Historic Places as a building that has "historic value to the nation."

Still an active Unitarian church, it is open to the public for tours from mid-May through mid-September, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are accepted. There is a charge of 50 cents per adult for organized tour groups, which should make an appointment at least one week in advance. Tours of the church at other times during the year may also be made by appointment.

Cradle of freedom

Freedom of choice.

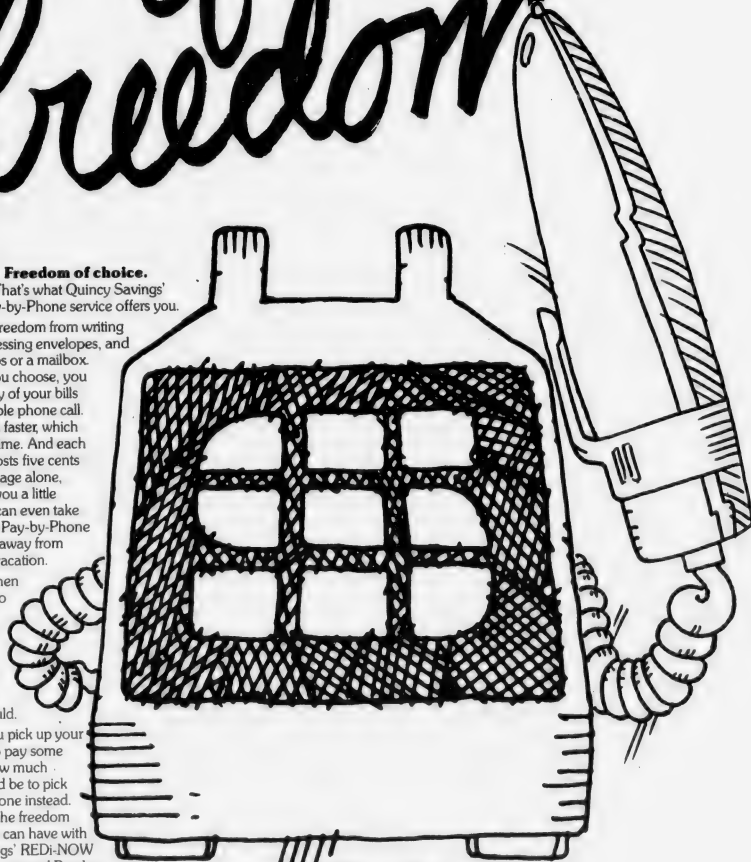

That's what Quincy Savings' Pay-by-Phone service offers you.

You'll enjoy freedom from writing checks, addressing envelopes, and finding stamps or a mailbox. Whenever you choose, you can pay many of your bills with one simple phone call. It's easier and faster, which saves a little time. And each transaction costs five cents less than postage alone, which saves you a little money. You can even take advantage of Pay-by-Phone when you're away from home or on vacation.

Of course, when you choose to write checks, you're free to use your REDi-NOW checking account as you normally would.

Next time you pick up your checkbook to pay some bills, think how much easier it would be to pick up the telephone instead. Think about the freedom of choice you can have with Quincy Savings' REDi-NOW checking account and Pay-by-Phone feature, a combination we call The Bill System.

Here you have it. Checking, with or without checks. For an application or more information, call 471-3500 or visit our nearest office.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Col. John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A. J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out . . . Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

HANCOCK CEMETERY

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

"A great mother, her learned son, with child,

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd, all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend.

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later, in November, 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Business is soaring in The Sea Belt.

The South Shore of Massachusetts

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce firmly believes that our area offers great advantages to business and industry. Hence, we have created the term we call "The Sea Belt" (TM). The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts running from Boston to Plymouth, offers a rather unique geographic, social, and recreational opportunity for businesses to expand and relocate.

Through our affiliate, The South Shore Economic Development Corporation, we are helping individual business grow through small business loans.

The tourism industry in the coastal South Shore Communities needs not only individual but also collective action with creative regional approaches. Quincy has recognized this need.

QUINCY YESTERDAY - with America's historical roots of democracy and industry, makes it potentially one of the most exciting historical cities in the United States.

QUINCY TODAY - where pride in our city has led to planned economic development where tourism plays a part and the past and present blend through a sense of dedication and tradition.

QUINCY TOMORROW - a city that is broadening its scope for the future. Tourism is a viable economic industry and defines the Chamber's objectives of creating jobs and promoting business. The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts, will not be a short-lived phenomenon. We can say, to all concerned, that we are justifiably proud of our past and very confident of our future. Call on us:

Abigail Adams Wife, Mother Of Presidents

Mrs. John Adams, the former Abigail Smith of Weymouth, is the only woman to be wife of one president and mother of another - and she could have been grandmother of a vice president.

Husband John was chief executive from 1797 to 1801; son John Quincy occupied the White House from 1825 to 1829; and grandson Charles Francis Adams ran for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

An early advocate of women's rights, Abigail Adams once wrote to her husband, John:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

ABIGAIL ADAMS

It Was Richard

For years, the first name of Capt. Wollaston, the leader of the original settlers of Quincy in 1625, was lost to history.

Only recently did the researches of H. Hobart Holly, historian of the Quincy Historical Society, turn up the information that it probably was Richard.

Royal Snub

The title page of a 17th Century Book of Common Prayer now at Christ Episcopal Church on Quincy Ave. was torn out during the Revolution in order to delete the customary prayers for King George III and the Royal family.

You will also find us on The Quincy Center Walking Tour Map along with other Quincy historic sites.

Here we have historic records and memorabilia of the first commercial railway, the granite, maritime and glass industries, Indian artifacts, early furniture, textiles, sculpture, photographs and prints.

Our 5000-volume research and reference library contains land records, genealogical, archeological papers, maps and other materials for students, scholars, educators and the history buff.

Our museum, the Adams Academy, is steeped in history itself. One of the outstanding preparatory schools of the United States, it was opened Sept. 4, 1872 and closed in 1907. Students attended from throughout the U.S. and foreign lands. It reached a peak of 154 students. Tuition was $100 per annum.

This beautiful building constructed of sturdy Quincy granite with red brick trimming cost $28,867.99. History in Quincy is a way of life. So is the Quincy Historical Society.

And the Society looks ahead with confidence and enthusiasm to meet its new challenges and responsibilities of the future.

Adams Academy

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second president of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

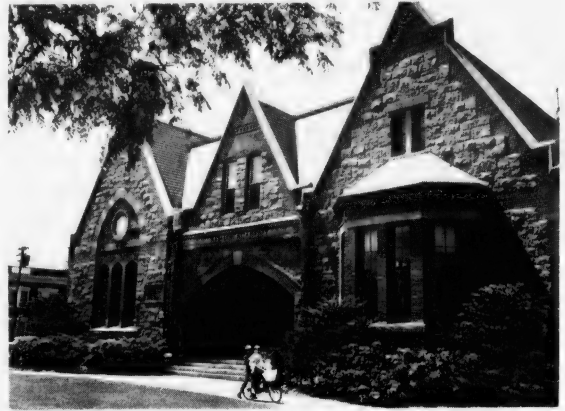

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body - 25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876; a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar schools" and warned that "no pupils are desired whose parents do not intend to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an amiable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett who signaled the passing of Adams Academy - and many other 19th Century classical prep schools - at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone came forward and plunked down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms. The museum is open all year, Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. The library is open Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. There is no admission charge.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of faroff guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Her husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles 5, and Thomas Boylston 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

One day, young John Quincy

came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth president of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public free of charge.

A fitting memorial . . .

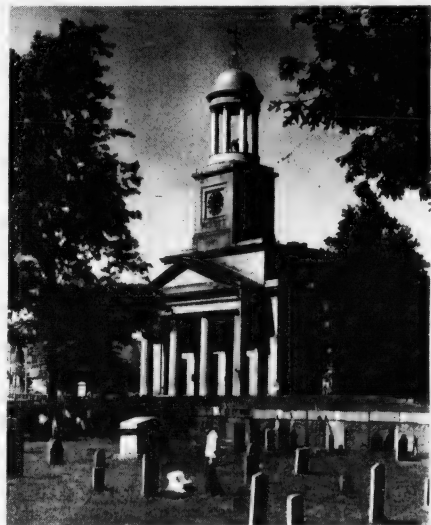

John Quincy Adams occupied the White House in 1828 when United First Parish Church, the Stone Temple, was built of Quincy granite, a fitting memorial to the enduring work of the men who founded the state and the nation.

Two presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, are buried side by side in vaults in the grotto of the Church.

The cornerstone of the Stone Temple was laid on June 11, 1827, and in it was placed a silver plate with the inscription: 'A temple for the worship of God, and for public instruction in the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.'

Historic Hancock Cemetery in the foreground is the final resting place of early Quincy settlers and patriots among them Col. John Quincy for whom Quincy was named and Rev. John Hancock, a minister of First Parish Church and father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The Thomas Crane Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial -- preferably a library -- to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestley and the foremost American architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty or taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy; and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism -- "Food will win the war," they said -- the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, year around, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, September through May.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commercial Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6½ feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 37 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally, architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Dorothy Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd. on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels. Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later vice president of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is open to the public May through October, Tuesday through Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4:30 p.m.) There is a $1.50 admission charge for adults, 25 cents for children.

City Hall Seat Of Government For 137 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House for the said inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite in Quincy Square has been just that for the past 137 years, the nerve center of government for first the town and then the city.

It was in the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a president of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard ... who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months ... the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 31-story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrowhead (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Taratines of Maine, a war in which Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Josiah Quincy Homestead

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall mast of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775. General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquillia" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family -- Col. John Quincy, the great grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

The Josiah Quincy Homestead is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see"?

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S. but they pronounce it "Quin-see".

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never bugged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it "Quin-zee", including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass. the first Quincy was named in 1792.

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see".

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

John Winthrop, Jr. Blast Furnace First Productive Iron Works In U.S.

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River (now Furnace Brook) in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods."

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England."

The first iron was turned out in 1644 but young Winthrop was fired from his 100 pounds a year job the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. The ironworks itself didn't last much longer.

The ore from which the iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook was not a high quality product. It was bog iron from the nearby swamps. Making it proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England as cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy ironworks a paying proposition. It didn't work.

The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works north of Boston in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650, it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The foundation of ironworks in Quincy has been restored on Crescent St., next to St. Mary's Cemetery in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

AS MUCH A PART OF QUINCY AS JOHN HANCOCK

Since our namesake was the first Governor of this state, it's fitting that we should be historically minded . . . and community minded.

Hancock Bank . . . named after our first Governor, president of the Continental Congress, the first signature on the Declaration of Independence and one of Quincy's most celebrated citizens. As the city of Quincy grows and prospers, so does the Hancock Bank. We have 16 branch offices (five in Quincy) and offer a full range of banking services . . . checking, savings and NOW accounts plus loans to businesses and individuals.

Come into any of our branches and let us tell you more about the bank that named itself after John Hancock.

Tobin Halts Payment 'Conflict' Seen In School Summer Jobs

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has ordered payment halted to 16 young people hired by the School Department for a summer work program, including four identified as relatives of members of the School Committee.

The Mayor said he learned of the program Monday afternoon and consulted with City Solicitor Robert Fleming who advised him to halt payment in view of the "appearance of conflict of interest."

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P.

Creedon said the 16 young men and women were hired "as a standard practice" to help remove furniture and other equipment from five schools being closed.

They were to be paid $3.95 an hour.

The four who were identified as relatives of School Committee members were:

John Toland, son of Committeewoman Patricia Toland; Suzanne Picard, daughter of Committeewoman Joan Picard; Patricia Sullivan, daughter of Committeeman John J. Sullivan; and John Sullivan, his grandson.

Mrs. Toland, the only one of the three who was available for comment Tuesday, said that "if there is a conflict of interest, then my son will be withdrawn. It's no big deal."

"The School Department has hired young people to work on summer programs for as long as I've been on the School Committee," she said. "There is a lot of work to be done and someone has to do it."

"Over the years, I've had many kids call me to get on the summer programs. My son has been bugging me for two years to get a job when he was old enough. This

$3 Million State Aid For City?

Quincy could get a little over $3 million in additional state aid if the new overall $6.3 billion state budget passes the Legislature, as expected, and is signed by Gov. Edward J. King.

Word from the State House is that the $3 million is virtually certain but Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he would prefer to wait and see it in writing.

"We are trying to pin it down," he said. "We don't know what formula they will use. If it is the same as last year, we can figure it. But we hear rumors it may be different."

"If we get $3 million in aid it would solve our problems. We would be able to balance the budget in compliance with Prop. 2½. We would be in good shape."

The state budget also contains a $120,000 grant for Quincy Junior College out of the $3 million appropriated for the Bay State Skills Corp. The original budget request was for $200,000.

City Councillor James A. Sheets, who is a teacher at the junior college and a former legislator, said QJC has already raised the required $120,000 in matching funds.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey said the $120,000 was "not as much as we would have liked for the Junior College but we're happy with it. Another $100,000 would have been nice."

"We have had a lot of successes in this legislature," he added. "First the revolving accounts for the Hospital and the Junior College and now this. I feel we're batting 99 per cent."

Judge Kramer 'Recovering Nicely' From Triple Bypass Heart Surgery

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, is reported as "coming along very nicely" following triple bypass heart surgery he underwent June 23, at Mass. General Hospital.

According to his secretary, Joyce Aronson, Kramer, 48, was released from the hospital over the July 4, week-end and is making "very good progress."

She said the surgery involved taking arteries from Kramer's legs and using them in his heart to bypass clogged arteries.

The surgery was a preventative measure, according to Miss Aronson, who explained that Kramer had experienced angina pain but not a heart attack.

Miss Aronson said she spoke to Kramer Tuesday and that he had a "great attitude" and was walking a half mile a day.

Though not expected back to work until October, Kramer is already writing articles at home, said Miss Aronson.

"He won't be out that long," said Miss Aronson who continued that Kramer would probably be back sooner on a limited basis.

"He's very energetic," said the secretary.

In Kramer's absence, Judge Lewis Whitman is acting presiding justice of the court.

O'Leary At MBTA Fare Hike Hearing

James F. O'Leary, the MBTA's general manager himself, will be on hand Monday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall at a public hearing into the MBTA's proposed fare increases.

The proposed rate changes would raise the basic rapid transit fare from 50 cents to 75 cents, with a round trip from Quincy Center to Boston going from $1.50 to $2.25.

Fares from Wollaston and North Quincy would remain the same.

Basic bus fares would be increased from the present 25 cents to 50 cents with zones established on distance travelled. The base fare would be for the first six miles, with an additional 25 cents for each additional three miles.

The fare increases would take effect Aug. 1, pending approval by the MBTA's Board of Directors and Advisory Board.

King Signs Bills

'Independence Day' For Hospital, Junior College

By TOM HENSHAW

"I am happy," said Gov. Edward J. King with a nod to the 200 or so people who jammed the City Council chamber, "to recognize people who are helping themselves and their city."

"What Proposition 2½ is saying is let's have more free enterprise like this for the cities and towns."

And with that he signed the bills that make Quincy Hospital and Quincy Junior College independent of the city budget by giving them revolving enterprise accounts of their own.

"These are," said Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, "the two most important pieces of legislation I have worked on in my five years in the State Legislature."

Everyone had nice things to say about the two bills, which became effective retroactively on July 1, the start of the 1982 fiscal year.

Christopher F. Kennedy, vice chairman of the School Committee which has supervision of the Junior College, called it "a beacon in the dusty, murky sea of Proposition 2½."

"Quincy Junior College has now come of age," said Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. "It is established. It is accredited. It is valued by the community. It has the support of city and state officials and now it has the machinery for making itself self-supporting."

"This will greatly strengthen Quincy City Hospital," said Donald Strange, regional administrator for Hospital Corp. of America, which operates the hospital for the city.

"Now that we are self-supporting, we can achieve a new level of health service to the people of Quincy and the South Shore."

Others who spoke on the brief Thursday morning program in the sweltering Council chamber were Sen. Paul D. Harold, Council President Leo J. Kelly and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, who called it "a historic moment."

Also present for the signing were Rep. Elizabeth Metayer of Braintree and Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray of Cohasset, both of whom helped to push the bills through a sometimes reluctant Legislature.

"I don't usually favor revolving accounts," said Mrs. Murray, "but these are very important and essential to maintaining a school and a hospital that are needed by the whole South Shore."

After the signing, Gov. King passed out commemorative pens to members of the City Council, the School Committee and the Quincy legislative delegation.

Fore River Clubhouse To Remain Open A Year

The Fore River Clubhouse will remain open for another year under funding from the Community Development Block Grant, announces City Councilor Daniel G. Raymond.

The clubhouse, which is used as a community center for the Quincy Point area, was in danger of closing permanently under the budget cutbacks of Proposition 2½.

"The Fore River Clubhouse is a very important asset to the residents of our community and every effort must be made to make certain that it remains open," said Raymond.

"The Club house historically has been one of the most extensively used public buildings in the city, serving the needs of both the young people and the seniors of our area."

Activities that have been temporarily displaced from the Clubhouse or terminated will be reactivated to serve the neighborhood.

Starts Thursday

Sidewalk Bazaar 3 Days Of Fun, Good Buys

It will be fun and games and shopping values starting today at the 12th annual downtown Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

From today (Thursday) through Saturday night Hancock St. will be closed to vehicular traffic and become a pedestrian mall with 35 booths plus mercantile displays, wandering minstrels and shows.

The main event will be the selection and coronation Friday night of Miss Quincy Bay of 1981, who will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week in August.

Last year's winner, Tracy Hart of Quincy, will crown her successor in the pageant, which will be held on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hancock Bank, starting at 9-15 p.m.

A special treat this year will be the appearance of an old fashioned organ grinder, Bob Delvalent of West Roxbury, with his monkey and 135-year-old organ.

Other features of the three days of festivity include:

- Paco the Clown, whose fun-filled half hour show includes balloon sculpturing, magic, a balancing act and a spoof of clown shows. He also strolls through the crowd, entertaining the young.
- Dario, Olof and Eddie G., whose three-person act includes magic and juggling, audience participation and live animals.
- The Moonwalk, a huge balloon filled loosely with air, which, to youngsters bouncing and struggling on its surface, closely approximates conditions on the Moon.
- Baron Hugo, famed band leader from the days of the Big Bands, and his orchestra will perform Friday night and for the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant.
- The Burger King Magic

Show, in which youngsters from the audience will be invited up to help the King with magic tricks, is back as well as the Hamburglar of MacDonald's fame.

• Quincy's Young World Exhibition will perform their gymnastics and Big Bird, direct from Sesame Street, will wander through the crowd as a roving troubador.

• There will also be a dunking stool; Valerie Kaan, the ventriloquist; Cheezo the Clown; the Milton Band; the Joy of Movement Dancers; and Sea Bright, Quincy's own musical group, autographing records.

On a serious note, the Quincy Eye Association will have a booth in front of the QCBPA office for a clinic to test visitors of color blindness, depth perception and a general eye examination.

The eye tests are particularly geared to children.

CNA Insurance Co.*To Locate In N. Quincy

"There is a possibility," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, "that Quincy is building a reputation in the insurance industry. We have Kemper, Commercial Union and now CNA."

CNA, the Chicago-based insurance giant, was scheduled to sign a lease yesterday (Wednesday) on half of the so-called Italian building at 100 Newport Ave., North Quincy.

The building, which is located just outside the State Street South complex, was built by the SCI Investment Corp. of Genoa, Italy, at a cost of $4.5 million.

Nearby in State Street South is the headquarters of the Kemper Insurance Co. and the former Monarch 1 Building, which now houses the Commercial Union Insurance Co.

"It speaks well for Quincy," said Tobin. "The word is out to the other insurance companies. Three have moved in and they are happy with it."

"This is another result of our strong economic development program. In the past 3½ years we have taken a city that was $7 million in the red and had no programs and turned it around."

"It's quite an accomplishment."

Housing Authority Hears Budgets Report

Accountant John S. Sullivan was scheduled to report on the status of the 1981-82 budgets at a meeting of the Quincy Housing Authority last night (Wednesday). The meeting was set for 5:30 p.m. at the authority office, 80 Clay St., Wollaston.

Among the other items on the agenda were reports on modernization at Westacres, petition for Local 1990 for fact finding with State Board of Arbitrator, and TV antennas at Germantown.

$129,888 Federal Grant To So Shore Mental Health

The South Shore Mental Health Center has been awarded a $129,888 federal grant to support "Project Optimus" for hand-

Quincy Quiz

Only one winner in the Quincy Quiz this week. Tommy Cossboom, 48 Greene St., Wollaston, wins a T-shirt. Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the principal of North Quincy High School?
2. What Quincy landmark is located at 2 Washington St.?
3. In what section of the city is the Quincy Youth Hockey Arena?
4. True or false: Contestants in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant are limited to girls from Quincy only.
5. City Hall was built in 1792? 1844? 1889?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. John Sullivan, Mary Collins and Joan Picard are the members of the Quincy School Committee who are up for reelection this year.
2. The Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at 444 Washington St., Quincy Point.
3. True. Central Junior High School occupies the old Quincy High School building.
4. Herbert Blake is Quincy's superintendent of public buildings.
5. John Adams of Quincy was president of the United States from 1797 to 1801.

Dennis Ryan: A Special Person

Dennis Ryan was a scrapper all his life.

He never backed down to anyone no matter how big they were physically, financially or politically. He didn't know how to spell the word quit. And whatever project/or job he did, he put not only his energy and enthusiasm into it, but his heart and soul, too.

Denny waged a long, tough battle with cancer and won quite a few rounds. But last week, when he wasn't looking, the Big C sneaked one by him.

Denny wasn't looking because — despite his illness — he was turning his attention to this year's mayoral race.

He had assumed the general chairmanship of Dan Raymond's mayor campaign committee and, typically Denny, was gearing up to throw all the energy he could muster into it.

During his three decades as clerk-magistrate at Quincy District Court, Denny had helped many young lawyers get the feel of the courtroom and actually helped some get their careers started. Raymond is one of them.

Denny also steered a future judge in the right direction.

Henry Chmielinski was selling law books when he and Denny became good friends. Chmielinski had graduated from law school several years before but had never gotten around to taking the bar exam. Denny talked him into taking a refresher course and the exam. Chmielinski passed the bar and today, of course, is one of the state's most respected superior court judges.

They remained close friends and admired one another. A saddened Judge Chmielinski said, in sincere tribute:

"In my opinion, Dennis Ryan was one of the finest CHMIELINSKI and humane people I have ever come across in my life. The community has suffered a tremendous loss. I just loved this man."

So did a lot of people. He touched the lives of so many.

As a lawyer, clerk-magistrate, a member of the School Committee and board of managers at Quincy City Hospital, Denny gave his all. And, during those many years of community service, he was a champion of the "little guy".

He did a lot of favors for a lot of people. He could do things to help someone in need of a friend — things no one else seemed to be able to do.

Denny sometimes liked you to think he was gruff. But then his big Irish heart and Denny Ryan grin would give him away.

His heart was big. Just a few weeks ago more than 800 turned out to honor him upon his retirement as clerk-magistrate. Nearly $5,000 was presented that night. Denny turned it all over to the Sidney Farber Cancer Institute.

Last May, Judge Albert R. Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, passed along to him the honor of giving the Law Day address at the court.

There were tears that morning because this was Denny's final Law Day as clerk-magistrate. And some feared it might be his final Law Day. They were right.

Denny learned to roll with the punches of life. Even though he never got to be a judge as he would have liked, he didn't let it get him down.

He should have been appointed to the bench. He would have been a good judge — compassionate, fair, but forceful. Justice would have triumphed but the defendant and the complainant both would have gotten a fair shake.

The black robe just wasn't there for him. His friends thought he got cheated. But he didn't complain.

Whatever life dished out, he could take. And, did. No alibis, no crybabbling.

So he didn't become a judge. So what, really. He became something much more important in life.

He became a successful human being. Not many people do.

MARY JO RILEY, former coordinator of Quincy community schools, was guest of honor at a farewell reception Wednesday night (5-7 p.m.) at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. She is taking a two year leave of absence from the School Department and will soon leave for San Diego. Senator Paul Harold picked up the tab for the reception.

QCH To Present Dr. Frist Award

City Hospital Director Michael D. Kitchen announces the establishment of the Dr. Frist Humanitarian Award to be given to a hospital employee who has demonstrated exceptional service to the hospital and its patients.

Dr. Thomas F. Frist Jr. is one of the founders and current president of the Hospital Corp. of America (HCA), the management firm that has operated City Hospital since last January.

The first Frist award will be given this year.

The winner need not work in the area of direct patient care but should have made an extraordinary contribution to patient welfare and satisfaction, and be one whose day-to-day performance is dependable, consistent and people oriented.

Every full-time employee at City Hospital is eligible and the winner will be eligible for divisional and a national award.

The Quincy winner will receive a check for $250 and an engraved trophy from Director Kitchen.

Division winners receive a $1,000 check while the national winner will receive HCA stock valued at $2,500 as well as an all expense paid trip to Nashville, Tenn.

The contest will run through the month of August.

Human Rights Coalition Annual Picnic Sunday

The annual picnic of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will be held jointly with the Randolph Fair Practices Committee Sunday, 1 p.m. to dusk at Cedar Hill Conference Center, Duxbury.

The public is invited to attend. Participants should bring beach paraphernalia as well as lunch for themselves and to share.

The conference center has its own private beach as well as space for games such as tug of war, three legged race and wheelbarrow run.

In case of rain, a large house is available with cooking facilities.

Coalition members will meet at 12:30 p.m. at Quincy Centre United Methodist Church to form a caravan to Duxbury.

McCauley Cites Important School Functions Of Mayor

"One of the more important functions the mayor of Quincy performs," said City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, "is serving as chairman of the School Committee."

McCauley, a candidate for mayor, outlined his 20-year involvement in school affairs in a recent talk before a group of retired educators.

He noted that, since he is the father of five children, all of whom attended the Quincy Public Schools, he has been committed to bettering the Quincy School system. He has been active in parent-teacher affairs, having served both as president of his local PTA and as a member of the citywide parent-teacher organization.

Elected to the school committee in 1971, McCauley served for six years. During his tenure on the committee, he visited each school to observe first-hand the educational process.

He pointed out that he successfully sponsored a number of rules changes that gave the school committee more information and greater control over school spending practices. One of them was the requirement that at year-end, school administrators would have to receive school committee approval before transferring funds within the department.

As a member of the school committee, McCauley said his concern and interest extended to the individual student in the Quincy school system. He initiated the practice of issuing Certificates of Merit semi-annually to each student who attained distinction and honors.

In 1976, McCauley sponsored legislation that allowed cooperative banks to grant scholarships to high school and junior college graduates.

Since the bill was signed into law in 1976, Quincy area cooperative banks have awarded thousands of dollars in scholarships to Quincy high schools and Quincy Junior College graduates.

"I am very proud to be a member of the group who saw the need for local scholarships for worthy students and who worked to see that these yearly awards by local cooperative banks would be made possible," he said.

McCauley pledged that, if elected mayor, he would attend all school committee meetings and be actively involved in school department affairs.

Raymondi Lauds Hospital, QJC Revolving Accounts

The establishment of revolving accounts for City Hospital and Quincy Junior College are "excellent means to address the constraints of Proposition 2½ in Quincy," says City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, a candidate for mayor.

"The passage of these bills ensures future economic stability for City Hospital and the Junior College," he said, citing his support for both measures.

Raymondi spoke on the hospital and junior college at a recent coffee party held in the home of John and Dorothy Henshall, 246 Fayette St., Wollaston.

"The actions taken at the State House and the subsequent signing of the bills here in Quincy by Gov. Edward J. King guarantees not only financial institutional soundness," said Raymondi, "but they also free the institutions from political involvement in their operations."

"City Hospital and the Junior College can now function with a sense of independence from undue political influence."

Calling the new legislation "critical" for Quincy's future economic well being, Raymondi said, "The bills offer us a continuation of services and prospects of growth in the city's hospital and fine junior college."

"Quincy can now enter a new era regarding these fine institutions. Both will continue to flourish with bright futures in providing the city with much needed health and educational services at no cost to the taxpayer."

Toland Urges New Auditor Be Named

Patricia Toland, a candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council, has urged Council President Leo J. Kelly to reconsider his decision to postpone selection of a new city auditor until October.

Kelly announced last week that a successor to retired auditor Charles L. Shea will be withheld while the city is undergoing an outside audit and a new accounting system is being installed.

"It would seem," said Mrs. Toland in a letter to Kelly, "the best interests of the city may be better served if the decision on who is to fill the position were not delayed since this is the beginning of the new fiscal year which is bringing so many changes with it."

"For the very reason that the new compulsory state accounting system for municipalities will be implemented over the next few months, it would seem consistent with good business practice and fiscal management to name the person who eventually will have to familiarize himself with the new system."

"In addition, the process of setting the tax rate will be set in motion soon and since 100 percent valuation and reclassification are new factors in that process this year, it would seem appropriate that the permanent auditor's input would be essential."

William Grindlay has been acting auditor since Shea's retirement in March.

Council, Mayor At Odds Over Planning Director

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa announced he will seek a full-time, college-trained professional planner to succeed Regis J. Harrington as City Planning Director.

Harrington resigned from the post, which pays $7,750 a year plus a $540 automobile allowance, for a better paying job in Medford.

The City Council was divided on the future of the head of the Planning Department with Councillors Joseph E. Brett and James R. McIntyre in favor of combining the job with that of City Engineer.

McIntyre called the full-time planner "a luxury we can't afford."

"The whole concept of employing out of town experts has its roots in the Plan E philosophy that Quincy people are inherently incapable of running their own government," he said.

City Councillors David S. McIntosh, Edna B. Austin and Charles L. Shea were opposed to the abolition of the post of Planning Director.

XWAY 'HYSTERIC'S' HIT

Peter V. Bille, captain of the MDC's Old Colony Division, branded as "prematurely hysterical" newspaper reports that the new Southeast Expressway between Boston and the South Shore was unsafe.

An average of 65,000 cars a day used the superhighway in the first 17 days that it was open, he said, and there were only 13 accidents reported.

WEST-OF-TRACKS DEVELOPMENT

Mayor Della Chiesa said he will present the $700,000 so-called West-of-the-Tracks development to the City Council in November "and let the Council kick it around for a while."

The plans call for widening Granite St. underpass and extending Whitwell St. across Granite and into the Ross Parking area by way of an underpass under the Old Colony railroad tracks.

Edmund T. Grogan, 65, Business Machine Company Owner

A funeral Mass for Edmund T. Grogan, 65, of Quincy, president of Grogan Business Machines, Inc., of Quincy, was said Monday at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

Mr. Grogan died July 10, at Quincy City Hospital.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he was graduated from Quincy High School in 1934 and also attended Northeastern University.

A World War II Army veteran, he was active in the business community in this city for many years.

Mr. Grogan was a member of the Knights of Columbus, St.

Mary's Holy Name Society, Morrisette American Legion Post and the Chamber of Commerce.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah D. (McDonough) Grogan; three sons, Kevin P. Grogan, Edmund T. Grogan Jr., and Michael J. Grogan, all of Quincy; and four daughters, Kathleen A. Grogan, Mary-Ellen Grogan, Noreen V. Grogan and Sarah T. Grogan, all of Quincy; a brother, Joseph Grogan of Quincy; and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Haakon L. Nielsen, 75, Retired Electrician

A funeral service for Haakon L. Nielsen, 75, of Quincy, a retired General Electric Company electrician, will be held tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at Westwood Evangelical Free Church, 47 Washington St., Westwood.

Mr. Nielsen died Saturday in Quincy City Hospital.

He had lived in Quincy for seven years.

Born in Copenhagen, Denmark, he previously lived in Mattapan.

He is survived by his wife, Edna J. (Johansen) Nielsen; a daughter, Mrs. Wayne Muise of San Antonio, Tex.; four sisters, Edel Pardazi of Denmark, Ingeborg Palm of New York City, N.Y., Karen Schacke of Denmark and Bergholt Nielsen of Brockton; and several nieces and nephews.

Visiting hours are omitted. Funeral arrangements are by Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Central Cemetery, Randolph, Friday at 9 a.m.

In lieu of flowers, donations in his memory may be made to the memorial fund of Westwood Evangelical Free Church.

Henrietta M. Yourell-Ryan, 96

A funeral Mass for Henrietta M. (Yourell) Yourell-Ryan, 96, a Quincy resident for 10 years, was held Wednesday at St. John's Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Yourell-Ryan died July 12, in Presidential Manor Nursing Home.

Born in Ireland, she had previously lived in Dorchester and South Boston before moving to Quincy.

Wife of the late Mr. Martin J. Ryan, she is survived by three daughters, Mary Conely of Pasadena, Texas, Esther Yourell and Christina McKeon, both of Quincy; three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial was in Mt. Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Over 400 Attend Funeral

Dennis F. Ryan: He Touched A Lot Of People

"He came as close to being all things to all men as any individual I know," said Judge Henry H. Chmielinski Jr. "Singlehandedly, he had an influence on the whole South Shore. I don't know how many people he saved."

It was likely that some of them were in the crowd of more than 400 people who filled St. Ann's Church in Wollaston Saturday for the funeral of Dennis F. Ryan, clerk of Quincy District Court for 30 years until his retirement May 13.

He died July 8 at his Wollaston home of cancer at the age of 70.

"Dennis Ryan was perhaps one of the finest people I met in my life," said Judge Chmielinski. "In every sense he was one of the most moral and one of the most compassionate of men. He had the keenest sense of equity and justice imaginable."

"You can judge him by his farewell dinner. He had just retired and was in no position to do anyone favors. But the dinner attracted close to 1,000 people. That was a measure of the appreciation people had for him."

Monsignor James Scally, pastor of St. Ann's eulogized Ryan as a man whose values were "well ordered, well regulated and well constructed. He knew exactly where he came from, why he was here and where he was going."

He said Mr. Ryan's final days revealed his very best qualities.

"He knew he was dying," he said, "and he suffered in silence."

After the Mass, Monsignor Scally recalled that he first met Mr. Ryan in Quincy District Court when, as a young priest, he went for help for the cousin of a classmate. The court clerk helped out and their relationship blossomed.

"I consider it a privilege to have lived long enough to become his pastor," said Monsignor Scally.

"Dennis Ryan extended himself and dispensed a certain type of justice to settle disputes or help a youngster in trouble," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "He knew how to get things done."

"Every court in the Commonwealth has an official title but Quincy was known as 'Ryan's Court.' There is no finer tribute than that. He touched a lot of people."

Municipal flags and those at many business establishments in the city were flown at half staff until Saturday for Ryan, who listed among his friends a president of the United States.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, said:

DENNIS F. RYAN

"I am saddened by the passing of Dennis Ryan. He was a good friend of the Kennedy family and an outstanding public servant. I would like to express to his family my deep and sincere sympathy."

Monsignor Scally was principal celebrant of the Mass with other local priests participating. They included:

The Rev. John T. Foley of St. Ann's, the Rev. Alfred Finn, chaplain at Long Island Hospital; the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church; the Rev. Msgr. Paul P. Donelin of St. Mary's Church; and his brother, the Rev. John M. Donelin of St. Patrick's Church, Watertown, both Quincy residents.

Among those attending the funeral were:

Sheriff Clifford Marshall and a delegation of deputy sheriffs; City Council President Leo J. Kelly; Mayor Arthur H. Tobin; City Councilor John J. Quinn; former Gov. Foster Furcolo; Senate Counsel James R. McIntyre; City Councilor Daniel G. Raymond.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, former Rep. and City Councilor Joseph E. Brett; County Commissioner George McDonald; CETA Director Paul Rieca; School Committee Members John J. Sullivan, Patricia Toland and Joan Picard; Sen. Paul D. Harold, Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth.

Judge Joseph Feeney of South Boston District Court; Judge Paul Murphy of West Roxbury District Court; Appellate Judge Francis Larkin of Worcester District Court; Fire Chief Edward Barry; County Treasurer James Collins.

George Kennealy, assistant Senate Counsel; James J. Ricciuti, public works commissioner; John Concannon, clerk of Norfolk County Superior Court; and personnel of the Quincy District Court.

A native of South Boston, Ryan lived in Quincy for 50 years and his career as a lawyer, clerk-magistrate and community leader was deeply entwined with the life of his city.

Last May 1, Judge Albert R. Kramer took the unprecedented step of passing along to Ryan the honor of giving the Law Day address at Quincy Court. He received several standing ovations.

Assistant Clerk Robert Bloom presented Ryan a plaque from the staff of the clerk's office and noted that "50 years from now, people will still walk past the courthouse and say, 'that's Denny Ryan's courthouse.'"

Ryan attended Boston College High School, Boston College and Boston College Law School, starting his law practice in Quincy in 1937. He served as an Army captain in Europe during World War II.

He was a member of the School Committee for one term (1950-51) during the Plan E government years and later served on the Hospital Board of Managers, retiring last September.

He devoted many hours to charitable work, heading the 1954 Red Cross campaign in Quincy and serving on the Red Cross board of directors. He belonged to the United Fund Drive and the Community Chest.

Ryan was a former president of the Quincy Bar Association and a member of the Massachusetts Bar.

He belonged to the Bryan VFW Post, the Morrisette Legion Post, the Quincy Elks, the Quincy Kiwanis Club, the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Boston College Club of Quincy.

He leaves his widow, Caroline (Kenney) Ryan; three sons, Dennis M. Ryan of Weymouth, Christopher P. Ryan of Quincy, and Kevin G. Ryan of Gaithersburg, Md., and a daughter, Mrs. Patricia A. Richard of Pryor, Okla.; a sister, Catherine Ryan of Quincy; and four grandchildren.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

CLEANING TOO OFTEN?

Q: I like the feeling of having my teeth cleaned. If this were done every three months, could it wear the enamel off my teeth?

A: Definitely not. The "polish" that dentists use is somewhat abrasive to remove stain and plaque, but at the speed with which it is applied it can not damage enamel. Enamel is stronger than bone and is the hardest substance in the body.

Q: Is there a simple technique I can use to stimulate the circulation in my gums?

A: Probably one of the easiest techniques is massaging the gums with the fingertips. After brushing, wet your index finger, and rub it in a circular motion along the margins of the gums where they meet the teeth. Presented as a service to the community by

Pageant Friday Night

29 To Compete For Miss Quincy Bay Crown

Twenty-nine South Shore young women will be competing for the title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1981 and more than $4,000 in prizes Friday at 9:30 p.m. in downtown Quincy.

The beauty pageant, highlight of the annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, will be held on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hancock Bank on Hancock St.

The new queen, who will be crowned by last year's winner Tracy L. Hart of Quincy, will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 12-16 and win the lion's share of the prizes. The three runnersup will also share in the prizes.

The pageant is co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Master of ceremonies for the third year will be Tom Kennedy, WHDH radio personality. Music will be by Baron Hugo and his orchestra.

The pageant committee has been notified that Governor Edward King is planning to make a guest appearance at this year's event.

Avi Nelson, radio talk show host, will fill the newly created "celebrity" slot on the panel of judges.

Joining Nelson on the panel of judges will be Nancy Meyers, Miss Quincy Bay of 1979; Ron Zooleck, executive director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Bernie Reisberg, president of the QCBPA; Bob Hutcheon, president of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Contestants will be judged in evening gown and swim suit competition and for beauty and poise. They will be escorted by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week associated yacht clubs.

Pat Jones, assistant to the president at the Home Town Bank, Newton, is pageant chairman.

The Neighborhood Club of Quincy hosted the annual dinner party for the contestants last Friday.

The pageant, which has a rain date Saturday at 4:30 p.m., has drawn more than 90 contestants from 15 South Shore towns in the past three years. Crowd estimates have been in excess of 20,000.

TRACY HART, Miss Quincy Bay of 1980 will crown her successor Friday night.

The contestants, in alphabetical order, are:

- Jacquelyn A. Babcock, 21, Hull.
- Donna A. Beady, 17, North Weymouth.
- Jill M. Bodell, 23, South Weymouth.
- Deborah M. Campanale, 18, Braintree.
- Teresa M. Charron, 16, Weymouth.
- Karen M. Corliss, 17, Quincy.

Cortese Helps Clean Pagnano Shelter

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for City Council from Ward 2, protested to the MBTA the unclean conditions of the waiting shelter at Pagnano Towers in Quincy Point.

He said he wound up taking matters into his own hands.

"I was informed," he said, "of this deplorable condition by several of the seniors who reside in the Towers three weeks ago and since that time I have called the MBTA at least twice a week."

"Every time I called the MBTA, I was consistently informed by their spokesperson that the situation would be taken care of as it is the responsibility of the MBTA to maintain these sheltered bus stops."

But nothing was done. So, over the Fourth of July weekend, Cortese said he, Phyllis and Frank O'Brian of Pagnano Towers and Richard Sangeller, went out and cleaned up the shelter themselves.

"When the MBTA is looking for a rate hike," said Cortese, "I'm sure they will think nothing of expecting this increase to come out of our pockets."

"But when a request for maintenance of the bus stop is made by residents of Ward 2, it seems we have to wait while the litter continues to mount or clean it up ourselves."

Cortese said he had photos taken of the bus shelter litter and will consult with the Health Department to see if the unsanitary condition inside the shelter warrants condemnation until the MBTA cleans it.

On his way home, said Cortese, he and Sangeller also removed debris from another bus shelter near the Quincy Point Congregational Church. It included beer bottles and cans.

"I feel there is no excuse that would allow this kind of negligence on the part of those responsible for maintenance of these areas," he said.

"I intend to pursue it to the fullest to see that this problem is brought to the attention of those who should oversee and eliminate it."

'Let Prop. 2½ Work,' Urges Brooks

Gregory P. Brooks, a candidate for the City Council at large, says the two main issues that this campaign will focus on are downtown revitalization and "letting Proposition 2½ work for the people."

Brooks reaffirmed his stand on Prop. 2½ during a weekly meeting of his campaign staff at the Knotty Pine Restaurant in Quincy Point.

"I was for it back in November and I support it now," he said. "This fiscal insanity which hurts the working class more than any other group must come to a halt. The 1980s will be known as an era of fiscal restraint."

Brooks is a member of Citizens for Limited Taxation, the group that sponsored and promoted Prop. 2½ to victory last November.

Brooks also told his campaign staff to expect many other questions to be raised during the next two months because of the many different views of Quincy voters.

Still In Race Morrisette Bounces Back After 4 Losses

Despite losing four games in a row for the first time since Ray Cattaneo took over as coach, the Morrisette Legion baseball team finds itself just one game behind Weymouth and Norwell in the Zone 6 Division Brace.

Morrisette, which snapped its four-game losing streak Sunday with an 8-6 win over Weymouth, has a 9-6 record, while Weymouth and Norwell are 10-5.

Morrisette won its protest of a 4-3 loss to Norwell and was to learn Tuesday night if the game would be played over or continued from where the game ended.

Morrisette, which played Wollaston last night (Wednesday), will play at Randolph Friday at 6 o'clock. Monday will host Hingham at 8 under the lights at Adams Field and Tuesday will be home to Brockton at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette scored three runs in the seventh inning, two on a Brian Reale homer, top over Weymouth and end its losing streak. With Morrisette trailing, 6-5, in the seventh, John Balzano drove in a run with a triple and scored on Reale's home run. Mark Milane had two hits and two RBIs.

Gary DiNardo went the distance for the win, allowing six hits and striking out six.

In its previous game Morrisette had bowed to Braintree, 7-2, for the fourth loss in a row, as Braintree took advantage of six Morrisette errors to score all its runs in the first three innings.

Morrisette was blanked until the sixth when it scored both runs. Milane doubling home Marty McLoughlin and Jim Bandera.

A bright spot for Morrisette was the pitching of 16-year-old Kevin Whalen, who retired the last six Braintree batters.

Earlier Morrisette was blanked by Norwell, 2-0, as it was held to four hits by Kevin Pizzi.

Wollaston, which has come along fast after a slow start, edged Canton, 7-6, in its last start for its fourth win of the season.

Andy Eames had three hits and drove in two runs and Rich Hallberg picked up the win in relief.

Bobby O'Brien and Danny

Dunn had two hits each and Jim Kelly, Glenn Segalla and Mike Venna had one each.

In its previous game Wollaston rallied in the seventh inning to tie Weymouth, 2-2, in a game called because of darkness.

Earlier Wollaston had turned in one of its finest performances of the season to top Brockton's defending state champions, 7-2, as Hallberg pitched a six-hitter.

Jimmy Hensley drove in two runs. Jim Sullivan had a two-run homer, Steve Belcastro drove in two with a bases loaded single and Eames added an RBI for Wollaston, which played a strong defensive game.

Wollaston will host Hingham Friday night at 8 at Adams and Monday will be at Milton at 6 o'clock.

Quincy, which has had its troubles this summer, turned in an excellent performance last week to defeat Holbrook, 6-1.

Quincy, trailing, 1-0, scored all its runs in a big fifth inning. It had six hits, three for extra bases. Jim DiPietro led off the inning by reaching on an error, Steve Sacchetti singled, Bob Ready tripled for the winning runs. John Costigan scored Ready with a double, stole third and scored on pinch hitter Bill Gray's single. Paul Quigley singled and Sean Martin doubled for the final two runs.

Costigan pitched a two-hitter, struck out seven and walked three.

Quincy had bowed to Norwell, 7-5, with Quigley sparking the Quincy attack with three hits.

Quincy will play at Canton Friday at 6 o'clock and Monday will be at Braintree at 6.

Track Club Scores 105 Points In Women's Kendall Classic

The Quincy Track Club turned in its usual good performance last Saturday and Sunday in the fourth annual Kendall Women's Classic at Boston College.

The QTC scored 105 points, its most ever, placed third in the New England division and sixth overall among teams from all over the country. The club received $500 in developmental grant money from the Kendall Company.

In the 7-under division Meghan Farrell won the softball throw with a record toss of 75 feet and five-year old Regina Murphy placed third in the long jump at 8-3.

In 8-9 Deirdre Murphy and Fran Rodgers placed 2-3 in the long jump. Cindy Bonner was second in the 400 and Kim Werth took second in the softball throw.

In 10-11 Laura Cirella took third in the 800 with a fine 2:34.3 effort.

In 12-13 the QTC scored well in the high jump with Tracy Parker third, Julie Supple fourth, Tracy Wilson fifth and Mary Beth Bonner sixth.

In the 12-13 1600-meter relay Quincy's team of Terry Parker, Tracy Coull, Geraldine Murphy and Beth Tracy placed sixth.

In 16-17 Lauren Andrews won the shot put at 40-3, with Michelle Milane third. Lianne Supple placed second in the high jump, clearing five feet, her best ever, and the relay team of Nancy McCarthy, Deirdre Donovan, Kathy Stevens and Lianne Supple placed fourth in 4:03.

In 18 and over Linda Sell took fifth in the shot put.

The club competed in the Jesse Owens finals last night (Wednesday) and will have several athletes in the Hershey state finals Saturday and the AAU Regional Junior Olympics, hopefully qualifying a number of athletes for national competition.

HEED SMALL CRAFT WARNINGS

According to the Coast Guard, knowingly taking a small craft out despite the fact that bad weather threatens is unforfeitable.

One teenager was so eager to show off his new boat that he took two friends out in it, despite choppy water and the fact that the small craft warnings were displayed. That meant winds of at least 38 mph and that all small boats should remain docked. While the trio was out, pale warnings went up, but it was too late for the youngsters to heed them. The next day their wrecked boat was found on a beach with all three occupants dead inside.

A small pleasure craft is not built to withstand high winds and heavy waves and even a summer shower can wreak havoc; for a few big waves taken broadside can capsize a cabin cruiser. If you insist on ignoring the advice to stay put during bad weather, at least stay close to shore if a storm threatens so you can beat a quick retreat.

South Quincy, will begin in late July or early August through the Community Development Block Grant program.

"We are presently completing the rehabilitation of Sterling Playground, through which the neighborhood will be provided with a new basketball court, running track and open play area," said City Councillor James A. Sheets.

"The complement that successful project, we will be rehabilitating the Kincaide Park tennis courts, so that the residents of the area will be provided with a greater diversity of suitable and adequate recreation space."

RECREATION ROUNDUP

BEECHWOOD KNOLL- (Lori Kelly, Ricky Radzik)

For the last two weeks of Recreation, we have had children display their talents in Arts & Crafts. The kids have made wood jewelry, God's Eyes, and projects with rocks. Karen Leonard, Alison Hurley, Kathy Watt, and Caroline Morash made very good God's Eyes. Caroline Morash and Debbie Forrester made some attractive wood jewelry. Laura Miceli looks like a very valuable player for the Senior Girls' Basketball team. Shannon Canty will be very helpful on the Junior Girls' Softball team. The Junior Boys' Basketball team has been working and practicing, led by ace pitcher Matt Hurley and the catching of Nathan James. Assistant Coach Robert Rauter has been scouting new prospects for the team. Mike McGowan is away on vacation but hopes to be back to be one of our star players at third base. Mark Kelleher, David Zupkoski, and Kevin Murphy are looking good for the Midget team. The children have also enjoyed Archery which is very popular.

FENNO ST (Anne Schofield, Susan Celata, Tom Quinn)

A consistent turnout of 40 show up at the park each day. Denise, the Arts and Crafts specialist visited the first day and was an instant success. Showing off their artistic talents were: John McManus, Brian and Laurie Danna, Kelly Mitchell, Jennifer Jordan, Kerri Mitchell, Ken Forrester, Jean Callow, and Bryan McGilvray.

Already the competition for Miss Fenno St. is keen. Vying for honors are Sheila Sullivan, Melanie Moffett, Claire Murphy, Crystal Moffett, Joelle Roden, Tricia Koski and Julie Masters. These girls besides being beautiful and talented are exceptional athletes.

Baseball and basketball, always a tradition of excellence at the Mount, continue as talent overflows. Starring for the Midget boys baseball team are Jay Eggers, Jamie and Chris Green, John O'Donnell, Dave McManus and Chris Jones. The Junior boys look strong. Jim Phelan, Scott Sacchetti, Kevin Caldwell, Van Leicester, Adam McGregor, Dave Buckley, and Paul Murphy are just a few of our multi-talented men. The senior boys, led by John Murphy, Bob Cralton, and Dave Duffy look to make a strong contribution to District One's senior boys baseball team.

We also picked our girls' basketball team and had our first practice. Sheila Sullivan, Claire Murphy, Joelle Roden, Tricia Kaski are in our line-up so far.

FORBES HILL (Tony Camillo and Lisa Morash) We had over 30 kids sign up this week. Our Junior baseball team is looking very strong led by Dan Biagini who has been hitting the ball all over the park in practice. Also looking good for the juniors are Sean and Joe Gately and Steve Shoap who have been hitting well and are playing strong defense. Leading on our midget attack are Matthew Hennigan, Paul Segalla, and Jimmy Gately.

We had three specialists visit us this week. On Thursday, Brian Downing stopped by with his bow for archery. Joe Gately was the Sharp Shooter for the day. Also visiting was Denise DeCarli, our Arts & Crafts specialist, and Gayle Kiley, our Music and Drama Specialist. Margo Hennigan and Maggie O'Donnell and Jenny Barron produced some very fine art work. Dan Biagini and Sean Gately showed great talent working with copper art. Our Junior Girls softball team is looking strong. Some of our great hitters include Karen Miller, Jenny Barron, Deane Ferrara, Sybil Morgan and Kerry Torney.

MASS FIELDS (Chris King, Dean Zoia) Mass. Fields opened with a bang with more than 70 children signing up. The midget baseball team looks like it is going to the city finals with Jim Maloney, Bob Kelly, Greg Runge, Danny Walty, Mike Walsh, Tommy Duddy, Robert Hubbert, and many of our all-stars. Our Juniors are getting ready for their first game on Wednesday against Fenno St. Playing for the juniors will be Joe and Jimmy Mulvey, Tony Orlando and Tony Losordo. Mass. Fields had a trip to the Racquetball Club which was a great success. Our pros include Leanne and Scott Fitzgerald, Tara and Nancy Linnehan, Karen Runge, Donna Stein, Elizabeth Holt and Missy Holt, Danny Walty, Steve Kelly and Mike Walsh.

The Mass. Fields Junior Girls softball team is looking great this season with stars including, the Holt Sisters, Karen Nelson, Dawn Duncan, Brenda Warren, and Renee Lavesque. Our senior girls go against Beechwood Knoll on Friday morning and we're looking for a great game as our Star five basketball team leads the way with such big names as Karen Runge, Donna Stein and Nancy Linnehan. Wednesday around Mass. Fields is known as wild Wednesday which consists of the kids doing something different every Wednesday. This week we are having an Egg Throwing Contest!

WOLLASTON (Mary Kennedy, Bill Timmins) This year Wollaston Park will field competitive teams in nearly every division and is expected to have a good year.

The biggest hope for a championship bid is the Midget boys baseball team. Dave boys baseball team led by Capt. Jimmy DiCarli and Martin Feeney. The infield is filled by Dave Thompson, Michael Tufts, Bob Flaherty, John Dunderdale, and Mike Grindy. In the outfield will be Jason Doyle and Mike Kelly and Harry Towie.

The Juniors also have an excellent team and will be led by tri-Capt. Pat Feeney, Mike Ciccone and Kevin Jay. Brothers Scott and Mike Curvals, along with Peter Tufts, Phil Thompson and Joey Lawny will also provide leadership.

These same teams are expected to do well in basketball.

On the girl's side a senior team has been formed and is picked to win. A junior team is being formed, led by Mary Feeney and Robin Crooks. Also playing will be Laura White, Jessica McKeon and Barbara White.

Besides sports, we have been busy with Arts & Crafts. Under the expert guidance of Denise DeCarli, we've made decoupage on rocks, God's Eyes and rag dolls.

Summer Day Camp At YMCA

The South Shore YMCA will conduct a summer day camp for children ages 3 to 6 over three two-week periods during July and August.

Foley Rolls On In N.L., Rotary, Gear Tied In A.L.

Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, winner of the Quincy Junior Baseball League's National League, improved its record to 18-3 with two victories during the past week.

Foley defeated Rotary's American League co-leaders, 5-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Chris Marshall, who struck out 11, bringing his strikeout total to 103 in 57 innings. He improved his record to 6-1. Marshall also was on base three times with a single and two walks and scored two runs. Foley continues to be one of the top defensive teams in the league and again played errorless ball. Kyle Robertson did an outstanding job behind the plate in near-100 degree heat and had a double and single. Jay DeBartolo and Tom Tagen had singles and Dan Biagini, Jim Dennis and DeBartolo scored runs. Chris Meyer, Sean Gately, Kevin Duffy and Bob Laracy turned in outstanding defensive plays.

Foley's also romped over VFW, 13-2, with DeBartolo improving his pitching record to 8-1, pitching a six-hitter and striking out seven, giving him 69 on the season. He didn't walk a batter. DeBartolo also had a single and scored three runs.

Biagini had three singles and scored twice, Marshall had a double, walked twice and scored twice, Meyer had a double and single and played one of the best defensive games of the season at first base. Laracy drove in two runs with a bases loaded single up the middle and played well at second base, Mike Sanda and Sean Gately had a double each and scored a run, Duffy had a single and scored at third base and Robertson had two singles, scored twice and did another fine job catching.

Foley's has scored 65 runs and allowed only 10 in the last 42 innings.

Rotary defeated Burgin Platner,

11-4, behind the three-hit pitching of Steve Minichiello. Minichiello struck out seven and walked only one.

Brian Mosher and Tom McDonald had first inning hits which, along with a walk and an error, gave Burgin a 3-0 lead.

Rotary bounced back, pounding out 12 hits. Lead off batter Billy Burkhead had three hits and scored three runs, Mike Mullaney was on base four times, had a double and single and scored three runs, John Pennellatore had two singles, Robby Fitzgerald had a home run over the left field fence, Minichiello hit a tremendous blast which just missed being a homer and went for a standup double and he had another double, Phil Thompson lined a double off the left field fence and Tim Hall had a line single.

Rotary and Boston Gear are tied for the American League lead with 17-4 records. One game between the two is under protest and it has yet to be ruled upon.

LaPierre Inducted Into Commerce Hall Of Fame

Joe LaPierre of Quincy was recently inducted into the Boston High School of Commerce Hall of Fame.

LaPierre graduated in 1948 from Commerce, where he was an outstanding track star and was co-captain of track in his senior year. He won the mile in the state championship meet and went on to compete in the National AAU high school championship held at New York's Madison Square Garden. He won the mile in 4:33.6.

LaPierre went to Georgetown University and continued his winning ways. Joe, along with Carl Joyce (another Commerce alumni), Joe Deady and Dave Boland, ran on the world-record setting two-mile relay team in the 1951 Millrose Games. He won the 1952 IC4A outdoor mile in 4:12.4. He also won the 1953 IC4A indoor championship two-mile run in 9:08.9. He was a tri-recipient of the Outstanding Track and Field Competitor Award in 1943 along with Joyce and Charles Cappozzoli.

LaPierre was voted into the Georgetown Hall of Fame.

Also inducted into the Commerce Hall of Fame at the first High School of Commerce Alumni Association Hall of Fame

N.E. Lighthouses Program At Historical Society

"Lighthouses of New England" will be the topic of a slide presentation Tuesday, July 21, at 1 p.m. at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., as part of the Quincy Historical Society's "Quincy Remembers" series.

The free program will be presented by Russell C. Sanborn who has visited, researched and photographed almost all of New England's 145 lighthouses.

Refreshments will be served. More information can be obtained by calling 773-1144.

Upcoming programs will be:

Tuesday, Aug. 4, 1 p.m. - "Old Ironsides," slides and commentary by Cdr. Tyrone G. Martin, Captain of the U.S.S. Constitution (1794-1978) and author of the narrative, "A Most Fortunate Ship".

Tuesday, Aug. 18, 1 p.m. - "Overcoming Poverty, The Early Boston Irish Experience," a slide lecture describing the misfortunes and successes of Boston's courageous 19th century Irish immigrants, by Dr. Dennis Ryan, teacher and author.

Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1 p.m. - "Ladies First," a live, one woman production by actress Robin Lane. Five first ladies, from Rachel Jackson to Jacqueline Kennedy, each with a strong and unique personality, are portrayed with humor and pathos.

Tuesday, Sept. 15, 1 p.m. - "Quincy Granite," the illustrated story of one of our city's greatest industries, by Gordon D. Carr, E.A. Erikson Monumental Works.

Tuesday, Sept. 29, 7:30 p.m. (note special time) - "Petticoats and Parasols," a fashion show of late 19th and early 20th century costumes presented with live music by volunteers on behalf of Goodwill Industries.

The programs are funded, in part, by a grant from the Institute of Museum Services.

Local Group Encouraged

Quincy's 'Sea Bright' Record Off And Spinning

By TOM HENSHAW

Mike Cotter, a Houghs Neck boy, has written 200 unpublished songs in the past 12 years and he just got laid off as a teacher in the Randolph school system.

Debbie Sturdevant also got "riffed" (for reduction in force or laid off) by the Braintree public schools.

Bob Hobbs is best described as an itinerant shipwright, working the local boatyards.

So they, along with P. J. McCaul, Dave Southerland and Phil Donovan, have just invested a borrowed $15,000 and nine months of their time in their first record album.

The group is called "Sea Bright" and the record, of the same name, came out June 4. In its first week on sale in local music shops it sold 400 copies.

"We need 2,000 to make it, which doesn't seem to be a problem the way they are going," said Cotter, the spokesman for the group, which held a grand launching party for the record recently at the Quincy Yacht Club.

The songs on the record were written by Cotter and include such soon-to-be local favorites as "The Nut Island Blues", a musical salute to the MDC's sewage treatment plant.

There is also a number called "Al's Dine and Dance", which commemorates a night spot on Sea St. in Adams Shore, now known as Dayce's Place, where Sea Bright plays on occasion.

All members of the group live within a mile of each other in Houghs Neck, except Donovan, who lives in Randolph and is the only fulltime musician in the group.

Southerland is an electronics technician while McCaul works with electronic games.

Donovan, an incredibly versatile musician, plays the acoustic and electric guitars, flute, clarinet, vibes, percussion, moog, and occasionally vocalizes.

(A moog, for those of us who came in late, is an instrument that synthesizes music).

The record was cut at Sea Bright's expense at Soundtrack Studios in Boston. The 14 songs were recorded over a period of nine months at a cost of $10,000.

"We put a lot of care into it," said Cotter. "It reflects real well on Quincy. It has been getting a good reception from people in their teens to their seventies."

The music is described as soft rock and "country-eastern".

The next step now, says Cotter, is to get a recording company or a music publisher or a distributor interested in the record and in others that the group has in mind.

Until then, Sea Bright will remain "the South Shore's premier independent recording band."

Contest Winners Announced

Student winners of the Houghs Neck Legion's annual flag essay contest have been announced by Alice Scribner, junior vice commander and chairman of the contest.

The winners are Mary McCole, 1348 Quincy Shore Drive, at the Merrymount School, and Gayle Morrell, 64 Parkhurst St., at the Atherton Hough School.

Prizes of $25 each were given to the winners and the traveling trophy went to the Atherton Hough School.

WEEK OF: JULY 16

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

A troublesome and perhaps costly obligation will be shared — to your immense relief. Something accident prone, you should take extra-special care when handling mechanical devices.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Financial gains scattered through the week, but play the miser. Social postmortems come in a series. Good week for job hurting — especially if work involves sales.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Friends are supportive now and you can ask them for special favors. Dealings with teachers become complicated. Focus attention on fitness and health programs.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Volunteer assignments can wear you down, and you may have to learn to say "no." Faraway communications and explorations to local hideaways are among highlights of a busy week.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Week offers good opportunity for success in professional or social organizations. Financial advisor may have some strong words for you; listen attentively — and ask questions.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Disputes with partner can be resolved if you emphasize humor. Shopping for antiques and nostalgia items is favored. Long-distance communications arrives after a delay.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Good week for experimenting in several fields — but don't be reckless in areas of romance or investment. Emphasis is on the past, with the possible return of a former admirer.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Your "convincing" arguments fail to convince, so quit while you're ahead. Good week for sorting out money matters, for home improvements, and for exploring all-new territories.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Selectivity is week's keyword. There are lots of choices on the table, and you can't have them all. Thrift pays off by the weekend. Loved one is in a noncommittal mood.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Reluctant friends are suddenly eager to please, and there could be some strings attached. Optimistic outlook helps you over a domestic obstacle course and on to brighter horizons.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Do yourself a favor and aim to meet the increased demands of a higher-up. Community battle still rages, but domestic tensions ease quickly. Mini-windfall may strike by Tuesday.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

It's worth the effort to get acquainted with new people. If traveling, your plans change with the winds. Money matters improve, but a realistic attitude is a must.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Generous — sometimes a fault, and sensitive — also to a fault. But warm — and there are never any faults here. Year ahead accents academic expansion, especially in the arts and any areas involving history.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 16th, actress Ginger Rogers; 17th, actress Diahann Carroll; 18th, actor Red Skelton; 19th, singer Vicki Carr; 20th, actress Diana Rigg; 21st, violinist Isaac Stern; 22nd, actor Orson Bean.

Quincy Nursing Home Residents Sponsor Indian Girl

Residents of Quincy Nursing Home, 11 McGrath Highway, recently decided to reach out to a child in need - Wylie Ann Coon, a 10 year old Seminole Indian girl.

Through the Christian Children's Fund, Richmond, Va., residents will be providing some monthly financial support for Wylie who lives with her grandparents in central Oklahoma.

Wylie, who has one brother, was deserted by her parents. Although she receives welfare benefits, the income is not sufficient to provide all of her basic necessities.

The nursing home's contributions will come out of the Resident Council Fund which includes proceeds from bazaars and bake sales coordinated through the home's activity program.

The Christian Children's Fund uses the sponsorship to help provide child care as well as to develop a person-to-person relationship between the child and sponsor.

Nursing home residents are looking forward to corresponding with Wylie and learning about her interests as well as about the Seminole Indian culture. They will also share news with her about themselves.

The residents feel so strongly about the project that they encourage other nursing home residents to sponsor a child.

Information is available from the Resident Council of Quincy Nursing Home or through the sponsorship organization.

2 Residents Lay Ministers

Two persons from Quincy were among 23 recent graduates of the Lay Ministry Training Institute who were commissioned at St. Gabriel's Church, Brighton.

Sarah Keane and Dr. William Stempsey will serve their local church communities as retreat directors, youth ministers, service to the poor, campus ministry and other projects.

Vo-Tech Nursing Commencement July 21

Commencement exercises for Quincy Vocational Technical School's Practical Nursing Program will be held Tuesday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the North Quincy High School auditorium.

'Miraculous Madonna' At St. Joseph's Church

A documentary film on The Miraculous Madonna of the Roses at San Damiano, Italy, will be shown Wednesday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the school hall of St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point.

The film will be shown by Mrs. Claire LeBlanc, who started a San Damiano Center in her home in Natick 10 years ago to promote Papal approval of the apparitions of Mary at San Damiano.

Mrs. LeBlanc, who also publishes a newsletter and has written many pamphlets on San Damiano, will hold a question and answer period after the film is shown.

Admission is free and there will be a recitation of the Rosary and refreshments.

Paul Bassett and Raimondo A. DiBona are chairman of the event.

Goodwill Industries Seek Donated Housewares

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries urges the public to donate housewares to its attended donation trailer at 130 Granite St., next to Star Market.

"We are in dire need of household goods," said James Delaney, Morgan Memorial's Director of Industrial Operations. "The demand (in the stores) is there." Donations of housewares have dropped considerably, and the lag must be made up immediately, he said.

Customer's demand has also risen for clothing, and more donations are needed to assure a full line of fashions for the fall season.

The more household goods and clothing are donated to Goodwill, the more handicapped people Goodwill can employ and rehabilitate, Delaney explained.

Many handicapped workers are directly involved in the sorting, cleaning, sizing, pricing and shipping of these products to Goodwill's Morgie's stores, he said.

Do not leave donations when the attendant is off duty.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Kathleen Jones Awarded Cardinal Spellman Scholarship

Kathleen M. Jones, 13, of Hanover, granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret E. (McDonald) Sweeney of Quincy, was recently awarded a scholarship to Cardinal Spellman High School, Brockton.

The scholarship was presented by the Knights of Columbus Council.

Miss Jones, daughter of Nathan and Margaret M. (Sweeney) Jones, was recently graduated from St. Bridget's School, Abington, with the highest scholastic rating in her class.

Born in Quincy, she is also the granddaughter of the late Mr. M.

KATHLEEN M. JONES
Joseph Sweeney.

New Director

At Family Planning Services

Ursula Garfield-Copello has been appointed director of Family Planning Services of the South Shore, succeeding Laura Liscio, who resigned.

Garfield-Copello has been acting director since April. "My goal is to revitalize services in the Quincy area," she said. "I want to redesign every aspect of the program to make it more accessible to a broader range of people."

Prior to coming to Quincy, Garfield-Copello was assistant director of Planned Parenthood in Buffalo, N.Y. She spent six years with Brockton Family Planning as counselor and clinic director.

 CITY OF QUINCY
 IN COUNCIL

 ORDER NO. 139
 ORDERED: June 1, 1981

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows:

That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1971, as amended, be further amended as follows:

INSIST THE FOLLOWING: Chapter 10a - Junk & Secondhand Dealers -

PURCHASE OR SALE OF GOLD, SILVER AND PLATINUM

Whoever is in the business of purchasing and selling gold, silver or platinum and keeps or stores same in any building or place within the limits of the city shall be required to be licensed in accordance with the provisions of chapter ten. The keeper of such a shop shall enter in a book kept for that purpose at the time of every purchase, a description of the item, the quantity purchased, the purchase price, the name, age and address of the seller, the day and hour when such purchase was made, and, at the time of making the purchase, shall attach a number to each article bought, and shall make entry of such number in the book. No such purchase shall be made of any such articles from a minor or from any person the keeper of such shop has reason to believe is a minor. Any person who sells gold, silver or platinum shall be required to show to the keeper of the shop prior to said sale, identification which includes a photograph of said seller.

No article purchased or received which is subject to this chapter shall be sold or altered in appearance, form or substance until a period of at least fourteen days from the date of its purchase or receipt has elapsed.

Said book shall at all times be open for the inspection of the mayor, chief of police, any member of the police force, any member of the board of license commissioners and by any person authorized by the board of license commissioners.

Every such shopkeeper shall make out and deliver to the chief of police every day, Sunday and holidays excepted, before the hour of 10:00 A.M., a legible and correct list containing an accurate description of all articles purchased which are subject to this chapter and all other information required as listed above, including the respective numbers of such articles.

This chapter shall not apply to numismatic matter in accordance with section 55 of chapter 140 of the General Laws nor to wholesalers or wholesale transactions between licensed retailers under this chapter. Whoever violates any rule, regulation or restriction contained in his license shall be subject to the penalty provided in section 10 of chapter 1 of the Quincy City Ordinances.

DeCristofaro Reaffirms Opposition To 2 A.M. Closings

Ted DeCristofaro, candidate for Ward 2 Councillor, has reaffirmed his opposition to extending the hours of operation of Washington St., drinking establishments from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.

DeCristofaro noted that as chairman of the Ward 2 Civic Association, he spearheaded the drive, along with local elected officials, to close down several of the more troublesome establishments in that area. Those that were not closed had their hours rolled back to 1 a.m.

"The people of Quincy Point fought long and hard to take back control of their neighborhood, by forcing out many of the unwanted elements and making sure those establishments which remain in operation do little to disrupt the character of the surrounding area," he said.

"Despite the attempts of certain proprietors to re-extend their hours to the 2 a.m. limit, as chairman of the local civic association I have lobbied successfully before the Licensing Board on several occasions to maintain the 1 a.m. closing.

"It is my feeling that any increase in the hours of operation, although admittedly beneficial to the owners of the drinking establishments, would be too much at the expense of the adjacent neighborhoods. If we are to attract other businesses like John Hancock, we must continue to take steps which will improve the overall safety and desirability of the area."

attended many meetings recently, for legal reasons, said he was unaware of the program until a warrant for payment came to the auditor Monday.

Others listed on the warrant for payment were:

James Adams, James Austin, Robert Elder, Roberta Hennessey, Lawrence Kelley, Robert Kelley, Thomas Ryan, Raymond Tocchio, Tracy Kearns, Michelle McCarthy, Ann McElaney and Denise McCall.

Tobin emphasized that there is no indication or accusation of wrong-doing against any of the 16 young people.

"I don't know who the people are on that list," he said. "I don't have their addresses nor do I know if they are related to anyone in the city."

He said John Toland, Suzanne Picard, and Patricia and John Sullivan were identified to him by school personnel as relatives of the three School Committee members.

The ball is in the School Committee's court now if they want to keep the program going," said the Mayor. Dr. Creedon said the matter probably would come up at Wednesday night's meeting.

Solicitor Fleming said the pay warrant for the 16 young workers probably would not be held up any longer than a day or two.

"They earned the money," he said. "They ought to get it."

Dr. Creedon said the vote to hire the 16 youngsters was taken by the School Committee July 8.

"It is standard practice," he said. "The list was presented to the committee and a vote was taken on the program. It was a voice vote, like all votes to hire."

"Ever since I have been around the Quincy school system there have been summer work programs. They have been curtailed over the years. It wasn't unusual to have 30 or 40 kids on it in the past."

"We don't have big advertising campaigns for it because there are not enough jobs. Kids hear of it by word of mouth and apply or sometimes the School Committee makes recommendations."

He said he did not think that there had been more than 16 applicants for the program this summer.

Mayor Tobin said he did not attend the July 8 School Committee meeting or any other recent meeting because he might jeopardize the city's case in its legal wrangling with the Committee.

With the School Committee suing the city over non-funding of teachers' raises, Tobin is in the unique position of being mayor of the city on one side and chairman of the School Committee on the other.

"They were calling for votes just to get me on the record and use it against me," he said. "I did not want to get into a dispute so I have absented myself from the meetings."

Tobin said the warrant for payment for summer work was sent through the city mail from Asst. Supt. John A. Osterman to acting City Auditor William Grindlay.

"When you send things through the mail, people see them," he said. "I got some inquiries about the list and I asked Mr. Grindlay. I understand someone questioned Dr. Creedon about it, too."

"The School Committee will have to make a determination if they are going to have a summer program."

"I can't speak for the others but I find it strange to lay off 500 people and close schools and then authorize the superintendent of schools to put children on a summer program."

"I'm not criticizing these people. It was brought to my attention and I am doing this. I think they used very poor judgement."

It takes a solid bank to meet the challenges of the 80's.

Even though the economy during 1980 was volatile and unpredictable, the South Boston Savings Bank, Massachusetts' highest earning savings bank, continued to grow. To see our strength, just look at our financial summary.

In 1980, interest paid depositors rose to a new high of $34.5 million. Assets increased 5.2% to $459 million. And deposits were up to 2.8% to $421.3 million. South Boston Savings Bank's growth continues, thanks to our depositors and their expanding needs.

Assets comprised residential and commercial mortgage loans in Boston, the surrounding area, and across the country. Plus government, municipal and corporate securities and money market instruments.

These assets give the South Boston Savings Bank the strength to meet the ongoing challenges of the 1980's. The record of growth and reliability South Boston Savings Bank started in 1863 continues with our commitment to improve service to the public in the years ahead.

How we paid out more than $9,000,000 and were thrilled to do it . . .

$9,309,110

That is what we paid our depositors in interest for the fiscal year closing April 30, 1981.

The amount was $1,737,802 more than the preceding year. That's an increase of 22.9%.

And we folks at The Quincy Cooperative Bank are happy that we have been able to disburse these several millions to our faithful and wonderful shareholders. Quite candidly, it gives us a good feeling.

This large amount indicates how our customers' money has been working for them. Our handsome interest total has been achieved because we always pay the highest interest allowed by law. Being a cooperative bank, our shareholders are our owners. We have no stockholders.

Thus, as we make money, it goes to our shareholders within the limits set by the U.S. Government.

If you are not a member of our family of shareholders shouldn't you consider joining us? After all, you can join up for as little as a dollar — but you really should deposit more so we can give you our high return on your dollars.

MBTA Fare Increase Draws Loud 'No'

"It went well," said shirt-sleeved James F. O'Leary, the general manager of the MBTA. "We heard some specific complaints that we plan to follow up on."

But the biggest complaint probably won't be pursued.

Most of the 150 people who jammed the City Council Chamber at City Hall Monday night for a hearing into a proposed MBTA fare hike just didn't want the fare hike at all -- except in the unlikely event it could be tied in with improved service.

O'Leary said the fare increases would likely cost the MBTA 10 per cent of its ridership but after 60 to 90 days the riders would return "once they realize there are no alternatives according to cost."

He said the MBTA would shut down in November if the fare boost were not put into effect, as planned, on Aug. 1.

Under the proposal, the basic fare for rapid transit lines would go up 25 cents, from 50 to 75 cents. Fares from the three existing Quincy stations to Boston would be altered like this:

North Quincy: Now, $1 inbound, 50 cents outbound. Proposed, 75 cents inbound, 75 cents outbound.

Wollaston: Now, $1 inbound, 50 cents outbound. Proposed, 75 cents inbound, 75 cents outbound.

Quincy Center: Now, $1 inbound, 50 cents outbound. Proposed, $1.50 inbound, 75 cents outbound, for a new total of $2.25 round trip.

Fares from Braintree and the Quincy Adams station, when it opens, would be $3 for a round trip, up from the current $2.

The proposal divides the MBTA's rapid transit system into zones, with North Quincy and Wollaston in Zone 1, Quincy Center in Zone 2, and Quincy Adams and Braintree the only Zone 3 stops in the whole system.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey could see problems arising from the unbalanced fares in Quincy.

"Pretty soon," he said, "we're going to have an access road, Burgin Parkway, from the south

Public Hearing Thursday

Tobin Sees Connector Vote 'Major Victory'

By TOM HENSHAW

Two groups of downtown Quincy businessmen have taken a hard look at the proposed East-West Connector on the eve of today's (Thursday) hearing by the State DPW at 4:30 p.m. in City Hall.

One group went for it overwhelmingly; the other opposed it by a narrow margin.

Progress for Downtown Quincy (PDQ), meeting Tuesday afternoon, voted 14-0 with three abstentions in favor of the controversial highway.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, a connector advocate, called it a "major victory."

Earlier Tuesday, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association went against it narrowly 24-9 in opposition by those present and 18-8 in favor by a telephone poll. The total: 32-27 against.

"That's not bad," said Tobin. "I expected worse than that from what I have been hearing."

The QCBPA then adopted the following statement, composed by Elliott Cohen of Cumming's, to be read at the State DPW hearing on the Connector today at 4:30 p.m. in City Hall:

"The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, while in favor of progress and improvement for Quincy in general and the downtown area in particular, cannot in good conscience approve of the suggested cross-town connector.

"We do not feel the project has been thought out to a proper conclusion and does not contain any commitment to growth or construction of a bigger and better downtown community.

"We remain ready to assist in and/or reconsider this project when there are definite proposals and commitments for new construction and proper use of properties taken for said road.

"We are not against progress. The QCBPA has long endorsed the extension of Upland Rd. as crucial to the future of downtown Quincy.

"But we feel we must see a definite commitment for improvement in our downtown area in order to fully support the cross-town connector."

The East-West Connector, also known as the cross-town connector and the Revere Rd. connector, would cut through the heart of downtown Quincy under Hancock St., connecting east and west sides.

It would offer access to the downtown shopping area from the proposed Burgin Parkway (Upland Rd.) Extension, which would open up Quincy to traffic from the south.

One of the major objections expressed at the QCBPA meeting was that the connector would cut off the south section of Hancock St. from the rest of Quincy Square.

"Anyone south of the road on Hancock St. would be isolated," said Charlie Ryder of Ryder's, whose store is north of the road.

"The potential two-year disruption of business during the construction period is too high a price to pay for a cross-town road. I can't support it."

Jack Allegrini of Paperama, which is located in the Parkingway where the connector would cross the MBTA tracks, said he was skeptical of the whole Burgin Parkway-Connector plan.

"Remember," he said, "these are two-way streets. I see it as a direct access to the South Shore Plaza. It would be detrimental to the downtown area."

John R. Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, warned that "without the connector, the future of Hancock St. is in jeopardy. A whole new shopping area will develop from Grossman's south along Penn St. The connector is critical to Quincy."

The vote taken at the meeting came up 28 opposed and nine against but four "no" votes were deleted because some organizations had two representatives at the meeting. Only one is eligible to vote.

QCBPA President Bernard Reisberg said the telephone poll taken Monday showed 18 in favor, eight against, five undecided and 30 unavailable for comment. The QCBPA has 117 members.

Reisberg read a letter from Judie Cullen of the Planning Department informing the Connector Public Hearing Thursday

QCBPA that the state has turned thumbs down on a plan to keep Hancock St. open during construction by taking three additional stores on the east side.

Those stores were Standard TV, Book Haven and Colpitts Travel.

Mayor Tobin said a plan is being devised to keep Hancock St. open during the construction period by detouring traffic to the west of Hancock St. He declined to give the exact route.

"Some of these plans are being put together as we go along," he said. "They change from day-to-day as we try to meet our objectives."

"We are trying not to jeopardize business in downtown Quincy. We are trying to keep Hancock St. open. But still we have to satisfy the federal and state agencies who are putting up the money."

"The East-West Connector was not proposed because Tobin wants it," the mayor continued. "It will not be opposed just because the QCBPA doesn't want it."

"The only decision is whether it is good for Quincy to move the city into the year 2000. That is the issue. If it's not in the best interest of the city then it shouldn't be built."

'No Trespassing' Ordinance For Quarries

The City Council Tuesday night passed an ordinance creating a "No Trespassing" zone around Swingle's Quarry in West Quincy and backed it up with fines ranging up to $200.

The ordinance, filed by Councillor James A. Sheets, is aimed at the revelers and vandals who are making life miserable for residents who live around the quarry.

Sheets called it "a war zone on a warm weekend."

Sidewalk Bazaar Best In History

The 1981 Downtown Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar may have been the best in the 12-year history of the event.

"It was the best ever, as far as I'm concerned," said Burt Cook of Tag's. "There were more people around the square than I ever saw before."

"This was the best one yet," said Charles Ryder of Ryder's.

Virtually all the merchant members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association who were queried in a Quincy Sun poll said that business was up noticeably during the three-day sidewalk sale.

Jack Doyle of South Shore Buick, taking part in the bazaar for the first time, said his firm sold two cars off the street and recorded the names of some future possibilities.

"We might do it differently next year," he said. "We'll have a larger display."

Jack London of Quincy Furniture said his business was up at least 80 per cent over last year's bazaar.

"We oversold our advertised items for the first time," he said. "We have no stock in those items

Mark Bertman said his business was up some 40 per cent over last year.

"We are well cleaned out of what we wanted to clean out," he said.

Ryder said his business was up 40 per cent Thursday, down slightly on Friday, and up 20 per cent Saturday.

"I think it's tradition more than anything else," he said. "It's the best sidewalk sale around and people are starting to look forward to it. It's fun, like a small town block party."

Summer Cohen said bazaar days business was substantially ahead of last year at Kincaide's.

"It was up about 20 per cent," he said. "I can't say what the reasons were but there seemed to be more people from Boston on Hancock St. than in previous years."

Jerry Nicholas of Beacon Fabrics estimated that business was up by about a third over last year. Gary Liebert of Hart's Jewelry figured his business was up about 10 per cent, thanks to a big Thursday.

"The weather was in our favor," said Marion Feldman of Jason's, "and we had some good buys. That's a good combination."

The annual three-day event is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

THE SIDEWALK BAZAAR, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, brought thousands of people to downtown Quincy in search of bargains and fun last week.

Kelly Leading Candidate For Hospital Purchasing Job

The City Council was expected Tuesday night to create the position of Director of Materials Management at City Hospital and City Purchasing Agent William J. Kelly appeared to have the inside track on the $25,000 a year job.

Harold W. Coose, assistant director for personnel, said a field of 37 applicants for the post was narrowed to five and Jack Thompson, head of materials management for Hospital Corp. of America did the final interviews.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said Kelly had asked him if it was all right for him to apply for the job and "I gave him the highest recommendation."

"The hospital was very impressed with him," said Tobin. "They were not only impressed with his background but with his sincere knowledge of how municipal bids and contracts are handled."

Tobin said the job is being created so that the Hospital, which recently achieved fiscal independence from the city budget, can do its own purchasing.

"This will mean less work for the city purchasing department, too," he said.

Kelly, a retired lieutenant colonel in the Army who lives at 98 South Central Ave., Wollaston, was named purchasing agent for the city by Tobin in 1979.

He is a graduate of Bridgewater State, Central Missouri State and the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College in Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

He and his wife, Stella, have one daughter, Mrs. Denise Moss of Cape Elizabeth, Maine.

Baron Still In The Mood

Baron Hugo had them literally dancing in the street during last week's Sidewalk Bazaar.

For a couple of hours before playing for the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant, Baron's combo had a big crowd ringed around them at Hancock and Granite Sts., enjoying every note of such old goodies as "Moonlight Serenade" and
"In The Mood," while some danced on the blacktop.

It was a fun night. But then, wherever Baron goes it's a fun night or day.

At 77, he still rolls along with pretty much the same pep he had in the good old days when he led the house band at the Totem Pole back in the 1940's.

He was right up there during the big band era.
In fact, at one time he had one of the biggest big bands of all—35 pieces. Some people think Lawrence Welk patterned the size of his band after Baron's.

Baron was born Hugo Lira in a house at 22 Parker St., Quincy Center and grew up here. He has lived in Milton since 1934. Baron and his wife, the former Edith Hamilton of Avon, were married 50 years when she died January, 1980.
He hasn't gotten over that blow.

This year Baron set up three scholarships for Milton High School graduates. One, a memorial secretarial scholarship in Edith's name. She was a secretary. The other two scholarships are for music and art and are in his name. They are perpetual scholarships. He is planning to establish similar scholarships at Quincy High School which he attended.

One of Baron's famed numbers at the Totem Pole was "I've Got A Lovely Bunch of Coconuts" which he sang the other night here. A singer by the name of Merv Griffin did that one, too. And when he heard it was a big hit in Boston he thought it was his record. But it was Baron's version that Boston went for.

Baron's all-time favorite number is Glenn Miller's "In The Mood." He signs off with that at dances. After playing a soft, goodnight medley, he swings into "In The Mood" to "Wake them up for the ride home."

His favorite band: Glenn Miller. "The greatest sound of them all." Favorite romantic song:
"And I Love Her So." ("I used to sing that to Edith.") Favorite male vocalists: "A toss-up between Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra." Favorite female vocalist: Helen O'Connell.

Will the big bands come back as we knew them?

"I don't know," shrugs Baron. "But, you know, every 25 years or so we've had a new radical sound. There was John Phillips Sousa and the military band sound. Then Paul

Whiteman who added strings. Then came Rudy Vallee crooning through a megaphone. Then Benny Goodman gave us swing and brought in the big band era. Then Elvis Presley, the Beatles and rock 'n roll."

What will the new radical sound be?

"Maybe," smiles Baron, "we're ready for the big band sound again."

And did somebody say, "I hope so.?"

SOMETIMES, says Rep. Michael Morrissey, it's not what you say as much as where you say it that can get you in trouble.

Morrissey celebrated the end of the long State House budget wrangle with a two-day vacation in which he sailed a friend's boat down to Cape Cod.

He paused in Scituate to use the dockside phone to call another friend in the media with some requested comment on the controversial state budget.

He was, Morrissey told the friend, going to ask Gov. King to veto the section of the budget which relieves 22 towns of financial responsibility for the MBTA deficit.

The remark touched off an uproar among Scituate townies who were lounging on the dock near the phone.

"I forgot where I was," said Morrissey ruefully. "Scituate is one of the 22 towns. I thought they were going to throw me into the harbor."

Morrissey survived the pax pas unscathed.

Paul Dunphy Has 4.0 Average

QJC Top Honor Student, 45, Plans Further Education

The top honor student at Quincy Junior College with a 4.0 cumulative average is Paul V. Dunphy Jr., 45, of 56 French St., Norfolk Downs, who hadn't seen the inside of a classroom in 25 years.

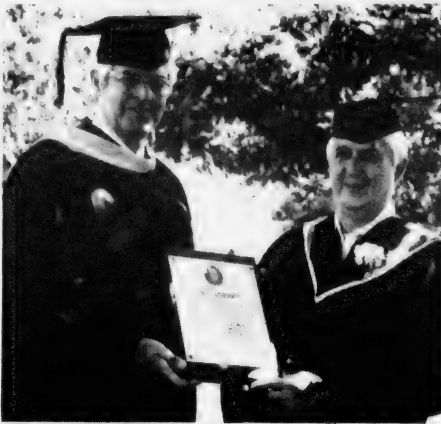

Dunphy, who received a degree in history at the recent QJC commencement, attended school full time and also worked fulltime at a night job as network supervisor for the New England Telephone Co.

"I didn't have the opportunity to go on after high school but I always wanted to go back to school," he said. "When I transferred to night supervisor there was my chance."

Now Dunphy, who is married and has five children, plans to enter UMass-Boston in the fall as a junior, along with one of his daughters, who is in the same class.

He will be attending UMass with a $1,500 scholarship given each year by the Quincy Cooperative Bank to an outstanding QJC graduate who is going on to further education.

Dunphy, who joined the telephone company 27 years ago after he got out of high school, had some trepidation about going back to school after a quarter of a century away from the books.

"I really feared getting back into studying," he said. "But those fears were really unfounded. Everyone at Quincy Junior was so helpful. I met some marvelous people and not just the older students, the kids, too."

Dunphy and his wife, Elizabeth, have three children in college, one in high school and one in elementary school.

Brownell Bats .500 On King Vetoes

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell was batting .500 today after Gov. Edward J. King vetoed that section of the state budget which would have allowed 23 towns to withdraw from the MBTA.

Brownell had urged a King veto of the proposal and also the part of the budget dealing with the distribution of local aid.

"These sections severely impact the City of Quincy," said Brownell. "The proposed lottery formula for distribution of local aid is a neglect of responsibility under Proposition 2½. Quincy will get 23 per cent of its losses back, while other communities recoup better than 100 per cent."

"I voted against the budget. The very reason for increased local aid is to address the impact of Proposition 2½, not to unduly benefit richer communities.

"I have strongly recommended equitable relief based on a community's loss under Proposition 2½."

Flexibility Clinic At YMCA

The South Shore YMCA will conduct a four-week flexibility clinic starting Wednesday, July 22, at 7 p.m., to teach people how to stretch out.

Council Indicates Support For Project West Of RR Tracks

Six members of the City Council indicated they would support a proposal to create a new commercial and retail development across the railroad tracks from the Ross parking area.

Councillors Edna B. Austin, Thomas S. Burgin, David S. McIntosh, and John J. Quinn voted for it at an informal conference while Carl W. Anderson and William C. Ellis were not present but recorded in favor.

Absent without commitment were James R. McIntyre and Charles L. Shea while Joseph E. Brett said he was reserving his decision.

On the strength of it, Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa prepared to ask permission from the State Emergency Finance Board to borrow $800,000 for the project plus off-street parking in Norfolk Downs.

LARGEST FIELD

Frank J. D'Agostino of Dedham withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 13th District but the remaining field — three Republicans and nine Democrats — was the largest in years.

Seeking the Republican nomination to succeed Richard B. Wigglesworth of Milton, who was retiring after 30 years, were William W. Jenness of Quincy, Hjalmar Peterson of Brockton and Harold Putnam of Needham.

The Democrats were Francis H. Foy and David J. Crowley of Quincy, Edward J. Dwyer and Michael DeSimone of Boston, Richard E. McCormack of Braintree, William A. Connell Jr. of Weymouth, and Hollis M. Mosher, James A. Burke and Peter G. Fallon of Milton.

QUINCY GIRLS WIN

The Quincy junior girls tennis team lost only two out of 15 games in sweeping to a 7-0 victory over Framingham at the Quincy Tennis Club.

Susan Kopman, Marilyn Dixon, Arlene Rubin, Nancy Chaddock and Sandra Zacchini won their single matches easily and the pairings of Kopman-Dixon and Chaddock Zacchini prevailed in the doubles.

ANSELMO LOSES OUT

Frank Anselmo, superintendent of the Quincy Post Office, apparently was out of the running for Postmaster of Boston when his name was omitted from the list of the top three eligibles certified by Civil Service.

Beth Strenge Pageant Winner New Miss Quincy Bay 'Old Fashioned'

By TOM HENSHAW

For the past two years, Beth Strenge has been accepted as a candidate for Miss Massachusetts honors.

"But I chickened out," she said. "They wanted a sponsorship fee and I felt uncomfortable asking people to sponsor me. But I'd feel more comfortable now. I can say I'm Miss Quincy Bay."

Miss Strenge (pronounced "stren-gee," with a hard "g"), an Eastern Nazarene College student from Upper Darby, Pa., won the coveted title Friday night from a field of 28 other South Shore beauties.

The tall, pretty blond, 21-year-old college senior will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 12-16 and take home most of the $4,000 in prizes that are offered in the beauty pageant.

It was close to being the biggest thrill in her young life — close, but not quite.

"Four years ago," she said, "my choir in Upper Darby High School represented the United States on a tour of Russia and Poland. We went as ambassadors of good will."

"It was fun. We had a big map of the United States behind us and we sang the songs of the different areas of the country, the cowboy songs, the Broadway hits and songs like that."

"But I learned that you really miss the states when you're away. It was so nice to come home. It takes something like that to make you realize that this is the place to live."

The pageant, co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, drew a crowd estimated by police at more than 4,000. It was held on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hanock Bank on Hancock St.

Runnersup to Miss Strenge were Annette P. Nielsen, 20, of Quincy; Jean L. Zdankowski, 19, of Quincy; Jill M. Bodell, 23, of Weymouth; and Dawna A. Stitt, 17, of Scituate.

Bay of 1979.

Pat Jones, assistant to the president of the Home Town Bank, Newton, was pageant chairman; Tom Kennedy, WHDH radio personality, was master of ceremonies. Baron Hugo's Orchestra played for the pageant.

Miss Strenge is entering her senior year at Eastern Nazarene in September, working toward a degree in communications and psychology. She hopes to go on to Emerson College for a masters in mass communication.

"I'd like to get into public relations or broadcasting," she said. While going to college, she works at the Hurley Insurance Agency.

At Eastern Nazarene, she is vice president of her class, social chairwoman of the women's society, and a resident assistant in charge of a dormitory floor of girls.

She is the oldest of four children. Brother David, 20, and sister Jackie, 18, also are students at ENC. Sister Chris, 16, is in high school back home in Upper Darby.

Miss Strenge has no immediate marriage plans, although she has a steady fellow, Robert Gough, another Pennsylvania expatriate who works as a child care counsellor at the Lee School in Boston while attending Suffolk University.

"A career is important for a woman," she said, "but I still take the Biblical view that the man is the head of the household and the family comes first."

"I'm not a big feminist. In fact, I'm quite conservative on that subject. But I'll stick up for my rights."

"I'm old fashioned. I'm not a door-opener. I still enjoy having the guy pay for my dinner."

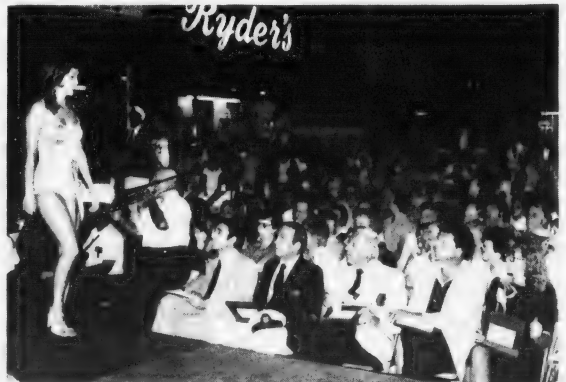

ANNETTE NIELSEN, 20, of Quincy cuts a curvaceous figure in the swimsuit competition phase of the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant. She was first runnerup.

MISS QUINCY BAY, 1981, Beth Strenge, is crowned by Miss Quincy Bay, 1980, Tracy Hart, while other finalists look on.

BARON HUGO, the noted band leader, croons for the five finalists in the Miss Quincy Bay pageant. Left to right, Jean Zdankowski, 19, of North Quincy; Beth Strenge, 21, of Wollaston; Dawna Stitt, 17, of Scituate; Jill Bodell, 23, of South Weymouth; and Annette Nielsen, 20, of Quincy.

William O'Hare Candidate For Council At-Large

Pledging to continue the economic rebirth of Quincy, Atty. William J. O'Hare of 59 Hamden Circle, Wollaston, announced his candidacy for one of the three at-large seats on the City Council.

"Restructuring the economic base of Quincy Square and attracting new business to Quincy will become, I believe, an economic necessity for the city," he said in his announcement at Morrisette Post.

"My education and experience makes me qualified to help in these areas.

"A partnership of ideas must be established with respect to economic growth and the maintenance of strong neighborhoods because this will become the chief issue to be faced by all elected city officials in the 1980s."

O'Hare, 27, is a lifelong resident of Quincy and is the son of Fire Capt. and Mrs. Francis X. O'Hare. He is a law partner in the Boston firm of Carrigan and O'Hare.

"As a product of Quincy's neighborhoods, playgrounds and schools, I have observed personally the programs and services all Quincy citizens have available to them," he said.

"I am committed to maintaining these community services.

"Proposition 2½ has shown that every citizen must help the burden of tax reform. I pledge that this burden shall be fairly and equitably shared by all the competing interests within the city.

"As an attorney who practices law in the Quincy District Court, I have seen the reduction of community services, particularly in the area of public safety.

"It is very difficult to put a price on the health and safety of the citizens of Quincy but, I believe, that money spent judiciously in these areas is money well spent."

O'Hare is a graduate of St. Ann's School, North Quincy High School, Middlebury College with a degree in economics, and Suffolk Law School. He is a member of the Massachusetts, Norfolk and Boston Bars.

Toland Urges Residents Attend Connector Hearing

Patricia M. Toland, a candidate for the City Council at large, has urged Quincy residents to attend tonight's public hearing on the proposed East-West connector.

"Whether or not the East-West Connector becomes a reality depends in large measure on what state officials hear from those who speak at the hearing, she said.

"A major change in the face of Quincy Square deserves the full attention and consideration of all our citizens because of its ramifications.

"Whatever the final decision, it will impact heavily on the growth and economy, progress and prosperity of Quincy through the end of this century."

Strong Financial Background Needed, McCauley Says

The continuing decline in Quincy's credit rating makes it imperative that whoever is mayor in the 1980s have a strong, financial background, says City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a banker who is running for mayor.

Moody's Rating Service recently dropped the city's rating three grades from A to BA, and McCauley pointed out that Moody's gave the following reasons for the downward adjustment:

- "A significant weakening of financial operations over the past three years."

- "The failure to balance budgets in the past, when circumstances were less difficult."

- "A stagnant tax base coupled with population decreases."

McCauley noted that during the past four years as a councillor he has spoken out on a number of occasions to question financial operations in the city.

He said he has continuously criticized the overstatement of receipts from non-property tax sources which has led to increased short term borrowing and deficits in city operations.

McCauley delivered his remarks at a coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hayes, 51 Puritan Drive, Quincy Center.

He reminded his listeners that in May, 1978, he released a study of Quincy's financial problems and recommended that estimates of revenue from non-property tax sources be more realistic.

In spite of his recommendations, he said, once again estimated receipts in fiscal 1979 and 1980 exceeded actual revenues by more than $3,700,000.

McCauley also noted that he correctly predicted a 60-cent decrease in the tax rate for fiscal 1979 was not realistic and would lead to a large tax increase in 1980. The tax rate in 1980 went up $27.40.

McCauley, a high honor graduate of Bentley College, who also holds a diploma in municipal finance from Bentley, said if he is elected mayor, he will devote a major effort to curing Quincy's financial ills.

Incumbents' Best Not Good Enough Says Conroy

"The incumbents have done their best," Patrick Conroy conceded, "but their best is inadequate to deal with the problems of the Quincy public schools."

"In spite of their good intentions, I don't believe they have even an idea about how to cope with the changes that have taken place in schools, in government and in society."

Conroy, a candidate for the School Committee, spoke at a house party at the home of John and Maryanne Mahoney, 222 Quincy Shore Drive, Atlantic.

"When I take office in January," he said, "mediocrity will no longer be an acceptable standard of performance."

"I intend to make it the policy of the Quincy School Committee to reward excellence and to discharge poor performers."

"Principals will be given the authority they need to get results but if they fail they will be removed from the ranks of management."

Conroy said that he is available, to meet with any group of individuals, large or small, to discuss school issues in Quincy. He may be reached at 328-1409 or at 272 Billings St., Quincy, 02171.

Raymondi Vows No Loss In Fire, Police Protection

"With Proposition 2½ and the trend towards streamlining government, people ask if their police and fire protection will be reduced," said City Council Daniel G. Raymondi.

"My answer is simple and direct — not if I'm elected mayor."

Raymondi, a candidate for mayor, outlined his thoughts on public safety at a house party at the home of Marie and Joseph Graham, 50 Mayflower Rd., Squantum.

"My public record is one of strong support of Quincy's firefighters and police officers," he said. "Public safety is an issue that I will not compromise on."

"The protection of life and liberty in all sections of Quincy, especially in isolated neighborhood such as Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown, is something that I have a deep and personal concern about."

Raymondi cited recent FBI statistics that show an alarming increase in violent crime such as robbery, rape and murder, statistics which prove, he said, "that no community is safe from crime."

Raymondi told the gathering that he understands their anxiety over the possible closing of the Squantum Fire Station.

"As a ward councillor," he said, "I am extremely sensitive to the absolute necessity of proper response times both for fire and police protection.

"I would continue to oppose the closing of any fire station in the city of Quincy."

Raymondi pointed out that he has served as assistant district attorney for Norfolk County and as a public defender in Quincy District Court.

"My experience in the judicial system has given me a special insight towards crime and its accompanying problems," he said. "That insight will be useful in formulating crime and fire prevention programs for Quincy."

4 Residents Dartmouth Graduates

Four students from Quincy were among more than 1,000 young men and women who received degrees from Dartmouth college at its 211th commencement exercises recently.

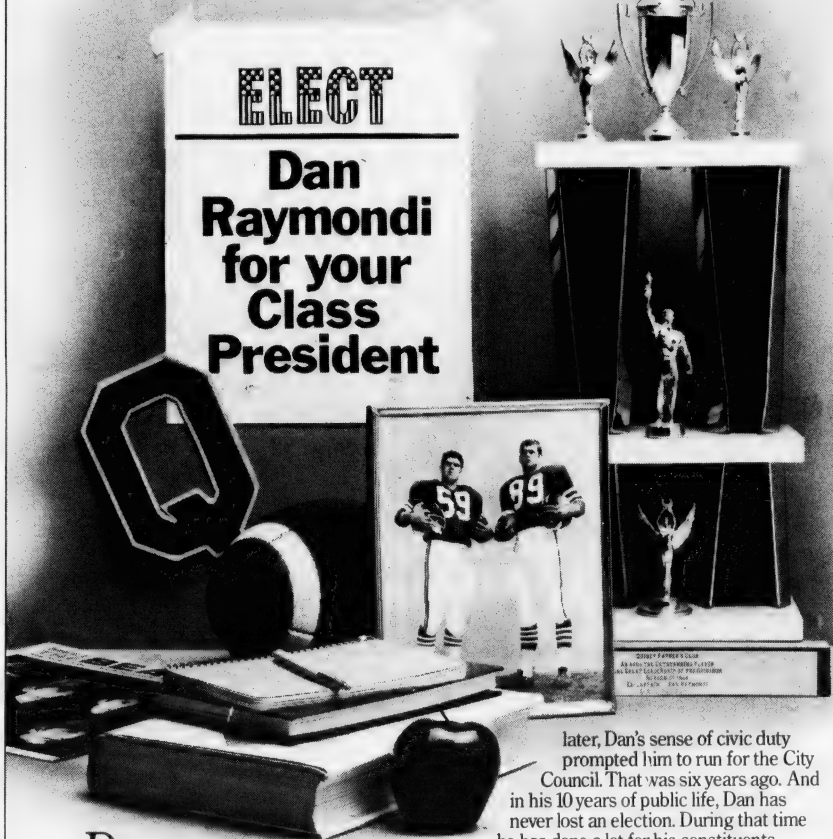

They are Paul J. Atchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T.

Atchison, 55 French St.; Deron F. Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Erickson, 35 Miller Stile Rd.; Brian P. Reidy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Reidy, 211 Whitwell St.; Thomas D. Nee, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Nee, 161 Crabtree Rd.

BACK IN HIGH SCHOOL DAN RAYMONDI RAN FOR MORE THAN TOUCHDOWNS.

ELECT

Dan Raymondi for your Class President

later, Dan's sense of civic duty prompted him to run for the City Council. That was six years ago. And in his 10 years of public life, Dan has never lost an election. During that time he has done a lot for his constituents, especially while serving as the newly appointed Chairman of the Downtown and Economic Development Committee. He's also served as an Assistant District Attorney and Public Defender at Quincy District Court.

Now, Dan Raymondi would like to be able to do even more for the residents of Quincy. So he's running again. Only this time he's in the race for Mayor. Dan is very serious about his mayoral bid. Because to him public service is no game.

During the early 1960's Dan Raymondi was a football star at Quincy High School. In fact, he was good enough to be named a High School All-American. But Dan didn't just run for touchdowns in high school. He also ran for Class President. And he was elected to the post in both his junior and senior years.

After high school Dan went on to Holy Cross where he excelled in academics (Dean's List student) and athletics (captain of the football team). Later, while a full-time student at Boston College Law School, Dan ran for and won a seat on the Quincy School Committee.

Four years and many accomplishments

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky D.M.D.

SPACES:

Q: Why is it important to close in spaces after teeth are extracted?

A: For several reasons: With several spaces in the mouth one can not chew properly, which may lead to poor digestion and stomach problems? Also the adjoining teeth may shift, creating new spaces in other areas of the mouth, as well as malocclusion (improper bite), periodontal disease, and a host of other problems.

Q: I went for a dental examination, and they wanted to take "study models" of my mouth. Why?

A: Study models are usually plaster casts made from impressions taken of your upper and lower teeth. Putting them together, the dentist can detect any problems that need correcting.

Youth Group

Aids Handicapped Girls

A youth group from Quincy's Our Lady of Good Counsel Church has aided in the building of a new playground for the residents of Braintree's Rainbow House, a community residence for handicapped girls.

Rainbow House is sponsored by Braintree St. Coletta Day School and located at 146 Mutton Lane, Weymouth. The fund raising project for building the playground began in February, 1981 when some 30 members of the Youth Spiritual Development Group of the Quincy parish decided they wanted to help out.

The group had a cookie sale which raised $300 for the Rainbow House playground. That "would have cost at least $5,000" to build stated Patrice Kenney, director of Rainbow House.

After David Kreuz, one of the group's adult supervisors, of 25 Samoset Ave., decided that the money could be used to obtain materials for the playground, the group brought all the necessary materials and built the outdoor recreation area. The finished playground includes a balance beam, tire swing, slide, a sand-box, and a crawl-through consisting of tires.

The group advisors include Rev. Peter Martocchio, Our Lady of Good Counsel pastor, Larry Shea, Louis Mazzini and David Kreuz.

St. Chrysostom's Parish Planning Auction

St. Chrysostom's Parish, One Linden St., Wollaston, has formed a committee to plan a service auction at the church Oct. 3.

Purpose of the auction is to generate additional funds for the parish.

Services to be offered to the highest bidder can include: preparing a dinner for four, providing an evening of babysitting, giving a one hour tennis lesson for a beginner, painting a room, washing windows, sewing, baking a loaf of bread once a month for six months.

Parishioners are asked to consider services they could offer at the auction.

Licensed auctioneer Paul

Meader has donated his services to St. Chrysostom's for the event.

Auction festivities will include a pot luck supper.

Association
for Handicapped
Children?

It is a charitable corporation organized in 1973 under Chapter 180 of the Massachusetts General Laws. It was started by a group of people who are interested in the too often overlooked problems of educating children who are physically handicapped. The organization serves as a source of funds for special projects and needs at schools and hospitals that educate, train and rehabilitate handicapped children. It is devoted to the principle that every child, whatever the physical handicap, should be given the opportunity to grow and develop so that the child may reach his or her full potential.

It is an organization whose members include people from all walks of life, both professional and non-professional. The members share the common awareness that in the press of daily living each of us and society in general tends to forget about the young children who need a little extra help to surmount a physical handicap.

This charity has no paid employees, has never hired professional fundraisers. The officers of the Association are: Paul Clasby, President and Treasurer; Richard Ward, Clerk; Edward Graham, Director; Joseph Clasby, Director; George Mathieson, Director.

GOD FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

O'Brien Would Make School Area Changes

James O'Brien of 19 River St., Quincy Point, a candidate for Quincy School Committee, told those attending a recent coffee hour in Houghs Neck he was anxious to start making changes in school related areas.

The areas include teacher evaluations, user fees, discipline and responsibilities.

O'Brien acknowledged that the tasks of effecting changes in these areas might appear intimidatingly difficult to some.

Making the changes, according to O'Brien, would require a much greater flow of all of kinds of information to not only parents but all taxpayers who support the system.

O'Brien believes that Proposition 2½ has sensitized people to the governmental processes affecting their lives. Today, according to O'Brien, an informed citizenry can exert the pressures needed to institute changes.

The coffee hour was given by George and Mary McCarron. Among those in attendance were City Councillor and mayoral candidate Francis McCauley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kamp, Mrs. Barbara Lynch, Mrs. Margaret O'Connor and Mrs. Rosemary Gaura.

Cortese Censures Ward 2 Playgrounds

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, says he has inspected playgrounds in the ward and has found hazards to children, improper maintenance and noisy gatherings of youth.

Cortese spoke to a gathering of campaign committee members at his headquarters.

"After listening to neighboring individuals whose children use these playgrounds throughout the summer months," he said, "I have found there exists parental concern regarding their children's safety regarding proper maintenance of these areas."

"In listening to the complaints of abusers, who in many cases are homeowners adjacent to these playgrounds, there is great concern with the considerable noise effect of youthful gatherings beyond the normal playground hours."

Cortese said one neighbor told him "if anyone wants to play tennis here they must bring along not only their tennis rackets and tennis balls but also a net for the court as well as a broom to sweep away the broken glass and bottles."

"It is my understanding that certain playgrounds in Ward 2 have been earmarked to receive federal money to rehab certain of these areas which is expected to take place sometime in the late summer."

"There is a definite need for consistency in keeping all of the playground areas in Ward 2 and their facilities up to the same high level of maintenance."

"I plan to discuss with those currently involved with the matters the possibility of clearing future federal rehab money for those areas not yet acted on."

GEORGE'S DEATH MUST BE DIFFICULT FOR THE CHILDREN.

THEY'VE ALREADY BEEN ASKING A LOT OF QUESTIONS

As in all other aspects of life, honesty is the best policy! Children can quickly see through adult uneasiness or deceit. Telling a child that the person died and giving a specific reason for the death is most honest and helpful. If children raise further questions, these too should be answered honestly. Death is not a common occurrence in the lives of most families. It is helpful to reassure children that they will be cared for in spite of the fact that things will be different without the deceased. It is helpful to include children in all ceremonies and as much as possible in decisions that will affect them but only if they wish to participate. A child's loss is real and will not go away by being ignored.

Morrisette's Title Chances Hit Snag

The hopes of the Morrisette Legion baseball team of winning the Zone 6 Division B title hit a serious snag over the weekend when it dropped successive 4-2 decisions to Randolph and Holbrook to lower its record to 10-8.

However, thanks to Norwell's 4-2 win over Weymouth, Morrisette remains hot on Weymouth's heels. Weymouth is 12-7.

Morrisette will host Milton Friday night at 8 at Adams Field and Sunday at 1 at Norwell will finish a protested game with Norwell. The game will resume in the sixth inning with the score tied, 3-3.

Previous to the losses to Randolph and Holbrook, Morrisette had defeated Wollaston, 4-1, as Mark Millane pitched a no-hitter. The Wollaston run was unearned.

The no-hitter came as a surprise to Millane and Coach Ray Cattaneo. Cattaneo didn't notice until the last inning that the scorebook showed no hits.

Millane struck out five and walked four. He struck out Mike Venna to end the game with a flourish.

Morrisette scored twice in the first inning on a single by Marty McLoughlin, a triple by Brian Reale and a single by Millane.

Morrisette added a run in the third when Reale walked, moved to second on an error and scored on Jim Bandera's single. It scored its final run in the fifth when Reale scored his third run on an error.

Wollaston scored in the fifth when Andy Eames walked, stole second and scored on a fielder's choice and ensuing error.

Randolph's Mike Karas defeated Morrisette for the second time last Friday night (he had blanked them, 2-0, earlier), with Dave Morris hitting a long three-run homer in the first inning off Gary DiNardo which proved enough to win.

Morrisette had opened the scoring in the top of the first on Reale's single and Millane's double and scored its second and final run in the second on Kevin Howlett's triple and DiNardo's single.

Morrisette hit the ball hard on several occasions but right at the fielders. DiNardo blanked Randolph until the sixth when it added its fourth run.

Sunday night Holbrook's Dan Meehan saved the win for Joe Gainey with some outstanding relief work. Morrisette out hit Holbrook, 9-4, and had Gainey in trouble many times but he and Meehan managed to work out of tight jams.

Paul Earle was the starter for Morrisette and went four innings, giving up three runs on two hits, but he walked six. Bruce Tobin and Kevin Whelan finished up.

Morrisette scored a run in the fourth on a triple by John Balzano and a double by Bandera. It scored again in the seventh on a double by Jim O'Toole and a single by Reale.

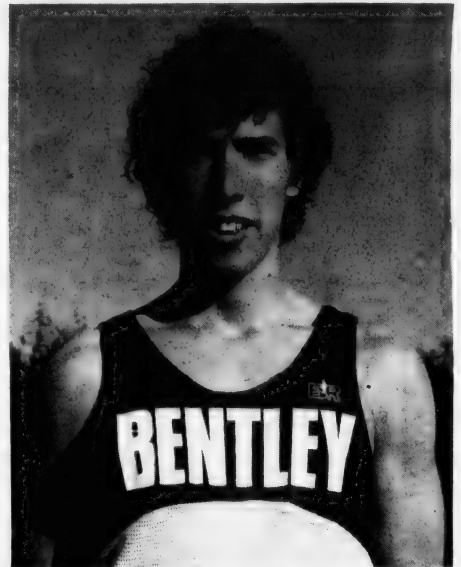

Wollaston was blanked by Baintree, 2-0, despite a well-pitched six-hitter by Steve Healy. Baintree's Jack Holzman held Wollaston to four hits, two by Venna.

Wollaston will play at Norwell Friday at 6 o'clock.

Quincy was handed an 11-1 thrashing by Weymouth as Glenn Fitzgerald, the winning pitcher, improved his record to 4-0. Chris Dracchio drove in Quincy's only run with a single.

Quincy will play at Hingham Friday at 6.

—TOM SULLIVAN

DAN ROWLEY of Quincy was awarded a pair of varsity letters for his participation on Bentley College's cross country and track teams. He also won the Coach's Award in track. Rowley, a freshman and former Abp. Williams three-sport athlete, set several school records during the past year for the Falcons. During the indoor season he set new standards in both the 800 meter run (1:53.0) and the 880-yard run (1:56.0). He also participated on a record-breaking 1600-meter relay team during the spring season.

Over 200 Compete In City Junior Olympics

The annual Quincy Recreation Junior Olympics were held last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium with more than 200 competitors and spectators.

Children from playgrounds throughout the city participated in 28 events with District 5 winning by a close margin over runnerup District 2 and third place District 1. Districts 3 and 4 were close behind.

The winners and city champions:

Midget girl 25-yard dash, Kathy Cahill; midget boy 25-yard three legged race, Terri Hack and Tom Collins; junior boy 25-yard three legged race, Anthony Battistoro and Brian Glavin; midget girl 25-yard three legged race, Lauren McNamara and Katie Hardy; junior girl 25-yard three legged race, Tracy Thornhill and Julie Cosse; midget boy 50-yard dash, Jim DeCarli; junior girl 50, Caroline Morash; junior boy 50, Mansoor Rashid; senior girl 220, Karen Eames; senior boy 100, Paul Canavan; junior girl 220, Tracy Cullen; junior boy 220, Jimmy McAdams; senior girl 220, Sandra Dunn; senior boy 220, Charlie Murphy; senior girl 440, Maryanne Kelleher; senior boy 440, Fazel Rashid.

South Shore Upsets Hancock, 8-6

South Shore Bank handed Hancock Bank its first defeat, 8-6, last week but Hancock still holds a two-game lead over State Street Bank in the South Shore Bankers Softball League.

Hancock has a 10-1 record, followed by State Street Bank, 8-3;

South Weymouth Savings, 7-5; Bay Bank/Norfolk, 5-5; South Shore Bank, 4-7; Quincy Savings, 3-7, and Quincy Co-operative Bank, 1-10.

In last week's other games Bay Bank topped South Weymouth, 10-8, and State Street Bank walloped Quincy Co-op, 15-1.

Legion All-Star's Plan

MDA Benefit Game

Morrisette Legion coach Ray Cattaneo plans to hold an all-star game between the Zone 6 Division A and B stars for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Tentative plans are for the game to be played Monday night, Aug. 3, at 7:30 at Adams Field.

ADVICE FOR SKIPPERS

That too few skippers (whether it be of a canoe or a yacht) know little more than how to wear their yachtman's cap is attested to by the grim statistics collected annually by the U.S. Coast Guard. You can almost depend on the 1100 persons dying annually in boating accidents.

The number one error is overloading the boat. Take the case of four fishermen who piled into a 14-foot boat and put out into a northern lake. So crippling was the small boat's load that only five inches of the craft's sides rose above the water. A slight wind blew up, and the resultant waves quickly swamped and sank the boat. Two, unable to swim, drowned.

Overloading happens with cabin cruisers as well as row boats. The Coast Guard offers this simple advice: "If the boat looks or feels overloaded, it probably is, so don't take it out."

Morrisette Bombs Firemen

Morrisette exploded for eight runs in the bottom of the sixth and final inning to top Firemen, 16-8, in a Babe Ruth League game, with Jack Outerbridge the winning pitcher.

He went all the way, giving up seven hits, giving no walks and striking out three. Firemen scored seven unearned runs, one in the fifth and six in the top of the sixth as Morrisette's defense fell apart.

Morrisette opened with five runs in the first inning as Tom Connolly singled, stole second and scored on Vin Cristiani's double, Outerbridge tripled, Joe Grimaldi walked, Brian Scalata hit a two-run triple, and John Cristiani drove in another run with a single.

In the third Morrisette made it 7-0 on Scalata's two-run double. Firemen scored a run in the fourth but Morrisette got it back in the bottom half on Vin Cristiani's double. Firemen scored an unearned run in the fifth and then tied it at 8-8 with six in the sixth when Morrisette committed four errors. In the bottom half Morrisette exploded for eight runs.

For Morrisette Vin Cristiani had two doubles and a single and four RBI; Scalata a double and triple and four RBI; Outerbridge and Grimaldi two hits apiece and Connolly, John Cristiani, Matt Elofson and Richie Kelley one each. Grimaldi and Scalata played strong defense. Playing well for Firemen were Brian Gibbons with two hits and Mike Miller, who had a key hit in the big sixth inning.

Morrisette also bombed Barry's Deli, 15-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Vin Cristiani, who lost a no-hitter in the final inning on Paul Marshall's single. He also lost a shutout in that inning. He struck out 11 and walked three.

Morrisette started fast with six runs in the first when John Cristiani led off with a single, stole second and scored on Connolly's single, Vin Cristiani and Outerbridge walked and both scored on Scalata's single. Scalata scored on Jerry Frazier's triple. Morrisette added two runs in the fourth on Outerbridge's hit and one in the fifth.

It then exploded for six more in the sixth on a triple by Outerbridge, who had three hits, a pinch hit double by Ed Flynn, a triple by Kelley and singles by Doyle and Connolly. In Barry's seventh P. J. Hussey reached on an error, stole second, reached third on a passed ball and scored on Marshall's hit, spoiling Cristiani's no-hitter and shutout.

Outerbridge and Frazier had three hits each for Morrisette and Connolly and Scalata had two apiece. Morrisette also played a strong defensive game.

Gear Edges Rotary For N.L. Crown

Foley Chrysler-Plymouth closed out the regular season by defeating Colonial Federal, 11-7, to improve its American League record to 19-3, best in either league, to give it the top-seeded spot in the Junior Baseball League playoffs.

Boston Gear and Rotary finished with 18-4 records in the National League but Gear won the title in a playoff.

Chris Marshall was the winning pitcher for Foley in the final regular season game, improving his record to 8-1. He struck out nine, running his season's total to 112, walked three and he also scored a run. Jay DeBartolo had a double and single and scored two runs. Dan Biagini had two singles and scored twice, Chris Meyer played another outstanding game at first base and had a double and single and scored twice, Jim Dennis had a double and Tom Tegen and Sean Gately singles. After getting a 9-1 lead after two innings, Foley's usual strong defense collapsed and gave up five unearned runs in the third inning.

Gear, which bounced back from last year's 6-16 record, edged Rotary, 5-4, in seven innings in the playoff game to decide the National League crown. Rotary had stayed right on Gear's heels all season, never trailing by more than two games.

Mike Dever was the winning pitcher, finishing with a brilliant 10-0 record, relieving starter Larry Taglieri, who had pitched well, allowing six hits and striking out seven. Gear's offense was led by tri-captain Taglieri with three singles, one with the bases loaded, driving in the winning run. Matt Furtado had a double as did Shawn Craig and Nancy Flukes had a single. Tad Sheets made some outstanding defensive plays at second base. Paul Adams, Mike Cronin, Chris Higgins, Mike Paccetti, Chad Hallett, Mike Leonard, Ricky Dunham and Mossie Houlihan all played well for Gear.

For Rotary Billy Burkhead pitched well and also had two doubles, John Pennellatore had a homer and double and Robby Fitzgerald, Joe Thompson and Bob McDonald all had singles. Steve Minichiello played well behind the plate.

Gear, in the double elimination playoffs for the first time in years, was scheduled to meet Kiwanis last night (Wednesday) in its opener.

Foley's opened the first round of the playoffs Sunday with a 7-6 victory over Burgin Plater with Marshall the winning pitcher. He gave up seven hits, struck out five and walked four. It was anybody's game until the last out, Marshall striking out the final batter with the bases loaded.

DeBartolo had a triple and two singles and scored a run, Meyer and Bob Laracy had RBI doubles, Biagini a two-run double and Dennis and Kevin Duffy singles. Mike Routier, playing third base in the sixth inning, made a game-saving grab of a line drive off the bat of Tom McDonald, who had two hits. Biagini made one of the best plays of the season, going deep behind third base to back hand a ground ball and throw the runner out, with Meyer making a fine pickup at first.

Austin Powers Jr. Loop A.L. All-Stars, 17-4

Steve Austin of Sears, who was named the American League's Most Valuable Player, had a fantastic night with two three-run homers, a single, a walk and four runs scored to lead the American League to an easy 17-4 victory over the Nationals in the annual Junior Baseball League all-star game.

Bob Laracy, the American's starting pitcher, was the winner and also drove in a run with a long double that just missed going out of the park. Jamie McArdle, the fastest man in the league, had two hits and scored twice. Kyle Robertson caught a fine game, walked three times and scored three runs, Chris Marshall had a double and walked twice and scored twice, in addition to pitching two strong innings, Jay DeBartolo had a double after being hit in the face by a pitch in the first inning. Tommy Logan had a two-run double and also nipped two strong innings and Tom Reilly drove in a run with a single. Dennis DeCoste made the play of the game to end the game with a back to the plate running catch of a foul ball and he doubled the runner off second base.

Chad Hallet was named the National League's MVP and he had a long two-run homer and a double. Bobby Fitzgerald had a double and scored on Hallet's homer, then reached on an error.

and scored on Hallet's double. Jack Kilrain had two singles and Steve Minichiello, Tad Sheets, Rick Nabstedt, Brett Heeney and Joe Innello had singles. Billy Burkhead had a long triple and scored a run. Amal Abouzaid, Larry Taglieri, Dan Santry, Mark Bilton and Shawn Mullen all played well.

The National League pitchers gave up 13 walks, struck out 10 and gave up 11 hits over the nine-inning route, while the American hurlers struck out nine and walked five.

Tom Mullaney did a fine job as game address announcer. The game was played at the end of the season and before the playoffs to allow the players on teams that did not make the playoffs participate. All three players had to play at least three innings and the pitchers could work no more than two innings each.

In Finland, Sweden Quincy Man Plays In World Class Competition

Brian Donovan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donovan Jr. of 8 Ruggles St., Quincy Point, a freshman at St. Joseph's College in Maine, has returned from a two-week trip to Finland and Sweden with the St. Joseph's varsity basketball team, which played six games with teams representing the Sports Federation of Finland and Sweden.

The trip was sanctioned by the NCAA and NAIA and gave Donovan, a 1980 graduate of Quincy High, and his teammates the opportunity to play in world class competition. Several of the teams played against are trying out for the Olympics.

Donovan was a three-year varsity starter at Quincy and received a full basketball scholarship to St. Joseph's, which this past season enjoyed its most successful season (19-9).

He was an all-scholastic, a two-time Suburban League all-star and a state coaches' all-star.

He began his career at 8 years of age with St. Joseph's YMCA League team coached by Ray Dunn and Dick Travers. He has been a member of every all-star team for his league since that time.

Brian underwent serious surgery on his right ankle last September and a complete rebuilding of the ankle was accomplished by sports medicine specialists. He came back strong to become a member of the varsity team after being immobile for several weeks and then on crutches.

Brian feels his most memorable accomplishment in high school was scoring 30 points against Cambridge Rindge and Latin while he also covered Cambridge's 7-foot center, Pat Ewing.

Hot Shot Competition

The Quincy Recreation Department will again co-sponsor the Pepsi-Cola National Basketball Association Hot Shot Program.

Located on the city's playgrounds, the event will be held in cooperation with the Boston Celtics and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Milton.

The object of Hot Shots is to score as many points as possible within a one minute time limit as the player shoots from different Hot Spots designated on the court.

Speed, shooting, dribbling and rebounding ability of the youngsters are tested in the competition, which is open to children between the ages of 9-18.

Playground competitions are currently being held, with the winners moving up to district and city finals. Prizes and awards for youngsters taking part will include colorful Hot Shot patches, trips to the N.B.A. cities as well as certificates of achievement.

Quincy Babe Ruth All Stars Eliminated

Quincy's American League All-Stars, coached by Dave MacMillan, Ray Dunn and Andy Oriola, won games in a row after an opening day defeat to reach the district finals in the state Babe Ruth League tournament, but bowed to Braintree, 4-2, last Friday in the finals.

Braintree now advances to the state finals beginning Friday in Foxboro.

Following a 6-5 loss to Weymouth North, Quincy's American League stars started their five-game win streak with a 4-1 decision over South Boston. Chris Bunker pitched a three-hitter, struck out seven and walked six. The game was tied, 1-1, going into the final inning when Quincy scored three runs. The first two batters reached on an error and a walk. Bill Cahill bunted then along and Mike Miller hit a two-run double. Bunker singled in Miller. Quincy was held to four hits, the only other hits being a double by Frank Reynolds and a single by Joe Conti. Bunker picked three runners off first base.

Quincy then overwhelmed Hingham, 12-0, behind Mike Bourikas' three-hitter and a 13-hit attack. Bourikas struck out nine and walked three, striking out the last seven batters.

Quincy broke fast with six runs in the opening inning on six hits and three walks. The hits were by Miller, Jeff Timberlake, Bunker, Brian Gibbons, Keith Smith and Bourikas. Steve Hogan, Dan Cuervels and Miller walked. In the third Timberlake had a two-run double as did Hogan. Mike Gill caught a strong game to help Bourikas to his shutout.

Next came a 9-3 victory over Weymouth South as Bunker pitched a four-hitter. The game was close until the seventh when Quincy erupted for five runs. Quincy opened with two runs in the first on singles by Miller and Bunker and two errors. Weymouth scored a run in the third and took a 3-2 lead with two runs in the fourth. Quincy regained the lead with two runs in the fifth on an error, Cuervels' single, a fielder's choice and singles by Timberlake and Gibbons. In the big seventh Miller walked, Bunker and Gibbons singled, Smith walked and Reynolds wrapped it up with a three-run homer.

Quincy completely outclassed Scituate, 26-0, pounding out 23 hits and scoring 10 runs in the first inning and nine in the seventh. Bourikas pitched a two-hitter and struck out 11.

Miller had four singles and a walk, Mike Malloy two singles, a walk and two stolen bases. Timberlake two singles, a grand slam homer and six RBI; Bunker two singles, a double, a triple and two RBI; Gibbons five for five, including two triples and six RBI;

Reynolds a single, double, walk and two RBI; Cuervels a three-run homer, Jim McPartlin a perfect squeeze bunt for a run in the first; Smith two for two times an RBI; and Conti, on base six times with three singles and three walks.

Quincy then squeezed by Cedar Grove, 2-1, with Bunker edging John Munro in an extra-inning duel. Quincy pushed across the winning run in the eighth inning to advance to the district finals. Both pitchers allowed six hits as Bunker recorded his third tournament win.

Cedar Grove took a 1-0 lead in the third on a walk, error and single, but Quincy tied it in the fourth on an error, a single by Gibbons and Smith's RBI single. Cedar Grove threatened to win it in the seventh. With two outs, a single and walk was followed by what looked like the game-winning hit but Quincy left fielder Malloy charged the ball and made a strong throw to the plate which held the runner at third.

The next batter struck out and the game went into extra innings. Miller opened the eighth by reaching on an error and went all the way to third on Timberlake's bunt. The throw to third was wild and Miller scored the winning run.

In the district finals Friday Braintree's Richie Stearns scattered six hits, Dan Mahoney drove in two runs with a double and Steve Kirby was two-for-two and drove in a run. Braintree.

18 Track Club Members Qualify For National Meets

The Quincy Track Club enjoyed one of its best weeks ever last week as 18 members qualified for national meets and several others may be notified soon that they have qualified. The QTC also won 19 gold medals in another meet.

2 Residents Graduate From Bates College

Two Quincy residents, Wayne B. Gardiner and Martin Levenson, were awarded degrees at the 115th Bates College commencement in Lewiston, Me.

Gardiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardiner of 38 Riverside Ave., received a bachelor of science degree. He majored in geology.

A 1977 graduate of Quincy High School, he was elected to the College Club, an honorary alumni service association.

Gardiner spent his third year studying at the University College of Swansea (Wales) through Bates' Junior Year Abroad Program.

Levenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Levenson of 47 Hilda St., received a bachelor of arts degree. He majored in political science.

A dean's list student, he was a member of the Dean's Advisory Council and WRJR, the student-run radio station.

Active in athletics, Levenson made all-Maine in the 3000-meter event in winter track, and all-New England in the 10,000-meter event in spring track.

Levenson, a 1977 graduate of North Quincy High School, spent his third year studying at the University of Lancaster (England) through Bates' Junior Year Abroad Program.

Correction

Paul Hussey finished first in the over-40 class in the recent Merrymount Association road race and not third as reported.

Hussey finished in third place overall in 15:08. The overall winner was Matt Corbett in 14:58.

Elks' Cerebral Palsy Outing Dedicated To George Fay

Some 400 cerebral palsied children and adults, along with members of their families, attended the 22nd annual outing sponsored by the Quincy Lodge of Elks at the South Shore Twin Drive-In, Braintree.

The outing was dedicated to the memory of the late George C. Fay, who had been chairman of the event since its inception, and whose dedication to CP children will long be remembered.

Memorial plaques of appreciation were presented by Joseph McArdle, past exalted ruler of the Quincy Elks, and William Trifone, president of the South Shore Cerebral Palsy Association.

Commemorative awards were received on behalf of the late Mr. Fay by his sisters, Mrs. Kay Connolly, Mrs. Agnes Corbin and Mrs. Margaret Cooper.

Binky the Bear appeared at the outing, a band provided dancing and entertainment, and hamburgers, hot dogs, pizza, ice cream, cake and tonic were enjoyed.

The three-tiered cake was donated to Cerebral Palsy by Montilio's Bakery.

Chairmen for the outing were Mike Sances of the Elks' CP committee; Fred Tomeo of the South Shore Twin Drive-In; and George White, advertising director of the Patriot Ledger.

WEEK OF: JULY 23

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Conflict with Capricorn can be resolved — but tact is crucial. Partnership ventures bring rewarding surprises if both parties are willing to put in a little overtime.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

You're slightly glibbie; be prepared for some practical jokers. Your best ideas may be met with cool reserve, while some random thoughts are greeted with applause.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Important people figure into week's picture. Education is accentuated, and you may be filling the roles of teacher and student. Calculated risk pays off by Tuesday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Short-cuts just don't pay, while a roundabout route gets you to your destination successfully — and includes extraordinary sights. Emotional fireworks spark — and almost immediately subside.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Unless you're willing to compromise, a domestic dispute can get out of hand. Good week for launching fitness program, learning a new sport or taking on part-time work.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Social gathering can bring you in touch with an important business contact. A more conservative approach proves helpful at work. Old debts should be collected quickly.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Taurus or Libra can brighten the friendship picture — but don't confuse friendship with romance. Older friends may need a boost of confidence which only you can provide.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

A transition week. Perhaps you're between jobs... or between friendships. In either case, use your time positively and don't hesitate to contact people in high places.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

A dip in self-confidence ends when you're called on to meet a key challenge. Thursday-Saturday favor business transactions, with the accent on trading and advertising.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Week has a sentimental appeal, highlighted by a note or call from a long-distance friend. Check all facts with diligence, especially if they relate to real estate or investments.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

A picture's worth a thousand words, so put your ideas across in a visual manner. Don't dismiss a co-worker's strange ideas. Weekend is wonderful for bargain-hunting Sagittarians.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Strikes and other delays can impede progress, but love life is on a steady course. Good week for organizing your ideas, arranging priorities and hosting cozy dinners.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Baker Beach [Karl J. Weaver]: On Wednesday, Baker Beach played Quarterdeck in baseball. Baker Beach put up an impressive fourth inning but eventually surrendered to Quarterdeck, 14-0. Baker Beach had one hit by Shawn Flavin, who also pitched a 5-hit game. Eddie Flavin played flawlessly at shortstop and he hit the ball with real authority. Shawn Mullen was the catcher and held most of the hitters from advancing further. Joey Thurston made impressive throws from right field to hold two runs at the bag. Dan Reagan played second and reached once on a base on balls. In summary, the Baker Beach kids had a good first game. They executed many plays and showed that they have good potential.

Baker Beach has been holding the familiar Junior Olympics. This competition has many boys and girls from Baker Beach competing for beach winner. This exciting event includes the 440 run and various dashes. It also includes the long jump topped off by the softball throw. The winners of the boys softball throws were: Midgets, Joey Thurston; juniors, Eddie Flavin; and seniors, Ken Maher. The winner for the midgets in the girls' softball throw was Lisa Connelly and for the juniors was Susan Stanton.

Chapel [Cheryl Carmody]: The recreation season started out great at Chapel Park with all of the neighborhood kids signing up. Whiffleball quickly became the favorite game at Chapel, and Jeff Craig and Dean Aiguier proved to be the best players. Everyone is practicing hard for the Special Event Whiffleball Tournament.

Arts and crafts and archery are other favorites at the Park. Lynn Rimovitz and Natalie Lutchman made beautiful God's Eyes with the specialist. At archery, Chad Hallett, Lisa Steen, and Ricky Smith all hit the target at least once.

Last week, Chapel Park lost a close game to LeBreque at Junior Girls' softball. Denise DeCoste and Cathy Brill played excellent defense for Chapel, while Michelle Smith and Stacy Bersanti supplied the offensive power. Nicole Lutchman, playing her first game ever was outstanding!

Karen Lutchman proved to be a great racquetball player at the Playoff Club in Braintree. Her athletic abilities also shone through at the District Three Junior Olympics where she came very close to winning her events. Tina Rimovitz, Chris Nichol and Billy Rimovitz also represented Chapel well in their events.

Heron Rd [Dan Boyle]: Heron Rd. may not have any baseball, basketball or softball teams, but it does have the best kickball and checker teams going. It is the relay-race capital of the world!! Some of the top news was the great God's Eyes that were made by all of the kids. Mary Kelly, Karen Flaherty, Deanna Nigro, Shannon and Kerry Evans, Brian, Billy and Beth Bellew, Danny McGinn and Mike and John Johnston are some of the top participants in all of the activities.

Another fun thing was all of the whiffleball games. The trip to the Racquetball Club in Braintree was the week's top story. All of the kids enjoyed it. Billy and Brian Bellew, Mike and John Johnston, Paul Hutchinson, Dan McGinn, Deanna Nigro, Suzanne and Maureen Shea all displayed great talent on the court, and also excellent behavior on the trip. The hot dogs and coke were very enjoyable and the whole day was a total success.

LaBreque [Kathy Carmody and Fran Donovan]: LaBreque began its summer program with a boom, with over 140 kids signing up. In the second day of recreation, the junior girls' softball team had a scrimmage with Chapel and beat them, 9-2. Chris Lourd and Nora Joyce each went three for three. In the Junior boys baseball game against Perkins, Kyle Robertson struck out ten batters and was the winning pitcher. Steve Austin and Tom Logan hit the ball well getting two hits apiece. The Junior Girls' softball team played and beat Chapel again. Kristen Hardy played and had a home run and all around had an excellent game! Joey Devlin led his midget baseball team to a victory against Perkins as he struck out 13 batters. The final score was 16-2.

What do you do when the heat becomes unbearable? LaBreque found a quick solution - WATER FIGHTS!!! Peggy McMillen began the war and Skeeta Callahan was quick to join in. Hank Miller was drenched from head to toe as he was held down and soaked. It seems as if everyone was wet except leader Fran Donovan. Watch Out!!!

Perkins [Stacey Lynch and Dan Molloy]: Opening day at Perkins Field was a big success! Over 75 kids signed up. Since then, many things have been happening at Perkins. Jeff Pugliese still holds the title as the checkers champ, but Marty Tolson is trying awfully hard to steal it away from Jeff!

In archery, Mary McManus hit the bull's-eye on her first try!!!

The winners for Junior Olympics from Perkins were Midgets, Teresa Noenickx, Michelle Thackery, Laura Iorio, Matt Collins, Paula Tolson, Terry Hack, Kerry Tolson and John Grennon; juniors, Maureen Tolson, Chris Holland, David Maimaron; seniors, Ann Marie

(Cont'd from Page 1)

and we'll find people driving to North Quincy and Wollaston to pay the lesser fare.

"That will cause a lot of problems in Quincy."

The proposal also will raise local bus fares from 25 cents to 50 cents for the first six miles and by 25 cents for each three miles thereafter. The maximum bus fare would be $1.75.

Grace Coleman of Hull, a member of the MBTA's advisory board, noted that a commuter from Hull would pay 50 cents for a bus to Hingham, $1 for a second bus to Quincy, and $1.50 on the Red Line to Boston.

"Don't you think," she asked,
"that $6 is a lot to pay to go to and from work?"

O'Leary allowed that it was, adding the MBTA is going to create a special $4.75 round trip rate for Hull.

Sen. Paul D. Harold noted that the MBTA increased fares from 25 cents to 50 cents only a year ago.

"We made certain suggestions at the fare hearings a year ago," he said. "I'm sorry to see that they were not taken into consideration. I want to record myself in opposition to this increase."

Robert Gibbons, speaking for Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, made a pitch to have the fare at the new Quincy Adams station $2.25 and Quincy Center $1.50 for a round trip.

"Quincy is burdened by an unfair transit policy," he said.

Jim Devlin of Quincy, who described himself as a partime rider for a transit magazine, excoriated the "stupid, inefficient union work rules" and "idiot repairmen making $50,000 a year with overtime."

O'Leary told him that the MBTA is making "a strong effort to upgrade its maintenance program" and is receiving a high degree of cooperation from the unions.

Alice Borden of Quincy taunted the MBTA general manager with the fact that the T "is paying people who sweep stations $40,000 a year."

"I have to live with collective bargaining agreements that were made in past years," he said.
"We are making every effort to hold things down."

City Councillor Joanne Condon noted that city officials have worked very hard to revitalize downtown Quincy and that the coming of the MBTA has helped.

"But," she added, "I am concerned that the different rates for Quincy Center will discourage people from coming to the Square."

The fare hike hearings, trailed by cameras from all three TV stations in Boston, moved on to Belmont Tuesday night, Malden on Wednesday, and the grand finale tonight (Thursday) at Faneuil Hall, Boston.

Solar Bus Here

The Solar Bus will arrive at City Hall July 27 at 10 a.m. to help educate the public on the benefits of solar energy.

Powered by 100 percent alcohol fuel made from grain and waste paper, the bus contains working solar energy devices for public viewing. An active solar domestic hot water system, a solar electricity panel, simple passive solar devices and several pamphlets are aboard the bus.

"We hope Quincy residents come to view the bus and the solar display," said State Energy Secretary Joseph S. Fitzpatrick.
"The purpose of the tour is to show the public that solar energy is available simply and cheaply."

The bus will be at City Hall for one hour.

After Proponents, Opponents Have Their Say

Connector's Fate In State's Hands

By TOM HENSHAW

The fate of the controversial East-West Connector is in the hands of the state.

Upwards of 150 people who packed the City Council Chamber at City Hall last Thursday for a State DPW hearing appeared to be split just about equally for and against the federal and state funded project.

Proponents of the half-mile cross town roadway asserted that it was needed to offer easy access to the downtown business district from the proposed Burgin Parkway Extension.

"If Quincy Center is to survive, we must build that road," Planning Director James Lydon told the hearing.

"We have witnessed 20 years in which Quincy Center has declined as a major shopping center of the South Shore. We no longer have a major department store, mostly because we offer no easy access from outside.

"Our concern must not be for the 10 businesses that must be relocated for the road. Our commitment must be for the betterment of the entire community. We must sacrifice for a better future."

Most of those who opposed the connector said they were heartily in favor of the Burgin Parkway Extension, which would connect with the Southeast Expressway and open up Quincy Center from the south.

But they drew the line at the East-West Connector as not needed and/or too disruptive of existing businesses on Hancock St. and/or premature since it does not include any new development.

PART OF CROWD of some 150 people who overflowed the City Council Chamber at City Hall for the state hearing on the East-West Connector last Thursday.

Bernard Reisberg, proprietor of Bernie's Modern Formal, 1586 Hancock St., and president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, registered his personal and the QCBPA's opposition to the road.

"It is common sense," he said, "that if construction of the connector starts in 1983 and is completed in 1985, Quincy Square has got to go down the drain."

"Two of the largest stores in Quincy have committed to me that if the connector is announced they will close their doors and move out, even though Quincy is their best stores.

"It is said that the project will cost more than $14 million. That is a mere token compared to the destruction of a prestigious downtown shopping center."

"The recent successful Sidewalk Bazaar showed that Quincy Center can make it. We are fighting for a proud business community and our livelihoods."

"I want a great deal of the controversy that we have is because the merchants have lost confidence in the East-West Connector. They feel they have been misled and misinformed."

"We were told from the beginning that Burgin Parkway Extension and the connector was one project. We're told tonight the extension can be built without the connector with some changes in the plan."

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, an advocate of the connector, conceded that the QCBPA voted against the connector, but he added, "They didn't tell you it was less than five people on either side."

"That's almost 50 per cent," he said. "That would tell me a good 50 per cent of the businessmen in downtown Quincy do not oppose it."

"But the East-West Connector should not be constructed because Mayor Tobin wants it. Nor should it not be built just because a group of downtown merchants don't want it."

"It should be constructed or not constructed because it is good for the city of Quincy."

Tobin pointed out that hearing officer Paul McHugh, a DPW engineer, said the Burgin Parkway Extension could indeed be built without the connector but only after major modifications and considerable delay.

"That is the crux of the whole thing," he said. "We are now in 1981. We could face a delay in building the extension until 1984 or 1985."

"If the East-West Connector goes down, we don't have to worry about the next mayor addressing the problem. By the time it gets to the drawing board you will be talking about several mayors."

Two of those who would like to be the next mayor of Quincy announced stands on the East-West Connector for the first time.

Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymondini were opposed to it, as of now, the former more strongly than the latter.

"I have spent some time talking to the public at large about this project," said McCauley, "and I find little or no public acceptance for this program."

"What we are being asked to do is bring a road across the downtown area. It will inconvenience many and displace 10 or 12 businesses. It will cost a lot of money. Is it all worth it?"

They're For It And, They're Against It

JOHN R. HERBERT, president, Quincy Cooperative Bank: "I am terribly afraid that if we do as some people have suggested, build the Burgin Parkway Extension and leave out the cross town connector, that that will be the end of Downtown Quincy as a shopping area. Relatively inexpensive land along Penn St. will become the new shopping center. The connector is the last best hope for Quincy Square."

JAMES R. MCINTYRE, former mayor: "Quincy is at a cross roads now. Are we going to move ahead with the road that is our lifeline to the south? Are we going to move forward with the East-West Connector? I think we should for the future life of Downtown Quincy."

THOMAS S. BURGIN, former mayor: "I love Quincy. I want to see it go forward. I've seen it go forward. I've seen it also down. And I don't want to see it go backward. It's most important to have the connector to bring traffic into the area."

MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY, State representative: He noted the progress that has been made in the North Quincy business area, adding "the reason we've had success is access. The downtown area is starting to bud. The trees are starting to bear some fruit."

WILLIAM AUSTIN, president, South Shore Bank: "Mistakes have been made in the past and Quincy has paid the price. We've seen other areas grow at our expense. We believe this may be one of the last times this option will occur in Quincy. Funding in the future is more doubtful than it is now."

"The South Shore Bank is willing to work closely and at a preferential rate (of interest) with any affected merchant if this program does move forward."

FRANCIS X. FINN, chief of police: "The city of Quincy is lacking in access across the city. The subway goes through the city. The Southeast Expressway goes through the city. But it is

JOSEPH E. BRETT, former state representative and city councillor: "I am heartily in favor of the Burgin Parkway Extension but I see no reason for the connector. You can get to Hancock St. by School, Granite and Dimmock Sts. It's a terrible waste of the taxpayers' money. There is no problem getting from one side of the city to the other."

ROBERT A. CERASOLI, State representative: "It may help the downtown in the future but we have to be concerned with the people who are in the downtown now and how it will affect them. The Burgin Parkway Extension is definitely needed. But is this necessary to the extension? I haven't seen the question answered."

JACK LONDON, Quincy Furniture: "There are too many unanswered questions for me to approve this. It's utterly inconceivable that this hasn't been planned out a little more carefully. I ask, 'Why, why do they want it?' And they can't answer it."

ARTHUR M. CHANDLER, president, Quincy Citizens Association: "The Square and the city are changing drastically physically. It is no longer the city we knew and want. We're fast becoming a mini-Boston and the bottom line is that we can't afford it. We're one of the highest taxed communities in the state. Big building projects have not helped us; they've probably done more to harm us."

"It is beating a dead horse to think that we can compete with the South Shore Plaza. What we really need is money spent on remodeling the existing buildings. Many don't think the Square is dead. We don't see that many buildings closed. The biggest problem is the economy itself, not the Square."

"Perhaps the whole question belongs on the ballot this summer and let the chips fall where they may."

SUMNER COHEN, Kincaide's, 1609 Hancock St.: "Surgery of the main artery in a business area is a very serious thing. It can easily lead to the death of the area. The road would affect 60 to 80 businesses, not just 10. The effects would range from 100 per cent destruction to a drop of 40 per cent in volume of business. A 40 per cent drop must be considered fatal."

JACK ALLEGRI, Paperama, 169 Parkingway: "Our store attracts close to 500,000 customers a year. It is our most successful store. We really don't need an East-West Connector to get people downtown. The bridge (over the MBTA tracks) would be a de facto sense close the store."

CHARLES RYDER, Ryder's, 1487 Hancock St.: "I'm not against progress. I fully support the Burgin Parkway Extension. I do not support the connector. The destruction of business in downtown Quincy for two years during construction is too high a price to pay."

DR. CARL GOODMAN, dentist, 37 Revere Rd.: "No

McCauley Seeks To Ban 'Lame Duck' Appointments

City Councillor Francis J. McCauley says he plans to introduce an ordinance that would prohibit political appointees from taking permanent city positions until two years after their appointments expire.

McCauley, a candidate for mayor, said he was inspired to prepare the ordinance because of recent bid to establish the $25,000 a year post of Director of Materials Management at City Hospital.

A leading candidate for the position is City Purchasing Agent William J. Kelly.

The ordinance establishing the position failed to pass the City Council by a vote of five for and three against last week but City Solicitor Robert Fleming then ruled Council approval was not needed.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he and Hospital Director Michael Kitchen are awaiting a written opinion by Fleming before making the next move.

"Mr. Fleming's oral opinion is that the enterprise account for the hospital gives the Hospital Corp. of America the right to operate the hospital and reorganize from within," said Tobin.

"This is part of the reorganization by HCA.

"There were no candidates for the position sponsored by the mayor. If there ever was an argument for keeping politics out of the hospital this is it. They saw the political football and kicked it."

McCauley noted that Kelly would be the second purchasing agent appointed by Tobin to wind up in a $25,000 post at the hospital. Agrippino (Rocky) Roccuzzo was appointed two years ago.

McCauley promised to challenge any ruling that would deny the City Council the right to approve or reject new positions at the hospital.

"I find nothing in the recently passed home rule petition that gives the hospital administration the unrestricted right to create new positions," he said.

"This action flies in the face of an overwhelming vote of the citizens of Quincy for reduced government through their approval of Proposition 2 1/2."

McCauley said any person appointed to a position in his administration would take the position with "full knowledge that no permanent position will be created for them at a later date."

110 Building Permits In June

A total of 110 permits for building estimated to cost $1,508,100 were issued during the month of June, it was reported by Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

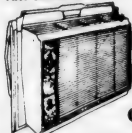

One permit was issued for construction of a single family home valued at $40,000.

There were 79 permits for residential alterations at $214,420; 15 for other alterations at $1,194,500; six removals at $5,500; nine signs at $3,080; and 25 miscellaneous jobs at $50,600.

Department receipts for June totalled $6,479 for permits and $300 in inspection fees.

Now, Candlelight Dinners At Home With Rent-A-Chef

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Have you ever wanted to surprise someone with a special candlelight dinner, but shied away from the idea because of all the time, effort and expertise involved?

Wouldn't it be nice if the dinner could magically appear without all the fuss?

Well, it's not magic, but Chef Bob Sanderson of 181 Belmont St., Quincy, can prepare such a meal for you in your own home.

Sanderson, a professional chef, who owns and operates the new catering service Rent-A-Chef, can come into your home and prepare a candlelight dinner while you relax and enjoy yourself.

The chef brings with him linen, dishes, pots and pans, champagne and food. He prepares the meal, serves you and cleans up afterwards.

Specializing in candlelight dinners for two or small groups of up to eight, Rent-A-Chef offers a selection of dinner entrees. Suggestions include baked stuffed lobster, center cut sirloin steak, boneless chicken breasts, baked stuffed shrimp, or any dinner you desire.

Candlelight dinners make great surprises for birthdays, anniversaries or other occasions with someone special, suggests Chef Bob.

Besides offering candlelight dinners, Rent-A-Chef also offers private cooking lessons for those who "can't boil water".

RENT A CHEF, a new catering service based in Quincy, has just started cooking. Michael and Gale Morin get set to enjoy their candlelight dinner prepared by Chef Robert Sanderson.

Hancock Court Project Gets A Green-Light

The State Division of Water Pollution Control has conceded that it made a mistake when it denied a permit for Hancock Court on School St. to make a sewage connection with the Town Brook Interceptor.

Hancock Court is an eight-story building with 80 units of elderly housing plus commercial space on the ground floor.

Last May, the Division of Water Pollution Control turned down the sewer connection permit on grounds that the Town Brook Interceptor could not handle the expected flow from the building.

"It was a mistake," said William Slagle of the DWPC. "It wasn't researched enough. Quincy did not pick up the fact that the sewage enters the system downstream of the interceptor."

In fact, he said, the flow from Hancock Court will enter the system at or about Revere Rd. and will not impact the inadequate South Quincy section of the line.

This week, the DWPC is publishing in The Quincy Sun its permission for OCB, Inc., the O'Connell Brothers, builders of Hancock Court, to go ahead with the sewer connection.

Conservation Commission Meets

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to hold a regular meeting last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room at 100 Southern Artery.

Items on the agenda were:

checks on the status of removal of illegal fill on: Rockland St.-Chatham St., adjacent to 10 Beebe Rd., and at Russell Park-Cedar Place; request from Sumac Road Abutters to restore a ramp at the end of Sumac Rd.; and a City Council order of June 30, involving George Howard accepting a donation of three lots of land on Manet Ave. for conservation.

98 Plumbing Permits In June

The Department of Plumbing and Gas Inspection issued 98 permits for plumbing estimated to cost $86,867 during the month of June.

A total of 155 inspections were made and $975 in permit fees was collected.

There were 55 gas fitting permits issued and work estimated to cost $37,397; and 111 inspections were made and $388 collected in fees.

Raymondi Stresses Controlling Spending

"Quincy's future depends upon controlling city spending and fiscal responsibility to the city's taxpayers," said mayor Daniel G. Raymondi.

"Making sure city funds are well spent," said Raymondi, "will guarantee that our city will continue to prosper and provide necessary city services. We must ensure that we get the most out of our tax dollars."

Speaking at a coffee party at the home of his supporters, John and Patricia Rodophele of 126 Harvard St., Raymondi cited his 10 years in public service of "scrutinizing budgets" and responsibly dealing with spending issues as evidence of his fiscal management skills.

"Long before Proposition 2½, I was concerned with city spending and its impact on the property tax of Quincy. I was the only city councillor who voted against a city budget five years ago which resulted in a $35 tax increase for Quincy," stated Raymondi.

"It was clear to me that the residents of Quincy could not afford the impact of such a property tax increase and that more could have been done to reduce city spending. I felt it was my fiscal responsibility and responsiveness to the residents of Quincy to vote, no."

Raymondi stressed the "desperate need" for a firm hand at Quincy's coffers and pledged to operate city government in an apolitical and professional manner. "The days of over-estimating receipts and manipulating figures are over," said Raymondi.

Commenting on the legislature's latest state budget which returns higher state aid to Quincy than was originally expected, Raymondi said, "Hopefully, the state aid formula will be changed to benefit cities like Quincy even more. If that change occurs, Quincy will be in a better financial condition. Proper management of city funds ensures our ability to provide essential city services while keeping spending costs down. My background in leadership positions at the city council has given me the experience to guide our city on a firm and sound financial course."

Quincy Quiz

Two winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Kristin A. Murphy, a knowledgeable visitor from Houston, Texas, wins a T-shirt and John Gilfeather, 55 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, wins a bumper sticker.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the coach of the Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team?
2. True or false: Moon Island is part of Quincy.
3. In what section of the city is Bass St.?
4. John J. Quinn has served on the City Council for 22 years. Who was mayor when Quinn first became a member of the Council?
5. What well-known Quincy landmark is located at 1517 Hancock St.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The newest member of the Quincy Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners is Frank Terranova.
2. True. Quincy was the ninth largest city in Massachusetts, according to the 1980 U.S. census.
3. Crabtree Rd. is in the Squantum section of Quincy.
4. Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymondi are members of the current City Council who served terms as elected members of the School Committee.
5. Francis X. Finn has been chief of the Quincy Police Department since 1966.

We Must Work Together

The proposed cross-town connector in the past few days has become one of the most controversial — and emotional — local issues in quite sometime.

More so, even than the recent closing of elementary schools.

Long time friends and business acquaintances have lined up on different sides of the issue with strong feelings separating them.

So far though, most of the downtown businessmen and women are still friends, respecting one another's right to differ on an issue of such impact.

And that's the way it should be.

The worst thing that could happen to Quincy right now — particularly the downtown area — is for those on opposite sides to let their personal feelings run amok.

Members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association are closest to the question of to build or not to build the connector and they will be most directly affected whether it does or does not become a reality.

Some feel the roadway leads to nowhere. Others insist it will lead to downtown Quincy's funeral, disrupting and splitting the Hancock St. area, so, that downtown can't survive.

But others are convinced that Quincy is now at a crucial crossroads and the city's — not just the downtown area's — future is at stake. The connector is seen by them as the last chance to make the downtown area viable and competitive. They see it as a matter of vibrant life or a slow death.

At a meeting of the QCBPA just hours before last week's public hearing, those present voted 24-9 in opposition to the connector. But in a telephone poll, members contacted voted 18-8 in favor. Together, the vote was 32-27 — a scant five vote difference. The association has 117 members.

Later that same day, the Progress For Downtown Quincy (PDQ) voted 14-0 for the connector. There were three abstentions.

On the strength of the two votes, it would be hard to claim opposition to the connector is overwhelming in the downtown area. But it is strong on the part of those who oppose the connector. It seems unlikely opponents can be wooed over to the proponents side.

In fact, it is strong enough that there was some flip-flopping from "for" to "against" in the few hours between the QCBPA meeting and the public hearing as pressure was exerted here and there.

But for the most part, proponents and opponents are standing their ground.

Whether the day will ever come that you will drive along a connector, remains to be seen. Meanwhile the arguments will go on until a final decision to build or not to build is made — and maybe for years after that.

But it is hoped that regardless of that decision it will not divide — emotionally or otherwise — those owning or running stores and other businesses in the downtown area.

These are tough times. People who disagree on one issue can't let it become a personal thing. They've got to continue to work together for a common goal — and that is a better Quincy.

As downtown goes, so goes the rest of the city.

A community is really judged by its downtown. A shabby, deteriorating downtown hurts everyone even if you have a well manicured front lawn and tennis courts in the backyard on a picturesque residential street. A viable downtown helps everyone, — tax revenue, jobs — and image.

Downtown is a community's municipal badge for all to see.

It's either shiny or it isn't.

Committee Named For McIntyre Mall Dedication

Mayor Arthur Tobin has named a committee to plan the dedication of McIntyre Mall.

The first meeting of the committee was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall.

Mayor Tobin called the meeting to begin making plans and discussing an agenda for the dedication.

"McIntyre Mall was named in memory of Police Captain (William F.) McIntyre, explained Tobin, and I believe the time is most appropriate that the many friends of the McIntyre family join together to establish a fitting memorial and dedication of McIntyre Mall," Tobin said.

The McIntyre family, he said, has made a "lasting and significant contribution to the history and growth of our City."

"Captain William F. McIntyre served our community with dedication and devotion and instilled in his children those qualities and virtues of helping their fellow man."

Appointed by Tobin to the dedication committee were:

Taylor Ahern, Carl W. Anderson, Rev. Bedros Baharian, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Henry J. Bertolon, Henry W. Bosworth, Louise M. Brabazon, Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, Louis Caruso, Rita Danek, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, City Clerk John M. Gillis, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Joseph Hassan, Patricia F. Hunt, Paul A.M. Hunt, John J. Kelliher, Rabbi Jacob Mann, Patricia Marella, George B. Mathieson, William F. McIntyre, Richard E. Post, Sr., City Councillor John J. Quinn, James J. Ricciuti, George R. Riley, Monsignor James J. Scally, Francis L. Sullivan, Frank R. Terranova, Frank Underhill, Hazel Usher and Frank W. Vallier.

difficult getting across the city. The connector would benefit emergency vehicles going back and forth across the city."

ROBERT VIGODA, developer of property at Hancock and Dimmock Sts.: "We see the cross-town connector as a vital road for Quincy to reduce the congestion that will be created on completion of this development and to attract tenants and shoppers necessary to revitalize the downtown."

RICHARD LUNDGREN, vice president, Hunneman and Co., real estate services: "Quincy has always had a problem in the downtown area with respect to vehicular accessibility. It's difficult to get here from the major regional highways. Once you get downtown, it's difficult to get around. The connector would greatly improve vehicular accessibility."

MICHAEL HARRINGTON, former congressman, speaking in behalf of Gateway Associates, developers: "My home city of Salem has been dealing with the question of access. If one doesn't get on and make a decision the likelihood is that the cost will be excessive and the likelihood is we will all be losers, developers and others."

RONALD ZOOLECK, executive vice president, South Shore Chamber of Commerce: "Members of Progress for Downtown Quincy (PDQ) voted 14 in favor of the connector and three abstentions. It is a local question, so the South Shore Chamber of Commerce takes no stand on it."

BRENDAN GALLAGHER, president, North Quincy Development Corp., statement read by Janet Crowley: "It may cause inconvenience while under construction and lose some existing stores but in the long run it will benefit not only the downtown but the city as a whole. It will make easier access to the shopping area from all directions."

JAMES A. SHEETS, city councillor: "Many cities facing 2½ and other economic problems would retrench. We have not done that. We have done some bold things in the last three years. The Campanelli building was a bold step forward. The '80s is a decade of opportunity for us. We must take this bold step if we are to revitalize the south end of Hancock St."

STEPHEN J. McGRATH, city councillor: "Downtown Quincy is in serious trouble. Are we going to take Quincy into the 1990s or are we going to continue dealing with problems piecemeal? Access to Route 3 will bring people into Quincy. Burgin Parkway will solve one problem and create another, a traffic bottleneck. The connector will address this problem."

JOANNE CONDON, city councillor: "Downtown Quincy is an important part of the city. Over the years it has steadily deteriorated. No one I have talked to in Downtown Quincy is happy about where they stand. We do not encourage new people to come in on a regular basis until we make it easier for shoppers to come in and leave."

JOHN J. QUINN, city councillor: "I would hate to see our great community come to a halt by reversing itself and returning to the bottleneck at Granite St. by not having proper exits or egress to Burgin Parkway. To delay decisions any longer may see evaporation of the federal and state money and an end to any action on the road."

MARK DICKINSON, president, Dickinson Development Corp., Baintree: "It's the old chicken or the egg problem. Which comes first, the road or development? In my experience, the first thing is a commitment for the road. There is a commitment for the Burgin Parkway. There is no commitment for the cross town connector. For development of the Hancock Parking area or Hancock St., a commitment for that road is absolutely essential."

RONALD DRUKER, executive vice president, Druker Co. of Boston, developers: "Major tenants are only interested in areas in which they can get to and from easily. Also they have to know that any new roads are not just proposed but are real. It would be virtually impossible to interest a company in locating in Downtown Quincy without the connector."

He'd Ban Women Drivers

Benjamin F. Earl, 755 Washington St., Quincy Point, who claimed to have driven over a million miles since 1898, told interviewers the road would be a lot safer if women drivers were banned.

Women, he said, take advantage of their sex and expect men to be chivalrous and give them the right of way at all times on the road.

"There isn't one good woman driver in a thousand," he said. "The only thing a woman knows how to do is steer a car between two curbsings."

DILORETO SETS MARK

Joe DiLoreto, slugging right fielder for the league-leading Fore River team, set two City League records and tied another when he hit three home runs in an 11-6 victory over the Copelands.

DiLoreto, known as "DiMaggio 2nd" in Quincy Point, hit two homers in the Shipbuilders eight-run second inning and the third in his next time at bat for two new records.

His three round-trippers in the same game tied the mark set by Al Kussmaul of the Italian American A.A.

SHOPLIFTERS AT WORK

Quincy police issued a warning to downtown merchants that a band of organized shoplifters were operating in the city, ripping off shopkeepers in downtown Quincy.

Louis Messick Dry Goods, 1476 Hancock St., lost 18 dresses; Markson Brothers, 1446 Hancock St., a man's suit; and Kane's Furniture, Hancock St., a radio, all the past few days.

SUNDAY AUTO SALES

John P. Flavin, attorney for the Quincy auto dealers, appealed to the state to enforce a law in Weymouth, Baintree, Milton and Hingham that bans the sale of automobiles on Sunday.

Police Chief John J. Avery had ordered all Quincy auto salesrooms closed on Sunday and Flavin told Public Safety Commissioner Paul Kirk that Quincy dealers were losing sales.

matter how you figure, this road will chop up the business section of Quincy. Burgin Parkway should be constructed first. A distributor road should be made into the Ross Parking Area, even at the city's expense. The after-effects of the road should be evaluated. If the cross-town connector is a valid road it will still be valid at that time."

JOSEPH G. PRONE, attorney, 1601 Hancock St.: "It appears to be a short-term disaster, possibly of some benefit in the distant future. The city exists for the benefit of the people who are in it. It doesn't exist to attract maymed someday people for a 10-story building. It's not a progressive move to flatten a considerable part of the downtown area with nothing to immediately replace it."

ARDEN KEARNS, 61 John St., Montclair: "The connector will draw traffic away from Hancock St. and down to Chestnut St., Washington St., and Southern Artery. You are proposing the absolute death of the downtown Quincy business district."

TONY DIGIACOMO, retired engineer: "I'm against the East-West Divider for many reasons. It's going to divide the city into two parts. That part's going to die and another section of the city is going to rise up. If you look at the people who voted for this here, 90 per cent of them are people who are financially involved and people who don't live in the city . . . the Quincy Ledger, WJDA, the Quincy Sun, they used to live maybe some of them in Quincy but they have as much interest in Quincy as a fellow in Chicago.

"They're saying that these people by making office buildings and by doing this and doing that we're going to have more business in Quincy. Far from it. It's an illusion they're giving you under the pretense of reducing the taxes. What's going to happen is the people who have lived here all their lives are going to pay through the nose for a lot longer."

TIMOTHY P. CAHILL, 35 Packard's Lane, candidate for City Council: "I am against the road. The fact that it is pitting politicians and businessmen against each other will do far greater damage than building or not building the road."

Extension but I share concerns on the connector, particularly the potential closing of Hancock St.

"Construction won't begin on the Burgin Parkway Extension for another two or three years. Perhaps that is the time to begin the process of looking at this connector and where it should be placed."

City Councillor and former Mayor Joseph LaRaia noted: "The concept of the roadway was born during my administration in 1977. But it was born with the idea of joint development at the same time. One gentleman who referred to it as 'pie in the sky' happens to be sitting in the mayor's office today. I supported the whole idea then and I support the concept now. But the roadway does not now include development, which leaves a whole lot of questions on the net benefit of the connecting link."

Others who wish to make statements pro or con on the connector have until Monday, Aug. 3, to send them to Justin L. Radio, chief engineer, Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua St., Boston 02114.

Connector In State's Hands

"At this particular time, there is nothing at the end of that road. This is just not the proper time to displace businesses and spend the amount of money they want to spend.

"We've got to have a commitment downtown and until it is made I don't think we should build the connector."

Raymondi expressed his "strong unequivocal support" of the Burgin Parkway Extension but he added "there has to be some cautious concern" about the connector.

"Back in the 1950s," he said, "the leaders of the community allowed the Southeast Expressway to be built without access to downtown Quincy. At that time, it allowed us to maintain a policy operation."

"But that policy decision really began to hurt us in the 60s. It had a severe impact in the 70s. It's really killing us in the 1980s."

"I can conceive of no other solution to open up access to the downtown area than to have the Upland Rd. (Burgin Parkway)

Mr., Mrs. Richard Koch Grandparents Twice Over Week-end

The stork was busy in Quincy last week-end as Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, became grandparents again twice.

The Koch's daughter, Mrs. Linda J. Bowes, delivered a 10 lb. 10 ounce girl, Kristen Marie, Saturday at Quincy City Hospital. Their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Nancy Koch, delivered a boy, Matthew Richard, weighing 7 lbs. 13 ounces Sunday at the same hospital.

Both mothers are in the same room in the hospital.

Matthew is the first child for Mr.

and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Jr., who live at 46 Putnam St. Maternal grandparent is Mrs. Dorothy Kelly of Wollaston.

Kristen is the second child for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Bowes of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy. They also have a son, Thomas, Jr., age two.

Mrs. Anna Bowes of Neponset is paternal grandmother.

Richard J. Koch, Jr., and his sister Mrs. Linda Bowes both have birthdays in April. There is an 11 month and one week difference in their ages.

Flea Market At Memorial Congregational

Memorial Congregational Church, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, will sponsor a flea market Aug. 15, on the church lawn, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Glendon Crowell, chairman, announces that there are 40 spaces to rent. To reserve a space, call either 328-5220 or 328-5420.

There will be a snack bar open during the day, serving hot dogs, hamburgers, tea, coffee and soft drinks.

In case of rain, the flea market will be held on Aug. 22.

Carol DiGiusto On Dean's List

Carol A. DiGiusto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. DiGiusto formerly of Quincy, was named to the dean's list at Tufts University after maintaining a 4.0 grade average.

Miss DiGiusto, who plans to pursue a career in medicine, will be a sophomore in the fall.

Members of the ninth grade executive board at Central Junior High School recently held a reception for teachers who were members of the staff at the school during the past three years.

Many teachers who are no longer members of the Central staff, including Mario Casale, Gloria Volpini and Ruth Higginbotham, joined in the festivities in the media center, where punch and pastries were served.

Hospitality was handled by Jean Shea, Deborah Mallory, Lauren O'Rourke, Kerry Gannon, Vicki DiGravio, Bernadette Murphy, Suzanne Picard, Julie Nee, Carolyn Mercier and Mark Denneen, assisted by head counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni.

The Central yearbook staff held a special assembly to present the first copy to Mario Casali, who 25 years as a teacher at the school, and to whom the yearbook was dedicated.

The dedication reads:
"This yearbook is proudly dedicated to Mr. Mario (Mike) Casali in grateful appreciation for his enormous contribution to 'Central Spirit'."

"Mr. Casali has given Central 25 years of teaching, coaching, inspiration, help and friendship to all Central students."

"Mr. Casali, you were a winner when you first came to Central as a student. Now, after 25 years as a Central teacher, you leave once again a winner. Thanks, 'Mud', we love you."

For the past year, Casali has been a counselor at Sterling Junior High School, but remained as basketball and baseball coach at Central.

Awards to students were made at a recent graduation assembly. They went to:

Quincy Couple's Relatives Injured In K.C. Hotel Collapse

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
To many people, news of the July 17, collapse of the two "sky bridge" walkways across the lobby of the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Kansas City, Mo., was a sad and distressing news story, but not one that effected them personally.

But to William Hancock and his wife, Lillian, of Viden Rd., South Quincy, the news was more than just another story — among those seriously injured in the Collapse were Mr. Hancock's brother and sister-in-law.

According to Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Harry L. Hancock and his wife Dorothy of Grandview, Mo., were at the year old Hyatt for their second Tea Dance, a weekly event.

They paused to watch the festivities from a walkway which subsequently collapsed into a lower walkway and then the lobby.

Over 100 people were killed in the collapse. The Hancock's were among the more than 100 injured.

Mrs. Hancock was taken to St. Luke's Hospital with a broken leg, collar bone and right ankle, and cuts and lacerations on the ears and head.

Mrs. Hancock was taken to St. Mary's Hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg, fractured ankle, and cuts and lacerations on the ears and head.

Both are reported in stable condition.

The William Hancock's heard the news the day after the collapse when a nephew called them from Missouri.

"It was a terrible thing," said Mrs. Hancock, "my husband is all shook up."

Mrs. Hancock said she and her husband had visited Missouri just last May.

She said her husband's brother and sister-in-law are both in their early 60's.

"It's going to take time for them to recover from this," said Mrs. Hancock.

REPAIR OR REPLACE?

Q: I've been wearing the same partial upper bridge for the last ten years, and it still fits me just fine. Now I have to have a front tooth extracted. Do I need a new bridge?

A: If your old bridge really does fit you well enough, a new tooth can usually be welded on to the old framework.

Q: I'm wearing a full denture on top that I've had for about 20 years. It's kind of wobbly, but I get by. I'm trying to decide whether or not to get a new one. What do you think?

A: These teeth have served you well, and would probably make an excellent "spare" set of teeth in an emergency, but new full denture would be a good idea to improve your comfort and chewing ability.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is not the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

O'Connells Move To Join In Marina Development

Peter and William O'Connell of OBC, Inc., the construction company, are negotiating to join Marina Industries in developing the old Squantum Naval Air Station land.

"There is a good chance we will," said Peter O'Connell, "but it is kind of premature to talk about it now. We are working out the details. A month from now we will either be with it or we won't."

O'Connell described the deal as a "restructuring of the ownership" of Marina Industries Inc., which leases the old airfield land from Boston Edison.

"The Marina will be expanded to include us," he said, "that means Peter and William, not OBC, Inc."

Marina Industries is currently planning to build 142 units of condominium on the easternly side of the land. OBC, Inc., is 50 per cent owner of the project and the builder.

The development has received the approval of the City Council under Planned Unit Development with 15 restrictive amendments.

One of the amendments specifies that a second access road in addition to East Squantum St. must be obtained for the project and negotiations are underway to secure Commander Shea Blvd. from Jordan Marsh.

Out Of Title Contention Morrisette Bows To Hingham 12-0 In Finale

Morrisette Legion's baseball team, failing again to win its 22nd Zone 6 championship, ended its season Monday night by losing to Hingham, 2-0, and finishing with a 13-9 record.

Morrisette finished two games behind Weymouth (15-7).

Morrisette was held to four hits by John Beatey, who out-pitched Paul Earle. Earle, after giving up both runs in the second inning, pitched a fine game, allowing seven hits and striking out 10.

Hingham scored both runs in the second when Steve Gilbert walked, Beatey singled, Dave Rohrer singled to fill the bases, Dan Morrison singled home Gilbert and Mike Lynch walked to force in the second run.

Sunday night Morrisette had one of its best games of the entire season, bombing defending state champion Brockton, 13-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Gary DiNardo. Mike Marshall pitched the last inning.

Morrisette scored a run in the first on a walk to Dan Boyle, who stole second, and Mark Millane's single. It added three in the second on a walk to Bob Beniers, DiNardo's single and three errors.

In the third Beniers hit a two-run homer and DiNardo tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

Morrisette exploded for six runs in the fifth on three hits, a walk, three errors and several wild pitches and passed balls.

Beniers had two hits and drove in three runs, Millane had two hits and two RBI and DiNardo two hits and an RBI.

Last Sunday, in the continuation of a protested game, Morrisette topped Norwell, 4-3. Norwell had previously been credited with a 4-3 win, but Morrisette won its protest of an umpire's decision dealing with a ground rule and the game was started in the sixth inning with the score tied 3-3. Morrisette scored the winning run in the seventh when DiNardo singled, was bunted along by Marty McLoughlin, went to third on an error and scored on Kevin Howlett's long sacrifice fly.

Beniers made a great running catch on a fly in the bottom half of the inning with a man on base. DiNardo was the winning pitcher.

Last Friday night Morrisette edged Milton, 1-0, in 10 innings in one of the finest played games of the season.

Millane was the winning pitcher, allowing four hits and striking out eight, while loser Matt Regan also pitched brilliantly, giving up four hits and striking out five.

Morrisette scored the winning run when Howlett singled, Steve Pecevic reached on an error and Dan Boyle singled home Howlett. Jim O'Toole made two outstanding plays at second base.

Wollaston, finishing up strong as it did a year ago, won four of its last five games.

Wollaston defeated Milton, 7-4, as Bob Bolster relieved starting pitcher Rich Hallberg and retired the three batters he faced. Hallberg struck out six and gave up five hits in six innings. Wollaston scored three runs in the first as Mike Venne led off with a walk, Mark Righini, who had two hits, singled, both runners scored on John Kavanaugh's triple and Steve Healy, who had two hits, singled Kavanaugh home.

Wollaston scored two more in the second on Jim Sullivan's two-run double and added two in the fourth.

Wollaston walloped Norwell, 13-2, with Sullivan having four hits and six RBI. Steve Belastro had three hits, while Righini, Gus Gonsalves and Healy had two hits each. Righini scored four runs. Jim Kelly and Healy combined to hold Norwell to three hits, with Healy the winner.

Track Club Relay Qualify Teams For National Meet

With the results in from the other New England states in the Hershey Youth Program, the Quincy Track Club wound up qualifying eight athletes for the National meet in West Virginia in the form of two relay teams.

Qualifying are the 9-10 girls team of Marta Martinez, Robin Guilfoyle, Deirdre Murphy and Karen Cashman, and the 11-12 boys team of Jamie McArdle, Mark Lunnin, Stuart Coull and Mike Rugnetta.

The QTC made an outstanding showing last week in the Waltham Track Club Invitational meet with April Hamilton the star of the day. The 8-year-old jumped 11-2 in the long jump to set a meet record for 9-under girls.

Mike Petta and Laura Ciulla scored a pair of impressive victories and Nancy Sullivan and Harry Morash turned in excellent performances in the distance runs.

In 9-under boys Chris DiGiacomo took third in the 100 and in 9-under girls Jill McLellan took third in the long jump and Meghan Farrell third in the softball throw.

In 10-11 boys Sean Hunter and Tony Rugnetta were 2-3 in the long jump. Petta won the 100 in 12.98 with Hunter and Rugnetta 2-3. Petta won the 440 and Tom Walsh, Paul Scola and John Dunderdale swept the 880. In the girls events Corinne Radzevich took second in the long jump. Tricia Giannandrea took third in the 220 and Patty Feeney and Martinez were 1-3 in the 440.

In boys 12-13 McArdle won the long jump, took second in the 220 and third in the 100. Lunnin took second in the shot and Morash won the 880 in 2:34.8. In girls events Marie D'Attilio took second in the long jump, Tracy Parker and Mary Beth Bonner took 1-3 in the high jump. Noreen Connolly, Tracy Fostello and Denise McLellan swept the shot put. Ciulla won the 100 in 12.05 and also won the 220 and Nancy Sullivan outkicked the field with a lap to go to win the 880 in 2:36.0.

In 14-17 boys Mike Williams took second in the 440 and long jump and in girls events Julie Supple took third in the high jump and Georgia Traficante third in the shot put.

Next week 15 members of the QTC will be in Los Angeles for the Arco Jesse Owens games. The club will also compete in the Brockton Summerfest next week.

Boston Gear Wins 3 Straight To Qualify

Boston Gear, the National League champion, bounced back from an opening loss to Kiwanis to win three straight games and qualify for the finals of the Junior Baseball League playoffs.

Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, the American League champ with the best record in either league, moved into the semifinal round and faced Kiwanis, the surprise team of the playoffs, Tuesday night. The Foley-Kiwanis winner will face Gear tonight (Thursday) at 6 o'clock at McCoy Field for the city championship.

After being walloped by Kiwanis, 9-2, in the playoff opener, Gear came back to defeat Burgin Platner, 7-3, with Larry Taglieri the winning pitcher. Gear's attack was led by Nancy Flukes with three singles and five RBI. Chad Hallett had two singles and Ricky Dunham, Tad Sheets, Taglieri and Shawn Craig a single each. Paul Adams, Mike Cronin, Mike Leonard, Chris Higgins and Mike Paccetti all played well for Gear. Playing well for Burgin were Robbie McDonald, who had three hits and sparked at short-stop and Tom McDonald and Bryan Mosher, who had two hits each.

Gear then edged Sears, 1-0, in one of the finest games of the year as both teams played errorless ball. Mike Dever of Gear had a no-hitter for five innings until Matt Raymond singled. The game was scoreless at the end of regulation time. In the top of the seventh, Hallett singled, Craig walked and Flukes singled in the winning run. In the bottom half Hallett, the regular catcher, pitched in his first game all season and struck out the side. Taglieri had two singles and Matt Furtado, Hallett, Craig and Flukes one each. Flukes drove in the winning run for the second time in three games. Higgins, Adams, Paccetti, Furtado, Sheets, Leonard, and Dunham stood out on defense. Tom Callahan pitched an outstanding game for Sears and Bob Hubbard and Bob Austin, who alternated at second base, played strong defense.

Gear moved into the finals with a 2-1 win Monday night over Kiwanis, with winning pitcher Taglieri striking out six including the final three batters with the tying and winning runs on base. He allowed six hits and walked five. Taglieri had a double, Leonard a double and Flukes and Dunham singles.

Furtado was the anchor on defense for Gear with several spectacular catches in the outfield, while Higgins, Adams, Sheets, Hallett, Craig, Paccetti, Dever and Joe Gendreau, who had to leave the game with an injury, all played strong games. T. J. Steen pitched an outstanding game for Kiwanis, giving up only four hits. Matt Hurley had two hits for Kiwanis and Ron Fletcher, Dennis DeCoste, Chris Ricciuti and Tommy Reilly one each. Paul Connolly and Billy Bellew played well.

Foley advanced to the semifinals with a 9-4 victory over Rotary. Chris Marshall pitched six-hit ball, struck out six and walked four for his second playoff win. He also singled, walked and scored two runs. Dan Biagini had a home run and single. Tom Tegen a run-scoring triple. Kyle Robertson a double (also played a strong game behind the plate), and Bob Laracy, Sean Gately and Kevin Duffy a single each. Duffy, for the second game in a row, made a great catch in centerfield to rob John Pennellatore of a sure home run. Pennellatore later hit a homer and also had a single.

Previous to its tough loss to Gear, Kiwanis, which finished with a 12-10 record and was seeded fifth in the playoffs, had upset Gear and Rotary, which had finished 18-4 in the National League (Gear topped Rotary in a playoff for the National League title).

In its first game Kiwanis surprised Gear, 9-2, beating previously unbeaten Mike Dever, who had a 10-0 record going into the game. Ricciuti led the Kiwanis attack with a long homer over the center field fence, a double and a single. DeCoste and Hurley had two hits each. Fletcher ended the game by starting an around the horn double play and Steen was the winning pitcher, going all the way.

Kiwanis then upset Rotary, 6-2, with Eddie Flavin pitching a two-hitter. Ricciuti, Fletcher and Flavin had two hits apiece and Ronnie Hersey had one. Steen made an excellent running catch in left-center to squelch a Rotary rally. Billy Burkhead pitched well for Rotary.

Quincy Man Competing In Martial Art Games

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's Michael O'Malley, the first American to win four gold medals in the National AAU Tae Kwon Do martial art championships, is in Santa Clara, Calif., this week competing in the World Games.

O'Malley, who is in the welter-weight division, will travel to Korea in October to try for the world championship.

Tae kwon do is the only martial art that has received recognition by the Olympic Committee and is being strongly considered for inclusion in the 1984 Olympic competition. In addition, President Reagan has expressed his support for tae kwon do and for Americans who are vying for the world championship.

"We feel Michael has an excellent chance of bringing the world championship to the United States," said Nicolai Diatchenko, who is connected with the Jae Hun Kim Institute of Boston, where O'Malley is a full-time instructor. Mike also is a part-time instructor at Boston University.

O'Malley born and raised in Boston but a Quincy resident for several years, won the welterweight title in the fourth annual AAU Tae Kwon Do Tournament in Washington in 1978, repeated in the nationals in Dayton, Ohio in 1979 and was named "Fighter of the Year," and won again in the nationals in Berkeley, Calif., last year and won the Ken Min Award.

O'Malley took first place in the Pan American championships last year in Houston. The U.S. team won six of a possible ten gold medals in the tournament and it marked the first time a U.S. team came out on top in the overall standings in a major international event.

O'Malley began studying the art 10 years ago when he was 14, after visiting the J.H. Kim Tae Kwon Do Institute in Boston. His attraction to the art and instructor Jae Hun Kim was both immediate and overwhelming.

"I had always been interested in the martial arts, but tae kwon do completely enveloped me," he said. "And Mr. Kim had so much to offer. He is one of the few Koreans I know who has graduated from both MIT and Harvard. With his analytical approach from his studies of physics and business-combined with the knowledge of tae kwon do he learned in Korea—Kim has a very unique method of teaching. Plus he's a very personable man. There are many instructors you like right off the bat. Mr. Kim is one you love. Our relationship goes beyond that of student and instructor—he's almost like a father."

Tae kwon do makes a lot of demands on O'Malley's time, but he gives it gladly. He teaches five to six classes daily, seven days a week at Kim's institute.

"I would like to see tae kwon do get accepted in the 1984 olympics—that's been one of my long standing goals," he said. "Acceptance would lend us a little more prestige. Right now my goal is to win the world championship. No American has ever won a gold medal there. Many people say I have a good chance and I'd like to live up to their expectations."

Eddie Pellagrini Clinic At Adams Field Aug. 5

The Quincy Recreation Dept., together with the Pepsi-Cola bottling company of Milton will sponsor the Eddie Pellagrini free baseball clinic next Wednesday, Aug. 5, at 10 a.m. at Adams Field. Pellagrini, former Red Sox infielder and a 10-year major leaguer with the Red Sox, Pirates, Phillies and Reds, is conducting his ninth annual free clinics.

The objective of the program is to make major league playing and training available to hometown youngsters, and all those over six years of age are eligible to attend.

Pellagrini of Weymouth, who is being assisted by John (Tinker) Connolly of Northeastern University, Dick (Moe) Maloney of Watertown High and Bobby DeFelice, former Red Sox minor league catcher, began his two-day clinics on June 24 and will have conducted nearly 50 of them when they end next Wednesday.

The personable Pellagrini, a member of the Red Sox pennant winners of 1946 and a teammate of Ted Williams and Johnny Pesky among others, may best be remembered as a rookie who hit the game-winning homer his first time at bat for the Red Sox. He followed that with another homer, triple and double in his second game.

He has earned a reputation as the game's Goodwill Ambassador. As many as 500 eager youngsters have shown up at one of his free clinics.

Pellagrini has been head coach at Boston College since 1954, turning out many championship teams, winning a number of post-season playoff spots, several regional and college world series teams.

Over 150 Compete In Merrymount Tourney

The recent sixth annual Merrymount Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Merrymount Association, drew more than 50 players and according to Chairman Art Boyle, "was a huge success."

Categories included boys singles (16 and under), girls singles (16 and under), men's singles, women's singles and mixed doubles.

Mike Molloy defeated P.J. Hussey, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1, for the boys' singles title; Jackie Coleman defeated Nancy Roberts, 7-5, 7-5, for the girls singles crown; Mike Connolly beat Art Boyle, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, in the men's singles final; Dana Loeb topped Dorothy Shea, 6-3, 6-4, for the women's singles championship and Dan Boyle and Bernie DiPietro defeated Mike Connolly and Nancy Roberts, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, for the mixed doubles title.

BACKYARD ELECTRICAL SAFETY

Using electricity outdoors to operate garden tools, lights and appliances has become an accepted part of outdoor leisure living. But accidents do happen. They are most frequently caused by equipment or wiring that is faulty or improperly grounded for outdoor use. Here are a few suggestions:

Use only cords, plugs, and equipment that have the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label and are recommended for "outdoor use". When necessary have a qualified electrician install permanent weatherproof (waterproof) outlets that can accommodate three-prong plugs. Never use indoor cords or lamps outdoors.

Use adapters in any present two-hole outdoor outlets so that they will accommodate three-pronged plugs. Never cut off the third prong of a plug to make it fit a two-hole outlet.

Observe special care when there is a swimming pool in the yard. In fact, safety experts urge that you use only battery-powered radios, televisions, etc., in a pool area.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Avalon Beach [Instructor Carolyn Nee] Welcome back to another fun and exciting summer on Avalon Beach. This summer we have a lot of new students taking lessons. Among them are, Lauren and Louise Mahoney, Shyla Schuboth, Colleen and David Duffy, Ally Sleiman, Francis Morgan, Matthew and Jay McLarnon and Richard and Nicole Sardano. All of the swimmers are progressing well. First to move on to another class this summer was Brian Douglas, who passed Advanced Beginner and is doing well in Intermediates. Even the bad weather didn't stop Erin, Colleen and Billy Shehan from coming to take their swimming lessons. Non-swimmers already are able to float by themselves.

Bayfield Beach [Instructor Ann-Marie Boness] Bayfield Beach welcomes all returning old new families, especially the Tobins, Tracy, Brian and Paul, who have just moved to Quincy from Alabama.

Heidi Spanks-Johnson, Robert Ragusa, Lisa Flynn, Noreen McDonagh and Mary Ann McDonagh are doing well with underwater swimming. A few of the non-swimmers have already moved up into Beginners. They include Michael Grant and Cheri Condon. Hardest worker in Beginners this week is Maria Mattson. Stacey Flynn demonstrated the best crawl stroke of all the beginners.

Among Advanced Beginners, George Garros and David Campbell are trying to slow down their strokes. Danny Flaherty is showing good form on all the Advanced Beginner strokes.

Attendance on Bayfield has been above average; especially in Non-swimmers and Beginners classes. Best attendance goes to Non-swimmers Patricia Ham and Brian Driscoll, Beginners Laura and Michael Christopherson, Advanced Beginner Kerry Christopherson, Intermediate Maureen Flaherty, Swimmer Brian Tobin, Basic Rescue and Water Safety Paul Tobin.

Elm Beach [Instructors John Kavanaugh and Linda Morash] Elm Beach has had a good turnout. Non-swimmers have been working on their superman floats. Jamie Bidolia, Pamela Walsh, Erin Sullivan, and Mike Duffy indicate they'll be floating as good as superman himself. Beginners Michael and Timmy Kane, Tony Blake, Jenny White, Jennifer Sullivan and Tommy Sullivan have already started practicing crawl strokes. In the Advanced Beginner Class, the girls defeated the boys in a relay race. Stacie Kane, Jennifer Connolly, Maureen Kirby, and Kathy Duffy paced the girls. John Woodman, Gareth Murphy and Mark Kelleher vowed to catch them in the rematch.

The Intermediates have also been working hard trying to perfect the breast-stroke. Sandy McNiff, Penny Fasano, Kathy Feeney, Erin Bonnevier, and Harry Morash are working hard. Brian Callow already has swum nearly four miles, while Patty Feeney and Jerry Bowen aren't far behind. Advanced Lifesavers Steve D'Attilio, Lynda Feeney, and John Murphy, along with Basic Rescuers Donna Greene and Kerry Kirby are working hard to make Elm Street Beach a safer place to swim while they're around.

Heron Road Beach [Instructor Patti Morris] There are 60 registered swimmers participating in the swim program and 25 tanned, loyal mothers who come to the beach daily.

Non-swimmers include Lauren Pringle, Greg and Stephen Fernald, Stephanie Wiltshire, Kirk Thomas, Suzanne Berlicca, Dana Shea, Jason Bouffard and John Austin, Peter Haldoupis, John Berggren and Jackie Pelechowsky.

Nickerson Beach [Instructor Beverly Josselyn] Sara Radell can float by herself. Jesse Ahern is very good.

There are 22 youngsters in the beginners class. Katie Keating is only three years old. Ernie Conti, Rebecca Squires, and Kim and Krista Olson are here everyday.

Advanced Beginners Kim Saniuk has already skilled a nice elementary backstroke and Claire Walsh does a survival float well. Thanks to Colleen Monahan and Jimmy Sumner for all their help as Junior Leaders.

Rock Island [Instructor Katherine MacDonald] Three new families moved into the Rock Island area, the Hanly's, the Gaggett's and the Fullerton's. Attendance is high. There are nine non-swimmers. Clinton Fullerton and Darlean and Bobby Daggett have been to class everyday.

There are 15 in beginners class. Susan McKay, John Kelley, Kerry Wysocki, Kerry-Ann Mahoney and Susan Crispo can already float by themselves. For the third season in a row, Jason McKay is in advanced beginner. The Brown girls are back this season and are doing well as usual. Janet and Lisa Morrell are competing again. They're both in swimmers this year. We're starting a Slinnastics Class for all of the moms at Rock Island. Looks like a great summer ahead of us.

Boating and Sailing [Supervisor Judith LaFleur] Ryan Boatouse is doing well thanks to its staff. After the first hectic days of repairing sailboats, rowboats, canoes and whalers, we have launched every boat on schedule. Turn out for registration was high considering the foggy weather of that first week. Many adults and children quickly filled up the classes for evening and day time. Now we've settled into our summer routine with a full Monday, Wednesday and Friday schedule, but there's still room for more during the daytime on Tuesday and Thursday.

Evenings from 4 to 8 p.m. are active with enthusiastic adults and instructors participating.

Rowing instructors are turning out some initiates to the sailing classes. The following have passed rowing: Elizabeth Roberts, Charles McCarthy, Donna Christopherson, Scott Linsky, Chris Linsky, Nancy Sheely, Erin Grogan, Ann O'Sullivan, Michael Toland, Tracie Allen, Rose Christiani, Alice Mitchell, Paul Kavanaugh, Kathleen Sheehey, Kerry McCee, Patrick Breen, Paul Levers, Sean Kaudalka, Chris Barry and Brian Tobin. New sailors to be include Sally Sheeley, Lisa Lagzdins and Julie Killian, among others complete their testing.

Chris Roberts is back to help with his skill and David and Fred Cawthorne and Brian Callow are back also for another summer at Black's Creek.

Playgrounds and Happy Acres Camp are taking advantage of the opportunity to experience small craft handling.

Quarterdeck [Kevin Craig and Karen Robertson] The summer program at Quarterdeck park is led by Kevin Craig and Karen Robertson. The junior boys' baseball team is off to a good start after defeating Baker Beach and LaBrique Field. The members of the championship-bound team are Donny Bemelard, Sean Canniff, Frank Freedman, George Reece, Tim Biley, Ronny Opoly, Rick Taxera, John Bolger, Billy Birkhead and Tommy Horogan. Eight of the youngsters participated in a racketball clinic at Playoff.

Enjoying the activities were Sean Canniff, Suzanne Canniff, George Reece, Jan Freedman, Debbie and Shauna Hansley, Peter Dabrule and Tim Riley. Many of the members of the park look forward to the archery and arts and crafts specialists to visit the park. Some who enjoy these activities are Kathleen Fidler, Susie Fidler, Michelle Fidler, Nickie Campbell, Karen Campbell, Julie Campbell, Chuckie Jones, Kimmie Jones, Michael Jones, Andrew Canniff and Ann Marie Boyle.

Taffrail [Sandra Morrell] Most of the time the kids on the park enjoy playing baseball. Many of the girls enjoy Arts and Crafts. There are markers, coloring books and crayons for them to use. They enjoy that a lot.

Checkers are very popular at the park and at the end of the year it is planned on having a tournament with the best boy and the best girl winning prizes.

Cedrone's 2-Hitter Sparks Granite City

Granite City Electric's Paul Cedrone pitched a two-hitter in a 9-1 victory over Quincy Local as Granite City improved its Babe Ruth League record to 15-4-1.

Cedrone also had a triple, Bob Campbell, Mike Cocce and Jim

Madden had doubles and Jack Bolster, Danny Kelly and Mike

Barron also had hits.

Granite City has been playing outstanding ball both offensively and defensively as it heads for the playoffs.

WEEK OF: JULY 30, 1981

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Dates may be rescheduled, resulting in a little chaos, a lot of headaches. A superb week for expressing opinions; write a letter to your love... or maybe to the editor.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Be alert to new job options all week long. More time than expected is needed for educational pursuits - avoid short-cuts. Romance is sweeter than ever - for singles and marrieds.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Pay debts promptly and meet as many social obligations as you can. Investigative work is your specialty now. Younger family members can bring out your best qualities.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Home improvements accented now, especially if you're on your own. Friendship prospects are brightening. More discipline is needed in areas of fitness and diet.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Ideas are backfiring and colleagues are stubborn. Family members, meanwhile, are cooperative and supportive - and that's more important than anything else at this time.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Career opportunity is opening up, but don't invade another's territory. Lively social week; you can have loads of fun, most of it on a superficial level.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Cultural and creative activities can provide a path to profitable ventures. Communication breakdown is patched by weekend. You feel comfortable expressing deepest feelings.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Communication breakthrough happens before the weekend, and patch-up with loved one is likely by Tuesday. Travel companion may be hard to please now - avoid showdown if possible.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Upbeat mood is best expressed through decor or wardrobe. Romance continues to bloom - even if loved one isn't accessible. May have difficulty extracting funds.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

If loved one is reserved, it's wisest not to ask questions. Travel is favored. Business ventures require fewer - and wiser - opinions. Volunteer work accented through weekend.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Don't be subtle in making requests; you can't expect friends and colleagues to read your mind - especially this week. After a false start, a happy new friendship is ready for takeoff.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Shopping and travel are favored; attending a country fare would be a nice blend of the two. Arguments get out of hand quickly, so put them to bed a.s.a.p.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Challenges are irresistible, but sometimes you take them on for the sheer enjoyment. Communication is accented in an important way, and it may prove worthwhile - and ultimately profitable - to hone skills in this area.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 30th, singer Paul Anka; 31st, actor Don Murray; August 1st, actor Geoffrey Holder; 2nd, actor Carroll O'Connor; 3rd, actress Dolores Del Rio; 4th, poet Percy B. Shelley; 5th, actress Loni Anderson.

Former Captain To Speak On Old Ironsides

Cmdr. Tyrone G. Martin, captain of the USS Constitution from 1974-1978, will lecture on Old Ironsides Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 1 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society in the Adams Academy building.

Martin, a career naval officer for 26 years, is the author of the book "A Most Fortunate Ship," which details the history of the U.S. Navy's oldest commissioned vessel.

During his tenure as captain, the ship underwent a $4.4 million restoration, welcomed on board Queen Elizabeth of Britain and took part in the 1976 parade of the Tall Ships.

Martin's lecture, part of the Quincy Remembers series, is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Playground Parent's Nights

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct Playground Parents' Night 6 to 8 p.m. according to the following dates and locations:

Monday, Aug. 3 - Atlantic, Bishop, Myles, Standish, Squantum, Welcome Young, Elm Street, Fore River, Pollard, Pond Street, Russell Park.

Tuesday, Aug. 4 - Adams, Grassy, Kincaide, Shea, O'Rourke, Faxon Park.

Wednesday, Aug. 5 -

Beechwood Knoll, Wollaston, Fenno, Mass. Fields.

Wednesday, Aug. 5 - Forbes Hill, Baker, LaBrecque, Chaple, Quarterdeck, Taffrail, Perkins, Heron Road.

Each playground will provide a special program to acquaint parents of participants with the youngsters activities during the normal playground day.

Residents are urged to visit their neighborhood playground to watch or join in the activities.

GIDDY-UP: Susan Sweeney, 4, with her mother Ellen close by, enjoyed her first pony ride July 4, at Faxon Park as part of field day activities held by the Adams Heights Men's Club.

Free Trips To Harbor Islands Park

Free boat transportation to the Boston Harbor Islands State Park is available weekdays to non-profit community groups through the State Department of Environmental Management.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli notes that groups wishing to make such excursions can obtain an application by calling or writing the Wompatuck State park, 201 Union St., Hingham, 02043, at 749-7160.

Qualified groups will receive a special group transportation permit covering a maximum of 99 passengers on a one time basis. Groups of 20 or more must obtain an additional permit from the MDC at 727-5250.

Each group must then contact either Bay State-Spray and Provincetown Steamship Co., Massachusetts Bay Lines, or Boston Harbor Cruises to arrange a convenient date for the trip.

Fun-For-All Kits

Available From MDA

Fun-For-All Event kits are now available free from the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The kits are filled with ideas for people of all ages to use over the summer.

They include game suggestions and tips for organizing backyard carnivals and events such as: bike-races, swim parties, talent shows, neighborhood olympics, and more.

To obtain free Fun-For-All kit, call 843-2797, or write: Carnival Kit, Muscular Dystrophy Association, 420 Washington St., Suite B-6, Braintree, MA 02184.

Historical Society Members To Cruise Boston Harbor

Friday, Aug. 7, is the deadline for reservations for the Quincy Historical Society's cruise aboard the S.S. Calliope Thursday, Aug. 20, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Musicians from the Quincy Symphony Orchestra will entertain as the canopied steamboat cruises Boston Harbor and the Charles River.

The boat will also navigate the locks at Charlesgate and pass by the Hatch Shell as well as other familiar landmarks.

The S.S. Calliope, designed by Halsey Herreshoff, is powered by a 1905 marine steam engine visible to passengers. Her 19th century lines and mahogany deckhouse are complimented by authentic brass hardware.

Price of tickets includes the cruise, dessert and entertainment. Reservations, which are limited, are on a first come, first served basis.

The S.S. Calliope will depart from Museum Wharf, 300 Congress St., Boston.

Bus transportation will be available from the Adams Academy Building at an additional cost. The bus will depart for Museum Wharf at 5:45 p.m.

Koch Broad Meadows District Awards Night Aug. 4

The Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club Boy's Baseball and Girl's Softball Leagues will hold their 20th Annual Parents and Awards Night Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 6:30 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School Field, 50 Calvin Road, Quincy.

Presentations will be awarded based on attendance and dependability. Following completion of the program, ice cream will be distributed.

In addition to its recreational activity, the Broad Meadows District since 1964 has annually awarded $100, each to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School. A total of 36 boys and girls have received $3,600 in Scholarship Awards from the Broad Meadows District in the past 18 years.

Anthony T. Delmonico, District Director of the Koch Club unit, will be master of ceremonies at Tuesday's program. He will be assisted by Mrs. Gerry Delmonico.

The Koch Club has four locations where boys baseball and girls softball recreational activities are conducted. They are North Quincy, Broad Meadows, Montclair and West Quincy.

Wayne Gardiner Completes Tour

Wayne Gardiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardiner, 38 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, has completed a six-week tour of the west studying geophysics, a student unit from Bates College.

Gardiner is a senior at the rural arts college in Lewiston, Maine.

The study group's itinerary includes New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Activities include mapping in San Ysidro, N.M.; field trips to the Painted Desert and Arches National Park, a stop at Grand Canyon, and a raft trip down the San Juan River.

The students will analyze their findings at the University of Wyoming's paleomagnetic laboratory.

DIVISION OF WATER POLLUTION CONTROL

FINAL DETERMINATION TO ISSUE A PROPOSED SEWER EXTENSION PERMIT

On May 14, 1981, the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control published a notice in the Quincy Sun of its final determination to deny a permit for a sewer connection to serve a proposed commercial and residential development on School Street in Quincy, based on an application submitted by the Quincy Department of Public Works on behalf of OBC, Inc. of One Heritage Drive, Quincy.

The application was filed and the notice of tentative determination published pursuant to Section 43 of Chapter 21 of the General Laws. This denial was based on the inadequacy of the Town Brook Interceptor to transport the additional wastes to be generated by the project.

The division has now received information that the proposed project is not in the Town Brook Interceptor drainage area and the sewage to be generated by the project will not, therefore, exacerbate the problems in the Town Brook Interceptor drainage area.

On the basis of this information, the Division hereby issues a final determination to approve the above-described application pursuant to Section 43 of Chapter 21 of the General Laws.

Within 14 days of this final determination, parties (as defined in sections 1, 10 and 10A of Chapter 30A of the General Laws) aggrieved by the determination may file a written request with the Director for an Adjudicatory Hearing under the provisions of Chapter 30A (the Massachusetts Administrative Procedure Act) and the Standard Adjudicatory Rules of Practice and Procedure (801 CMR 1.00).

No Condos Planned For Long Island

The Quincy Citizens Association has expressed concern over the possibility of high-rise condominiums being built on Long Island, which is part of the city of Boston.

But the Quincy Planning Department says there are no such plans afoot.

"We have been in touch with the BRA (Boston Redevelopment Agency)," said Planning Director James Lydon, "and they say that there is no truth to the rumors."

The QCA wrote to Mayors Arthur H. Tobin of Quincy and Kevin H. White of Boston expressing its concern that the Long Island Hospital is to be phased out and replaced by condominiums.

"A high rise condominium development," the letter pointed out, "would have a big impact on North Quincy and Squantum."

Long Island can be reached by land only by traveling through North Quincy and Squantum, then by causeway to Moon Island and then by bridge to Long Island.

The QCA asked that Tobin and members of the City Council "interest themselves in this Long Island condominium development project and let us know what is really going on."

Brownell Meets With Barresi On MDC Evidence

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell was scheduled to meet with State Inspector General Joseph R. Barresi yesterday (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. to present his evidence of alleged corruption in the MDC.

"We are making no specific charges," said Brownell, who was accompanied to the meeting by Rep. Philip W. Johnston of Marshfield. "We are simply turning over our files for the consideration of the inspector general and the Committee on Post Audit and Oversight."

Two weeks ago, Brownell and Johnston said they had received evidence of possible corruption from former employees of the MDC.

The charges included conflict of interest, the awarding of engineer titles to persons lacking in qualifications, and, with the elimination of the construction division, the possibility of contracts being awarded by a few top MDC officials.

Rubber Checks Draw $5 Penalty

People who "bounce" checks when paying for municipal services will face a $5 penalty under new legislation which takes effect this week, says Sen. Paul D. Harold.

The legislation provides that when a check in payment of any municipal service, fee or charge is not paid, the city treasurer may impose a penalty of 1 per cent of the amount of the check.

When the check is for less than $500, the penalty is $5 under the statute.

Harold said the new law provides for an appeal if the person who wrote the check can show he rendered it in good faith, with reasonable cause to believe it would be honored by his bank.

Computer Error Blamed Revaluation Delay May Stall Tax Rate

By TOM HENSHAW

A new delay in achieving 100 per cent revaluation of property in Quincy could postpone the setting of the 1982 tax rate until some time in November.

Chief Assessor John P. Comer said Tuesday he has been informed by P.R.C. Jacobs, the appraisal firm that is doing the revaluation, that the program has been delayed by another three to four weeks.

"The delay has been caused," Comer said he was told, "by a failure in the company's computerized system which resulted in the destruction of a file containing one complete category of values for residential properties."

"The revaluation firm will have to reenter the information for this file into the data base and reprice the file before state certification of values can be requested by the Board of Assessors."

What actually happened, Comer said, was "someone pushed the wrong button on the computer in McLean, Va., and erased the tape."

That means it will be at least three or four weeks before the assessors can go to the State Department of Revenue for certification of 100 per cent valuation.

Once certification is obtained, impact notices of the new property valuations will be sent to the taxpayers, who then have two months in which to appeal their new assessments.

That could mean announcement of the tax rate in November.

"I don't want to say that," said Comer. "I've gone to the City Council twice with dates that were furnished to me by P.R.C. Jacobs and they didn't hold up. I'm not estimating any more dates."

Comer said he is "not unhappy" with the work of P.R.C. Jacobs, which is long overdue with the reval job.

"I'm happy up to a point," he said, "but I'm getting a bit frustrated."

One of the frustrations, he said, is that he returned from a two week vacation in Ireland last Friday to discover that Jacobs project manager in Quincy had quit for another job and a new man was in his place.

"I don't like to have a new project manager, no matter how competent he is, going to work this far into the job," he said.

Comer said P.R.C. Jacobs is bonded for completion of the job and has been paid monthly for its work, starting in March, 1980. About 70 per cent of the contract has been paid, he said.

Comer said the computer tape file that was erased by mistake contained the valuations of outbuildings, such as garages, swimming pools and sheds, on some 20,000 parcels of land.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he is concerned about keeping the city running while the tax rate is being set.

"We would have to borrow a lot of money to cover a delay of that magnitude," he said. "In an election year, I'm afraid that it might become a political football."

Tobin said the city will also have to get up some $50,000 to pay for computer time on personal property, which was not included in the original proposal.

"We knew we would have to pay it eventually," he said, adding that he did not know where the money is coming from.

Tobin said Comer will take the city's problems to the State Department of Revenue to see if

Council Candidates Score Fire Protection Gap At Point

Much of Quincy Point was without direct fire coverage for some 30 hours on July 26-27 when the engine at the Quincy Point Station and backup engine were both out of action with mechanical problems.

Acting Fire Chief Joseph C. Jackson said that, with "a slight delay in response time, Quincy Point was well protected by the Quincy Fire Department at all times" from the Central Fire Station.

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for city councillor from Ward 2, demanded an investigation of the breakdown, adding that "the people of Quincy have a right to know if this is a front runner of things to come."

And Ted DeCristofaro, another candidate, warned that, despite the constraints of Proposition 2 1/2, "it is imperative that the public safety of the residents of Ward 2 be maintained."

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he was satisfied with Jackson's explanation of the incident.

"It could have happened anytime notwithstanding Proposition 2 1/2," he said.

"I hope the candidates for the City Council in Ward 2 will act responsibly and not cause alarm.

I respect their right to voice concerns but I hope they will not spread uncalled for fears among the citizens."

Jackson, acting chief in the vacation absence of Chief Edward F. Barry, said the "lack of protection for Quincy Point was unavoidable. It was just a simple case of running out of apparatus."

During the time the two engines were out, Engine 1 from headquarters covered one run to Quincy Point, a rubbish fire at the Continental Marina at 3:43 a.m. Sunday, July 26. No one was injured.

Jackson explained the incident like this:

"Engine 3, located in Quincy Point developed engine trouble at 8:30 p.m., Monday, July 20. Engine B from headquarters was immediately put in service at the Quincy Point station while Engine 3 was being repaired."

"At 1:46 a.m., Sunday, July 26, Engine B developed steering problems and had to be put out of service."

"Since the Middleboro Fire Apparatus Co. is closed on Sunday, it was necessary to leave the station without apparatus because we didn't have another engine company to cover it

"Monday morning the Fire Department mechanic picked up the necessary part from Middleboro Fire Apparatus Co., replaced the defective part and Engine B went back in service that afternoon at 3 p.m."

Jackson said it is unusual for a cover piece of apparatus like Engine B to break down while replacing another piece of broken down equipment.

Not all of Quincy Point was faced with a delay in response time, he said, adding that under ordinary circumstances equipment from headquarters often beats Engine 3 to fires in some sections of the Point.

Engine B, which is based at the Central Fire Station, is the reserve engine that faces elimination under Proposition 2 1/2. The city and the firefighters now are bargaining to preserve it.

"I need not tell you how important fire protection is to the residents of Quincy Point," said DeCristofaro in a letter to Chief Barry.

"Our senior citizen housing units and many other residential dwellings make adequate fire coverage a must."

"With the implementation of

Special License Board Meeting Aug. 11

A special summer meeting of the Quincy License Board has been called for Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 10 a.m. at City Hall.

Members will discuss matters which have come to their attention since the board recessed for the summer at the end of June.

Regular weekly meetings will reconvene in September.

O'Connell Brothers Join In Marina Development

OCB, Inc., the O'Connell Brothers construction company, is about to become involved with Marina Industries in development of the old Squantum Naval Air Station land.

Peter O'Connell, president of OCB, Inc., said papers setting up the joint venture are expected to be signed within the next 30 to 60 days.

OCB will have the controlling interest, he said.

The venture hinges on the financial arrangements, he said, adding that several banks have indicated their interest. He sees no problem with money, he said.

The first item of development on the marina site, which is owned by Boston Edison, is the so-called Harborside project, 142 units of condominium housing on the easterly side of the site.

The project has already gained approval of the City Council under Planned Unit Development with 15 restrictive amendments.

One of the restrictions is that a second access road be found for the site and negotiations are being conducted with Jordan Marsh to take over Commander Shea Boulevard.

True Test Of Prop 2½ Yet To Come Says McCauley

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for mayor, says that the next fiscal year, 1983, "will provide the true test of Proposition 2½ for the city of Quincy."

McCauley spoke at a recent meeting of a tenants' association.

"The next mayor of Quincy will face the monumental task of maintaining essential city services, while complying with Proposition 2½'s requirement to reduce the city's tax levy by an additional 15 per cent."

McCauley said.

While basic city services such as fire and police protection must be maintained at acceptable levels, it is also important that personnel in other city departments be adequate to provide for the city's needs, he continued.

McCauley expressed concern that the library department has been cut by over 50 per cent and that the engineering department has been literally wiped out.

Many residents, he said, have expressed their concern to him over reductions in the fire department. He pointed out that he, along with Councillor James A. Sheets, were the only councillors to vote against a cut in the 1981 fire department personnel budget.

McCauley expressed the hope that the 10 firefighters laid off in April can be returned to duty as soon as possible.

If elected mayor, McCauley pledged that he would squeeze every ounce of fat out of the 1983 budget but would also strive to see that essential city services are maintained.

REP. ROBERT A. CERASOLI displays some of the drug paraphernalia that would be outlawed if his bill becomes law. Plastic gun in his hand is used to pump marijuana smoke into the smoker's mouth.

Cerasoli Supports King On Drug Paraphernalia Bill

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has announced his active support of Gov. Edward J. King's bill that would prevent the sale of drug paraphernalia.

Cerasoli has also sponsored a drug paraphernalia bill that will accompany the King bill to the House floor.

Drug paraphernalia is any device or equipment intended to produce, store, or use any type of drug. These objects have become an entire industry with headshops, store displays, trade magazines, and associations glamorizing the use of drugs.

Items disguised as frisbees, necklaces, pens, and toys are examples of the drug paraphernalia that would be banned. A mandatory sentence of up to two years or $1,000, would be the penalty for the sale of such items.

Selling drug paraphernalia to a minor is a more severe crime, due to the fact that young people are more attracted to these items to use and conceal drugs. Offenders will receive a mandatory sentence of up to five years or $5,000 or both.

Cerasoli said he is prepared to debate the importance of the bill.

"This bill received a favorable vote out of the House Judiciary Committee," he said. "I am optimistic that it will become law this year."

"The drug paraphernalia industry has grown out of proportion. The passage of this bill will limit this growth and in turn discourage some of the drug usage so apparent today."

Police Assn Head QCA Speaker

Henry Bradley, president of the Quincy Police Betterment Association, was scheduled to speak on the problems of police work last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club.

Two $200 QCA educational scholarships were to be awarded to Kathleen A. Carmody, 916 Sea St., a 1981 graduate of Quincy High School, and Robert F. Murphy, 38 Vane St., a June graduate of North Quincy High School.

Morrissey Joins FAA Move Protest

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has joined other members of the Legislature in memorializing Congress to keep the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) New England Regional Office in Burlington open.

Current plans call for a consolidation of the 11 regional offices into six to achieve greater efficiency and monetary savings.

"The proposed plan would close the New York Regional Office and consolidate Northeast operations in Burlington," said Morrissey.

"There is a move afoot to stop or reverse this plan, which would have an extremely adverse affect on the New England region, and cause a loss of some 400 jobs."

Morrissey said the Massachusetts Port Authority and the FAA have been extremely helpful to neighboring communities in alleviating airplane noise and developing the most advanced noise monitoring system in the country.

He stressed that this success could not have been achieved had the FAA regional office been located outside the New England area.

Jason Feldman Square Dedication Sept. 13

The intersection of Cliveden and Hancock Sts. in the heart of downtown Quincy will be dedicated the Jason A. Feldman Square in ceremonies Sunday, Sept. 13 at 10 a.m.

"We are honoring a Quincy-born humanitarian who did so much for the city of Quincy," said Bernard Reisberg, a longtime friend of the late Feldman, proprietor of Jason's Music and Luggage store.

Reisberg, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, is the chairman of a 10-member committee that has been planning the Sept. 13 dedication.

Other members of the committee include Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, John M. Gillis, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council; John P. (Jake) Comer, state representative on the American Legion's National Executive Committee.

Also Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy

Sun, Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA, Irving Isaacson, Marion Feldman and Marion Reisberg.

The Sept. 13 ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m. in front of City Hall and, led by the Quincy High School marching band will move to the site where a bronze plaque will be unveiled at 10:30 a.m.

Herb Fontaine will be master of ceremonies and guests will include members of the Quincy Veterans Council, city councilors, state officials from Quincy and members of the business community.

A collation at Beth Israel Synagogue, Quincy Point, will follow the ceremony.

THE SOLAR BUS, which contains working solar energy devices for public viewing, recently visited Quincy. Examining a windmill device were, from left, State Energy Secretary Joseph S. Fitzpatrick, Senator Paul D. Harold and Thomas Burke, executive secretary to Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Revaluation Delay May Stall Tax Rate

anything can be done.

"They have gone along with us so far as long as we have been able to show good faith and legitimate problems," he said.

The mayor said that in the past he has been told by the state that tax rates cannot be set unless the city can show a budget that is in compliance with Proposition 2 1/2 and is certified for 100 per cent valuation.

Tobin said that, with a little tinkering, the budget for fiscal 1982 will be in compliance with Prop 2 1/2, with the addition of state aid announced last week on the cherry sheet.

Quincy is down to receive $16,498,554 in state aid for fiscal 1982 but with offsetting charges of $6,592,072 for such things as the MBTA, the MDC and Norfolk
County costs, the net is $9,906,482.
That's an increase of almost $3.8 million over fiscal 1981.

But Rep. Thomas F. Brownell said that Quincy could get as much as $2.3 million more in state aid if a bill now before his Taxation Committee is passed changing the formula for distribution of state aid.

"It looks like the bill will get a favorable committee report," said Brownell, "and it seems to have sufficient votes in the House. It looks pretty good."

The problem is that the House probably won't get to vote on it until late September.

The Legislature is in recess now until Sept. 3 and it is likely that it will meet briefly on Sept. 3 and then recess for another two weeks.

The bill was filed by Brownell and others when it was discovered that some towns were getting back considerably more in state aid than they were losing under the limitations of Prop 2 1/2.

The towns of Harvard, for instance, received 964 per cent and Amherst got 340 per cent more in state aid than they lost in taxes while Quincy got only 23 per cent of its losses back.

The Brownell bill would change the formula and limit the cities and towns to not less than 40 per cent nor more than 60 per cent returns

Truth In Coal Bill Now Law

Retailers of pre-packaged coal will have to mark their packages more clearly under legislation now in effect, Sen. Paul D. Harold reported.

The new law requires that the package tell the name and address of the company which packaged the coal, the weight, the classification, and the size of the coal pieces.

Harold said the amendment tightens the law last amended in 1926, because of the increased popularity of coal-burning stoves and heaters.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Most of the entries stumbled over Moon Island. It may be owned by Boston but it is still part of Quincy. In the same way, Bainbridge Dam is owned by Quincy but it is part of Bainbridge.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun
bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of Quincy's city solicitor?
2. True or false: Adams Academy was built on the site of John Adams' birthplace?
3. In what section of the city is Neponset Rd.?
4. What Quincy landmark is located at 114 Whitwell St.?
5. The only Quincy mayor to die in office was: John L. Miller?
Gustave B. Bates? Amelio Della Chiesa?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Ray Cattaneo is the coach of the Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team.
2. True: Moon Island is a part of Quincy.
3. Bass St. is in the Wollaston section of the city.
4. Amelio Della Chiesa was mayor of Quincy when John J.
Quinn first became a member of the City Council.
5. Remick's is located at 1517 Hancock St.

Everybody Loves Louis

Louis, Houghs Neck's favorite bassett bound, is getting to be quite a celebrity.

Louis, in case you haven't been around lately, is addicted to chocolate chip cookies. His owner, Don (Sacco) Sartori who runs
Louis Cafe on Sea St. opened a charge account for him at Finlay's store across the street.

Louis is back and forth across the street collecting cookies. One time he was hit by a car.

So, friends had a special sign erected for him declaring the area a "Louis Crossing" complete with Louis' image on it.

Some months ago, The Sun ran a Page 1 story and pictures on it.

And, now everybody is interested.

Recently the Boston Globe ran a similar picture of Louis and the Associated Press picked it up. It got a lot of use.

In fact, City Council President Leo Kelly received a telephone call from the London Daily Mirror inquiring about Louis. (Well, you can't keep writing about Charles and Diana everyday.)

Quincy Atty. Charles Ross received a Chicago
Tribune clipping of Louis' picture.

The Sun received a similar clipping out of the Today newspaper in Vero Beach, Fla. sent by former Houghs Neck residents Roberta and Ed
Meade. And another one from the California Daily Report in Rancho Cucamonga, sent by former Quincy resident Lewis Trout.

Now, television shows are contacting Sartori saying they would like to show Louis in action.

Louis, meanwhile, is taking it all in stride. He doesn't care as long as they don't run out of chocolate chip cookies at Finlay's.

FORMER Mayor Thomas S. Burgin was one of the speakers at the recent public hearing on the proposed crosstown connector. He's in favor of it.

BURGIN

Linked to the connector proposal is the extension of Burgin Parkway which is named for him. He's in favor of that, too. But at the public hearing Burgin modestly referred to the Burgin Parkway by its former name — Upland Rd.

MAYBE SOMEBODY'S listening to Rep.
Thomas Brownell down in Washington. Last December, Brownell filed and the state legislature passed a resolution asking an end to the so-called marriage penalty in federal income tax.

It popped up as part of President's Reagan's tax bill that recently passed the Congress.

Also part of the Reagan tax bill was the concept of indexing. That is, tying the tax brackets to the rate of inflation so that you won't be carried into a new bracket by the cost of living.

LOUIS

Brownell filed a bill on the state level last December that would index state income tax exemptions to the rate of inflation. That bill is still alive in the Committee on Taxation.

IF THE FILLET of sole at the Three Seasons Restaurant tasted fresher than usual recently it was because the cooks not only cooked the fish, they caught them as well.

Thirty three students in the Culinary Arts Department at the Vocational Technical School went on their second annual fishing trip with the Quincy Bay Flounder Fleet.

In four hours they caught 206 pounds of flounder. That was on Thursday. On Friday, they filleted them, cooked them and served them, sauteed, with shrimp sauce, in the school restaurant.

CREEDON

"It's an A to Z experience with fish," said School Supt.
Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who went along and caught three fish himself, "from baiting the hook to putting them on the table."

Members of the Culinary Department started making the fishing trip as guests of the Quincy Bay Flounder Fleet last year when Monique Powers, daughter of the fleet's owner, enrolled in the class.

THE COMMITTEE to elect Timothy Cahill
Councillor at Large will open campaign headquarters tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at 1246 Hancock St., across from the Quincy Center MBTA station. Refreshments will be served and all are welcome to drop in.

IT'S HARD to tell who is more proud of Kathleen McCloskey, her parents, John and Agnes McCloskey, 196 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, or her employer, Jack Kerrigan of Baskin-Robbins.

Kathleen, 18, who graduated second in her class at Fontbonne Academy, Milton, starts at Holy Cross Aug. 30 under a $2,000 a year scholarship, as long as she maintains passing grades.

She is also enrolled in a work-study program, but combining work and study is nothing new to Kathleen.

She has worked at Kerrigan's Baskin-Robbins ice cream shop since her sophomore year and paid her own way through Fontbonne on her earnings.

Kathleen plans to study political science at Holy Cross, which could cause some concern for Ward 6 City Councillor Joanne Condon in the not too distant future.

Praises Quincy Teen Mothers Program

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The wire services recently picked up on a report written by the Rand Corporation which was in turn used by several area papers. The Rand Study, entitled "Pregnant Teens Get Little Help", cited two school systems in the United States as having "exemplary programs" for teenage mothers.

However, there is another exemplary program the study seems to be unaware of. It is the Quincy Teen Mothers Program sponsored by the Family Service Association of Greater Boston.

The program is run in conjunction with the Quincy school system and is funded by the Department of Mental Health, a foundation, and small contributions from other sources. It provides an excellent health and educational support system.

Pregnant teenage students are encouraged to remain in school.
They pursue their studies through a tutorial program at the Bethany
School, located in the Bethany

Church in Quincy. The mothers bring their babies with them, and the babies are cared for while the mothers study.

In addition, the girls receive vocational guidance, personal counseling and medical and social service assistance.

Raymondi Pledges REACH Out To Residents

Quincy residents will be guaranteed access to the Mayor's office through a plan unveiled by City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, a candidate for mayor.

The program, called REACH (Resident's Easy Access to City Hall), will allow citizens a more effective voice in the city's policy planning.

Raymondi outlined the program at a coffee party held in the home of Charles and Pat McDermott of 146 Taylor St., Wollaston.

The four point REACH program features a direct hot line to the mayor's office, monthly meetings in various Quincy neighborhoods and a telephone call-in show in which listeners may telephone WJDA and question the mayor.

The final step would culminate in a meeting with city hall department heads in which Raymondi will initiate policy suggestions based upon resident input.

Raymondi told the audience that those who make use of the hotline will be assured a follow-up of their problems or comments.

"No mayoral administration in Quincy has ever attempted such an open form of government," he said. "My administration will set a precedent in accessibility for Quincy government."

Council Candidates Score Fire Protection Gap At Point

Proposition 2 1/2, it is clear that citizens must choose the priority of services they wish to receive from their city or town.

"It is equally clear that fire protection ranks high on that list of services.

"Therefore, it is important to publicize all such gaps in service so as to allow affected residents and others an opportunity to communicate their concerns to their elected officials in the hopes of avoiding such incidents in the future."

DeCristofaro said he was sure that the Fire Department worked hard to return service to Quincy Point.

"The question remains, however, should such a lack of service have been allowed to exist in the first place," he said. "And the answer to that ultimately rests with the citizens of our city."

Cortese demanded "assurances from City Hall or Fire Department officials that the conditions that took place July 26-27, jeopardizing the safety of the residents of this area, will not be allowed to continue."

"If a condition such as this arises whereby Central headquarters or other companies are called to a different section of the city, Quincy Point is left completely without fire protection," he said.

"Are Quincy Point citizens going to be neglected of the fire protection due them or are they going to be lulled into a false sense of security thinking they have adequate fire protection 24 hours a day, every day of the year."

"The people of Quincy have a right to know if this is a front runner of things to come."

I want adequate steps taken now to prevent this potentially hazardous situation from becoming a reality again in the future."

Kelly Supports State Aid Legislation

City Council president Leo J. Kelly recently expressed his "strong support" of proposed legislation to amend the formula of state aid to cities and towns, in a letter to Representative George Keverian.

In the July 24, letter to Keverian, majority leader of the House of Representatives, Kelly stated, "I was among the city officials who met with Governor King . . . and from all indications, he appeared to be in favor of the 40-60 floor and ceiling formula.

"I concur that this formula would be far more equitable for those cities and towns severely affected by Prop 2 1/2."

Kelly went on to say that Quincy would receive only 20% of its losses under the present formula. He listed the cutbacks in Quincy's Fire Department, Police Department and school personnel.

Concluded Kelly, "I cannot emphasize too strongly how necessary the passage of your proposed amendment to the present formula is, if we are to keep our cities and towns solvent."

Night At JFK Library For Handicapped Children

Four Quincy residents are members of the Massachusetts Association for Handicapped Children which is organizing a night at the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library Wednesday, Aug. 12.

The residents are Ralph J. Maher, Peter Eley, Joseph McLaughlin and George Matheson.

Price of the tickets, which can be obtained by calling 828-2440, ext. 202, will include admission to the library, a film in the library theatre, viewing of exhibits, and wine, cheese and entertainment.

A reception will be held in the pavilion area. Proceeds will help fund summer activities of local schools and hospitals for handicapped children.

Paul Clabby is president, treasurer of the non-profit organization established to aid various institutions, hospitals, schools and organizations for the handicapped child. The association operates totally out of membership fees and 100% of each donation received goes directly to the children.

Anyone interested in purchasing tickets or finding out more about the Mass. Association for Handicapped Children, Inc., can direct inquiries to P.O. Box 778, Quincy, 02269.

Cerebral Palsy Seeking Volunteers

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., 105 Adams St., is seeking volunteers to help with its program for handicapped children, ages 2 through 6.

The volunteers are needed Monday through Friday between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to help with the feeding program for the children.

Volunteers can respond to this appeal by calling the Cerebral Palsy Clinic at 479-7443.

Fishing Ban At Nut Island Pier

The Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) refused a request by Mayor Charles A. Ross to lift its ban on fishing from the Nut Island pier in Houghs Neck.

A spokesman for the MDC said the State Board of Health had warned that the fish caught there were not fit to eat.

Carol Pallas, spokesman for a group of Houghs Neck fishermen, charged that MDC employees at Nut Island were discriminating by permitting certain individuals to fish from the pier.

NURSES DEPART

Eight senior nurses at City Hospital were given a farewell tea as they prepared to leave for military hospitals for the last six months of training as members of the U.S. Cadet Nurse Corps.

They were Phyllis Rhoda, Beverly Dorley, Jacqueline Ciochetti, Eileen McGowan, Irene Bergeron, Mary Cother, Gertrude Brady and Ellen Rantakangas.

BIRD WINNER

Former teammate Charlie Bird limbed Fore River to six hits as the Pawtucket Slayers won a 2-1 victory in their New England League game. Pawtucket got 11 hits off Lefty McKeag.

The Fore River lineup: Dunphy ss, Francario 3b, Burns 1b, Lehan 2b, Novello rf, Cunningham lf, McBernie cf, Deven c, McKeag p.

The loss locked the Shipbuilders into fourth place, which meant they would have to open the playoffs Aug. 20 against pennant-winning Lynn.

LITCHFIELD ON LEAVE

Staff Sgt. Edward W. Litchfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Litchfield, 62 Standish Ave., Wollaston, was home on leave after 58 missions as a turret gunner on a B-25.

He told of being wounded in the leg over Rome and shooting down a German plane near Trebisacce, Italy.

BROADMEADOWS PLAYGROUND

Joseph W. Pinel of the Park Commission estimated that the new playground selected by Mayor Ross and city officials in Broad Meadows will be ready in two weeks.

Meanwhile, Leon M. Little, president of Sailors Snug Harbor, volunteered the use of the Snug Harbor premises as a ball field for Germantown boys pending completion of the Broad Meadows facility.

1,500 Signatures On Koch Papers

Richard J. Koch, Jr., candidate for City Councillor at large, says that one of the major activities of his campaign would be his personal visit to as many homes as possible to present himself to the voters throughout the city.

Koch said that to date, with the help of several volunteers, over 1500 signatures have been obtained from Quincy voters endorsing the appearance of Koch's name on the ballot.

Although only 50 certified names are required by the City Election Department, it is expected that the Committee To Elect Richard J. Koch, Jr. will realize over 3,000 names before the Aug. 18, deadline for papers to be filed by those seeking municipal office in the City of Quincy.

Koch said his personal visit will allow people to evaluate him as a person and question him as a potential office holder.

Koch, was the runnerup in the 1979 municipal election losing the councillor at large contest by 197 votes and refused to seek a recount at the expense of the taxpayers.

Brooks To Draw Line At Big Development

Gregory P. Brooks, a candidate for the City Council at large, says Quincy "cannot allow multi-unit apartments, condominiums and eight and 10-story office buildings to spring up all over the city."

"I like the idea of the Quincy Center Plaza now being constructed at the intersection of Granite and Hancock Sts.," he said, "I take a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, 36 Garfield St., West Quincy."

"But we are going to have to draw the line somewhere."

"I can promise you that I won't sit on my hands and allow Quincy to become a 'mini-Boston'; I'll fight for what I truly believe to be in the best interest of the city and its residents.

"You know, there are a lot of people in Quincy who came to this city because Quincy is Quincy."

Brooks criticized current members of the City Council as being "indecisive, and lacking both leadership and initiative."

"If I am elected to one of the three at-large seats," he said, "I promise you an open door policy."

"As part of that policy, I will hold monthly meetings in each ward to discuss problems with the residents; in turn I will report to the mayor after these meetings with any relevant information."

"There will be accessibility to my office, the likes of which have never been seen in this city."

Wollaston Library

To Close Week Of Aug. 10

The Wollaston Branch Library will be closed the week of Aug. 10, when the children's collection will be relocated to the main floor.

according to Warren E. Watson, director of libraries.

The children's film program Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 10:30 a.m. will be held as scheduled.

The library regrets any inconvenience the temporary closing will cause patrons, and urges them to use other library facilities.

'Fabulous 50's' Record Hop To Raise Funds For DOVE

A "Fabulous 50's" record hop to raise funds for a permanent shelter for DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), will be held 8 p.m. to midnight, Thursday, August 13, at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd.

Music will be by "The Pips". Featured will be pop tunes from the 50's in the "DJ (disc jockey) style record hop", according to Carol Mahoney, special events co-chairwoman for DOVE.

All funds raised, including proceeds from a cash bar, will be added to DOVE's $100,000 drive to purchase a permanent shelter to house battered women and children.

Squantum Center Schedule

Mary Gougan, coordinator of the Squantum Community Center, 136 Standish Rd., announces the schedule of activities at the center for the remainder of August will be:

Tuesday, Aug. 18, bowling 1:30 p.m., bus leaves at 6 p.m.
Monday, Aug. 24, movie "Fox and the Hound", bus leaves at 6:30 p.m.

Tuesday, Aug. 25, Gloucester harbor cruise for families and adults, bus leaves at 9:30 a.m.

Those interested must sign up for the trips.

Blood pressure clinics are held Thursdays, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. every week.

Fridays, 1 to 4 p.m., are senior citizen's days.

The center is open Monday to Friday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Her husband, Burton S. Cook, also was elected to the board of directors.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky D.M.D.

ENAMEL FAULTS

Q: I have little discolored lines and pits on my four upper and lower front teeth. Why?

A: These eight teeth all form at about the same time. The little pits and fissures represent some interference with the formation of the enamel surface in the developing tooth. Often it's some childhood illness accompanied by a very high fever.

Q: Do cracks in the corners of the mouth always mean a vitamin deficiency?

A: They may be due to a Vitamin B complex deficiency, but there may be other factors. These cracks may also be caused by the habit of licking the corners of the mouth or by ill-fitting dentures that allow the jaws to come too close together.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or reservations for tables of 10 can be made by calling Maureen Mazrimas of the Jack Conway, Realtor office at 479-1500.

DOVE officials have raised $15,000 so far toward the purchase of an eight bedroom South Shore house. The location is not disclosed for security reasons. The group must vacate its present location by the end of August.

Aiding DOVE in the fund-raising is Jack Conway and Co., Realtors. The firm and Dick Cahill, manager of the Conway Quincy office, are contributing $6,000 in brokerage fees to help DOVE with the $10,000 down payment, officials said.

Direct contributions may be made to: DOVE, P.O. Box 287, Quincy, Ma. 02269. Pledges may be made by calling any Jack Conway office.

McDuff Cites Need For Independent Vote

John H. McDuff Jr., a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, has cited the need for independent men and women in city government.

"I have no friends or relatives on the city payroll," he told a group of supporters. "I have never been on the city payroll. Nor am I a member of any political power group in this city.

"As your councillor, you can be sure that when I cast a vote it will come from my own convictions and not from any orders I receive.

"As an independent, I will vote what I believe to be best for the people who elected me, without having to check with some political bosses for their approval.

"And I will not use your tax dollars to make jobs for my friends or relatives. There has been too much of that taking place already."

DeCristofaro Offering Voter Registration Transportation

Ted DeCristofaro, candidate for ward 2 Councillor, announces he will provide free transportation to and from Quincy City Hall Friday for ward 2 residents wishing to register to vote in the Sept. 22, primary.

Deadline for registering for the primary is Sept. 1.

DeCristofaro stated that his door-to-door campaign has made him aware that a great number of people are unregistered as a result of recent moves into the ward.

Said DeCristofaro, "This year, more than ever, it is important that every person take advantage of that privilege which symbolizes our democracy - the right to vote."

Registering takes less than five minutes, according to DeCristofaro.

To arrange for the free transportation, call 472-1265 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday.

South Shore Bank, Boston Gear Named United Way Pacesetters

Two Quincy companies have been chosen as "pacesetter" organizations to conduct their employee United Way campaigns in August and serve as models for the general campaign in September.

They are the South Shore Bank, whose president, William B. Austin Jr., is a longtime United Way volunteer; and Boston Gear, which will be a pacesetter firm for the third time in four years.

Eighteen other companies also were selected as pacesetters.

The United Way's 1981 drive begins officially Sept. 9 and continues through Nov. 24 with a goal of $26 million set to help support 169 human service agencies, 13 of them in Quincy.

Father, Son Return From Tall Ship Training

Philip Robinson and his 21-year-old son, Mark, of 42 North Bayfield Rd., North Quincy, returned home from Bermuda by airline after spending 12 days on a sea experience aboard the Norwegian "tall ship" Sorlandet.

The vessel had visited in Boston July 14th for a day.

The Robinsons were united with their family on board the square-rigger which carried 31 Americans on board. It was the first time in maritime history that citizens of the United States entered an American port as "cadets" of a foreign international training vessel.

Also among the crew was Harry Channel of Winfield Rd. Hingham who was greeted upon arrival by Joe Chetwyn of that town who was among the first eight Americans who brought the Sorlandet to Bermuda across the Atlantic from Portsmouth, England to begin a series of five sea training experiences.

The sea training program is sponsored by the New England Historic Seaport and is the first program of its kind in the United States. The only "tall ship" underway is the Coast Guard's barque Eagle. However, use of this ship is restricted to use by the Guardsmen and the cadets of the Maritime Academy. Tall ship training is the "ultimate" in the life of those who follow the sea under sail. In the navies of other countries, this type of training is mandatory in some, and very popular in all, especially in the European and South American countries.

A great deal of interest in tall ship sailing was generated by the visits of the world's tall ships to Boston in 1964, for the Bicentennial in 1976 and again for the Boston Jubilee 350 in 1980. The visits were directed by Henry Dormitzer of Cohasset, New England Historic Seaport's chairman of the board.

Day Of Prayer For Youth Saturday

A Day of Prayer will be held for the youth of Quincy and the South Shore Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Our Lady's Chapel of the Sacred Heart Church, 400 Hancock St., North Quincy.

The Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament will be held for the five hour period. All youths are invited to attend and participate in silent prayer that God will direct their lives.

Scripture Readings will be conducted on the hour. Youths may choose the time most available in their work schedule to attend.

The Day of Prayer is in response to several successful conducted previously and a request by a number of youths for the scheduling of an additional service.

Adults and families are invited to attend and participate in silent prayer, meditation and Bible reading.

Youths from the Sacred Heart Parish are welcome and urged to join in the five hour vigil of prayer.

Several other churches in the Archdiocese will also sponsor the spiritual program.

The Program is sponsored by the Sacred Heart Prayer Community as part of its spiritual service for the youths of the communities.

'Heralds Of Light' At Central Baptist

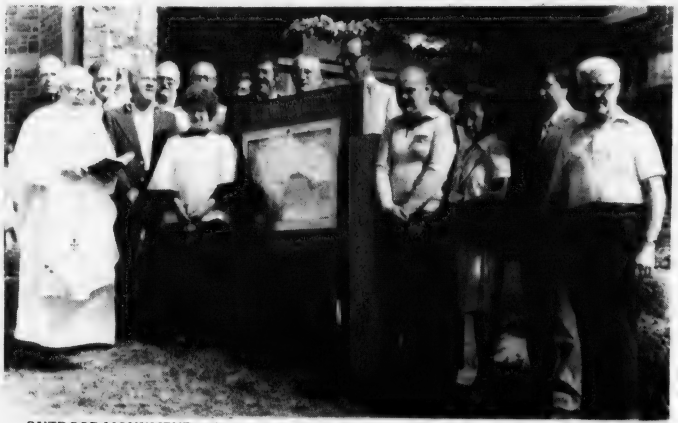

"Heralds of Light", a male quartet of Bethel College students, will present a concert of sacred music at Central Baptist Church, 65 Washington St., Quincy, Wednesday, Aug. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

The public is welcome. Performing will be Brian Madvig, Kevin Karlsgodt, Michael Dirks, Timothy Sawyer, and accompanist Dan Hicks.

The program will feature hymns, gospel songs, and contemporary sacred music for male voices sung both a cappella and with piano accompaniment.

Also on the program will be duets, solos, and instrumental preludes.

"Your Community Church"

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had it "all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life — "strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ — now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

Association
for Handicapped
Children?

It is a charitable corporation organized in 1973 under Chapter 180 of the Massachusetts General Laws. It was started by a group of people who are interested in the too often overlooked problems of educating children who are physically handicapped. The organization serves as a source of funds for special projects and needs at schools and hospitals that educate, train and rehabilitate handicapped children. It is devoted to the principle that every child, whatever the physical handicap, should be given the opportunity to grow and develop so that the child may reach his or her full potential.

It is an organization whose members include people from all walks of life, both professional and non-professional. The members share the common awareness that in the press of daily living each of us and society in general tends to forget about the young children who need a little extra help to surmount a physical handicap.

This charity has no paid employees, has never hired professional fundraisers.

The officers of the Association are: Paul Clasby, President and Treasurer; Richard Ward, Clerk; Edward Graham, Director; Joseph Clasby, Director; George Mathieson, Director.

Legion Awards Presented To 3 Broad Meadows Students

Broad Meadows Junior High School recently held its final grade nine assembly.

A highlight of the program was the awarding of the 1981 American Legion Award to Susan Beven of 43 Macy St., Paul Burke of 201 Taffrail Rd., and Cynthia Morrell of 64 Parkhurst St.

The awards were given by Houghts Neck Post Junior Vice Commander Alice Scribner. Presented annually, these awards are given to students showing the greatest accomplishment in scholarship, service, and leadership.

The students presented Parent Board Chairwoman, Mrs. Elaine McGrail a scroll from the class of 1981. The scroll cited the organization and special leadership Mrs. McGrail employed to ensure the success of traditional class activities. Mrs. McGrail thanked the more than 40 parents who made the success possible.

The assembly concluded with a 50-minute slide/tape history of the Class of 1981. Under the direction of Robert Bernard, the program was planned and created by grade nine students.

Zone 6 All-Stars Win MDA Benefit

The Zone 6 American Legion All-Stars defeated the Zone 6A stars, 6-1, Monday night before a large crowd at Adams Field and raised more than $500 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The Zone 6 stars, leading, 2-1, clinched the win with four runs in the eighth inning.

Bob Guilmette of Brockton, Kevin Pizzi of Norwell and John Beatey of Hingham pitched three innings each for Zone 6. Paul Gammel of Norwell and Rick Roach of Hingham split the catching assignment.

Dan Ronaghan of Weymouth sparked the winning attack with a triple and a single and an RBI and Jamie Walsh of Quincy had two hits.

Rich Hallberg of Wollaston, who had a fine season, pitched two strong innings for Zone 6.

Morrisette Legion Post hosted all players following the game.

Wollaston had finished up strong in Zone 6A, winning five of its last six games and defeated Holbrook, 11-6, in the season's finale last week.

Bob Bolster reached base four times on three hits and a walk and scored four runs. He also picked up the victory, pitching six-hit ball and striking out seven before tiring after six innings with an 11-1 lead.

Wollaston scored three runs in each of the second, third and fourth innings and added two in the sixth. Jim Hensley and Steve Belcastro had two hits each and Paul McConville had a two-run double.

Frank Kelly Track Meet Aug. 15

The Quincy Track Club will host the sixth annual Frank Kelly Memorial Track Meet Saturday, Aug. 15, at 9:30 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Registration fee is $1.00.

A concession stand will be open during the entire meet and all proceeds will go to support the track club.

There will be a number of events for boys and girls from 5 and under to 14-17. Trophies will go to the top three teams and medals to the top three finishers in each event. All past and present members of the QTC are requested to attend. There will be teams from all sections of New England and two from New Jersey.

More information can be obtained by calling Stuart Coull at 328-7329.

The QTC made its usual excellent showing last Saturday in the Brockton Summerfest meet at Marciano Stadium, winning 35 medals.

In the 6-8 division Regina Murphy took third in the 400 meters and Chris DiGiacomo took second in the boys' 50-yard dash.

In 9-10 girls Karen Cashman won the 800 in 3:06, Cindy Bonner took second in the 400 and Robin Guilfoyle was second in the 50. In boys action John Dunderdale took third in the 800, Tony Rugnetta and Robbie Kearney were 2-3 in the 100, Rugnetta and Sean Munroe were 1-2 in the 50 and Munroe took second in the long jump.

In 11-12 girls Nancy Sullivan took second in the 800, Laura Ciulla won the 100 and took second in the 400 and Tracy Fostello and Marybeth Bonner were 1-2 in the shot put. In boys events Stuart Coull won the mile, Harry Morash was third in the 800, Mark Lunnin took third in the 100 and Coull took second in the long jump.

In 13-15 girls Shannon Gotter took second in the mile, Tracy Coull was third in the 200 and Lynda Feeney took second in the shot put. For the boys Don Fink took second in the 200 and third in the long jump, Colin Powers won the shot and John Delapelle took second in the high jump.

The girls 13-15 relay team of Nancy Sullivan, Tracy Fostello, Tracy Coull and Marybeth Bonner took third, thanks to an outstanding anchor leg by Coull.

The highlight of the meet was a coaches' relay between coaches of the Quincy club and Sunrise Striders of Long Island. Quincy's Gerry Libby, Stu Coull, Dick Sullivan and Jeff Hennessy finished a close second.

Babe Ruth League Playoffs Underway

The Babe Ruth League playoffs got under way last night (Wednesday) with first place Granite City Electric, Sons of Italy and Hancock Bank representing the National League and first place Houghs Neck, Elks and Firemen the American League.

Hancock Bank made the playoffs by winning five of its last six games. Playing well on offense and defense were Mike Bates, Mike Conlon, Bob Galvin, Scott Messina, Ed Page, Marc Abboud, Steve Higgins, John O'Connor, Paul Scibilio, Steve White, Joe Cullen, Brian Flukes, Billy LaForest, Andy Lenhardt and Kevin Scibilio.

Although failing to make the playoffs, Morrisette did knock the Elks out of a first place tie with Houghs Neck by walloping Elks, 12-4, in the last game of the regular season. Joe Grimaldi pitched a five-hitter for Morrisette.

Morrisette scored three runs in the first inning on only one hit, a leadoff single by John Cristiani. The Elks scored twice in the top of the third, but Morrisette came back with four in the bottom half, again on only one hit, another single by Cristiani.

Both teams scored a run in the fifth and Morrisette settled things with four in the sixth on singles by Tom Connolly, Jerry Frazier, Grimaldi and Lou Gonzales. The Elks added their final run in the seventh. Grimaldi tired in his first start and gave way to Frazier, who got the save.

John Cristiani, who also had a spectacular catch in center field, and Frazier had two hits apiece and playing strong defense were Jack Outerbridge, Rick Kelly, Gonzales and Vin Cristiani.

Police, Firefighters City Officials, Media In Doubleheader Aug. 13

The fifth annual softball doubleheader to aid Muscular Dystrophy has been scheduled for Thursday, August 13, at Adams Field in Merrymount Park beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Quincy Police Department, winner of last year's yearly event, will meet the Quincy Fire Department in the opening game, while the Quincy City Officials will be seeking a repeat win over the News Media Representatives at the 8 p.m. encounter under the lights.

John Caporale and Chuck O'Donnell will lead the charges for the Police Department while Chuck Walter and Jim Kelly will lead the firefighters attack in the early softball contest.

Henry Bosworth, of The Quincy Sun will again coach the news media and City Council President Leo J. Kelly will lead the city officials.

The Quincy Police softball team is sporting an 8-4 record in the Suburban Police Softball League and is in second place.

Members of the Police team include Jim Buhl, Gerry Queeney, Tom Malvesti, Jerry Nichol, Jim Coleman, Dennis Mannix, John Cavanaugh, Joe Manning, Frank Johnson, Ed Kusser Jr., Frank Bertoni, Tom Hickey, Joe Phillips, Ron Heggblod and Bob Edgar.

The Quincy Fire Department team is sponsored by Firefighters Local 792 and has a 6-2 record playing an independent schedule with other Fire Department teams.

The Fire Department players scheduled to participate in the contest include Jim McPartlan, Steve Johnson, Mike Hobin, John Martell, Jack Goddard, Dom Conso, Paul Cuddy, Jim Kelly, Dave Anderson, John Moran, Charlie Behenna, Jim deVarense, Fred Baldoock, Al Trotman and Chuck Walter.

TV, Radio Team

In Benefit Softball Game Aug. 10

A team of TV and radio personalities from WNAC-TV, WROR and WRKO radio stations will play a benefit softball game against the Braintree Jaycees next Monday, Aug. 10, at 8 p.m. at Kincaide Park, Water Street, South Quincy.

The game will benefit the Dianne DeVanna Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect.

This is the third annual game hosted by the Braintree Jaycees. Last year the TV-radio team, which included Brad Holbrook, Mike Taibi, Shane Hollett and Harvey Leonard, defeated the Jaycees, 8-5.

Donations will be accepted at the game or tickets can be purchased today (Thursday) at the South Shore Plaza Information Booth. For further ticket information call 843-8320.

YMCA Sponsoring Adult Running Camp

The South Shore YMCA (formerly the Quincy YMCA) is sponsoring a running camp on Cape Cod for adults Sunday, Aug. 23 to Saturday, Aug. 29.

Suited for both experienced and inexperienced runners, the camp will feature expertise in areas of nutrition, stretching, running injuries and prevention, training methods of running techniques.

The low key camp will have a variety of optional activities. Six tennis courts will be available as well as a swimming beach, boating and canoeing, and land sports.

The price includes three meals a day and lodging.

For further information, contact the South Shore YMCA in Quincy at 479-8500.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Adams [Kathie Golden, Ted Shaw] - Krissy Light won the checker tournament, and Donna Delorey took the Miss Adams Crown. Arts and Crafts Specialists brought ice cream sticks and the youngsters made beautiful projects with them. Donna Delorey and Kim Contrino helped out making and drawing things for the bulletin board. Music and Drama Specialists came and helped the kids make puppets.

Faxon [Hazel Brown, Tony O'Malley] - The arts and crafts project is near completion. Bonnie McFadd, Renee McFadd, Tina Consolazio, Wendy Wheeler, Aimee D'Avignon, Michelle Russell and Bob Volpe have added creative ideas. The junior boys baseball team lost its first game to Kincaide Park by only four points. Bobby Volpe, Willy Murphy, Chris Coughlin, Frank Calabro and Ernie Light played well. Frank Calabro scored 16 points in the Pepsi Hot Shots Tournament. He was the highest scoring player. Wendy Wheeler and Tina Consolazio took second place in the Junior girls three-legged race at the Junior Olympics. There are more events planned for the remaining weeks including a Racquetball Trip, a beach trip, a baseball clinic, and a beauty pageant.

Grasso [Christine Rusconi] - Scott Grant, John Balducci, Scott Salvatore and Robby Neal are becoming pros at racquetball. Sandy Scalata and Christine Chelder's hit a mean ball for the girls. The Pepsi Hot Shot competition was recently held. The winners were John Balducci, boys 9-12; Beth Vacca, girls 9-12, and Christine Balducci, girls 13-15. Grasso Park stars were Christine Balducci with a score of 20 and Beth Vacca with 10. Both of these girls will advance to the city finals. Beth Vacca was crowned Miss Grasso.

Kincaide [Dennis Donovan,

Marie Ridge, Maureen Kelly] - Two racquetball trips, a magic show at Adams Field and the Wizard of Oz were recent features. The midget boys team dropped four games in a row. Playoff hopes look dim. The junior basketball teams are winning in fine fashion. The junior girls team defeated Shea Rink, 40-0. The boys junior team defeated Faxon Park, 20-14 and Adams, 14-12. Congratulations to Miss Kincaide contestants Marg and Katie Jenkins, Debbie Vacca, Kate-Lynn Sheils, Lynn Anderson, Lisa Marani, and winners Beth Vacca and Kathy Cahill.

O'Rourke [Cindy McKay, Bob Harnais, Linda Baccari] - Half way into the summer, midget boys baseball team record is 4-2. Top players include Donny Anderson, Ian MacLeod, Danny and Hartley Batchelder, Mike Noonan, Ray Grant, Tom Leonard and many more. The senior baseball team will represent O'Rourke in the playoffs. Enjoying the boat-house trip were Sue Morrison, Mike Noonan, Chip Cook, Andrea Patricia. Among those making the racquet ball trip were Shannon O'Connor, Andy Eames, Jimmy McSweeney, Ray Grant.

Shea Rink [Lori Prescott, Bob Flaherty] - Youngsters are working on their arts and crafts project. Some of the more faithful contributors to the project are Robbie Manupelli, Paul Obshatkin and Ricky Manupelli.

There was a good turn out for the Pepsi Hot Shots. Shea Rink winners were Michelle Webber, midget girls; Marianne Gorman, junior girls; Paul Obshatkin, midget boys; Ricky Manupelli, junior boys; Paul Ryan, senior boys.

Nicole Zanardelli is Miss Shea Rink. Other contestants were Marcia Zanardelli, Michelle Webber, and Julia Kelley. Judges were Paula Constat, Annie Baccari, Linda Baccari and Bev Prescott.

Boardwalk Being Repaired

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly announces that the boardwalk in Houghs Neck between Sea and Rhoda Sts., is being rehabilitated with federal funds.

The walkway was vandalized late last year so badly that it presented a significant safety hazard to users and the city was forced to close it to pedestrian traffic.

Recently, Kelly was able to obtain the funds necessary for the rehabilitation of the walkway through the federal Community Development Block Grant Program.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO DROWN

Every year thousands of people drown needlessly because they ignore rules that make swimming safe as well as pleasurable. Knowing how to swim well and receiving some accident prevention training are the most important safety measures of all.

The primary rule when you are in the water is never to swim alone. Children, whether or not they can swim, should never play in or around water without adult supervision.

It is important that you not exceed your abilities by venturing out too far or trying to swim for too long a period. If trouble should occur, try to conserve your strength. If you are caught in a fast-moving current, swim diagonally across it. When someone else is in trouble, do not attempt a swimming rescue unless you are trained in lifesaving techniques. Instead, look for a buoyant object to throw to him or extend a pole for him to grab hold of.

Boston Gear Edges Foley For Title

Boston Gear, which finished in last place a year ago, won the Quincy Junior Baseball League championship last week by edging Foley Plymouth-Chrysler, 2-1, in the title game.

Gear had won the National League crown in a playoff with Rotary, while Foley had taken the American League title with the best record in the league.

Mike Dever pitched a two-hitter to edge Foley's Chris Marshall, who also gave up only two hits. Dever struck out seven and walked two, while Marshall struck out nine and walked only one.

Gear scored both runs in the third inning as Mike Paccetti led off with a walk, Dever doubled off the center field fence, Chris Higgins drove in Paccetti with a sacrifice fly and Matt Furtado brought Dever home with the winning run with a single.

Gear's defense was outstanding in the last four games and it sparked again in the title win with Joe Gendreau, Tad Sheets, Paul Adams, Larry Taglieri, Chad Hallett, Shawn Craig, Mike Leonard, Nancy Flukes, Ricky Dunham, Higgins and Furtado standing out. Gear came up with two double plays.

Danny Biagini was the whole offense for Foley's with a towering home run for his team's lone run and a single, the only Foley hits.

Foley's had made the final game by bombing Kiwanis, 17-2, as second baseman Bob Laracy was again called upon to pitch due to an injury to Jay Bartolo's pitching hand. Laracy came through with a four-hitter, striking out three and not giving up a walk. He also had a run scoring double and a single and scored twice. Earlier in the playoffs he lost to Sears on three unearned runs in the final inning after pitching scoreless ball up to that point. In that game he struck out three and walked two and had the only hit for Foley.

Against Kiwanis Marshall had two doubles that just missed going out of the park, a single and scored two runs. Catcher Kyle Robertson had a double and two singles and scored three runs. Sean Gately had three singles, Biagini had a double, scored a run and played a fine defensive game. Tom Tegen had a single, scored a run and made two nice catches. DeBartolo, played in the outfield, had a double and Kevin Duffy, moving over to second to replace Laracy, had a fine day in the field.

DISABLED VETERANS were treated to a fishing trip followed by dinner at the Quincy Yacht Club by Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club, Houghs Neck. The activities are held annually by the club. Helping to serve the dinner were Carole Gardner, left, and Elaine Bergstrom, right.

Openings Available In Sailing, Boating Programs

The Quincy Recreation Department announces it has openings in programs at its William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility at Black's Creek.

Quincy residents can enroll in courses including sailing, rowing and canoeing for the second half of the summer season.

For the next three weeks, the adult evening sailing instruction will expand to include classes on week day afternoons.

Evening hours of 4 to 8 p.m. will still be offered, and openings exist for membership to the adult class.

Adults must be 17 years of age and will be taught sailing on dry land and by utilizing the department's fleet of 10 O'Day Widgeon Sail Boats.

Novice sailors are encouraged to take part in this educational activity.

A new evening program of canoeing will be scheduled. The course will feature dry land as well as practical training for the adult canoeer.

Ample time will be left for participants to practice on the sheltered water at Black's Creek.

The award winning instruction program for youngsters will continue with instruction for youngsters age eight - 16. This program features rowing, sailing and canoeing 9 to 4 daily. Registrations are still being taken, although some time periods are limited.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department Boating and Sailing at 773-1380 Ext. 253.

Hancock Bank Softball Deadline Sept. 9

Friday, Sept. 9, is the deadline for area softball teams to submit entry forms for the Hancock Bank Open, a slow pitch, single elimination tournament for the benefit of the 1981 United Way campaign.

The tournament will be held at Rotary Field the weekends of Sept. 11 to 13 and 18 to 20 with the championship games Monday evening, Sept. 21.

Entry forms are available at all Hancock Bank branch offices. For more information, call Charlie Cahill at 773-0500.

16 Teams In Junior All-Star Tourney

Donna Higgins Contestant In Teenworld Pageant

Donna Higgins, 15, daughter of Mrs. Laura Higgins of 10 Pembroke St., South Quincy, will be a contestant in the Miss Massachusetts Teenworld Pageant Aug. 7 to 9, at the Park Plaza, Boston.

This is the first such contest ever entered by Donna, a ninth grader at Sterling Junior High School.

She qualified for the contest following a phone interview and after she submitted an essay stating in 20 words or less her ambitions. Contestants were also required to have a B average or better in school.

Donna would like to be a nurse and part-time model.

Contestants in the pageant, for young women ages 14 to 18, are judged on scholastic and civic achievement, appearance, poise, and personality. There is no swim suit competition.

In addition, contestants are to give a talent presentation or a speech on "My Place in the World".

State pageant winner will receive over $5,000 in scholarships, prizes and awards. The winner will also receive an all expense paid trip to the national pageant at Atlanta, Ga., in December, where over $25,000 in scholarships and prizes will be awarded.

Donna's interests include softball, gymnastics, basketball and baton twirling.

She received a trophy as a winner in O'Lindy's Bowling League.

TOP THREE FUNDRAISERS in the third annual Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee were from left, front, David Jennette, a sixth grader from St. Joseph's School; Robert Grant, a Lincoln Hancock School fifth grader; and David Healy, a fifth grader from St. Joseph's school. The $2,202 from this year's event brings to $23,000, the total raised in the Spelling Bee the last three years.

Spelling Bee coordinator Janet DiTullio explained that these funds will help children and adults in Quincy and throughout the South Shore who have muscle-destroying disease.

Free wheelchairs and other orthopedic aids, clinic visits and special summer camp sessions are just a few of the services this money will provide.

The Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee is coordinated by the Quincy South Shore Telethon Committee, co-chaired by Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, in cooperation with Quincy School Department.

Swim-A-Thon Thursday To Benefit MDA

A Swim-A-Thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be held Thursday, Aug. 6, 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock Pool, Quincy.

The event is being sponsored by the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee, in cooperation with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Swimmers will swim continuously except for a mandatory five minute rest after one hour. There are no age restrictions for participants.

Sponsors are being asked to pledge money per lap, with a 200 lap limit.

The boy and girl who raise the most pledge money will each be given Jerry Lewis wristwatches.

Everyone who turns in $25 or more will receive Jerry Lewis visors.

A citation of merit from MDA will be presented to each participant who turns in pledge money.

To be eligible for prizes, pledge money should be turned in by Friday, Aug. 21, to The Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy.

Pledge forms and instructions are available at Quincy City playgrounds, swim stations, the Lincoln Hancock pool and The Quincy Sun.

Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Swim-a-thon co-chairmen are Charles Alongi, Barry Welch, Nancy Joyce, Ronald Iacobucci and Lucille Rusconi.

Members are Joan Picard, Jeanne Giagrande, Harry and Anneli Johnson, Christine Rusconi and Geraldine Cardarelli.

Members of the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council are: Ronald Iacobucci, president; Anneli Johnson, vice president; Carol Pisano, secretary; Michael Jovanovic, treasurer; Beverly Goodwin, Joan Picard, Jeanne Giagrande, Marilyn Casey, Carol Sutterly, Lee Todd, Nancy Joyce, Joanne Vacca, Winifred Burchill, Jane McGuinness and Mary Brelsford.

County Hospital Ends Year In Black

The Norfolk County Hospital for Respiratory Care in Braintree finished fiscal 1981 in the black.

"What this means is that the operation of the hospital has not cost the taxpayers of Norfolk County one cent," said James J. Collins, chairman of the county commissioners.

Hospital Administrator John A. Barmack noted that the hospital budget has increased from $3.2 million in 1976 to $6.3 million in 1981 while the operating deficit has been reduced from $1.2 million to zero.

Barmack said the hospital is expected to continue in the black in 1982 and could continue in the future if a $950,000 bond issue for improvements is approved by the Legislature.

Tobin Sued Again Over School Budget

By TOM HENSHAW

The School Committee has filed another law suit against Mayor Arthur H. Tobin for his refusal to send their budget proposal for fiscal 1982 to the City Council.

The suit was filed last week in Norfolk Superior Court.

The budget that Tobin sent to the City Council last winter contained an estimated school figure. Later the School Committee came up with a detailed budget that was $1.7 million higher.

City Solicitor Robert Fleming said that the $1.7 million suit also contained the $1.4 million in negotiated teacher salary increases that Tobin and the City Council have refused to fund.

That figure has been wandering up and down the court system for the past two years.

Tobin said that if the School Committee wins its $1.7 million suit "the worst the court can do is direct that the School Committee budget be submitted to the City Council."

"Then," he added, "it would be up to the Council to decide which city department to take the money from since there are no additional funds."

"You'd be taking from Peter to give to Paul."

$148,144 In Delinquent Taxes, Water Bills

The city has taken the first steps toward placing liens against the property of 94 Quincy taxpayers who owe $148,144.99 in unpaid real estate taxes and water bills for the fiscal year 1979.

The total is down from the $1.25 million that was owed for fiscal 1978 largely because the three-year average assessment permitted General Dynamics has leveled off, although the case is in litigation.

Last year, General Dynamics was charged with a $1.1 million delinquency for fiscal 1978, which the owners of the Fore River shipyard protested was the result of an overassessment on the part of the city.

The list of taxpayers charged with delinquency and the amounts they owe for fiscal 1979 was published last week by The Quincy Sun in a City of Quincy legal notice as the first step toward possible foreclosure.

Tax Collector Robert E. Foy explained that unless the delinquent amount is paid in full by Aug. 20 the city is empowered to place a lien against the property in Norfolk Superior Court. Six months after that, the city can foreclose.

Foy said about 25 per cent of those listed are expected to pay up before the Aug. 20 deadline.

All of those listed, which represent 129 parcels of property, have received original tax bills, demand tax bills, letters of notice and notices of advertising.

"Actually," said Foy, "129 parcels is not a big amount when you consider there are 23,000 taxable parcels in the city."

The alleged delinquency of General Dynamics is a complicated case, a decision in which has been expected any time since last fall.

In 1977, the assessment of the Fore River shipyard was raised from $12 million to $20 million. General Dynamics appealed the increase as excessive.

Under the law, pending disposition of the case, the company was permitted to average its assessment over three years and pay its real estate taxes on an average of $12-12-20 million.

In 1978, the average was $12-20-20 million and in 1979, General Dynamics had to pay the tax in full. All the tax on the overassessment will have to be returned if the city loses the case.

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura issued 83 permits for wiring estimated to cost $112,206 during the month of July.

The department collected $2,208 in fees, made 166 inspections, noted 21 defects, made 18 reinspections and responded to two fire calls.

Fifty certificates of approval were issued to the Massachusetts Electric Co.

Union Hopes To Save Jobs Of 3 Police Dogs

Baron, Midnight and Moxie may make it after all.

But, whatever happens, no one is going to take them out and shoot them or otherwise put them to sleep.

Baron, Midnight and Moxie are the three members of the Quincy Police Canine Corps — that's the Dog Detachment — who have been laid off by Chief Francis X. Finn in an effort to live within his budget.

Finn and Henry Bradley of the police union met for an hour Monday at the behest of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin to see if they could work out a solution to the mounting canine controversy.

Tobin said Bradley requested a week to gather statistics and other information to support his contention that the three dogs should remain on the force and Finn agreed to give him the time.

"We have to choose men over dogs," said Finn. "It's as simple as that. Teachers, firefighters, and policemen have been laid off and there was nowhere the hue and cry that we've had over three shepherds."

The chief denied reports that the three dogs would have to be killed because they could not be employed for any other purpose nor would they make good pets.

"They will be given to their owners, the police officers with whom they have always lived," he said.

Finn said the dogs were laid off, not so much as a matter of money needed to keep them, but to return their police officer handlers to regular police duties.

"We are desperately short of men," said Finn. "I need the manpower. I need the flexibility to use men as I see fit. Dogs are not a top priority."

He placed the cost of keeping the dogs on police duty at in excess of $5,000 a year, not just the $900 a year that it costs to feed them.

For others, however, the police License Board Sets 11 P.M. Closing For T.J.'s

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City License Board voted 3 to 2 at a special summer meeting Tuesday to set an 11 p.m. closing for T.J.'s Red Carpet Restaurant, 12-16 Brooks Ave., South Quincy, effective for one year.

However, that closing hour does not go into effect until after a Sept. 15, hearing before the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission on the board's June 30, vote for a 9:30 p.m. closing for T.J.'s.

The board had voted the 9:30 p.m. closing after area residents complained of neighborhood disturbances.

City Clerk John Gills explained that that vote was improper because, under the general laws, such establishments must remain open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

"We made a mistake," said Gills.

Fire Chief Edward Barry, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh voted Tuesday for the 11 p.m.

closing. Voting against the motion were Police Chief Francis and Gillis, who had also voted against the 9:30 p.m. closing.

Atty. Drew Elinoff, representing T.J.'s, told the board the establishment, which has had a 1 a.m. closing, does a lot of its business after 11 p.m.

Manager Edward Delaney contended there have been no real problems at T.J.'s except for complaints about a dumpster that were cleared up.

Gillis reminded the board that according to a June 11, police report by Officer John Gilfeather, the establishments had had five verbal warnings after not closing on time.

The police report had also cited drinking inside and outside the establishment.

Elinoff then introduced seven area residents and employees of the restaurant who denied disturbances from T.J.'s.

Leone, speaking for other neighborhood residents at the meeting, told the board that since neighborhood disturbances were discussed at the June meeting, the situation has been better but there are still some problems.

Councillor James Sheets backed up Leone and said there was no question neighborhood disturbances were emanating from T.J.'s. Sheets said the hours of operation should be limited.

Councillors Francis McCauley and Daniel Raymondi favored an 11 p.m. closing.

Chief Finn proposed a motion setting an 11 p.m. closing from May to October, and a midnight closing from November to April. The motion received no second and was withdrawn.

In making his motion for the year round 11 p.m. closing, Chief Barry explained that if there are no incidents, T.J.'s can apply for a later closing.

If there are incidents, said Barry, the establishments could be coming back for revocation of its license.

Problems Expected During Bridge Repairs

A $2 million repair job on the Fore River Bridge is going to mean nearly a year of traffic problems for commuters who use busy Route 3A to commute from the South Shore to Boston.

The more than 30,000 cars that use the bridge between Quincy Point and Weymouth every day will be compressed into one lane each way while workmen are repairing the 45-year-old bridge.

When it was built in 1936, the span cost only $2.5 million.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli said the work will include replacement of concrete and waterproofing on the bridge deck and repairs of deteriorated portions of the concrete decks and sidewalks.

The 2,400-foot bridge will also undergo repairs to concrete piers and abutments.

"The project will also consist of removing and replacing the scuppers and downspouts on the bridge and installing non-skid studs on the steel grid deck of the draw span," said Cerasoli.

The project is scheduled to be completed by June, 1982.

4 Ward Councillors Get Free Race

Raymondi Last To Take Out Nomination Papers

Daniel G. Raymondi, one of the major candidates for mayor, finally took out nomination papers Tuesday morning, less than four days before the deadline.

Raymondi said he does not expect to have any difficulty in obtaining the 50 names needed to get his name on the ballot for the Sept. 22 preliminary election or the Nov. 3 general election.

With the deadline for taking out nomination papers tomorrow (Friday) at 5 p.m., prospects were for hot citywide contests for City Council and School Committee and free rides for four ward councillors.

Ten candidates, the most since 1967, appeared ready to go to the starting line Sept. 22 for councillor at-large, while eight candidates had signed up to run for three seats on the School Committee.

For the first time in at least 40 years, four ward councillors will have no opposition in the preliminary or general elections.

Unless last minute challengers show up, John J. Lydon Jr. in Ward 3, James A. Sheets in Ward 4, Stepeh J. McGrath in Ward 5, and Joanne Condon in Ward 6 will be re-elected in walkovers.

Tuesday, Aug. 18 at 5 p.m. is the deadline for returning nomination papers with the required number of signatures and Thursday, Aug. 20, is the deadline for withdrawal of candidacy.

Lts. Laracy, Rowell 'Tie' In Captain's Exam

Two lieutenants apparently have tied for the best mark on a Civil Service test for appointment to the vacancy for captain of detectives on the Quincy Police Department.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he was informed by Police Chief Francis X. Finn that Det. Lt. Frederick Laracy got 87.8 on the test while Det. Lt. David F.

Rowell received an 87.4 score.

Although Laracy's score was rounded off to an 88 and Rowell's dropped to an 87, Tobin said Finn is "treating it as a tie."

However, the mayor said, no appointment is expected immediately since the Civil Service office in Boston has not yet forwarded a list of ranking eligibles to the city.

The score of a third candidate, Lt. William Murphy, was only a shade less than Rowell and four other lieutenants also passed the exam.

Rowell, 53, has been in charge of the Detective Bureau since June, 1980, when Det. Capt. Frederick Tighe retired. Laracy, 44, is in charge of the bureau's burglary division.

Tobin, who is the appointing authority, said it may be some time before a list of eligibles is dispatched to Quincy since the Civil Service office in Boston is shorthanded.

John Duffy Named To Rent Grievance Board

John Duffy, 61, a retired court officer who lives at 156 Sea St., Merrymount, has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the Rent Grievance Board.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said Duffy, who moved to Quincy two years ago, is an ideal appointee to the unpaid board since he worked with rent grievance procedures in Boston.

Tobin said he had no plans to fill other vacancies on the board which is now down to seven members from its full complement of 12.

The mayor declined to comment when he was asked if he planned to reappoint Jane Reikard as executive secretary, a post she lost in an economy move several weeks ago. The post is funded in the 1982 budget but as yet unfilled.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Reikard, who is also a member of the board, announced that the board will not meet during August since several members have asked to be excused for vacations.

Donnelly's Tax Breaks Await Reagan Pen

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly's proposal to eliminate the "marriage tax" has been approved by Congress and is now awaiting the President's signature.

Also before the President is a proposal Donnelly sponsored to allow taxpayers to deduct charitable contributions, whether or not they itemize all their income tax deductions.
The two Donnelly-sponsored tax breaks were incorporated in the major tax cut legislation given final Congressional approval recently.

"Working couples have been paying higher taxes than unmarried individuals," Donnelly explained. "This change in the law will correct that inequity."

In order to eliminate the marriage tax, Congress is allowing a deduction of up to $1,500 in 1982. The deduction will rise to $3,000 in 1983.

"Private charity is going to have to pick up much more of the cost of research, education, social welfare, and the arts because of the Reagan administration's budget cuts," Donnelly said.

"By allowing everyone to claim a deduction for charitable contributions, Congress is encouraging everyone to pitch in voluntarily."

"President Reagan and I disagreed on the distribution of the benefits of the tax cut," Donnelly acknowledged, "but we're both glad that a major tax reduction has been approved and that mistakes like the marriage penalty have been corrected."

Him? Hmmm!

School Committeewoman Mary Collins isn't kicking up a fuss about it.

It's just that it surprised her to discover that Quincy's nomination papers for city election candidates seem to be lagging behind the times.

While gathering names for re-election the other day, she noted a line on the nomination paper voters are asked to sign for a candidate running for municipal office.

The line reads: "We further state that we believe him to be of good moral character and qualified to perform the duties of office."

Him?

"Hmmm", said Mary. "Why does it say him when it doesn't say her?"

A woman candidate is not a him. And certainly, Mary doesn't look like a him. No way.
"I think," says Mary, "that the word him should be replaced by the word candidate that makes it neutral."

"She's absolutely right," says City Clerk John Gillis. "Those are the same nomination papers we have been using for years. No one really noticed the word him.
But we're going to rectify it.
We can't do it this year but the next election."

Union Hopes To Save Jobs Of 3 Police Dogs

(Cont'd from Page 1)

dogs are a top priority.

City Councillor Daniel G.
Raymond, who is a candidate for mayor, suggested to Finn that organizations like the Sons of Italy and individuals might donate money to keep the Canine Corps in existence.

"I am strongly opposed to the elimination of the dogs," Raymond said. "I feel that the canine unit has been very cost effective."

"One dog can control 15 to 18 people. One police officer can control three to five people. That makes dogs important and cheap in crowd control situations. The presence of dogs has a chilling effect at such times."

Councillor Francis X. Mc-Cauley, also a candidate for mayor, said many concerned citizens have called him to voice their alarm at the prospect of losing the canine corps.

He urged Chief Finn to go over the items in his budget "very carefully" to see if he can trim other expenses "to make up the $2,200 it is said is needed to keep the canine patrol."

"It would be a tragedy," he said, "to destroy these especially trained dogs and deprive the residents of Quincy of the very effective partnership that has been developed between the policemen and their dogs."

The Quincy Citizens Association also urged retention of the canine corps.

The QCA noted that the dogs have assisted in finding lost children, have helped to quell riots and "your own officers have been protected from bodily injury when accompanied by a dog confronting gangs or unruly groups."

"The small amount required for the upkeep and training of the three dogs (about $3,000) is money well-spent for keeping the dogs on active duty," said the QCA in a letter to Finn.

"I'm an animal lover," said Mayor Tobin. "I have a dog myself. I believe in the canine corps. But I don't really understand what's going on here.

"I see that private citizens want to give money to aid the dogs. I just came from a meeting of DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) and we're having a hard time to get money to shelter battered women and abused
children."

"To date this year we've had more than 400 calls about battered women and children just in Quincy. Here is a group that needs the support from the private sector."

"And there is more concern about three dogs than battered women and children."

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun
bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the president of the Quincy Citizens Association?
2. Joanne Condon is the second woman elected to the Quincy City Council. Who was the first?
3. True or False: Quincy is the only city in Norfolk County.
4. Veterans Memorial Stadium was built on the site of: Comins Stadium? Cavanaugh Field? Plaffman's Oval?
5. In what section of the city is Golf Rd.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The name of Quincy's city solicitor is Robert Fleming.
2. False. Adams Academy was built on the site of John Hancock's birthplace.
3. Neponset Rd. is in the Merrymount section of the city.
4. Quincy City Hospital is located at 114 Whitwell St.
5. John L. Miller was the only Quincy mayor to die in office.

Search For Apartment

4 Young People's Hope: To Stay In Quincy

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Many young people grow up dreaming of the day that they'll be able to move away from their home town.

But for four young members of a local family, their dream is to stay in their home town of Quincy.

Cheryl, 20, and her two teenage sisters and one pre-teen brother lost their mother in November after a long illness. Their father remarried in July and lives in New Hampshire.

He would like his children to live with him, but they want to stay in the city where they were born, raised and educated.

"This is where our friends and family are," says Cheryl who explained that her father's new home is "way out in the woods", a much different environment than they're used to.

"It's no place for the kids to grow up," says Cheryl.

They have the finances to live on their own. Between social security benefits, their father's assistance and Cheryl's working in a local office, they have about $800 a month.

The problem is, in a city with no scarcity of apartment seekers, people are reluctant to rent to a family headed by a 20 year old.

"They (landlords) don't think I can handle it, but I have been handling it for over a year," says Cheryl who also took care of the family during her mother's illness.

Cheryl has been trying for over five months to find an apartment in Quincy, Braintree or Weymouth for herself, her sisters Lisa, 18, Michelle, 15, and brother Stephen, 11.

She needs three bedrooms, but can get by with two if they're big, and ideally would like to live in a two-family house.

Cheryl can afford to pay about $300 a month without heat, or $400 with heat.

The young people had been staying in a Quincy apartment while the occupants have been out of state, but now must vacate those premises by Aug. 15.

The two youngest will have to stay with relatives, the two oldest with friends. Cheryl, who is studying part time to be a medical assistant, wants very much to keep the family together and in Quincy.

"They're wonderful kids — anyone would be proud of them," says Arthur DePietro, labor liaison for the United Way, who was contacted by Cheryl for help with the situation.

He, too, has been steadily searching for an apartment for the family but the feeling has been "Four young people? Nothing doing".

DePietro can't say enough about the young people who he holds in high regard. He describes Cheryl as a "wonderful girl".

He hopes there'll be someone who can offer them an apartment.

Anyone interested in helping the young people, can call the United Way office at 479-1800.

"You want to stay where you're all happy," says Cheryl, "and the kids, especially the younger ones, are very happy here. It's important for the kids."

WJDA Documentary Up For National Award

The WJDA documentary, "A Bucketful of Gold and Silk," has moved into competition for national United Press International award in the small radio station category.

The show, written and produced by Roy Lind, was chosen the best in the contest's Region I, which includes New England, New York and Ohio. There are eight other regions.

The program was first aired in the spring of 1980 and featured the February homecoming of Scituate's Dave Silk, a member of the U.S. Olympic hockey team that won the gold medal.

It includes interviews with Silk, his mother and Edward Taylor, his first hockey coach, as well as the highlights and sounds of the Dave Silk Day ceremonies at Scituate High School.

The documentary won the UPI's prestigious Tom Phillips Award as the best by a small station in New England last March.

Business Manager Recommended At Hospital

A report by the firm of Ernst and Ernst recommended that the business and medical functions be separated at City Hospital in an effort to reduce the operating deficit that had grown to $647,000 last year.

A business manager, said the report, should be named to supervise accounting, kitchen, laundry, pharmacy, storerooms, housekeeping, maintenance, information and telephone.

SAVE OLD COLONY

Rep. Charles W. Hedges of Quincy appealed to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. to reactivate a special committee that probed the Old Colony Railroad two years ago in an effort to save the road.

"Further curtailment of train service is threatened again," Hedges noted. "If permitted, this might ultimately lead to the total abandonment of passenger service."

FALSE SIGNATURES

More than 35 Quincy residents, including Anders C. Ericson, 18 Clark St., Atlantic, who said he was not even a registered Democrat, testified that their signatures on nomination papers for William M. Lynch Jr. of Boston for governor were not authentic.

ANSWER: Joy Health Spas

I Got Rid Of My Ugly Cellulite At Joy

I've been needing to lose weight, but what really bothered me was the ugly cellulite.

I lost the weight but nothing helped. Finally I came to Joy. I went from Size 11 to Size 7. But most importantly I got rid of those ugly lumps! This is the first year that I'm actually looking forward to bathing suit season.

Cortese Urges Finn, Keep Canine Corps

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, says he is against the elimination of the three dogs that make up the Canine Corps of the Quincy Police Department.

"I was privileged to be the first police officer to be assigned the first German shepherd member of the Canine Corps in the city," said Cortese in a letter to Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

"It was considered by city officials to be a step forward in protection and service to the people utilizing the invaluable assistance of these dogs whenever their special training was required.

"It was then and it is now."

The possible elimination of the Canine Corps because of Police Department budget cuts was disclosed last week.

Cortese said he discussed the matter with concerned citizens and police officers who feel the dogs "are an asset to everyone and should not be easily discharged from service."

"It is my understanding," he said, "that an approximate expense of $900 per dog per year is a small sum compared to what these dogs are capable of doing."

"If only one life is saved, their worth is beyond the cost of maintaining them."

Jeffrey Marini At Goodfellow AFB

Airman Jeffrey C. Marini, son of Neil F. Marini, 15 Parsons St., South Quincy, and Nancy A. Marini of Weymouth, has been assigned to Goodfellow AFB, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

Marini, a graduate of Weymouth North High School, will receive specialized instruction in the intelligence field.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Elm St. (Donna Franceschini, Gary DiNardo): The Elm St. Fair, was a big success. The help of Debbie Heron, Lynn Fullerton, Cathy and Jean Barry, Anthony Batistone, John Zanolli, Gino Moore, and many others really made everything go off well.

Pepsi Hot Shots were held. Our senior shooter, Jim Paolucci, had a discouraging day. Frank DeLess was the winner in the 13-15 division. John Cicerone scored 15 points, but it was not enough. All participants were rewarded with Pepsi.

The junior basketball team has advanced to city championships after defeating Pollard 40-5. John Cicerone was high scorer with 15 points and Chris Marshall and Rick Burns also played a good game.

Fore River (Fran Connell, Ann Abdallah): The Arts & Crafts project looks like it will be a prize winner.

The girls softball and basketball teams are doing well. The junior team led by Marilyn McBride stormed by Russell Park.

In basketball, Jodi Farrell dribbled through the opposing defense, and Sheila Martin was outstanding on both the offensive and defensive boards. Youngsters went to Faxon Park for Nature Day, Nicky Kardose, Darley and Darrn Doss, Billy Ryan, Brandon Farrell and Joey Kidney enjoyed themselves. Brandon, Billy and Darley came in first in the scavenger hunt.

Some of the youngsters went to Elm St. for the carnival and brought back prizes.

Pond St. (Bryan Flynn, Joanne McBride): Once again District 5 has talented junior girls softball and basketball team that will hopefully make the finals.

In the wiffle ball tournament Kristen Curtis and Bryan Flynn clinched the "Golden Bat" of Pond St., with an 8-0 mark. In the seventh game it looked like Kristen and Bryan were going to be out of the tournament until Kristen stepped to the plate and smacked a three-run homer over the big green wall.

Russell Park (Kurt O'Sullivan, Karen White): The junior boys baseball team played Pollard for the District final. Pollard won 8-2 despite a good effort from Russell. Players who performed well throughout the season were: Larry Tagalery, Tad Sheets, Mike Devcr, Wes and Scott Crocley. Overall record for Russell was 4-2.

A trip to the Playoff Racquetball Club turned out to be one of the top events of the summer.

Amy Beardsley won the title, "Miss Russell Park". First runner-up was Nancy Barrett, second, was Janine Connell and Susan Powers was third.

Raymondi Asks Impact Study For School Closing

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi says he plans to file an ordinance requiring a neighborhood impact study at no cost to the taxpayers before a school can be closed in Quincy.

"My ordinance," said Raymondi, who is a candidate for mayor, "would compel the studies to review all alternatives to school closings and to conduct the study with considerable community input."

Raymondi disclosed his ordinance plan at a coffee party at the home of John and Elizabeth Morris, 117 Cranch St.

He said he is filing the ordinance "because of the anguish many Quincy residents have expressed to me over the closings."

"Nothing in my ordinance requires additional hiring of staff or consultants in order to carry out the study," said Raymondi.

"Existing municipal planning agencies would be responsible for it. The cost of the study to Quincy would be nothing. However, the results of the study would have a substantial bearing on the future of the school and the community."

"My experience on the School Committee has afforded me a sensitivity to the concerns of parents and their affections for their neighborhood school."

"School closings are traumatic for both the parents and children involved. The potential for neighborhood damage and disruption can be severe.

"Impact studies, however, can assist the city and the school committee in determining whether a school ought to be closed or whether it should be converted to a useful community resource."

Raymondi promised that "when elected mayor, I will actively push for neighborhood impact studies on all school closings. My administration wants what's best for Quincy."

"Proper planning, whether it is in education, economic development, public safety or city finance will be part of my administration to make our Quincy an ever finer place to live."

12 Reverse Road, Quincy (Off 1586 Hancock Street)

Give Quincy a face lift.

For years Quincy has had its share of politics as usual. Name calling. Petty bickering. And machine politics.

This year let's put an end to the politics of blame and negativism. And bring a strong, independent voice into the mayor's office.

Dan Raymondi.

Dan's a new breed of public servant. He's more interested in solving our problems than assigning the blame. More concerned about getting things done than getting on the front page.

He's a bright, forward thinking leader who has devoted himself to Quincy for the past 10 years as a member of the School Committee and the City Council. Now Dan would like to bring us all together to help our City. He wants to put an end to the political bickering that's plagued us for years.

That's why he's running for Mayor. Because as Mayor, he'll work to build a city. Not political factions.

And that will give us all something to smile about.

Raymondi Mayor

BRIDGE CAN BE REPAIRED

Q: I have a beautiful bridge on my front teeth, but one of the capped teeth cracked under the gumline, and I'm afraid I'll have to lose the bridge. Can it be fixed?

A: Possibly. Very often, root canal work can be done through the cracked cap.

Q: Why is a separate examination still necessary even with X-rays?

A: X-rays are only used as an aid in the diagnosis of what problems exist in the mouth. Certain things, such as small cavities on the chewing surfaces of teeth and gum inflammation, often don't show up on X-rays, and must be seen visually. Other things, such as decay between the teeth and bone loss, can only be seen on X-rays.

Richard Buzzell Joins Air Force

Richard A. Buzzell, the son of Mrs. Lorraine T. Buzzell of 80 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, recently joined the Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program according to Quincy's Air Force recruiter, Sergeant Clark.

A 1981 graduate of North Quincy High School, he was scheduled to leave for basic training at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas Aug. 5.

He will receive technical training in the Administrative career field for which transferrable college credits will be awarded.

City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia, pledging to continue his opposition to "costly expenditures," filed nomination papers Monday and announced his candidacy for re-election.

LaRaia Files For Re-Election, Pledges Opposition To Spending

LaRaia, who was mayor 1976-77, is completing a two-year term as councillor at large, a post he held previously for four years. He was also councillor from Ward 2 for six years.

LaRaia, general manager of National Orthotics and Prosthetics Corp. of Providence, promised to "continue to oppose costly expenditures that commit the taxpayer to long-term tax commitments."

In the past year, he said he played a role in the defeat of two "costly proposals," the proposed Water and Sewer Commission and the addition of another floor to the parking garage in Quincy Center.

LaRaia was one of the leaders of the opposition to the Water and Sewer Commission, which was defeated by a 5-4 vote in the Council. His vote also defeated the garage addition, which would have cost $1 million.

He said he believes that further development in downtown Quincy must have the support of its citizens as well as the business community. He said he will work toward those objectives.

Residential rehabilitation programs are necessary to maintain community pride, he added, noting that during his term as mayor he supported that program which spread from Houghs Neck to other parts of the city.

Donna Neal Announces For School Committee

Donna M. Neal, 26, of 286 Beach St., Wollaston, has announced her candidacy for a seat on the School Committee.

"Education is in a crisis situation due to Proposition 2 1/2," she said in her announcement. "It is time for new ideas and a time for new leadership."

"Quincy must maintain a high standard of educational programming."

"It is imperative that we give our students a well-rounded education, particularly the students who do not go on past the secondary schools to college."

"Schools shouldn't have to choose between lighting their buildings and enlightening their students," she added, paraphrasing Thomas A. Edison.

Neal, a lifelong resident of Quincy, is a graduate of the Quincy schools and the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Koch Urges Students Cast Absentee Votes

Richard J. Koch Jr., an candidate for the City Council at-large, has urged Quincy college students to fill out absentee ballot forms at City Hall before leaving for school.

He noted that a student who has never voted can register to vote and cast an absentee ballot on the same visit to the election office.

They may also send a note to the Election Department, City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, 02169, and request an absentee ballot, listing a forwarding address to which the ballot can be mailed.

All persons, however, must be registered voters to be eligible for absentee ballots.

Disabled persons and those confined due to illness are also eligible to vote by absentee ballot and may request the same forms to qualify for absentee ballots.

Sept. 1, is the deadline to register in order to be eligible to vote in the Tuesday, Sept. 22, primary, said Koch.

McDuff Opposes E-W Connector

John H. McDuff Jr., candidate for Ward 2 councillor, called the proposed East-West Connector, "a blitzkrieg assault on our downtown business area" at recent meeting of supporters.

"I am totally opposed to driving out small private enterprises around the square and creating chaotic traffic conditions for God knows how long by tearing up Hancock St.," said McDuff.

"We must make our voices heard in City Hall. If we are opposed to this proposal, which will turn Hancock St. into a disaster zone, we must let the politicians know with our votes this fall."

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

PANIC DEADLIER THAN FIRE

It happened in the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago back in 1903. The theatre caught on fire and the patrons panicked and fought to get out through the main entrance. When the dust and smoke settled, firemen found dead bodies stacked up four feet high at the main entrance.

The ironic part of this tragedy was that several emergency exits in other parts of the theatre through which occupants could have escaped were not even opened.

A good rule to remember if caught in a fire in a public building such as a theatre is: don't try to automatically get out the same way you came in. In a panic, most people rush for the main entrance, crushing each other on the way. Always locate the nearest exit and plan to use it in an emergency. The real danger in such a situation is crowd panic - often more dangerous and deadly than the fire itself.

Lauren Morgan Miss Quincy Junior

Over 500 spectators were on hand last week as Lauren Morgan of Fore River Playground was crowned Miss Quincy Junior Recreation at the fifth annual pageant held at McIntyre Mall.

Runners-up were Megan Gannon of Squantum, first; Joelle Roden of Fenno St., second; Patti Wright of Taffrail and Elizabeth Holt of Mass Fields, tied for third.

Other finalists were Kathleen Cahill of Kincaide, Beth Vacca of Grasso, Dawn Hartnett of Pollard, Eileen Sullivan of Elm St., and Kim Ferguson of Baker Beach.

Pageant judges were City Assessor Jake Comer, Bette Campbell of Young World and Bernie Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop.

Each of the Recreation Department's 28 playgrounds held preliminary contests where girls ages nine to 13 were judged on program participation, co-operation, enthusiasm and helpfulness.

Quincy Man Wins Army Meritorious Service Medal

Command Sergeant Major Michael F. Connolly, a member of the U.S. Army Reserve and a resident of Quincy, was recently awarded the U.S. Army's Meritorious Service Medal.

The award was presented at Camp Edwards, Massachusetts where Connolly served as Commandant of the First U.S. Army Noncommissioned Officers Academy. The Academy graduated approximately 300 students in basic and senior courses, and maintained a staff in excess of one hundred personnel.

The Meritorious Service Medal gave recognition to Connolly while serving as Commandant of the Noncommissioned Officers Academy. The award read in part: "For exceptional achievement in initiating, planning, organizing, and for solving almost insurmountable problems in staffing, logistics and funding to establish the finest Noncommissioned Officers Academy in the First Army Area."

Connolly serves as a Reservist and a full time Army Reserve Technician with the U.S. Army Reserve's 803rd Medical Group, Brockton, Mass.

Connolly and his wife the former Susan Marie Parsens live on Ashland St., West Quincy.

Mark Riley Completes ROTC Training

Mark E. Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Riley of 109 Faxon Lane, Quincy, recently completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the encampment, cadets receive survival and small arms training and aircraft and aircrew indoctrination. They also have the opportunity to observe careers in which they might wish to serve as Air Force officers.

The cadet is a student at St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt.

13 Residents On Bridgewater Dean's List

McCauley Keeps Up With Citizen Concerns In Wards

Francis X. McCauley says that, although his at-large seat on the City Council covers the whole city, he has kept up with citizen concerns in the wards by attending meetings of local civic groups.

"By doing this, I have become informed as to our citizens' concerns and problems and can support the ward councillor when particular issues come before the City Council," he said.

McCauley, a candidate for mayor, spoke to a group of new workers at his campaign headquarters, 1661 Hancock St.

He said that his service as councillor-at-large for the past four years has given him the opportunity to familiarize himself with the many phases of Quincy government.

He noted that over the past four years he has met many department heads, including the assessors, treasurer-collector, auditor, cemetery superintendent, planning director, and discussed their operations.

This has given him the chance, he said, to analyze city operations and become well acquainted with many of the city employees.

Merrymount PTO Announces 3 Scholarship Winners

The Merrymount PTO has announced the names of the winners of the seventh annual $100 scholarships and the winner of the Mary Rose Sullivan Memorial Scholarship.

Jeffrey Moy, 27 Woodward Ave., and Francis Connell, 36 Whitney Rd., both 1981 graduates of Quincy High School, are the winners of the $100 scholarships.

Moy plans to attend Boston University and Connell the New York Institute of Technology in September.

The Mary Rose Sullivan Memorial Scholarship, named in memory of the mother of School Committeeman John J. Sullivan, was won by Heather E. McLain, 17 Overlook Rd., who plans to attend Emmanuel College.

Cortese Tax Delinquent By Quirk Of Law

By TOM HENSHAW

One of the most embarrassing things that could happen to a political candidate happened last week to Joseph F. Cortese, who is running for the City Council from Ward 2.

He was posted by the city as a tax delinquent.

By law, he is.

In fact, he's not.

Cortese was listed in a City of Quincy legal notice published in The Quincy Sun as the owner of four pieces of property on which $2,801.55 in real estate taxes were owed for fiscal 1979.

Cortese said he sold the property to George M. Tull in 1974 but the transaction was not recorded in the Norfolk County Land Court in Dedham until May 15, 1978.

Unfortunately, the city property taxes for fiscal 1979, which covers the time period July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979, is charged to the owner of record on Jan. 1, 1978.

Cortese said that he and Tull have gone to City Hall with the problem for the past two years and have been told that the situation would be rectified.

Assessor Chairman John P. Comer said that there really isn't anything to rectify since, by law, the tax must be charged to the owner of the property on Jan. 1 preceding the start of the fiscal year.

He said assessor's records show Tull to be the owner of record for the fiscal years 1980 and 1981.

Tull acknowledged that he owned the property in question in 1979 and has not paid the tax.

"I do owe it," he said, "and I will straighten it out."

44th Year

Record Turnout Expected For QBRW

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy Bay Race Week President Bob Hutcheon of Wollaston feels this week's 44th edition which opened yesterday (Wednesday) will be bigger than last year if the weatherman cooperates and he was certain of one thing.

"One thing I'm sure of is that we will have another record for the ocean racing," Hutcheon said. "Last year we hit a new record and interest is increasing all the time in this type of racing."

Last year's QBRW President, Dave Maloney, said that more than 100 boats competed, 54 on Saturday and more than 50 on Sunday, and it was the first time Ocean racing had been held on two days.

The ocean racing will again be held Saturday and Sunday off Hangman's Island with Dick Ash chairman of this event.

Hutcheon also expects a record number to compete in the Hustler fleet.

Race Week hit its peak in 1970 when a total of 1800 boats went to the starting lines.

In recent years the number of boats has declined but interest has again picked up and last year's program attracted the most boats since that time and even more were expected this week, with renewed interest in junior activities among yacht clubs and sailing programs.

"We had excellent weather last year and it was an outstanding week," Hutcheon said. "Except for the Saturday winds which forced cancellation of some racing, the weather was beautiful. Everyone cooperated fully and everything went off smoothly."

The weather was perfect for the colorful Marine Parade, which had to be cancelled the year before for the first time in about 20 years.

Gala Night will be held Friday night at the Quincy Yacht Club with Hutcheon and Quincy Commodore Ted Johnson as hosts.

Rendezvous Night will be Saturday at Town River with Hutcheon and TR Commodore Robert Perry hosts.

The Marine Parade, which is expected to attract a record number of decorated boats, will be Sunday with boats rendezvousing between Town River and Wessagussett Yacht Clubs at noon.

Trophy Night will be held Sept. 13 at Squantum Y.C. with all winners and guests invited.

A 44 Year Tradition

Quincy Bay Race Week is marked by 44 years of tradition and yachtsmen have much to live up to in this week's racing.

QBRW has been an outstanding success since it was established in 1938 by the Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum Yacht Clubs, which formed the association.

In the years following, Town River and Wessagussett joined up to make the event an area success.

Seven years ago Braintree and Metropolitan clubs were added, completing the seven-club association.

Coveted Trophies Go To Winners

A number of handsome and coveted trophies will be the goals of hundreds of sailors - men, women, boys and girls - this week during the 44th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week.

The Capt. James Berwick Finlay Memorial Trophy was presented to the Quincy Yacht Club in 1948 by Albert W. Finlay, his father, for competition during Race Week.

This handsome trophy is presented in loving memory of a son who, during his lifetime, did much to advance the sport of yachting on Massachusetts Bay, to the yacht or yachtsman considered to have performed some single act of sportsmanship during Race Week.

It is to be suitably engraved annually and will remain in the custody of the Quincy Y.C. A suitably engraved keeper trophy will be awarded to the winner for his permanent possession.

Last year's winners were Bob and Steve Mehl.

The Fred Hunt Memorial Trophy is a perpetual award presented since 1966 by the Patriot Ledger in memory of the late yachting editor who served more than three decades.

This trophy is awarded annually to a person who has demonstrated a high degree of sportsmanship and a willingness to help others in the advancement of the yacht racing sport and who has contributed to the success of Race Week. It is to be held until the succeeding Race Week by the home club of the winner who is to be awarded a suitable keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Tom Hayes.

The Reynolds Memorial Trophy is a perpetual trophy presented to the QBRWA in 1966 by the family of John Reynolds, an ardent supporter of and skipper in the Day Sailor Class until his untimely death in 1965.

This trophy is awarded to the Race Week winner in the Day Sailor Class and is to be held by him until Race Week of the following year when it is to be returned to the association.

A suitably engraved keeper trophy is to be presented to the winner for his permanent possession.

Joseph Carven Jr. was last year's winner.

The 1300 Trophy has been presented each year since 1960 to the QBRWA by Radio Station WJDA to demonstrate its great and cooperative interest in Race Week and to aid in the stimulation of racing interest among the junior classes.

This beautiful trophy is awarded annually to the winning skipper in the Turnabout class and becomes his permanent possession.

The winner last year was Mathew Lanza.

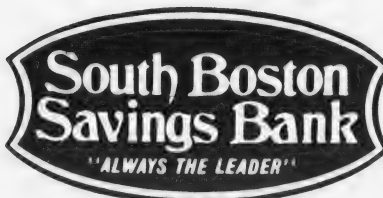

The Commodore Isadore Bromfield Trophy was presented five years ago to the QBRWA by the Commonwealth National Bank of Boston. It is awarded annually to the Race Week winner according to the deed of gift. The winner is to be presented a suitably engraved trophy for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Robert Reis.

Ocean Racing Off Hangman's Island

One of the most popular features of Race Week each year is the ocean racing, which stimulates continued interest in the cruising type of sailboat.

Interest has so increased in this type of racing that, for the first time last year, it was spread over two days. This year's races will be held Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m. off Hangman's Island.

Last year's ocean racing attracted a record fleet with more than 100 boats starting, 54 on Saturday and more than 50 on Sunday.

The City of Boston Bermuda Cup, a beautiful and historic punch bowl, has been in the custody of the Quincy Yacht Club for 50 years. It was presented by the City of Boston around 1905 for a yacht race from Boston to Bermuda. This race was never held and in 1911 the city again put the cup up for an ocean race to be held Labor Day 1911 to become the permanent possession of the winner. That race was won by Hollis Burgess, a Quincy Y.C. member, in his sloop Marie L.

Burgess generously made the Quincy Y.C. trustee of the cup which was to be placed in annual competition as a perpetual trophy. In 1968 the QYC presented the trophy to the QBRWA for Race Week competition. This beautiful and valuable trophy is to be presented to the annual winner to be held by him until the succeeding Race Week.

The winner is to be presented a suitable engraved trophy for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner of the Boston Bermuda race A was Bob Benson, and Ron Gaudet won the Boston Division B.

The Frank E. Remick Trophy was presented in 1959 to the QBRWA by Frank S. Remick of Quincy to stimulate interest in competition between cruising-type sailboats.

Last year's winner of Remick Division A was Richard Haley and Chris Crisafulli was the winner of Remick Division B.

The Harry Warner Memorial Trophy race is for cruising type trimarans. The trophy was presented to the QBRWA in 1968 by the Warner family and the Town River Yacht Club as a perpetual trophy.

It is to be annually engraved and is to be held by the winner until Race Week of the following year when it is to be returned to the association.

Last year's winners were Mike Conley and Les Moore.

HN Wins To Even Playoffs

Houghs Neck defeated the Elks, 11-6, to even their Babe Ruth League American Division playoff finals at one win apiece.

Pat Hennessey started on the mound for Houghs Neck but ran out of gas in the fifth inning. Joe Ciardi came on in relief and blanked the Elks over the last two innings, not giving up a hit.

Every Houghs Neck player contributed to the win with Peter Furtado hitting two walks, Rob Steen a rally-starting single, 13-year-old Greg McGlame two doubles and four RBI's, Chris Hurley a single, double and two RBI's, Chip Griffin a single and an RBI, Joe Ciardi two singles and a walk, Keith Smith a squeeze bunt single, Joe Conti a single, walk and an RBI and Hennessey a single, two walks and three stolen bases. Chris Hurley and Hennessey stood out on defense.

Houghs Neck eliminated the Firemen from the playoffs with an easy 12-1 victory behind the two-hit pitching of Conti, who struck out six.

Hennessey had a double, single and two RBI's, Conti two singles, Smith a triple and three RBI's, Griffin two singles and four RBI's and Dave Zuroms a double, three walks and an RBI.

Over 300 At Pellagrini Clinic

By TOM SULLIVAN

Eddie Pellagrini, former Red Sox infielder and a 10-year major leaguer with the Red Sox, Pirates, Phillies and Reds, has been conducting free baseball clinics for youngsters for nine years and one of the most popular each year has been in Quincy.

Last week Pellagrini, who looks much younger than his 63 years, brought his annual clinic to Adams Field and again it turned out to be one of the best attended of the 50 he conducted since June.

About 300 youngsters attended the clinic sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Dept. and the Pepsi-Cola Company of Milton and Barry Welch, assistant director of recreation, estimated that another 50 to 75 youngsters missed out due to the power blackout in the city early that morning.

"We had buses pick up the kids at each of the city's playgrounds and we had to stick to our schedule," Welch said. "I know at least 50 and maybe as many as 75 missed out because their clocks had stopped and they didn't know the time."

"This is always one of our best clinics," said Pellagrini, a member of the 1946 Red Sox pennant winners who hit a home run his first time up for the Sox.

"Charlie (Alongi, recreation director) and his staff do a tremendous job."

In addition to his regular staff members, John (Tinker) Connelly, Bobby DeFelice and Frank Niles, Dick Donovan, who went from North Quincy High to a 15-year major league pitching career during which he won 122 games, helped out and gave some valuable pitching tips to a large group of boys and girls.

"Same Mele was going to help us out today, but he was called in to a meeting at Fenway Park," Pellagrini said. Mele is a special assignment scout for the Red Sox.

Pellagrini, wearing Jerry Remy's No. 2, started out by tossing a few baseballs into the group and then he and his staff settled down for two hours of instruction.

"Some of these kids are really good and they are going to be real good ball players," he said. "You know, I've found that in the 11 and 12 year old group, the girls are better than the boys many times."

WHILE CLINIC director Eddie Pellagrini looks on, Dick Donovan gives some pitching tips to a group of youngsters at Pellagrini's baseball clinic last week at Adams Field. About 300 youngsters attended.

NFPA Racks Up Second International Title

National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) of the Quincy International Babe Ruth League recently won its second straight league championship with an 18-9 victory over Quincy Cooperative Bank.

NFPA qualified for the playoffs with a 16-2 regular season record, winning its last 13 games.

NFPA posted a 3-0 record in the double elimination playoffs.

In the first round the team edged Owens A.C., 3-2, behind the pitching of Billy Bilton, who struck out 11. NFPA overcame a 2-0 deficit, with the winning run coming in the bottom of the sixth when Denis Downing led off with a double and scored on Billy Chiasson's single.

NFPA then breezed past Quincy Co-operative Bank, 17-4, hammering out 18 hits with every player reaching base. Scott Hamel was the winning pitcher with a five-hitter. Downing went four for five including a two-run homer. Chiasson went four for four with a base-clearing triple and Billy Connolly, Vic DiGravio, Dennis Napier and Jimmy Sheets had hits.

In the final game NFPA again had little trouble with Quincy Co-Op with DiGravio the winning pitcher. Connolly and Downing had three hits apiece, DiGravio had four and Chiasson two including a grand slam homer.

Throughout the playoffs Sheets and Mark Walsh were steady performers on defense and Dave Duffy, John Ennis, Larry Mahoney, Jim Mayo, Dave Murphy and Eddie O'Brien provided strength coming off the bench. Chiasson led the team at the plate with an awesome .889 average. Downing and DiGravio hit .727 and .700 respectively and Connolly batted .500.

The team was coached by George Downing and Vic DiGravio, Jr.

3 Track Club Members Sparkle At Junior Olympics

The three members of the Quincy Track Club who participated in the National Junior Olympics at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., last Thursday through Sunday turned in excellent performances.

Ron Farber placed fifth in the discus with a toss of 159-7 and won a medal. He also placed eighth in the shot put at 50-7.

Lauren Andrews placed fourth in the shot put at 41-8 to win a medal.

Michelle Millane placed seventh in the discus, missing a medal by two inches.

The top six in each event received a medal.

Quincy Coach Jeff Hennessy accompanied the three and was impressed with the performances and with the entire meet.

"It was a beautiful experience," he said. "All the athletes marched into the stadium state by state and the Olympic torch was lighted and hundreds of balloons released into the air. There were thousands of athletes from all over the country participating in eight different sports. All the university people were fantastic. It is something we'll never forget and hopefully we can participate again next year."

In the recent Arco Jesse Owens Games in Los Angeles ten-year-old Robbie McDonald of the QTC won the baseball throw in the 10-11 division with a toss of 210 feet, four inches. He is the first QTC member to win a gold at these games.

All 15 of the Quincy athletes participating in the meet reached the finals in their respective events.

Tracy Parker was fourth in the high jump, Jamie McArdle, fourth in the long jump; Doreen Connolly, fifth in the baseball throw; Georgia Traficante, fifth in the softball throw; Colleen Needle, fifth in the baseball throw; Fred Bickford, fifth in the softball throw; Finn Kelley, fifth in the high jump; Maureen Roche, sixth in the long jump; Kristine Picarski, seventh in the 100, and the boys' 400-meter relay team of Steve Shoap, Brenden Farrell, Mike Petta and Bob Roche placed sixth.

City Officials, News Media Police, Firefighters, Play For Jerry's Kids

The fifth annual softball doubleheader to aid Muscular Dystrophy will be held tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Quincy Police Department will meet the Fire Department in the opening game, while the Quincy City Officials will be seeking a repeat win over the News Media at 8 under the lights.

City Council President Leo Kelly will lead the city officials, whose roster will include Mayor Tobin, Clifford Marshall, Joanne Condon, Daniel Raymondi, John Quinn, Ray Cattaneo, Robert Foy, Mark Tobin, Mike Morrissey, Joe LaRaia, Jim Sheets, Steve McGrath, Dennis Harrington, Brian Buckley, George Roche and Richard J. Koch, Jr.

Henry Bosworth of the Quincy Sun will again coach the media team which will include Jay Asher, Herb Fontaine, Roy Lind, John Nicholson and Doug Nickerson of Station WJDA; Earl LaChance, Joe Gordon and Bob Finnigan of The Patriot Ledger; Bosworth, Tom Henshaw, Joe DelRosso, Pete Zoia, Dave Gray, Paul Gorham, Dave Molvar, Joe Driscoll, Rick Sawler, Bob Bosworth, Debbie McCarthy and Fred Hoppel of The Quincy Sun.

Youth Soccer League Readies For Second Season

The Quincy Youth Soccer League will start its second fall season next month.

The league is comprised of boys and girls in Grades 1 to 9.

The league is accepting registrations for all age levels. There are a few openings for boys in Grades 1 to 6 and girls in Grades 4 to 9.

The greatest emphasis at this time, however, is for girls in grades 1 to 3 and boys in grades 7-9. It is important that all those interested sign up as soon as possible so the schedule can be made up and fields assigned.

Registration fee is $10 per child and $25 for a family of three or more. This provides for shirts and shorts for the youngsters.

For registration forms or any further information, call Karen Hennebury at 773-0816 or Frank Delaney at 471-1645.

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had, "It all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life — "strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ — now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

I'M NOT GOING TO THE FUNERAL TODAY.

Did you know that students of human history have found ceremonies for the dead in every culture. Egyptians, American Indians, Orientals, Africans, Latin Americans and Eskimos are examples of the many cultures that hold ceremonies for their dead. Ceremonies vary to meet local needs. Ceremonies serve the living! American funerals bring friends and loved ones together to give mutual support. They give the living a positive way to honor the memory of the deceased. When you hear people wondering about the value of funerals, remember that funerals meet the deeply seated needs of the living. When a loved one dies, attend the funeral and visitation to honor the deceased, to support the family and appropriately express your feelings.

Bacteria Count 'Excellent' At Beaches

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board, announces that the bacteriological quality of water at the public beaches in Quincy has been excellent through the six-week period from June 18 to July 28.

The Health Department provides the Park Department with a weekly account of water quality testing at the 13 beaches where swimming instructions are conducted. In 91 samples taken in a six week period, a 1000 coliform count was recorded only once in the fourth week and the remaining 90 samples were all good to excellent in bacteriological water quality.

According to the State Department of Public Health, the bacteriological quality of bathing beach waters indicates the fact that sewerage or other hazardous substances are being discharged into the swimming areas or that high bathing density has created a condition which is or may be dangerous to the public health.

A coliform count of over 1,000 per 100 millimeters is considered as a guide requiring additional investigation, survey or special analysis necessary.

The State Department of Public Health reduced the coliform count from 1500 that was allowable in 1968 to 1000 allowable in 1969. This action provided greater protection to the swimmers.

Board Rescinds Washington St. Second Hand License

Edward Solmonte, owner of a second hand business at 142-144 Washington St., Quincy Center, was directed to clear his lot of combustible material after the License Board rescinded his license Tuesday.

The license was rescinded for health and safety reasons and for failure to comply with five warnings previously issued by the board.

City Clerk John Gillis called Solmonte's business, much of it outdoors, a "disgrace".

Michael DiStasio, who owns the property at 130-138 Washington St., said that his insurance has been cancelled because of his proximity to the second hand business.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said that Solmonte's business is a fire hazard and that Solmonte has been "extremely uncooperative" with the Fire Department.

DiStasio said, "I feel like I'm sitting next to a time bomb."

Ted DeCristofaro, of the Ward II Civic Association, called Solmonte's business "deplorable".

Councillor Daniel Raymond said he has received many calls about the situation since the building across the street where Solmonte also operated his business, without a license, was razed.

Solmonte then moved that merchandise to 142-144 Washington St. said Raymond.

Solmonte said that he has operated his business for 40 years and is in the process of sorting out all his merchandise.

"I'm not finished moving," said Solmonte.

"We've given you every opportunity," said Gillis. "We've given you every break in the book. You can't keep a junkyard."

County Prisoners To Get Reduced Sentence Break

Prisoners in county jails and houses of correction may now take advantage of reduced sentence programs formerly available only to those in state institutions.

The new legislation, effective Aug. 20, allows county jail inmates to earn up to 2½ days' credit for each month in which they work in a state hospital or school, study for their high school equivalency certificate, or complete a vocational training program.

"If these programs are working as an incentive to state inmates, I see no reason why those in county institutions, who are generally guilty of less-serious offenses, should not benefit."

Quincy Point Loses Power After Equipment Malfunction

About 1500 Mass. Electric customers in Quincy Point were without power for over an hour Monday morning after an equipment malfunction at 8:33 a.m.

According to Aldo Barresi, supervisor of field engineering, the equipment malfunctioned at the Field St. substation.

Power was restored by 9:46 a.m., said Barresi who added that customers from parts of Southern Artery, South St., and Washington St. were effected.

There was no connection between the power outage and installation of cable T.V. equipment on South St., said Barresi.

Barresi also said the outage was "totally unrelated" to another recent outage in the area which resulted during a storm.

Total 28 Candidates File No Primary For Mayor

By TOM HENSHAW

There'll be no preliminary election for mayor in Quincy next month.

Both City Councillors Daniel G. Raymondi and Francis X. McCauley, filed more than the required 50 signatures for nomination by the deadline Tuesday at 5 p.m.

But John Timothy Isbister, the potential third candidate who would have forced a run-off, failed to file any signatures at all so Raymondi and McCauley won't face each other until Nov. 3.

A total of 28 candidates, possibly 29, filed for office.

Raymondi filed what was believed to be a record 8,398 signatures in a show of electoral strength that really wasn't necessary.

City Clerk John Gillis said the highest number of signatures he recalled was by Francis H. Foy who filed some 5,000 for mayor in 1957. Foy got only 2,233 votes in the election.

Nine of the 10 candidates who took out papers for the City Council at large returned them by the deadline with the required 50 signatures, so there will be a primary for those seats.

Louis Edward Dolen, the 10th candidate, showed up with more than 100 signatures but only 41 of them were certified.

Dolen, with baby and carriage in tow, went out to McIntyre Mall next to City Hall a few minutes before 5 o'clock, seeking more names.

He returned with 13 more signatures before the deadline but the Election Office said they would not be certified until Wednesday morning so it was not known Tuesday night whether he had the needed nine.

Others who qualified for the Council at large included:

Incumbents John J. Quinn, and Joseph J. LaRaia; and Richard J. Koch Jr., Patricia M. Toland, Timothy P. Cahill, Robert J. Niven, Gregory P. Brooks, William J. O'Hare and Dennis Buckley.

Eight candidates filed for School Committee, insuring a preliminary election in that race for three seats. The candidates are:

Incumbents Mary P. Collins, Joan C. Picard and John J.

Now 'Lame Duck' Mayor Don't Count Tobin Out Of Arena

Arthur H. Tobin is in his first week as the "lame duck" mayor of Quincy -- but don't count him out of the political arena for good.

"My future may be in the judiciary," he said. "But I don't rule out elective or appointive office on a state or local level in the future. I still have a lot to offer."

Tobin, after two terms as mayor, is not running for reelection. It's too late for him to change his mind. The deadline for filing nomination papers passed Tuesday at 5 p.m.

It has been widely reported that he is in line for appointment by Gov. Edward J. King as clerk-magistrate in the Quincy District Court.

Tobin said he is bowing out of the mayor's race because "at the present time I cannot make the commitment of seven days and nights a week that are required of a mayor."

"It's unfair to the city and to myself."

He said he plans to "leave it to the citizens of Quincy and the historians to judge my record of accomplishment and the type of job I did."

Two recent polls, one in January and the other in June, he said, "both show that if I was running for re-election I would be a viable candidate. The people thought I did a good job."

Tobin said he wishes both candidates for mayor - City Councillors Daniel G. Raymondi and Francis X. McCauley - well in their quests for the office.

Perhaps one a little weller?

"I'd like to leave it like that," he said. "The citizens of Quincy are intelligent people who know what they want for the city. They will have an excellent opportunity to judge the candidates in the next months."

In the past, Tobin and McCauley have been critics of each other's actions in the mayor's office and on the Council.

Raymondi Pledges Support For Police, Fire Forces

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, a candidate for mayor, has reaffirmed his pledge to maintain effective police and fire department staffing when he is elected mayor.

He called police and fire protection "one of the most important services that our city performs."

Raymondi spoke at the homes of John and Barbara Gilfeather, 55 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, and Joseph and Anne Phillips, 1372 Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount.

He said his experience as a former assistant district attorney and a public defender made him especially sensitive to the fears of the public regarding police and fire department layoffs.

"We have a judicial system which sometimes does not effectively punish the criminal nor offer its support to the law enforcement units of our society," he said.

"As mayor I will assume a leadership position behind an effective crime prevention program for Quincy.

"I will do my best to see a safer Quincy by building a closer relationship between City Hall and our police force based upon support for their efforts on our behalf."

Raymondi noted that some people have predicted inferior police and fire protection for Quincy neighborhoods because of Proposition 2½ and the possible staff cuts caused by it.

"All sections of Quincy, especially isolated neighborhoods such as Squantum, Houghton Neck and Germantown will not be abandoned under my administration," he said.

"Public safety is an issue that I will not let be held hostage by Proposition 2½. The protection of life and property will not be compromised under the Raymondi administration."

Raymondi said he is against closing any fire station in Quincy.

"My experience as a ward councillor has taught me how important certain essential services like fire and police are to city residents," he said.

"The taxpayers pay for these services; the taxpayers deserve these services; and my administration will deliver these services as effectively and as efficiently as we possibly can."

No Long Island Condos, White Tells McCauley

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White has assured City Councillor Francis X. McCauley that there are no plans to convert the Long Island Hospital into condominiums.

McCauley, who is a candidate for mayor, wrote to White's office requesting clarification of persistent reports from alarmed North Quincy residents that the conversion is being planned.

"There is absolutely no validity to the rumored conversion," said White in a letter to McCauley. "Long Island Hospital will remain as is."

If any changes are planned,

White added, "you may be assured that municipal (Quincy) officials would be informed."

McCauley pointed out to the Boston mayor the enormous impact any type of housing development on Long Island would have on traffic in North Quincy and Squantum.

Because Of Computer City In No Rush To Collect Old Water Bills

The city of Quincy, which is desperately in need of money, is turning down small sums each day from residents who are trying to pay past due water bills.

Tax Collector Robert E. Foy III said it probably would cost the city more than it would be worth to hire extra personnel to accept the payments.

The city gets the money, plus penalty, eventually in the form of a lien on next year's tax bills.

A North Quincy man recently complained to The Sun that he received a water bill for $40 -- $24 current and $16 in arrears.

But when he tried to pay the $40, his check was returned with a request for a $24 payment and the notation that the $16 would appear on his next real estate tax bill.

He said that when he inquired at City Hall he was told that there was no way they would accept his payment for the arrears.

"How many more are there like me in this city that is supposed to need money so badly?" he asked.

"Well," said Foy, "there are between 2,000 and 3,000" and there's not much that can be done about it.

"We have to have some system for collecting past due water bills in an orderly manner," he said.

"We held all the 1980 water bills that were unpaid until June, 1981, and then we give them to the assessors to be added to the tax bills for 1982.

"We have to have a system like that. If we were to pull back a specific bill from the assessors computer everytime an individual asked for it, we would have to hire more people."

When the overdue bill goes to the assessors, Foy said, a penalty of 10 per cent or $5, whichever is higher, is added to the bill.

Bellotti Rules Out Governor's Race

Unless something drastic happens in the next four months, Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti is going to run for re-election, not for governor.

"The governor's office is a mess now," he said Tuesday on a visit to the Quincy Sun. "I'm not even talking about running for it. If someone gave it to me as an even trade I'm not sure I'd want it."

"I've found a job I know how to do well and I like it. To me it's an important job because I'm a lawyer. I've made it a lot more professional and I know how to handle it."

But, he added, "Who knows what's going to happen four months from now. I don't have to decide what I'm going to do for another four months. But I'm inclined to run for re-election.

"I've been around for so long that I don't have any ego left."

Bellotti declined to speculate on the apparently wide open race that is looming for the Democratic nomination for governor amount Gov. Edward J. King, Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III, and former Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"The race is not susceptible to definition yet," he said. "You don't know how Tommy O'Neill is going to fly. He's not setting the world on fire. Dukakis looks fairly popular but he hasn't been assaulted yet."

"King is in bad shape but can he rebuild? A lot of what happens to you is set in the first six months of your administration. The first six months of his administration was a disaster. It's difficult to overcome that primary image."

Quincy Quiz

Three winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Walter Carlson, 370 Granite St., West Quincy, and Joseph E. Brett, 254 Fenno St., Wollaston, win T-shirts and Michael Uvanitte, 38 Guild Rd., Plymouth, wins a bumper sticker.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the general manager of Quincy Cablesystems, the company that has the Quincy cable TV franchise?

2. The first Quincy Bay Race Week was held in: 1896, 1919, 1938.

3. In what section of the city is King's Lane?

4. What well-known building is located at 12 Quincy Ave.?

5. True or False: Daniel G. Raymond and Stephen J. McGrath are the only lawyers on the Quincy City Council.

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Arthur Chandler is the president of the Quincy Citizens Association.

2. Edna B. Austin was the first woman elected to the Quincy City Council.

3. True. Quincy is the only city in Norfolk County.

4. Veterans Memorial Stadium was built on the site of Plaffman's Oval.

5. Golf Rd. is in the Montclair section of the city.

Experts say skycaps and porters should be tipped 25 to 35 cents a normal-sized suitcase, bellboys, 50 cents a bag.

If You Lose, Run Again

If at first you don't succeed in politics, well, try, try again.

Quite a few well known political names today got off to losing starts but came back winners. Recent examples:

In 1971, Leo Kelly, Warren Powers, Dennis Harrington and Thomas Hughes ran for ward council seats for the first time. They bowed to veterans Edward Graham, William Delahunt, Vincent Smyth and Albert Barilaro.

Two years later, though, Kelly, Powers and Harrington were elected to the council and Kelly went on to become council president. And, in 1980, Hughes upset Paul Gay to become County Register of Probate.

James Sheets was another bright young political star who started rising in 1973. But, a lot of people forget he was overwhelmed in his first try for public office in 1969 when he finished dead last in the preliminary race for city council at-large.

Paul Harold lost to Leo Kelly for Ward I councillor in 1973 but he was back again to win an at-large seat two years later. Harold also lost his first bid for state representative in a special election in 1971. But was then elected to the state senate in 1978, upsetting Arthur Tobin.

HAROLD

TOBIN

Tobin's political career got off to a dismal start in 1963 when he finished fourth and out in the preliminary for ward I councillor. He was elected to the council in 1967, the House of Representatives in 1968, the Senate in 1971 and mayor in 1977.

Frank McCauley, who is running for mayor this year, lost his first two attempts at a City Council at-large seat in 1959 and 1967 before winning in 1977. and, Christopher Kennedy also was rejected in his first try for the School Committee in 1975.

MCCAULEY

DELLA CHIESA

Amelio Della Chiesa lost his first three elections for councillor at-large in 1938, 1940, 1942. Among those he bowed to was Lawrence Curtin. Next time out Della Chiesa won the Ward 3 seat formerly held by his brother, Aldo.

Della Chiesa served as Plan E mayor from 1954 to 1957. In 1957 in the first mayoral election as the city returned to the present Plan A form of government Della Chiesa defeated Curtin. Ironically, Curtin was a spearhead in bringing back Plan A.

All together, Della Chiesa served 12 years as mayor under both plans — the longest tenure in the city's history.

So, any political newcomer running this year shouldn't get discouraged if they don't make it. Just run again. And, again.

TIMOTHY CAHILL, candidate for Councillor at-large, will hold his second fundraiser Friday, 8 p.m. at Quincy Legion Hall, Mechanic St. Tickets available at Cahill's campaign headquarters, 1246 Hancock St. (770-2452).

HE'S NOT QUITE ready for the Olympics, but Fr. Joseph Byrne of St. John's isn't bad at all in the running department.

He ran in Sunday's 7.1 mile Falmouth Road Race and finished in 62 minutes. Winner Alberto Salazar's time was a record 31:55.6. Actually, Fr. Byrne's time was a record for him. In a practice run a few days before, it took him 72 minutes. Dick Storella was there Sunday morning but a SCHOOL Committee woman Mary Collins and The Sun's Paul Gorham have come up with a novel way of getting to first base in a softball game.

Mary defected to the News Media in their Muscular Dystrophy Benefit game with the City Officials at Adams Field last week. Gorham was coaching at first base when Mary came to bat. She hit a slow roller. Gorham grabbed the first base bag, ran to homeplate with it, told Mary to grab it, and he then escorted her to first base with it 10-inning win, was given a ball autographed by the players after the game. First signer was former Mayor Thomas Burgin who sat on both benches during the game. This, of course, was Tobin's final appearance in the annual benefit game as mayor.

BURGIN

MIKE MORRISSEY, a yachtsman of note as well as a state rep, came about as close as one can to presenting a trophy to himself during Quincy Bay Race Week.

Morrissey was a last minute fill-in for Gov. Edward J. King in presenting the Governor's Cup, which goes to the winner in the fleet that has the largest number of competitors.

It turned out to be the Hustler fleet in which Morrissey was competing for the first time in five years.

Fortunately—or unfortunately, depending on how you look at it—Morrissey finished third. The trophy was won by Joe Carven, Jr. of Weymouth, who was once Morrissey's sailing instructor.

The 27-year-old state rep is no rookie under sail. It was just 10 years ago that he and Michael Durkin of Squantum represented the U.S. in the international 420 races in Cherbourg, France. They finished 30th in a field of 80.

Koch Club Presents Citation To Bryan VFW Color Guard

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, recently presented a citation to the Bryan VFW Post Color Guard for its 30 years of participation in the annual Koch Club Flag Day Parade.

In presenting the award to John Harkins, captain of the color guard, Koch detailed how 200 children took part in the parade 30

This year, according to Koch, over 1500 children participated along with military, civilian units, VFW Ladies State Color Guard, Ladies Auxiliary and Junior Girls Unit of the Bixan Post.

Koch thanked the post for its continuous participation in the parade.

Harkins assured Koch of the post's participation in the future.

The most commonly used word in English conversation is "I".

Collins Proposal

Tighter School Discipline OK With Creedon

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon says he has no problem with tighter discipline in Quincy schools but, in an interview with The Quincy Sun, he questioned whether it was really necessary.

School Committeewoman Mary Collins last week proposed a new disciplinary policy for the schools under which students would be expelled from high school if they have four suspensions a year.

"I have no quarrel with the intent of what she is doing," said Creedon. "We should have in our policy book a clearer statement of when something should come to the attention of the School Committee."

"Actually, four suspensions in one year is a pretty liberal policy. If a kid is suspended four times in a year then we've got a problem on our hands."

But Creedon questioned whether a tighter disciplinary policy is really needed "in light of the trends by the kids to be more conservative in dress, haircuts and attitude."

"We don't expect the problems that we had 10 years ago," he said. "Maybe it's a reaction to what happened 10 years ago. Maybe it's a reflection of a conservative trend nationally."

Creedon noted that a year ago September the Quincy schools implemented a revised disciplinary code at Quincy High School.

Under it, one unexcused absence called for a warning to parents and, after two and three absences, the student's grade dropped five points automatically, and continued to drop five points for additional absences.

Mrs. Collins' proposal, which was tabled for later action by the Committee, read like this:

"Any student being suspended for the fourth time in a given school year must appear before the School Committee for consideration of either signing out for the remainder of that year or expulsion from the Quincy Public Schools."

Mrs. Collins noted that, due to Proposition 2½, the staff of the Quincy schools has been reduced by one-third, which means larger classes and less supervision by teachers.

"The School Committee in the past," she said, "has left this area of responsibility to the principal and the administration and I want to continue in the same manner."

"The only way to be suspended is to commit infractions of rules, and to accrue suspensions simply indicates that a student has

"Since excessive tardiness and truancy are two of the reasons for which students can be suspended, I would hope that a policy such as this would have a positive impact on reducing the number of absences and tardies."

"I would like to see the drop-out rate stay as low as is practical under the current circumstances. I am not now, nor have I ever been in favor of having students leave school except when their behavior interferes with their own learning and the learning of others or when the safety of others is involved."

"I feel that the school system has done a good job in the past, and I am pleased with the manner in which discipline has been handled in the schools, but I think that we have been too tolerant."

"I know that this is and has been a concern of parents, the community, the School Committee and all of the school staff and I think that now is the time, for all concerned, to eliminate excessive abuse of school rules."

Boston Gear Head Won't Run For Mayor

Harry H. Kerr, president and treasurer of the Boston Gear Works, spiked rumors that he would run for mayor in 1932, although, he added, "I will say our City Council could be improved upon."

"The day is coming," he predicted, "when Quincy will have at its head not a mayor but a highly efficient city manager whose salary will be commensurate with the position."

'WINE BRICKS' LEGAL

Quincy Police said no legal action appears to be possible against so-called "wine bricks" that have made their appearance in two Quincy stores. Federal authorities pronounced them fruit.

The bricks were composed of a dried grape product which could be converted into juice by adding water with the warning on the package that it "must be consumed within five days or it will ferment."

FIGHT ZONING LAW

The Quincy Industrial Development Committee opened headquarters at 15 Saville St. and 67 Saville Row to campaign against the new zoning ordinance which goes on the ballot at a special election Sept. 1.

The committee warned that any advantages won by residents under the new law would be offset by its new restrictions on industrial development.

Such development, said the committee, "is absolutely necessary in order that we may someday shift some of the tax burden from home owners to industry and business."

CLAM DIGGERS SCORED

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath denounced clam diggers as "a curse, nightmare and ordeal" after hearing complaints from Adams Shore residents that as many as 160 of them have been creating a nuisance by digging at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Greenberg of Quincy, was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., with a B.S. degree in 1972, and a masters degree in 1973 in mechanical engineering. He is executive manager of Alsam, Inc., Brookline.

Matrons of honor were Sharyn Strimber of Cherry Hill, N.J., and Nancy Molitor of Gainesville, Fla. Bridesmaids were Ellen Kollangi of Canton; Esther Kaufman of Peabody; and Nancy McLaughlin of Quincy.

Best man was Steven Weiner of Bedford. Ushers were Jerald Greenberg of Newton; Ami Kollangi of Canton; Joseph Strimber of Cherry Hill, N.J.; Alfred Molitor of Gainesville, Fla.; Michael Daze of Castleton, N.Y.; and Stephen Levine of Worcester.

Grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Greenberg and Mr. Abraham Close, all of Brookline, also participated in the wedding ceremony.

A reception was held at the temple.

Following a wedding trip to Atlantic City, N.J., and Mystic, Conn., the newlyweds are making their home in Sharon.

Brownell Urges MBTA Revise $2 Wollaston Fare

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has requested the MBTA to correct bus service inequities in the Wollaston area which have resulted from recent service cut-backs and fare increases.

"This combined policy has resulted in the unconscionable cost of a $2 round-trip bus fare, between Wollaston Beach and Quincy Center, for many residents," he said.

"In short, what six months ago cost only 50 cents, now has quadrupled, rather than doubled, because of the loss of Route 212."

Route 212, which ran from Wollaston Beach to Quincy Center, was eliminated during last winter's service cut-backs. Now a two bus connection is needed to achieve the same destination.

One way bus fare was increased from 25 to 50 cents on Aug. 1, thus quadrupling the burden on many Wollaston residents.

Brownell suggested three options to the MBTA — that Route 212 be reinstated with full service; that Route 212 be reinstated for school children; or that a transfer system for connecting buses be instituted.

Brownell forwarded his requests to MBTA General Manager James O'Leary and Chief Service Planning Officer Alan Casteline.

Donnelly Proposes Wasp Sail Again

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly has introduced legislation to name the Navy's next aircraft carrier the USS Wasp, fulfilling a pledge he made to 250 World War II veterans who served on the last ship to bear that name.

Donnelly's pledge was delivered in May at the reunion of the crew of the Wasp by Allyn (Flash) Gordon of Milton.

Gordon, an aviation ordnance-man on the Wasp during the war, presented Donnelly with a petition signed by veterans of the carrier proposing that a future carrier be christened with the historic name.

The first ship bearing the Wasp name was commissioned into the Continental Navy in 1776. The World War II ship, built at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy, was the eighth of the name.

During the war, the Wasp was responsible for destroying 657 Japanese planes, sinking 52 enemy ships, and damaging 305 other enemy vessels.

The Wasp was retired in 1972. Donnelly's resolution urges the President to name the next aircraft carrier "in tribute to those who served on the aircraft carrier USS Wasp during World War II and as a memorial to the 200 years of distinguished service to the United States embodied in that ship's name."

FILING DOWN TEETH

Q: I lost a front tooth in an accident, and I must have it replaced. But why must they file down two healthy teeth to do it? Is there any other way?

A: Not if you want a permanent bridge. In order to support the missing tooth properly, one of your own teeth on either side of the space must be used as an anchor.

Q: I've heard the term "cantilever bridge" used many times. What is it?

A: Any bridge where a tooth is unattached at one end is called a cantilever bridge. Ordinarily you'd have to cap the tooth behind a space, and the tooth in front of it. In order to avoid touching a front tooth you could cap two teeth behind the space, and none in front.

Conroy Charges Schools Fail To Meet New Demands

"Society demands more from the public schools than ever before," says Patrick Conroy, a candidate for the School Committee.

"Yet the Quincy School Committee has responded to our community's needs with arrogance, lawsuits, political bickering and overall failure.

"They are so overwhelmed by problems that they fail to see the opportunities available for making the schools both more efficient and more effective."

Conroy spoke at a reception hosted by Al and Eileen Bacon of St. Germain St., Germantown.

"The job of the Quincy public schools is basically what it has always been," he said, "to teach children what their parents can't or don't teach them so that our community as a whole is better off and the quality of life improves for everyone.

"No matter how the needs of society change, the mission of the public schools remains to satisfy those needs.

"Wishing we were back in the 1950s when teachers worked for next to nothing and every family had a father who worked and a mother who stayed home with the kids all day will not get the job done.

"Honest, intelligent leadership will!"

Conroy urged his listeners to focus on the goals of public education rather than its structure and think creatively about the problems without being bound by obsolete and artificial constraints.

Cahill Proposes YES To Bring Old, Young Together

Timothy F. Cahill, a candidate for the City Council at large, has come up with a novel idea to help "close the gap between the young and the old."

Cahill says he would like to establish a Youth Escort Service (YES) made up of young people who would stand ready to help the elderly folks around town.

Cahill explained his idea at a coffee hour for senior citizens at the Southwest Community Center.

"The YES program," he said, "will consist of a corps of young people, ages 16 and over, who will be trained and then stationed at the various senior citizen complexes.

"They will be prepared to assist and escort a resident anywhere within the city."

Cahill said the program "will serve as a deterrent to the types of people who prey on the elderly of our city, as well as provide an opportunity to the young people who wish to form a bond with the senior citizens."

"I feel that my experience as a (wrestling) coach at Quincy High School for the past three years gives me the special ability to reach out and motivate the youth in this city who wish to help but have not found the opportunity."

Brooks Says He Will Work To Restore Public Trust

Gregory P. Brooks says that if he is elected councillor at large he will work to "restore the trust which the people have lost for their political leaders."

"There's just so much lack of trust for public officials on all levels of government, federal, state and local," he told a gathering of campaign workers.

"People have a right to be unhappy with their public officials. Some of those people who are fortunate enough to get elected forget who put them into office. Elected officials are servants of the public."

Brooks said, if elected, he would hold monthly meetings in each ward "to help keep the communication lines open."

"I can assure you," he said, "that the people of this city are going to have more input in the operations of this city government if I am elected.

"It's time for politicians everywhere to stop dictating and start listening."

"If they had ever shown some concern for the homeowner, Proposition 2 1/2 would never have come about. But they did not want to do that. They just kept demanding more money."

"Well, the people finally got a chance to speak in last November's election and they said, 'Enough is enough.'"

Brooks said people have lost trust in public figures because of "the Vietnam war, Watergate, killing taxes, the poor condition of the economy, rising crime in the cities, downright incompetence and pie-in-sky promises with no delivery."

Koch Meets With Newly Registered Voters

Richard J. Koch, Jr., candidate for City Councillor at large, recently addressed a group of newly registered voters at the home of Thomas P. Koch, Campaign Coordinator, 241 Newbury Avenue, North Quincy.

Koch, said he guaranteed energetic representation coupled with sensible thought and deliberation before acting on matters that affect the welfare of the people of Quincy.

He has not, can not and will not make political promises with rhetoric that is so familiar each election and is as quickly forgotten as mid-November arrives, he said.

Koch, assures voters that he will be personally concerned and attentive to the needs of the Quincy residents in the actions of the City Council.

He said that as one of a nine member body he would work closely with those elected to insure a period of public service rather than self service with the interest of the residents first and foremost in legislative actions by the Council.

Koch, stressed that issues and not personalities should be the function of those duly elected officials.

Mary Collins To Seek School Committee Re-election

Mrs. Mary P. Collins of 116 Lansdown St., Squantum, announces her candidacy for re-election to a second term on the School Committee.

Mrs. Collins, the mother of four and a resident of Quincy for 18 years, topped a field of six candidates in her first bid for a School Committee post four years ago.

Among her accomplishments on the School Committee, Mrs. Collins cited separate, more personalized graduations for the city high schools, and the inception of evaluation for tenured teachers.

She said she feels especially strong about the benefits of her experience.

"During the last three and a half years," she said, "we have had to face the most difficult times ever in Quincy Public Schools. Tax caps, layoffs and school closing had to be dealt with. There was no choice.

"The future promises to be as trying as the past, and the citizens of Quincy will be well served by an experienced candidate who has confronted the problems squarely, heeding the diverse opinions of the constituency and ultimately making the decisions."

During her term on the committee, she noted she missed only one meeting in four years, devoted many hours to school events throughout the city, and attended monthly meetings of the City-Wide Parent Advisory Council.

Mrs. Collins said she has two main priorities for the future:

The continuation of fiscal responsibility, and the survival of quality education in Quincy.

"We must maintain a correct focus on the importance of public education. We want not luxury, but decency and stability in the school system," she said.

"The last best hope for a free society still rests in the education of its members. We are willing to absorb our fair share and work to give our students what they deserve, but the Mayor and City Council must realize that the school system cannot continue to bear the brunt of the cuts.

"The taxpayers of Quincy deserve honesty and prudence in all areas of government. My candidacy is dedicated to those principles."

Mrs. Collins, who is the wife of Thomas Collins, participates in many community activities in addition to the School Committee.

She is Secretary of the Ward Six Democratic Committee, treasurer of Quincy Community Action, treasurer of the Social Service Committee of the Quincy City Hospital, a member and past president of the Squantum School PTO, and a member of the North Quincy High School Parents Advisory Council.

She was graduated from Monsignor Ryan Memorial High School, and the Boston School of Business Education. She is a licensed real estate broker.

Toland Urges All Register To Vote

Patricia M. Toland, candidate for city councillor-at-large, has urged eligible voters who are not registered to take advantage of the registration outreach program being conducted by the Election Department.

"Over the next several weeks there will be an opportunity for people to register in their own wards," said Mrs. Toland. "Times and places will be listed in the newspapers or City Hall can provide the necessary information on where a person should register."

Mrs. Toland, a longtime member of the League of Women Voters of Quincy and its voter service chairman for many years, urged all persons to "accept their responsibility as citizens in a democracy and exercise their right to vote."

Dan Raymondi answers to a very large special interest group.

The people of Quincy.

Dan Raymondi has served us faithfully ever since we elected him into office ten years ago. He's done a good job because he understands the problems we face.

He understands how difficult it is for the elderly just to make ends meet.

He knows the problems young people are having affording new homes and raising a family.

He understands the plight of the working man who's working more and affording less.

And he knows how difficult it is for businesses to prosper and grow in times like these.

It's this understanding that's enabled Dan Raymondi to do so much for the people of Quincy.

Now, Dan Raymondi wants to do more.

He wants to see Proposition 2-1/2 implemented fairly.

He wants to control city spending.

And he wants to keep our taxes down so we can afford to stay in our homes.

That's why he's running for Mayor.

As Mayor, Dan Raymondi will bring this understanding to City Hall. And that's no election time promise.

That's just the way he is.

McDuff Endorses Prop 2 1/2

John H. McDuff Jr., a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, said he endorses Proposition 2 1/2 "as a good first step in helping to get government's hand out of our pockets."

"America is at last waking up to the devastating situation created by liberal social and economic programs on our lives," he told a recent meeting of supporters.

"We have had it up to here with liberal politicians who try to solve every problem in the world by throwing our tax dollars at it.

"We are now entering a period of conservative individualism in which we believe that the working man should be able to save or spend his wages as he sees fit without being milked dry by socialist bureaucrats.

"That is why I endorse Proposition 2 1/2."

Gilbert L. Crofts, 72, Quincy's 'Mr. YMCA'

A memorial service for Gilbert L. Crofts, 72, a Quincy native who was known to many as "Mr. YMCA", was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in Bethany Congregational Church.

Mr. Crofts died Wednesday, Aug. 12, in Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston, after a brief illness.

Born and educated in Quincy, Mr. Crofts, or "Crum" as he was nicknamed, served the Quincy YMCA for 43 years until his retirement in 1969.

He was appointed general secretary of the "Y" in 1956, and under his leadership membership increased five-fold over 10 years.

Upon Mr. Croft's retirement, Dr. V. James DiNardo, then president of the Y said, "The institution he had led has had a truly significant impact on the lives of thousands of persons it has served."

"He has truly practiced the biblical admonition 'Not to be ministered unto, but to minister'."

Mr. Crofts introduced Little League Baseball to Quincy in 1951, the first such movement on the South Shore.

He brought spring and summer outdoor basketball leagues to Quincy in 1947. He began a softball league in 1946, and Quincy had the first lighted field.

The Y sponsored a South Shore Tourney for many years and an Open Tourney which attracted teams from all over New England. Mr. Crofts was also actively involved with the Y's Sunday School basketball league.

He was active in United Community Fund drives, and served as a member of the Special

GILBERT L. CROFTS

Gifts Divisions and Residential Committees.

In 1948, he was appointed to Quincy's first City Recreation Commission by the late Mayor Charles A. Ross. He served for 14 years, four of them as vice chairman.

Among the honors he received was the DeMolay's Legion of Honor and the Brotherhood Award from B'nai B'rith.

He served as president of the Quincy Kiwanis Club in 1951, and also served as vice-chairman of Quincy Junior College.

Mr. Crofts was appointed to the Site Selection Committee of QJC and South Shore Mental Health Building by then Mayor James R. McIntyre.

He served as deacon and chairman of the Prudential Committee of Bethany Congregational Church, and was a volunteer bus driver for 1000 Southern Artery.

A Navy veteran of World War II, he was a long time member of Wollaston Yacht Club and a charter member of the Quincy Power Squadron.

A graduate of Boston University, he had also attended Harvard summer school. Mr. Crofts studied at Nynl School of Physiotherapy in Boston, and the Y school in Silver Bay, N.Y.

His 12 years of retirement were spent on his cabin cruiser, Brucynus, named for his children.

Some of his happiest times, according to his son, Bruce, were spent on Naushon Island, off Woods Hole, where he ran a boat yard for Forbes Trust for the first six years of his retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Helene (Hodgkinson) Crofts; a son Bruce Gilbert Crofts of Quincy; a daughter, Cynthia Merry Crofts of Hingham; and three grandchildren, Scott Abraham Crofts, 14, Jason Alexander Crofts, 10, and Heather Lynne Crofts, 3.

A reception for family and friends was to be held in the church parlor following the memorial service conducted by Rev. J. William Arnold.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Crofts has donated his body for research to Harvard Medical School. Cremation will follow.

His family plans to scatter his ashes in Hadley's Harbor, Naushon Island, where he spent so many enjoyable times, according to his son.

Donations in his memory may be sent to the Gilbert L. Crofts Campership Fund, South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

Sacred Heart Students Raise $1,252 For St. Jude's Hospital

Over 55 students from Sacred Heart Elementary School, North Quincy, raised $1,252.80 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital by taking part in a national Math-A-Thon.

As part of the program, the students obtained sponsors for the number of problems they answered in Math-A-Thon fun books.

The program is designed to help children sharpen their math skills while making them more aware of other children who are not as fortunate.

Proceeds from the Math-A-Thon are sent to St. Jude Children's Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., founded by entertainer Danny Thomas in 1962 to conduct basic and clinical research into catastrophic childhood diseases. All research programs and all medical care are free of charge.

Seniors Can Ride MBTA Free With ID Card

Senior citizens and handicapped persons can ride the MBTA free between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays with a proper MBTA reduced fare identification card.

The MBTA's Senior Citizen/Handicapped Registration Office, located at Washington Street Station, is open weekdays 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, senior citizens must bring proof of age — 65 years or older — such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license, and a 50¢ cash fee.

Senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card do not need to register again. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped person's reduced fare identification card, handicapped persons must present proof of their disability such as a letter from the Social Security Administration; evidence of 70% or more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration; or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7 which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

Senior citizens and handicapped persons must show their MBTA ID card upon entering vehicles or stations.

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had it "all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life — "strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ — now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

Campfire Girls Are Girls And Boys Now

The South Shore Camp Fire Girls, Inc., is dropping the girls -- from its name, that is.

From now on it'll be the South Shore Council of Camp Fire, Inc., "reflecting its commitment to serve the needs of boys, as well as girls." Boys have been participating in Camp Fire informally for the past five years.

"In recent years," said the announcement, "Camp Fire has studied our changing society, especially the changing expectations of what girls and boys should do and be."

"It was concluded that what both girls and boys need most is a program which encourages the development of each individual's fullest potential.

"Based on these findings, Camp Fire again took the lead and developed a non-sexist program for both boys and girls."

By "non-sexist," Camp Fire meant that "activities are not suggested exclusively for girls or boys," that resource materials suggest that girls and boys participate as friends and equals.

"Real differences between girls and boys are recognized and appreciated," said Camp Fire.

Cortese Files Rehiring Plan for Ex-City Workers

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, says he plans to file an ordinance that would give preference in employment or re-employment to city employees who have been laid off.

"Looking down the road," said Cortese, "it would seem to be a very practical thing for the city to establish a 'job bank' comprised of city employees who have been terminated through Proposition 2½."

"The job bank actually should have been an obligation of the city from the day Proposition 2½ came into effect to provide for the needs of the city employee."

"All of these trained and highly skilled employees have been dedicated to the interests of the city."

Cortese said he knows of two recent programs funded "directly or indirectly by the city" that have employed personnel from outside the city.

He identified them as the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services and the office of the Downtown Coordinator.

"I feel that employees in this city who have been terminated could have been easily trained to perform the duties of the outsiders hired to perform these duties," he said.

"It is my feeling that the practice of hiring outside employees should be stopped by the City Council by adopting this ordinance and implementing it immediately."

Cortese said the ordinance has been presented to the Council through Council President Leo J. Kelly.

CONFIDENT skipper sneaks between a pair of competing 210s during Race Week off Wessagussett on opening day.

More Boats, Good Weather It Was A 'Perfect' Quincy Bay Race Week

Last week's 44th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week was one of the most successful in years with perfect weather prevailing, no races being cancelled and only one minor accident on Sunday.

"This was just a perfect week with more boats than last year, perfect weather and wonderful cooperation by all the boatsmen," said QBRW President Bob Hutcheon of Wollaston Yacht Club.

Another record was set in the ocean racing, in which interest is increasing every year. Last year a new record of more than 100 boats started in the two-day ocean racing program and this year this number was increased by several boats.

The colorful Marine Parade was held Sunday under perfect conditions (weather forecasters had been almost unanimous in predicting showers and even thunder).

The winner was Al Jago's Paddlin Madeline Home. The parade featured many gaily decorated boats.

Trophies to all the winners will be presented Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. at Trophy Night at Squantum Yacht Club. All winners and guests are invited to this event.

The annual Gala Night was held last Friday night at Quincy Yacht Club with Hutcheon and Quincy Commodore Ted Johnson hosts.

The annual Rendezvous Night was held Saturday at Town River Y.C. with Hutcheon and Commodore Robert Perry hosts.

Outside Line Winners

The outside line winners in last week's Quincy Bay Race Week:

TORNADO - John Healy, Squantum Y.C.
HOBIE CAT - Arthur Milmore, Wessagussett.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

THE MOTORCYCLE SYNDROME

During the past decade, motorcycle registration has zoomed from 500,000 to over two and a half million. Along with this increase has been a commensurate increase in highway fatalities involving motorcycles.

The death rate in automobile accidents is 5.5 per 100 million miles. For motorcycles it's a shocking 23 deaths per 100 million miles - about 4 times higher.

The major danger to cyclists lies in lack of protection. Eighty to 90 percent of all motorcycle accidents result in death or injury for the cyclist. The most serious injury being that involving the head.

Protective apparel, especially headgear should be worn for safety. Studies have shown beyond any doubt that crash helmets greatly reduce motorcycle injuries and fatalities. Cyclists should cooperate in accepting the responsibility for their own safety.

QUINCY'S 'Comfort Man', alias Sandy Rounseville, flies along in the recent road race held by the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and the Quincy Youth Commission.

Falmouth Race Finish Pleases Mullen

Quincy Police Lt. Frank Mullen, running in the event for the fifth time, turned in a time of 48 minutes, 48 seconds for the Falmouth Road Race Sunday, his best time ever for the 7.1-mile run.

Alberto Salazar of Wayland won the race in a record 31 minutes 55.6 seconds.

Mullen said he didn't know where he finished among the some 4,000 official entries (and 500 unofficial ones) but, he added, "I did very good for me."

Mullen, who ran the Boston Marathon in a little over three hours two years ago, said the Falmouth race was a warmup for him for the Montreal Marathon in September.

Bart Petracca, former North Quincy and Cornell University star, was the overall winner in the recent 10 kilometer road race held by the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and the Quincy Youth Commission.

Petracca, who ran in the 20-39 group, won in 31:37. Following him in that group were Tom Cash, John Forster and Jim Gavigan. Mary Hynes was the first female finisher in this group in 38:03, followed by Christine Anderson, Sandy Langenback and Lynn Manning.

The other finishers:

15 and under: Boys 1 Tom

Mullen, 36:47; 2, Joe Maher; 3, Dave Settles; 4, Scott Buckingham. Girls-1, Julie Buckley, 41:24; 2, Sheila Barrett; 3, Diane Lindenfelzer; 4, Eileen Crehan. 16-19: Men- 1, John Furey, 32:59; 2, Dave Shatford; 3, Mike Johnson; 4, Don Rowley. Women-1, Christine Clancy, 43:21; 2, Bonnie Dorr; 3, Diane Nolan; 4, Regina Nagle.

40 and over: Men- 1, John Hurley, 36:08 (20th overall); 2, Doug Rogers; 3, Joe Nee; 4, Gene Wright. Women-1, Susan Dixon, 53:04.

John Coakley was the wheelchair winner in 33:47, finishing seventh overall, followed by Lou Hilde and William Pollard.

Sen. Paul Harold finished 202nd among the more than 400 starters in 44:49.

The race was held to benefit young people with drinking problems. Sponsors included Wollaston Credit Union, 7-Up Bottling Co., Bay Bank Norfolk, Braintree Cooperative Bank and Hancock Bank and Trust.

More than $1000 has been raised in pledges for the council and the Youth Commission with money still coming in.

Indians Surprise In Junior Tourney

Quincy's annual baseball tournament, directed by Sal Salvatore, for teams of junior league age and including four Quincy teams, continues at Artery Fields 1 and 2 and the big surprise to date has been Quincy's 11-year-old team, the Indians.

This young team is 2-0 with a 6-5 victory over Norwood Police with T. J. Steen the winning pitcher and an 8-2 win over Milton with Ron Fletcher the winner.

Quincy A team walloped South Braintree, 12-4, with Billy Burkhead the winner and breezed past Forest Hills, 10-3, with Chris Cody the winner.

Quincy Triple A split in the triple elimination tournament, defeating Hingham A, 7-5, with Tim Riordan the winning pitcher, but losing to Norwood Columbus, 9-3, with Peter Quivellon the loser.

The Quincy Braves walloped Hingham A, 10-4, with Mike Dever the winner, but lost to Norwood Columbus, 9-8, with Bob Laracy the loser.

Other first round scores: Milton 12, Weymouth North A 0; Hingham B 9, East Braintree 2; Dorchester Millstream 8, Weymouth South 6; South Braintree 7, Weymouth North B 1.

Second round scores: Norwood Police 14, Weymouth North A 0; Weymouth South 14, E. Braintree 7; Forest Hills 9, Weymouth North B 1; Dorchester Millstream 16, Hingham B 12.

Competition will continue until Labor Day. Quincy's teams will be playing either tonight (Thursday) or Friday at 6 or 8 o'clock. There will be games Saturday, 11 a.m., 6 and 8 p.m., and Sunday there will be four games, two at 6 and two at 8.

Kane's, California Win Women's Titles

Kane's Place won the Division A championship in the Quincy Women's Softball League and California won the Division B title and will move up to Div. 1 next year.

Kane's defeated Shea's Formica in a three-game series to win the A crown. Kane's won the opener, 5-0. Shea's won the second game, 5-4, and Kane's pulled out a 3-2 victory in a tension-packed finale, overcoming a 2-0 deficit in the last two innings.

The women wore black arm bands in tribute to league president Patty Gauthier, who passed away last week.

Trailing, 2-0, in the sixth inning, Kane's made it 2-1 on a bases loaded walk, tied it at 2-2 and scored the winning run on a blown play on which two runners were on third base. Shea's Lillian Callahan threw to second for an out but this allowed Chris Kilmurray to score the winning run.

Both teams played outstanding ball in a fitting climax to another successful season.

Joanne Ruane was the winning pitcher and Chickie Mormile the hard luck loser.

California won the opener against Washington Tap. Tap evened it up, 9-8, and California won the deciding game, 6-1.

Playing for Kane's were Bev Bergman, Ann Bertrand, Jean Gorman, Dee Dee Gosselin, Chris Kilmurray, Cindy Maze, Diane Maze, Joanne Ruane, Diane Smith, Nancy Smith, Sue Smith, Jean Volpe and Cheryl Walsh.

Playing for Shea's were Lillian Callahan, Susan Gallery, Eileen Marr, Maureen Santry, Joane Collins, Chickie Mormile, Donna Shaw, Nancy Perella, Bobby Erskine, Tricia Gambino, Ann Kozlowski, Lisa Norling and Coleen Campbell.

Washington Tap's roster included Pat Merlin, Rita Minton, Sharon Connors, Laurie Hansen, Michelle Foley, Kim Downey, Donna Murray, Maureen Martin, Moe Savage, Karen Petrillo, Linda McHugh, Mary Lou Minichello, Cheryl Princiotta, Patti McCarthy, Patti McCormick, Marie Bell, Jane Driscoll, Debbie Nabeeb and Kathy Viglas.

LAURETTA SULLIVAN scores for California in its game with Washington Tap last week. California won the three-game series to win the Div. B title in the Quincy Women's Softball League and will move up to Div. A next year.

Officials, Firefighters Win MDA Games

The City Officials and the Fire Department came out on top in their annual softball game with the Media and the Police Department for Muscular Dystrophy at Adams Field last Thursday.

The event raised more than $500 for MD.

Coach Leo J. Kelly's City Officials built up a 7-0 lead and then had to score a run in the 10th inning to win an 8-7 victory over the Quincy Media. They lead in the series, 3 games to 2.

The Media, coached by Henry Bosworth, scored five times in the eighth inning to tie the game.

The Fire Department avenged last year's loss in defeating the Police Department, 6-0, behind the four-hit pitching of John Moran and Fred Baldock.

Jack Goddard was the defensive star for the Fire Department, which clinched the win with four runs in the fifth inning.

N.J. Team Wins Frank Kelley Meet

For the first time in the six-year history of the Frank Kelley Memorial Track Meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium, the host Quincy Track Club did not win last Saturday.

The Plainfield, N.J., team won the meet with 126 points to 123 for Quincy. Newark, N.J., finished third with 109 points as 300 athletes from New Jersey and all sections of New England competed.

The Plainfield runners and jumpers set six meet records and the Newark team also had some stellar performances.

In the special 6 and under 50-yard dash Quincy's Liam Higgins won the boys' division and Jennifer LaPorte took third for the girls.

In 8 and under boys Chris DiGiacomo placed in the 100, 400 and long jump and Sutee Sirikanjanachal placed in the long jump. For the girls Joanna Rugnetta took second in the 100, and Jill McLellan and April Hamilton were 2-3 in the long jump.

In 10 and under boys Paul McLellan was the outstanding performer, winning the 100, 400 and long jump. The relay team took second. For the girls Francine Rodgers placed in the long jump. Cindy Bonner took second in the 440 and the real teams placed first and third.

In 12-under boys the relay team placed second and for the girls Laura Cirilla took second in the 200 and third in the 100.

In 13-14 boys Eddie Munroe won the high jump. For the girls Tracy Coull and Julie Supple set a meet record in the high jump at 4-11, but Supple was awarded first on fewer misses. Mary Beth Bonner took third. Maria D'Attio and Janice Libby placed 2-3 in the long jump. Janice also took second in the 100, Kathy Feeney took second in the 400, Shannon Gotter and 11-year old Caryn Collings, running out of her class, took 2-3 in the 880, Caryn running a fine 2:50, and the relay team took second.

In 15-16 boys Colin Powers placed second in the 440 and John Delaplace took second in the high jump and in 17-18 boys Richie Palma took third in the high jump and long jump and Kevin Wood took second in the high jump. In 15-18 girls Kara Crehan won the high jump at 5-6, Laura Andrews and Michelle Millane placed 1-2 in the shot put, Millane won the discus with Andrews third and Shannon Gotter took second in the mile.

A highlight of the meet was a drawing for an all-expense trip for two to Bermuda with $150 spending money for each.

The coach of the Plainfield, N.J., YMCA Track Club drew the name of A. Fransicon of Canton. The drawing was organized by Billy Bonner, along with Jim Smith of Travel World.

The QTC thanks all of the parents and friends who helped at the meet and during the entire season.

Several QTC members did well in the U.S. Youth Games in Amherst.

Maureen Roche and Finn Kelly took individual bronze medals. Roche in the 14-15 long jump at 16-0, her best ever, and Kelly in the 12-13 high jump, clearing 4-9½.

Lorrie McNeill won a gold medal as a member of Boston's winning 10-11 girls relay team, which also included Chantel Albert, Tasha Downing and Kara Caputo.

Mike Williams won a silver medal running for the boys 14-15 880 medley relay team which also included Tom Cater, Ron Ferguson and Stacey Allen.

Also scoring for Quincy were Patrick Murphy and Tony Rugnetta, who ran on the 440 relay team in boys 10-11, which placed fourth; Lorrie McNeill, who took fifth in the long jump with a personal best of 12-11½;

Mike Williams, who took fifth in the 220, and Tracy Parker, who placed fourth in the 12-13 high jump, clearing 4-5½.

The Campaign Trail

Verenis Candidate For School Committee

Nicholas C. Verenis, of 82 Andrews Rd., Wollaston, officially announced his candidacy for the Quincy School Committee as he filed his nomination papers at City Hall.

In his announcement, Verenis stated that his candidacy is prompted by three critical issues: the drop in academic standards at all levels, lack of discipline, and administrative waste.

Verenis, a 1965 graduate of North Quincy High School, holds a B.A. degree in government from the university of Massachusetts at Amherst.

He is pursuing an M.S. degree in urban planning at Boston State College.

Verenis will soon be associated with Columbia Billiard Co. of Boston, a wholesale/retail distributor of bowling and billiard supplies. He will also be associated with that company's real estate projects of the inner city.

Until recently, Verenis was a member of the social studies department at North Quincy High School.

Verenis feels that During his 10 year tenure, he was able to secure and demonstrate a deep understanding of the goals and objectives of the Quincy Public Schools.

He offers his service to the schools and the education of young people as the foundation of his professional career, and seeks to further that interest and commitment by serving on the School Committee.

The experience of working for the school system as a teacher and as a taxpayer is what he considers to be of the greatest value to both the young people and to the taxpayers of the city.

Verenis feels his extensive background in dealing in a positive manner with students and professional staff will bring a much needed new perspective to the School Committee.

Verenis explained that he offers the experience of dealing with all sectors of the educational arena: students, parents, teachers, and administrators.

This experience, he feels, will help in dealing with the complex educational problems which we will all have to deal with.

Verenis feels that the decade of the 1970's saw the spending of dollars on wasteful trendiness in educational theory. "We are still paying the price, and not necessarily in dollars," states Verenis.

"Despite the needed economic restraints, sound, quality education can be achieved so that children can realize the value of their education and taxpayers will once again feel that their money is well spent," contends Verenis.

He feels that fiscal budgets should be aimed towards strengthening academic standards, providing a system of discipline which parents, students, and teachers feel is necessary and equitable, and lowering the "expensive" cost of maintaining an "over-loaded" main office administrative system.

In his statement, Verenis urged that a spirit of cooperation be the cornerstone of all branches of city government.

"One branch of city government using the other indicates the need for new, committed ideas and people on the School Committee," states Verenis.

Verenis says he will seek the active participation of all citizens, including parents, teachers, and students, in dealing openly and honestly with all problems.

He states that he intends to take his campaign to all corners of the city.

"In the near future, I will present my positions on the issues of academic standards, discipline, and administrative waste so that the voters of Quincy will be able to make a clear choice," states Verenis.

Judge Candidate By Vote Not Talk, McCauley Urges

"This is the year," said City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, "that dissatisfied residents in Quincy should stop looking at the extravagant packaging of a candidate and start looking into his actual voting record."

McCauley, a candidate for mayor, told a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Marsters, 40 Estabrook Rd., Wollaston, that "it's not what a politician says around election time that should sway voters, it is his voting record."

"The records at City Hall are open to the public for anyone who is curious enough to want to study the record of a candidate he is considering to vote into office," he said.

He himself, he said, has felt very lonely at City Council meetings when he has had only occasion help from other councillors in "steadfastly advocating a tightening of the purse strings at City Hall."

McCauley noted that back in 1978, he and then-Councillor Paul D. Harold were the only two council members to vote against a $7.2 million bond issue to fund operating expenses and revenue deficits. It cost the city more than $1 million in interest.

He said that while he has voted against many expenditures he felt were unnecessary, he has consistently maintained that it is pennywise and pound foolish to cut items in the city budget that are mandated by law.

McCauley said he and Councillor James A. Sheets were the only councillors to oppose cuts in the Blue Cross account in the 1981 budget. The cuts were made he said, and shortfalls in this employee account led to a borrowing of $2 million to fund the account.

McCauley pointed out that cuts in the temporary loan interest account were opposed by him and Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia. Yet cuts were made and a deficit of more than $1,700,000 was created in this account.

McCauley promised his listeners to keep a tight rein on spending in all areas of city government and particularly in the areas of studies and consultant fees.

"We have been studied to death," said McCauley. He noted that the city recently conducted a study of park and recreational facilities with a $30,000 Federal grant although Richard Koch, director of the Park Department, "has been furnishing city officials with excellent reports on the problems and needs of the department for years, as part of his regular duties."

O'Brien Pledges Weekly Public Meetings On Schools

James J. O'Brien, a candidate for School Committee, has promised to hold weekly public meetings to hear and discuss school issues if he is elected.

"It is important to give people an opportunity to speak out on a regular basis," he told a recent fund-raising party.

O'Brien acknowledged the efforts of his campaign workers at a O'Brien dance at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Houghs Neck.

Attending the dance were Sen. Paul D. Harold, Governor's Councillor Peter Eley, City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for mayor, and School Committee women Patricia Toland and Mary Collins.

$115,000 Earmarked For S. Quincy Projects, Says DeCristofaro

Theodore P. DeCristofaro, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, says he has learned that the federal government has earmarked more than $115,000 for housing and public works in South Quincy.

Anyone desiring a copy of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's Community Development Block Grant schedule for South Quincy should contact DeCristofaro at 17 Murdock Ave., Quincy Point.

The purpose of the low interest loans and grants is for rehabilitation of homes, resurfacing of streets, planting of trees and the outreach program for low income elderly and disabled persons.

Quincy Men Win Achievement Honors

Two Quincy men, both employees of the Data Printer Corp. of Malden, have received certificates of achievement for technology for industry course at the Open College of Bunker Hill Community College.

They are Richard Praetsch, 38 McDonald St., West Quincy; and Kevin Bennett, 96 Arnold St., Quincy Point.

Faxon Park Wins Arts & Crafts Prize

An arts and crafts display, entitled "Faxon Amusement Park", put together by the youngsters from Faxon Park, won the first prize of free ice cream in the Recreation Department's annual contest.

The public voted on the best display in the show on McIntyre Mall and the winners of the competition were treated to ice cream at the 1882 Ice Cream Store on Brook St., Wollaston.

Faxon Park also won the District 4 competition under supervisor Beverly Prescott and leaders Tony O'Malley and Hazel Brown.

The other finishers included: Second place - "Dr. J" Sneaker by Welcome Young Park of District 2. Supervisor, Tom Burke; leaders, John Timmins and Rita Fatseas.

Third place - Model of Fore River Park by Fore River Park of District 5. Supervisor, John Franceschini; leaders, Frank Connell and Ann Abdullah.

Fourth place - "Animal" from the Muppets by Wollaston of District 1. Supervisor, Joanne Ruane; leaders Bill Timmins and Mary Kennedy.

Fifth place - "How Well Do You Know Historic Quincy" by Chapel Park of District 3. Supervisor, Kevin McCarthy; leader, Cheryl Carmody.

Playground leaders supervised the building of the projects with help from the arts and crafts specialists, Denise DeCarli, Laurene Curran, Jennifer Seamens, Paula Conostas and Lois Ceriani, who coordinated the entire display.

Dr. Pepper Helps Playground Clean-Up

The Quincy Recreation Department staff and playground participants have teamed up with the Dr. Pepper Company to help keep the city's playgrounds litter free.

In a program begun last year, leaders at the city's supervised playgrounds and beaches clean each area when their facility opens.

Participants who pitch in to help are awarded tonic, frisbees, and T-shirts for their assistance.

The Dr. Pepper soft drink is provided by Tom Trueson, local distributor in this area.

So far, over 100 cases of Dr. Pepper have been distributed to playground youngsters.

Water Carnival At Avalon Beach

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold its 33rd annual water carnival, "Broadway on the Beach," today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. at Avalon Beach, Quincy Point.

Featured participants are from the department's 11 swim stations and a presentation by the swimming instructors. Events will include individuals beach presentations and swim races.

The public is invited.

WINNERS in essay contest, 'What Government Means To Me,' sponsored by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, receive their citations. Left to right, Mark Deneen, a Cerasoli aide; Rachel Horn, second prize winner; John McKenna, first prize winner; and Rep. Cerasoli.

'What Government Means To Me'

John McKenna, Rachel Horn Winners In Essay Contest

Sixth graders John McKenna and Rachel Horn were first and second place winners, respectively, in the recent "What Government Means To Me" essay contest.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. McKenna, was awarded a $100 U.S. Savings Bond. He is a student at Wollaston Elementary School.

Rachel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horn, received an American Heritage Dictionary. She is a Merrymount School student.

The awards were presented by State Representative Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy).

The contest was run in cooperation with Wilfred Nolan, director of elementary education for the Quincy School Department.

Judges for the contest were Henry Bosworth, publisher and editor of The Quincy Sun; Janet DeTullio, coordinator of language arts for the Quincy Public Schools as well as Rep. Cerasoli. The contest, conducted during late May and early June was open to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students in Quincy.

Over 100, 250-word essays were submitted.

Said Rep. Cerasoli, "I believe that the contest was successful in making elementary school students more aware of their government. Hopefully, we will make this an annual contest so that the opportunity to learn about government will continue."

'Dilemma In Toy Department' Friday, Saturday At Woodward

Diane Purdy's Children's Theatre Workshop will present "Dilemma" in the Toy Department" Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Woodward School for Girls, Quincy Center.

The play is about Raggedy Ann and the dolls in the department store who try to cheer her up without being caught by four cleaning ladies.

Next registration date for the Children's Theatre Workshop will be Saturday, Sept. 12, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St.

Beachcomber Swim Aug. 29

The annual Beachcomber Swim will be held off Wollaston Beach Saturday, Aug. 29, at 10 a.m.

Entrants must register for the 2½-mile swim at the Wollaston Yacht Club. Trophies will be awarded in various age groups.

The meet is directed by Jim Silva of Quincy and Jack Tuite, who has swum every day at Wollaston Beach for many years.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 20

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Social life peaks this week - the busiest so far this summer, perhaps. Balance is an important word, balance pride with humility, spending with restraint, rest with athletics.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Accent is on budgeting, with your financial advisers favoring cutbacks. Work proceeds on a matter-of-fact basis. Friendships, especially Platonic ones, are accentuated all week.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Reunions are accentuated, and you may discover that a one-time wallflower has blossomed remarkably. Business opportunities open up; be a little more subtle than usual.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Question motives (but not out loud) of overeager acquaintances. Healthwise, throat is a sensitive area; teeth, too, may require some attention. Whatever the situation, don't procrastinate.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

A lovely week for new business ventures, including part-time job opportunities. In fashion and decor, accent striking - though not bizarre - styles, shades and combinations.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

It may be hard to get away from it all with the love of your life, thanks to an unexpected third party. Credibility may be challenged so keep facts handy.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Small financial bonus brightens the week, but a heavy workload keeps you from celebrating. Older relatives need special encouragement but may be too proud to ask directly.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

A good week for outings that bring together friends from different interest groups. Moderation is a must, especially in areas of sunshine, diet and wardrobe.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Education and romance share your attentions this week. In general, and specifically as relates to career, a new study can lead to advancement and financial betterment.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Home repairs take lots of time but prove a wise investment. Hasty decisions can be harmful - it may be necessary to request more time before you present your verdicts.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Money-making ideas are sparkling but it's hard to get down to the serious business of putting them to work. It may be time to recruit a partner, manager or agent.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Be alert to changing trends in work and community environments and take advantage of your observations. Domestic disputes, though less severe than they seem, cannot be ignored.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You can go to infinite pains to keep in touch with others, and to get in touch with yourself. Partnership activities are emphasized, especially through the six months beginning around December of this year.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 20th, actor Van Johnson, 21st, bandleader Count Basie, 22nd, actress Valerie Harper, 23rd, actor Gene Kelly, 24th, actor Durward Kirby, 25th, actress Ruby Keeler, 26th, author Cal Collins

Council Files McCauley's 'Lame Duck' Job Ordinance

The City Council Tuesday night filed at its sponsor's own request a bid by Councillor Francis X. McCauley to head off "lame duck" appointments in the last six months of an election year.

The action came after Assistant City Solicitor Lawrence W. Cowley offered the opinion that such an ordinance would illegally conflict with state law and with the city charter.

McCauley said he was inspired to bring in the ordinance after William Kelly, who was named purchasing agent by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin in 1979, was appointed to a newly created post at the Hospital last month.

McCauley's resolve read: "That the City Solicitor prepare an ordinance for the city that would prohibit non-civil service Mayor's appointments from being appointed to permanent positions in the last six months of an election year."

Cowley researched the proposal at the request of Tobin and ruled:

"It is the opinion of this office that any such ordinance would serve no purpose and would be in conflict with the General Laws of our Commonwealth and with our city charter which provide for the appointive powers of the mayor."

In view of that, he said, "it is the opinion of the solicitor's office that the proposed ordinance change would be a nullity."

Tobin passed Cowley's letter along to the Council with the notation:

City Seeks State Approval To Send Estimated Tax Bills

Estimated tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1982 may soon be on their way to Quincy taxpayers in an effort to avoid the high rate of interest on short term city borrowing.

The City Council Tuesday night voted to seek legislative approval of such action, similar to that which was granted to the city of Newton on July 31.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin sent to the Council a letter from P.R.C. Jacobs, the revaluation firm, which verified that its work will be up to four weeks late because of a computer snafu.

"That would put us into October at least before the impact notices are sent out to the taxpayers," said Tobin. "Then they have 60 days to appeal so that would take us up to the first of the year."

He noted that if the first half tax bills go out after Jan. 1, taxpayers will lose the advantage that they will gain on their federal income taxes under President Reagan's plan.

"Also," he said, "with no tax money coming in until after the first of the year, we would have to borrow an awful lot of money at exorbitant rates of interest just to maintain the orderly functions of city government."

Tobin said that the Quincy assessors have consulted with the state Department of Revenue and received a favorable reaction to estimated tax bills.

Dr. Tardanico Names Associate

Dr. Philip A. Tardanico of Hingham, director of the Tardanico Chiropractic Offices on Southern Artery, Quincy, has named Dr. Richard M. Danubio of Weymouth as his associate.

Dr. Danubio, a graduate of Weymouth North High School and Massachusetts Community College, is a recent graduate of the Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa.

He is a member of the American Chiropractic Association, the International Chiropractic Association, Massachusetts Chiropractic Society and the Roegenological Society.

Open House At Josiah Quincy House

The Josiah Quincy House, 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, will be open to the public free of charge Sunday, Aug. 30, in order to call attention to a neglected historic site in Quincy.

Guided tours of the country mansion, which was built in 1770, will start every half hour beginning at noon with the last tour scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served on the porch.

The gracious house, situated on 250 acres overlooking Quincy Bay, was used as a lookout by the Quincy family to monitor the activities of the British fleet in the harbor during the Revolution.

The Josiah Quincy family lived in the house until 1895. It was acquired by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities in 1937 and maintained as a historic house-museum.

Merrymount Mothers Fearful 'Deadly' School Crossing To Be Unguarded

By TOM HENSHAW

Mrs. Carol Horn of 188 Furnace Brook Parkway, Merrymount, is seriously considering keeping her son, a fifth grade student, out of school this fall.

It's a matter of life and death with her.

Mrs. Horn's son goes to the Merrymount School and, in order to reach his classroom, he has to cross Quincy Shore Drive at Squanto Rd., the deadliest intersection in the city.

And he and scores of other youngsters will have to do it without the aid of crossing guards provided by the MDC for the past dozen years. The MDC has laid them off in a cost-cutting move.

"There is no way I'll let my son cross that street by himself," Mrs. Horn told The Quincy Sun.

"Six people have been killed on that stretch of road this year.

"They even have barrels there to keep the speeding cars from going off the road.

"I've seen cars go through those red lights at all hours of the day as if they don't exist.

"How can I let an 11-year-old boy cross that street by himself?

"I would consider keeping him out of school, if that's what it takes to get action."

The MDC announced Monday that it has dropped the 55 crossing guards that it has employed since the late 1960s to help school children across the busiest street in its jurisdiction.

It is estimated that the Commission will save $220,000 by eliminating the guards, who work some four hours a day in season for a maximum pay of $4,000 a year.

Mrs. Horn, who goes to school herself at 7 a.m. to study nursing and can't be at the crossing with her son, is not the only Merrymount mother who is up in arms at the MDC.

"It's incredible," said Mrs. Betty Swanton of 10 Samoset Ave. "It's stupid. We felt that with all the trouble they have been having on Quincy Shore Drive this summer they would never do anything like this."

Mrs. Swanton has three youngsters in the Merrymount School, one in the fourth grade, one in the third and one just starting kindergarten, all of whom will have to cross at the Squanto Rd. lights.

"I've been at that crossing," she said. "Every time the light changes I see two or three cars go sailing through that light as if it wasn't there. And it's the only place to cross."

"I can't imagine sending a 4 1/2-

City About To Lose $ 3 Million In Sewer Aid

Quincy is about 34 days away from losing at least $3 million in badly needed state and federal aid to upgrade its sewer system and no one seems very excited at the prospect.

The money has been earmarked to correct sewer problems in the South Quincy-Faxon Park area but, the city was notified recently, it will only be available until Sept. 30, the close of the federal fiscal year.

In order to get it, the city must include with its application a sewer user charge or an ad valorem tax system. It has none.

"We recognized the problem last year when we went before the City Council on four different occasions for a sewer user charge," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

"We explained to the councilors how it would affect the future development of the city but our proposals were rejected and it became a political football.

"I asked members of the Council what would be acceptable to them and they told me that was my job. But I can't do anything until I get some sense of direction on how to handle it.

"And I don't see anything happening in an election year."

The city has received an administrative order from the State Division of Water Pollution Control prohibiting further connections to or extensions of the sewer system in South

Quincy.

The order notes that the city has adopted plans for a new pumping station and force main to intercept sewage from South Quincy to increase its capacity.

The ban will remain until the new construction is completed and operational, whether it is funded by state and federal grants or by an additional $3 million in city money.

"I would strongly urge the city," said Thomas C. McMahon, director of the division, "to take advantage of the grant funding now available by submitting the necessary application package as soon as possible as it takes several weeks to process the application."

Elementary School Schedule Announced

Quincy elementary schools will be open during the week of Aug. 31 to Sept. 4 for the registration of new students if they are not already enrolled.

The opening schedule for the elementary schools, as announced by Wilfred A. Nolan, director of elementary education, includes the following:

Tuesday, Sept. 8 - Full day of orientation and preparation for all professional staff as planned by the principals and the superintendent.

Wednesday, Sept. 9 - School opens for grades one through six. Elementary schools close at the end of the morning session.

Wednesday, Sept. 9 through Friday, Sept. 11 - Orientation sessions for new kindergarten students as indicated by post cards sent to parents in August.

Thursday, Sept. 10 - Full day of classes start for grades one through six. Lunches will be served.

Monday, Sept. 14 - Kindergarten sessions begin. Bus schedules distributed to parents at orientation sessions.

Liquor License Sought Moves Underway To Save County Rec. Facility

An effort is underway to save the old Wollaston golf course in its new role as the Norfolk County Recreational Facility, which has become a matter of controversy around the county.

The attempt is being made to head off a legislative bid to sell the deficit-ridden facility and back up the sale proposal on a referendum in the 1982 state election.

A third try is being made to obtain a liquor license for the facility's clubhouse, which supporters have long felt would be enough to lift the county-owned club into the black.

The application to obtain a license by Rosemary P. Foster of Canton, who operates the restaurant under lease from the county, will come before the Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday, Sept. 8.

And the County Commissioners are circulating an economic analysis by John C. Nourse, the county planning director, which concludes that the facility "can be run with no deficit in fiscal 1982."

The facility has operated at a deficit since it was acquired in 1978 and residents of some other county towns have complained that they are paying for a recreational area enjoyed only by Quincy and Milton.

Their complaints were compounded by the fact that Quincy has twice refused to grant a liquor license which they feel would rescue the facility from its annual deficits.

Reps. Gregory W. Sullivan of Norwood and Deborah Cochran of Dedham in advocating sale of the facility have cited "Quincy's belligerent attitude in not granting a liquor license."

Nourse's economic analysis showed that the facility could eliminate its deficit even without a liquor license. His recommendations, adopted by the commissioners, included:

Revise the 1982 budget for Wollaston down to $231,000, which is the fiscal 1981 income plus 10 per cent. Because of the continued growth of the facility for the past three years this would

Fake Bomb Evacuates Main Public Library

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy police are seeking a man who wrapped a bottle of anti-perspirant with some wires in a pouch, placed it in the men's room of the Thomas Crane Public Library and announced that he had planted a bomb.

And the device looked enough like a bomb to cause the evacuation of the library for two hours and 10 minutes last Thursday while a State Police dog was brought into sniff it out.

"I doubt if we'll get far trying to find the idiot," said Lt. David Rowell, head of the Detective Bureau.

Rowell said police also found a couple of notes along with the fake bomb that spoke rather incoherently about "no nukes" and Proposition 2 1/2.

Whoever planted the device made a warning telephone call to the library at 11:45 a.m. It was answered by Janet Husband, who happened to be the nearest to the phone at the time.

"There's a bomb in the men's room behind the toilet," he told her.

Miss Husband told Warren Watson, the library director, who went to the men's room of the new library building and confirmed that there was something there that looked like a bomb.

Watson called the Police and Fire Departments and ordered both library buildings evacuated. Detectives Thomas Casey and Peter Gallagher placed a leaded blanket over the device and called State Police.

Around 1:30 p.m. Trooper Michael Doyle arrived with Jeremy, a German shepherd whose specialty is sniffing out bombs and deciding if they are real.

They emerged from the building about 15 minutes later, with Doyle holding the "bomb," a green oilskin-like pouch with the bottle and a reel of wire.

"It's not real," he announced. "How did you determine that?" he was asked.

"The dog did not sit down," he said. "That's always a good sign."

Deputy Fire Chief Carl Valenti looked at the device in Doyle's hand and shook his head.

"Somebody went to a lot of trouble to make it," he said.

School Personnel Meeting Sept. 8

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has scheduled a brief meeting of all public school personnel Tuesday, Sept. 8, to establish priorities for the upcoming school year.

Creedon will address the staff at the meeting, which is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. in the Vocational Technical School gym the day before the opening of schools.

Assessors Pass Accreditation Exam

The three Quincy assessors have passed the state accreditation examination that has been given since 1976 at the recommendation of the Department of Revenue.

John P. Comer, Patricia Ceriani and John Belcastro took the exam in June.

In the past five years, a total of 199 assessors in the state have passed the test. There are three assessors in each of the state's 351 cities and towns.

A Tribute To Mayor Tobin From Former Mayor Burgin

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Although not entirely unexpected, Mayor Tobin's recent announcement that he would not seek re-election brings to a close a period of 15 years as an elected public official in Quincy.

During this time he has served as State Representative, City Councillor-at-large, State Senator, City Council President, and Mayor for the past four years.

An incident that took place 40 years ago prompts me to write this letter of regard and friendship. In 1941, during my fourth two-year term as mayor, while walking to City Hall after lunch, I met a good friend, George Tobin, who was a respected laborer in the city's Public Works Department. He was holding the hand of a small boy, one of his and Mrs. Tobin's 10 children. Following a friendly chat George introduced me to his son, Arthur, and told him that I was the Mayor of Quincy. Being a bit shy he looked up at me and said, "Gosh, — are you REALLY the mayor?" My answer, spontaneously given, was "Yes Arthur, I am the mayor and who knows, some day when you grow up YOU may be mayor." George smiled and said, "That's quite a challenge, Arthur, isn't it?" (This is a true human interest story and leads me to the following personal observation.)

That small boy HAS grown up and now IS the Mayor of Quincy!

In my opinion, Mayor Tobin has honestly and conscientiously done his best to give the city a good administration. To be sure, and like anybody else, he has probably made errors of judgement and while no one can be correct in EVERY decision he has "Called the shots as he saw them." In the words of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, "If 51 percent of your judgements are correct, you're way ahead of the crowd." Never, however, have I heard of, or read about our mayor being dishonest or involved in any scandal during his terms in office.

As the senior living former mayor (serving over 40 years ago at an annual salary, believe it or not, of $5,000.) I trust I am qualified to make these further observations.

Holding the highest elective office in a city of over 80,000 people is indeed an honor not to be taken lightly. Personal experience has, however, proven to me that the position is certainly not "A bed of roses" with its problems and responsibilities as some people might think. At times in making crucial decisions one can easily be "Damned if he does, and damned if he doesn't".

No doubt, in Mayor Tobin's case, the advent of Proposition 2½ has placed upon him a responsibility not encountered in any of Quincy's previous administrations. To conform with the will of a majority of our citizens in a referendum designed to drastically reduce government costs is not an easy task. HAVING to eliminate many positions and cut expenses in practically all city departments has, I feel sure, hurt the mayor's political stature and popularity to a certain degree. The position in which he found himself was surely not one to be envied. He has met the challenge with credit to himself and his many friends.

In closing, I can only say to Mayor Tobin, "Thanks for your willingness to serve during difficult times. As you prepare to voluntarily leave the mayor's chair you will join the list of former mayors who have also given of themselves to do their best towards making Quincy a better place in which to live and work."

Didn't Like Report On Raymondi's Signatures

Editor, The Quincy Sun

Last week's front page article by Tom Henshaw on the mayoral candidates filing for the right to run for office contained an offensive and non-professional editorial comment by him.

Henshaw wrote that the strong showing of signatures by City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi "wasn't necessary." As a Raymondi supporter and one who actively served in getting those signatures, I question Henshaw's responsibility, objectivity and logic in including that comment in his article and the Sun's journalistic standards in publishing it.

Raymondi runs his campaign on a personal basis. In other words, he is taking the time and effort to meet as many Quincy voters as possible in order to hear their comments, suggestions and complaints about Quincy government.

"This government," to quote Abraham Lincoln, "is a government of the people, for the people and by the people." Filing election signatures and popular support is part of that process. Are

Close Call For Sheets And Friends

City Councillor James Sheets considers himself a lucky man. You'd feel the same way if it happened to you.

He and a party of three from Quincy recently did the 95 miles of the Allagash in northern Maine by canoes. And, discovered that getting there over the roads can be even more hazardous.

They were driving into camp on a logging road when the muffler on their car hit a rock and was driven into the gas tank.

"The odds were that the car should have exploded," said Sheets, "but it didn't. We waited until the muffler cooled and freed it from the gas tank. Then we managed to limp into camp on what little gasoline we had left."

Everything went fine during the six days on the Allagash until they were some four miles from the end of their journey when one of the canoes hit a boulder and dumped Sheets into the water. He was unhurt.

With him on the trip were Colin Campbell, assistant dean of students at Eastern Nazarene College; Dr. Cecil Paul, head of the graduate program at ENC, and his son, Wesley Paul, a senior at North Quincy High School.

ATTY. GEN. Frank Bellotti is fond of the North End and the North End is fond of Frank Bellotti. But sometimes it presents a problem as he mused in a visit to The Quincy Sun last week:

"I love to shop in the North End. The problem is I'm the only Italian in state office and every time I go in to buy meat they want to give it to me for nothing."

"I say to the guy, 'You can't do that, otherwise I can't come in here.'"

"So, you know what I have to do? The guy's got great meat, great sausages, everything is beautiful. He makes it up for me. I just go in and pick it up."

"What I have to do is look at the newspaper find out what the price is per pound, then, when he's not looking, I put it on the scale and I weigh it. Then I throw the money down and I run."

"There's another fellow up on Hanover St. that makes spaghetti and he has fresh tomatoes from a farm in New Hampshire. He makes all kinds of spices and I get them. They're excellent. He won't charge me."

"So, I put the money down and run out the door and he chases me."

Bellotti, so far, has managed to outrun him.

WHO'S GETTING THE most mileage with their political bumper stickers? You'd probably have to say Daniel Raymondi. He has a Raymondi Mayor sticker circulating in San Francisco. It's on the car of Susan Craig of Houghs Neck, a registered nurse in Frisco, and was brought out to her by a friend.

BUT THEN AGAIN, depending on how you look at it, you might say Frank McCauley is getting longer mileage. He's got at least one bumper sticker floating around in Quincy left over from 1977 when he ran for the City Council.

THEY'RE NOT CALLING it a fund-raiser because she has no opposition in the election, but friends of Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon are holding "a night of nostalgic music" for her Saturday, from 8 p.m. to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall on Hollis Ave. Alan Dary, the old time disc jockey at WXKS, will be on hand. Tickets for a $5 donation are available from Verona Stevens, 328-6259.

LOUIS, Houghs Neck's famed basset hound, has rekindled fond memories for a former resident. Marjorie Buckles, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. writes:

"Our last week's Quincy Sun carried the article about Louis and his 'Caution' Crossing sign. We taught in school in Quincy for many years and know that location very well that is now becoming quite famous, thanks to Louis."

"Recently our Fort Lauderdale paper carried the same story with a small picture. It brought many fond memories."

"Is there any way to get a picture of this famous 'chocolate chip dog' going over his now, well marked crossing? Perhaps a picture to frame?"

(We'll see what we can do).

They're Staying In Quincy

A Happy Ending For 4 Young People

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Despite all the misfortune and sadness in the world, sometimes there really are happy endings.

The Aug. 13, issue of The Quincy Sun carried the story of four young Quincy residents whose dream it was to remain in this city.

The young people, headed by eldest sister Cheryl, 20, had lost their mother in November after a long illness, and were faced with relocating to a very different environment in New Hampshire with their recently remarried father.

Cheryl, her sisters Lisa, 18, Michelle, 15, and brother Stephen, 11, felt strongly that they would be happier in Quincy where they were born, raised, went to school, and had family and friends.

Between social security benefits, their father's assistance and Cheryl's working in a local office, they had the finances to rent an apartment.

But landlords proved reluctant to rent to a family headed by a 20 year old.

After a five month search, the young people are settling into a four room apartment on the local street where their family lived for 18 years.

Persistence by Cheryl, Arthur DiPietro, labor liaison for the United Way, and friends finally paid off when the call came Aug. 14, from a local real estate company giving approval for an apartment applied for by the young people.

"The (the realtors) told me they were impressed with me," said Cheryl, "and that they felt they had nothing to worry about."

Cheryl said she and her sisters and brother are "really happy" to be staying in Quincy, and began moving into their apartment the very night they received approval.

She is most appreciative of all the help she and her family received.

"Everybody has been great, really wonderful," said Cheryl, "and the (Quincy Sun) story helped a lot."

"I especially want to thank Mr. DiPietro for all his help," said Cheryl who also expressed appreciation to Fr. Joseph Downey of St. Joseph's Church, and all the friends who offered assistance and support.

'Tolerated Too Much'

Collins Takes Issue With Creedon On Discipline

School Committeewoman Mary Collins says she strongly disagrees with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon when he questions whether a tighter disciplinary policy is needed in Quincy Schools.

Two weeks ago, Mrs. Collins proposed a new policy under which students would be expelled from high school if they have four suspensions a year. The School Committee tabled it.

"My information," said Mrs. Collins, "clearly indicates that at present we have a significant enough number of students who are suspended four or more times."

"I definitely feel that we have tolerated too much from these students and I strongly disagree with Dr. Creedon when he expresses wonder about the necessity of this change."

Last week, in an interview with The Quincy Sun, Dr. Creedon questioned the necessity of a tighter policy "in the light of the trends by the kids to be more conservative in dress, haircuts and attitude."

"To my knowledge," said Mrs. Collins, "there have been no expulsions before the Quincy School Committee in the past six years."

"I find it difficult to believe that there have been no students at all during that period of time who didn't break rules excessively and cause significant disruption of the learning in our schools."

"Now in the face of massive staff cuts brought on by Proposition 2 1/2, it is more important than ever to take this step toward tighter discipline."

Mrs. Collins noted that she has been a member of the School Committee for a full four-year term and "I would not propose any such policy change lightly."

"Instead of being defensive about past practice," she said, "the time has come for us to work together and face honestly our problems, past and present, if we are to have any reasonable future for public education in Quincy."

Reagan Tax Bill Copies Available At Donnelly's Office

Copies of the tax bill recently signed by President Reagan, which features the largest tax cut in the nation's history, are available for inspection at the Quincy office of Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

"This law affects much more than personal income taxes," Donnelly noted.

"Such provisions as the child care credit, interest and dividend exclusion, increases in the limits on individual retirement accounts and gift tax exclusion should be reviewed by all taxpayers before the beginning of the new tax year."

A total of 100 copies, prepared by the Joint Committee on Taxation, have been distributed to Donnelly's three district offices in Quincy, Brockton and Boston.

The first parking meters came into service in Oklahoma City on July 16, 1935. 150 were originally installed.

Hurricane Carol Batters Quincy, $1.1 M Damage

Hurricane Carol, the most severe storm since 1938, battered Quincy for three hours with winds of 93 miles an hour and gusts up to 125 miles an hour causing damage estimated at $1,100,000.

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. declared a state of emergency at 11 a.m. Tuesday morning as all electric power was out in the city and live wires dangled perilously from poles.

No lives were lost in Quincy although watchers from the shore reported that they saw several boats with people in them disappear, including three men and a girl in a dory off Houghs Neck.

Some 100 trees were felled in Quincy. Elm St. and Faxon Rd. were blocked by fallen trees, another fell on a house at 100 Sherman St., Wollaston, and three more were uprooted at 27 Quarry St., West Quincy.

Rear Commodore Edward Spiers ordered the Squantum Yacht Club evacuated at 12:30 p.m. when five four-ton floats broke their three-inch thick chains and were in position to batter the clubhouse.

The controversial Kiddieland, the children's amusement park that recently opened over the protest of neighbors on Wollaston Beach, was badly damaged, bent out of shape by the high winds.

Three days later candles were still flickering in one-quarter of Quincy homes and the Quincy Electric Co. said it might be a week before power is restored to some subscribers.

Meanwhile, the fifth hurricane of the season, called Edna, was reported developing as a 30-mile an hour squall in the Leeward and Windward Islands of the Caribbean.

MOTEL OPPOSED

Opposition was mounting to a motel that Winfield L. Strout proposed to build on the site of his Winfield House on Hancock St., Wollaston, as four North Quincy leaders came out against it.

They were James F. Kelley and Richard E. Post, president and president-elect of the Montclair Men's Club; William Benjamin, vice chairman of the North Quincy Amvets; and Mrs. Lockhart Pingree, president of the Montclair PTA.

YARD TALKS STALLED

Negotiations between the Bethlehem Steel Co. and Locals 5 and 90 of the Fore River Shipyard workers, broken off on Aug. 18, remained in a stalemate as union members worked on day-to-day contract extensions.

The union had rejected the company's last "take it or leave it" offer of a five cent an hour wage increase. The two sides also failed to agree on proposed seniority clauses.

POLIO EMERGENCY

The Snug Harbor Girl Scout Troop 117, led by Mrs. Bertha Timmons, canvassed the Germantown area for emergency March of Dimes funds with which to combat the rising incidence of polio.

Jerome Coughlin Honored At 75th Birthday

Jerome J. Coughlin of 16 Poplar Rd., Post Island, celebrated his 75th birthday Aug. 15, at his home where more than 100 relatives and friends had gathered for a surprise party.

The party was given by Coughlin's wife of 42 years, Rita, and their children, Maureen Costigan, Sheila Mahoney and Denis Coughlin, all of Quincy, and Brian Coughlin of Hampton, Va.

The Coughlins, who were married June 3, 1939, also have 10 grandchildren.

Born in Dorchester, Coughlin retired about three years ago. He worked for over 35 years at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Norfolk, and was then employed as a security officer for the First National Bank of Boston.

He holds a real estate brokers license and is an active member of the Quincy Senior Citizens.

Coughlin is also a member of the Quincy Center of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind. He is an emcee and host for the commission's group, "The Eye Openers" which entertains at nursing homes and churches on the South Shore.

Both he and Mrs. Coughlin were active with the Quincy Community Players.

They have traveled extensively since Mr. Coughlin's retirement. The Coughlins have visited Ireland, England, France, Italy, Morocco, Puerto Rico, the Bahamas, Japan and China.

Residents of Quincy for 36 years, the Coughlins have spent their winters in Madura Beach, Fla., for the past three years.

Koch Praises Volunteers

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park and Recreation Board, has praised the "many dedicated volunteers" of Quincy for devoting their leisure time "to provide happiness and enjoyment for others."

Koch described how a group of residents of Russell Park led by Mrs. Rose Rappeport and Mrs. Karen C. Rydewsky provided the flowers and maintained the beds in the median strip after the Forestry Section decided to eliminate the flower beds when the work force was decreased.

He also praised the work of the Seaside Gardeners Club of Squantum who in 1976 designed and planted the Squantum Triangle and have been maintaining the Squantum Causeway beauty spot for the past five years.

Mrs. Edith MacDonald was instrumental in communicating with the Park and Recreation Board in adopting the community project.

In past years, Koch noted, the Wollaston Garden Club won a prize with a beautification project at Safford Park. However, the vandalism at the site discouraged the group from continuing.

Freedom Park, the Bobby Burns Site and Abigail Adams Park have all been the result of active participation by Garden Club Members.

The Girl Scouts each spring provide a cleanup of open space areas throughout the city and the Squantum 4-H Club and Camp Fire Girls have also participated in various civic pride endeavors.

Koch also complimented the civic, athletic and recreational organizations that sponsor without public funding such activities as baseball, softball, football, soccer, hockey, basketball and track programs for youth.

"As a volunteer for over 40 years in all types of community projects and endeavors, I can appreciate the efforts of many hundreds of Quincy persons, both adult and youth, who have devoted years of volunteer work to make Quincy a better place to live," he said.

QCA Candidates Night Sept. 2

Candidates for mayor, the city council and school committee will speak at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and get to know the candidates before the Sept. 22, primary election.

Candidates for school committee will speak 7:30 to 8 p.m. They will each be allowed three minutes and a question and answer period will follow.

Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymond will each speak for five minutes from 8:05 to 8:30 p.m. Questions and answers will follow each speaker.

There will be a refreshment break 8:30 to 8:45 p.m.

Candidates for councilor at large will speak 8:45 to 9:15 p.m.

From 9:15 to 9:30 p.m. candidates for councilor of Ward I and Ward II will speak.

Incumbent ward councilors in the four uncontested wards will take a bow and speak briefly of their accomplishments in office 9:30 to 9:45 p.m.

The regular QCA business meeting will follow.

QCA members are asked to start accumulating items for the organization's flea market table at the Wollaston Theatre in the fall. Proceeds benefit the scholarship fund.

Donations can be brought to the Oct. 7, meeting, or pick-up can be arranged by calling a QCA officer.

Self-Assertion, Business Success Course Offered At QJC

Registration will be taken Aug. 24 to 28, at Quincy Junior College for a 10 week workshop on "Self-Assertion and Business Success" which begins Tuesday, Sept. 8, 7 to 9 p.m.

The workshop is geared towards people looking for jobs, as well as those already employed in business.

Among topics to be covered will be: how to determine short and long term goals, resume writing and successful job interviewing skills, awareness of office politics, and how to use career opportunities for upward mobility.

The art of interviewing as seen through the eyes and experience of Pat Perry, interviewer for American Careers, will be discussed.

Maurice Ostrow, general manager of a large shoe company will give his concept of mobility and upper management as they relate to all levels of employment.

Businessman and entrepreneur Thomas E. Curtis will examine risk taking, timing and success.

"Although success in the business world is not guaranteed solely through self-assertion," states workshop leader Elizabeth Houston, "it would appear that one cannot be achieved without the other."

Hours for registration will be 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. at the college, 30 Coddington St., Quincy Center.

THE CAUSE OF CAVITIES

Q: Does anyone really know what causes cavities?

A: Those doing research generally believe that most cavities are caused by a bacteria, called Streptococcus mutans.

The presence of dental plaque also seems to be necessary; that is where bacteria ferment carbohydrates producing acid which eats through the enamel of the tooth, causing decay.

Q: What is that white material that is usually put in the tooth under the filling?

A: That is a protective base, which sedates the tooth, often helping the nerve to build a protective wall around itself. It also helps prevent the newly-filled tooth from being sensitive.

Mr., Mrs. David C. Usher, Jr. Receive Presidential 'Thank You' Note

Mr. and Mrs. David C. Usher, Jr., of 177 Belmont St., Wollaston, recently received a thank you note from President Ronald Reagan for a get well card sent while he was hospitalized.

Mrs. Hazel Usher explained that

3 Residents On Norwich Dean's List

Three Quincy residents, Harold Hardin, Russell W. Chisholm and Kenneth R. Johnston, were named to the dean's list for the second semester at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt.

Hardin is a member of the class of 1981. Chisholm and Johnston are members of the class of 1982.

In addition, cadet Chisholm was promoted to captain, and cadet Johnston was promoted to first lieutenant.

the attempted assassination was such an "awful thing" to have happen, that she felt it was the least she could do to send a card.

Mrs. Usher, who said both she and her husband are Republicans, added that she has worked on many political campaigns.

Reagan's printed reply had the presidential insignia and was signed, "From the bottom of my heart, thank you, Ronald Reagan".

Mr. and Mrs. Usher had also received a congratulatory note from the president on their 51st wedding anniversary which they observed June 21.

The Ushers have lived in Wollaston all their lives.

Tenants Organize

Morrissey Urges Local Condo Control

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has suggested that the City Council bring in a home rule petition that will permit the city, in a general way, to control conversion of apartments to condominiums.

Morrissey said he planned to advocate his suggestion at a meeting scheduled last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy High School to form a citywide tenants organization to stop condo conversions.

Scheduled speakers included Morrissey, the Rev. William McCarthy of the Quincy Housing Authority, and Joseph O'Brien and Shirley Brooks, presidents of two tenants organizations.

Morrissey, who is chairman of the Urban Affairs Committee, outlined the provisions of a bill currently in the Legislature to control condo conversion statewide.

One provision would confirm the right of cities under 100,000 population, including Quincy, the right to regulate condo conversions. A similar bill was shot down last year.

"Opponents killed that bill because it was too strict," said Morrissey. "It was not as workable as this one. This is a better piece of legislation."

"The big push will be on to pass the bill after Labor Day."

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had it "all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life -

"strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ - now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

Registration For QJC Evening College Underway

Courses ranging from hotel restaurant management to electronics technology and English literature will be offered in Quincy Junior College's fall evening program.

Brochures are available which describe the credit and non-credit courses offered to anyone who seeks a specific degree, has a career objective or wants to take courses for his or her interest and enjoyment.

"We have those just out of high school, senior citizens and many in between," says Richard Mula, dean of continuing education.

"Although many of our students have specific goals in mind, a surprising number of people come to take courses for self-improvement and growth," he added.

Other courses to be offered are business administration, computer science, criminal justice, psychology, sociology, history and government, secretarial science, fine arts, mathematics and science.

Advising is available for those who seek help in choosing a program or course.

Students can take one to four courses each semester. Most courses meet one night a week.

Raymondi Vows Help For North Bayfield St. Traffic

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, a candidate for mayor, has promised concerned residents of North Bayfield, Rd., Atlantic, that he will do something about reckless and speeding traffic on their street.

Raymondi told a coffee hour at the home of Bernard and Karen Lopez, 72 North Bayfield St., that he will aid residents in obtaining a traffic sign to control access from Quincy Shore Drive.

He promised to write to the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) asking for more 24-hour enforcement of traffic regulations on the drive itself.

A guest at the coffee party suggested that it would take a fatality on North Bayfield St. to get action.

"Not if I can help it," said Raymondi. "There are numerous children living in the area and a function of our city government is to protect them from harm, all types of harm including traffic accidents."

"I promise to aid you in obtaining some control of this situation."

The question of traffic conditions on Quincy Shore Drive came up when someone asked how the city government could help enforce the traffic abuses common on the roadway.

"It's a question of enforcement," said Raymondi.

"The MDC police are responsible for the Drive. More police are needed there, around the clock. I'll contact the MDC and use what influence I have to require better police coverage there."

"A recent tragic fatality has brought to light the horrendous traffic conditions on Quincy Shore Drive."

"Let's hope the MDC will listen to surrounding Quincy residents' pleas and step up police coverage and enforcement on the roadway."

McCauley Supports Plan To Remove Parking Meters

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for mayor, says he is prepared to support a plan that would remove parking meters from downtown Quincy.

"The day of the parking meter as a source of revenue and a method of controlling parking is fast coming to an end," he told a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Caewski, 228 Farrington St., Wollaston.

McCauley noted that Quincy was a pioneer in the field of metered municipal parking areas in the early 1950s, using the meters as a source of revenue and a means of controlling parking.

The development of suburban shopping malls, with their free parking, he said, has tended to put metered parking areas at a disadvantage.

"I am prepared to support a plan that couples the removal of meters with adequate controls to discourage all-day parking in the downtown area, except in specially designated areas," he said.

McCauley also reiterated his opposition to the so-called East-West Connector.

"Of course," he said, "I am going to make it a special phase of my administration as mayor to revitalize the downtown area."

"But to spend $14 million, displace 10 businesses and destroy $500,000 in taxable properties before the city has a firm plan of development for the downtown Quincy is unacceptable to me."

Toland Urges Volunteers To Care For Lesser City Needs

Patricia M. Toland, a candidate for the City Council at large, has urged that volunteers be solicited to take care of the "less serious but very important needs" of the city that have been eliminated by the constraints of Proposition 2 1/2.

She told a gathering at the home of Mary and Ron Dawson, her Ward 3 captains, that she is concerned for the "deteriorating condition of our parks and playgrounds."

"As I campaign through the city," she said, "I can see clearly the cost to all of us of the budget cuts in the Parks and Public Works Departments: empty flower beds, waist-high weeds by the roadside, once beautiful Freedom Park overgrown and neglected.

"Volunteerism has characterized our country in the past and I believe that it can flourish again."

"Our garden clubs might 'adopt' a small area. Our neighborhood business associations, which have benefitted by block grant money in revitalizing their areas, might assume responsibility for the care and new plantings of trees and shrubbery.

"The neighborhood associations, which are such an asset to Quincy, might assume responsibility for a playground. Senior citizens, 4H, student and church youth groups might look for worthwhile projects to accept as an ongoing responsibility."

Mrs. Toland held up as an example "the care provided for landscaping at the United First Parish Church by the Quincy Lodge of Elks."

"Citizens and government will have to work together to do what government alone cannot do with its present financial restraints," she said.

"Certainly, the safety and health of our citizens, the proper education of our children and economic stability for Quincy will be my top priorities as councillor."

"However, I feel strongly that we must not ignore the less serious but very important needs which will determine the quality of life in our community now and in the future."

Conroy Cites 3 1/2 Years Of School Committee 'Failures'

Patrick Conroy, a candidate for School Committee, says he supports efforts by some members of the Committee to tighten disciplinary codes at the high schools to deal with flagrant offenders.

Conroy told supporters at the home of Frank Chiacchieri of Atlantic St., North Quincy, he expects his campaign will inspire incumbents to propose solutions to many school problems.

But, he added, "the incumbents have had a minimum of three and a half years to turn their ideas into results and they've failed to act."

"So don't be fooled by proposals which are made to gain maximum publicity during a campaign for re-election."

"It's easy to propose a new discipline code six weeks before the primary but it's more difficult to explain why no comprehensive system for evaluating teachers was in place soon enough to prevent the firing of some Quincy's best educators."

"The present School Committee has failed and the public should not allow any member to divorce herself from the whole Committee's record of failure."

Conroy said he plans to lead the School Committee "toward long-term solutions of complex problems and I intend to get results."

"I believe my education in the fields of business management and education, my training and experience as a professional negotiator, and most importantly, the 10 years I have spent studying the schools and the School Committee have prepared me to be an outstanding School Committeeman."

Raymondi Urges MBTA Restore Wollaston Service

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has strongly urged the MBTA to reinstate immediately Wollaston bus service that was lost last winter and reduce the new round trip fare to Quincy Center.

Raymondi, a candidate for mayor, in a letter to MBTA General Manager James O'Leary, called the Wollaston cutback "an unwise and unfair burden on the residents of the area."

"The elimination last winter of Bus Route 212 has resulted in a two-bus connection to travel to Quincy Center and a fare increase of $2 round trip," he said.

"Such actions against the very persons who support the MBTA with their taxes and fares has got to stop."

"The MBTA is a public service; it should do what it was developed for and transport its passengers at the lowest fare and the most convenient means possible, not impose hardships and barriers."

"I strongly urge the reinstatement of the Wollaston area bus service and a reduction of the fare immediately.

DeCristofaro Concerned Over Bridge Repair Schedule

Ward 2 council candidate Ted DeCristofaro recently expressed concern over the time schedule for repairs taking place on the Fore River Bridge.

DeCristofaro noted that since work began, traffic has been backed up for miles during rush hours as well as during other times of the day.

The congestion makes it next to impossible for residents of Quincy Point to enter and exit Washington St. from street streets in the vicinity, according to DeCristofaro.

"Although the repairs may be necessary," said DeCristofaro, "it is nevertheless important that the progress of such repairs be monitored so as to insure their completion as soon as possible."

With summer vacation at an end, DeCristofaro fears the heavy traffic and resulting impatient drivers may create an extra hazard for children coming and going from school.

DeCristofaro stated he has taken steps to contract proper authorities to apprise them of the situation.

Cahill 'Clean-A-Thon' To Aid Campaign, City

Timothy Cahill, a candidate for the City Council at large, has a unique plan to raise campaign funds and help clean up the city at the same time.

He is sponsoring a "Clean-a-thon" Sunday, Aug. 30, in various sections of the city with contributors sponsoring each bag of litter that is collected.

Cahill said he developed the Clean-a-thon concept to show his concern and positive attitude for this city as well as to raise money.

"The money can be earned and the people of Quincy will get something in return," he said.

"We are accepting sponsors for each bag of litter collected. Our goal is 50 bags.

"The workers will consist of concerned citizens who are helping in the campaign, as well as the young men of the Quincy High School wrestling team."

"The pride and enthusiasm of our campaign and the wrestling team will make this Clean-a-thon a success."

"I feel that people of this city will support and appreciate the Clean-a-thon because of its uniqueness and the fact that it shows that we are working for their vote."

"I want to work for this city, for its present and its future."

McCauley Urges 1981 Values To Set 1982 Tax Rate

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley is pursuing his efforts to enable Quincy to use current property valuations in setting the 1982 tax rate and thus avoid a long delay and expense.

The City Council last week brushed aside his bid for consideration of such a plan and voted to seek legislative approval to send out estimated tax bills.

Issuance of precise tax bills for fiscal 1982 could be delayed as long as until the first of the year due to a snafu in the computers of P.R.C. Jacobs, the firm that is revaluing the city.

McCauley told Deputy Revenue Commissioner Edward J. Collins Jr. in a letter this week that he intends to submit another resolve to the Council asking permission to use current valuations one more year.

"I strongly urge your favorable action on this request," he said.

"If permission were granted, the city could immediately prepare the tax bills since the tax levy has already been set and the homeowner would know exactly what his entire tax bill for 1982 would be."

"He could then make plans for paying this bill."

"Under the estimated tax bill procedure the homeowners will not know the amount of his May, 1982, bill until he receives the bill."

"He could then make plans for paying this bill.

Under the estimated tax bill procedure the homeowners will not know the amount of his May, 1982, bill until he receives the bill sometime in March, 1982.

"The homeowner would then face the problem of paying the entire tax increase with only five or six weeks notice."

McCauley noted that, if tax bills based on the old values were sent out Nov. 1, the city would save thousands of dollars in short term interest charges.

Also, he said, if last year's valuations were used the homeowners too would save money since the tax levy for 1982 has been reduced by Proposition 2½.

Koch Asks Mayor, Council Truce On Sewer

Richard J. Koch Jr., a candidate for the City Council at large, has urged city officials to set aside their differences and seek a solution to Quincy's critical sewer problems.

A $3 million federal grant for sewer construction has been jeopardized by differences between the mayor and the city Council over a sewer user charge.

"Immediate negotiations should be initiated between the mayor and the City Council to find a mutual and satisfactory agreement within the next six weeks," said Koch.

"Public health is one of the major concerns for a city and the much-needed upgrading of the sewer system in the South Quincy-Faxon Park area would be the initial renovation of the citywide system."

"A city attempt to accomplish the same with local funds would add greater cost to the homeowner and taxpayer and the high interest rate to municipalities for borrowing would make the burden even greater."

"Cong. Brian Donnelly is to be commended for assisting the city leaders in generating the funding for the grants sought. It would now be local officials' responsibility to meet the Sept. 30 deadline."

Cortese Discusses Security, Traffic With Seniors

Joseph F. Cortese, candidate for Ward II councillor, discussed security and traffic problems at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Point Senior Citizens Club recently at Pagnano Towers.

About 75 senior citizens were on hand for the meeting with Cortese, a retired Quincy police officer and detective.

Citing his experience in public interest and safety over the past 25 years, Cortese said, "I do not intend to make statements claiming that I will promise to do many things, and then when elected, make no honest attempts to accomplish such promises."

"I will endeavor to continue to continually investigate all possible security loopholes that must be identified as priority issues in dealing with the need for improved security measures that effect the residents of these areas."

The seniors related to Cortese their concern over lack of police patrols in parking lots around seniors housing as thefts, vandalism and stealing of cars is increasing.

They also said their requests for increased security have brought minimum results in the past, but that they hope the new Housing Authority budget would include money for security.

Said Cortese, "After the many years seniors have been paying taxes, they communicated to me that at this time in their lives, the protection they desire and need, continues to remain a series of difficult encounters in an effort to improve the status quo."

The seniors also discussed the problem of cars travelling the wrong way on Curtis Ave., a one way street.

Cortese suggested police traps to discourage the cars turning the wrong way on Curtis Ave.

"Since this meeting," said Cortese, "I have discussed these important issues with Captain Paul LaHive of the Quincy Police Traffic Bureau, and I intend to wholeheartedly pursue all of these concerns affecting the residents of these areas on an informed basis and to discuss possible favorable improvements with Police Chief (Francis) Finn."

Maintain Public Safety Urges O'Hare

"It is imperative that this city make an all out effort to maintain public safety," said councillor at large candidate William J. O'Hare at a recent gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fitzpatrick of West Squantum St.

O'Hare continued, "It is a fact that there are a number of elderly people living in our city and we owe it to them to make sure that the streets are safe at any time of the day."

He commented that he has enjoyed meeting people of the city and hopes to meet as many of them as possible before the elections.

"By meeting people from all parts of the city, I am better able to get a perspective about the day to day concerns of our citizens," said O'Hare.

"I pledge that I will be an accessible councillor at large. My door will always be open to those persons who are concerned about the future of our historic city."

O'Hare also commented that his campaign has been going well and that, so far, everything is on schedule.

"I am looking forward to the candidates nights," said O'Hare, "because those people that attend will be able to compare the candidates first hand."

"I urge all the people to attend these events so that they can make a knowledgeable decision when they vote."

AVOID THE DRUNK-HE KILLS

One of the most gruesome statistics is that alcohol is the cause of over half of all the highway deaths year after year. Unfortunately, many of the victims killed in alcohol-caused accidents are the innocent "other guys."

How can the "other guy" identify the potential alcoholic killer so he can keep out of his way? Look for these common driving faults. Driving noticeably slower than normal traffic. Straddling the white or yellow dividing line or weaving from lane to lane. Reacting slowly, such as failing to stop until partially through an intersection.

The best defense against a drunk driver is to move completely out of his path. If you can pass him safely, do so immediately. If you can't, fall back several car lengths. It will give you more time to react if he suddenly jams on the brakes.

Sophomore Schedule Dropped Quincy, North Football Practice Starts Next Week

By TOM SULLIVAN

Football practice for the Quincy and North Quincy football teams gets under way next Monday after players underwent physicals and received their equipment last week.

And the two football programs will show the effects of Proposition 2 1/2.

Coaches Tom Fitzgerald of Quincy and Dave Burke of North Quincy will have only three official assistant coaches instead of four as in the past. Each, however, will have a volunteer coach.

And the sophomore schedules have been dropped. "However, the junior varsity programs will remain and if the coaches want to use sophomores as the jayvees, that is all right," said Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone.

Despite most of the assistant coaches losing their teaching jobs because of Proposition 2 1/2, there will be only one new face this fall.

Joining the Quincy staff will be John Sullivan, who played at Quincy under Jack Garrity in the early 1960s and went on to become a Little All-American at the U. of Vermont.

Sullivan formerly coached the ninth grade teams at Sterling

Junior High. He will be the only Quincy aide still in the school system.

Peter Chella and Joe Goguen, no longer in the school system, will return as Presidents assistants, and Bill Maver, who also lost his job, will coach on a volunteer basis.

The other Quincy assistant, Mark Conroy, will move to Boston College High.

At North Ted Sadowski (starting his 24th year as a North aide) and Jack Raymer retained their teaching jobs and will be back. Ken McPhee, who lost his teaching job, has been signed as an assistant again and Pete Zoia, star of North's first teams under Coach Jack Donahue, in the mid 30s, will again serve as a volunteer coach.

North's other assistant, George Liset, lost his job and has an outside job.

Fitzgerald, a former North Quincy all-scholastic starting his fourth year as Quincy coach and his 30th year as a schoolboy coach, piloted the Presidents to wins over his alma mater his first two years but lost a thrilling 27-20 decision to the Raiders last fall.

Fitzgerald will greet his squad for the first practice session

Monday morning at 8 at Faxon Field. The Presidents will work out until 10:30 and, following a break, will return for an afternoon session from 12:30 to 3. Quincy will follow this schedule all next week.

Burke, another former North all-scholastic, is beginning his seventh year as Raider coach.

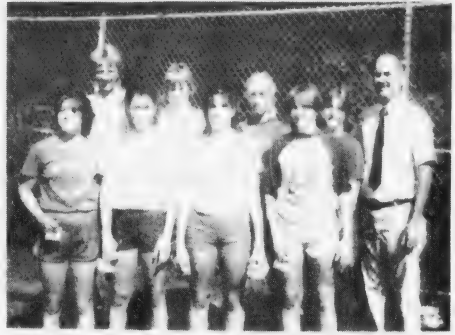

Burke's teams lost three in a row to Quincy until pulling out last season's victory.

Dave will have his squad out Monday at 8:30 at Kavanagh stadium, will work out until 10:30, and, following lunch a blackboard drill will be held from 12:30 to 1:15 and the squad will return to Kavanagh from 1:15 to 3:30. This schedule will be followed throughout the week.

Both teams will open their seasons Saturday, Sept. 19.

Quincy, which fell to 3-6-1 a year ago, will open against Suburban League foe Cambridge Rindge and Latin in a 10 a.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North, which rebounded from two losing seasons to post a 6-3-1 mark last season, will again open against old time non-league rival Milton at Milton at 1:30. Milton is coached by former North assistant Jack Bowes.

LaBrequé Wins Senior Girls Basketball Crown

LaBrequé defeated Fore River, 28-15, to win the Quincy Recreation Dept. senior girls basketball championship.

Maryann Agres scored 12 points and took down several rebounds to spark LaBrequé, and Kathy Dunn also was strong on the boards. Fore River was led by Tricia Travers with seven points and Patty McBride with five.

The LaBrequé squad, coached by park leader Kathy Carmody, included Agres, Nancy Hamel, Dunn, Cindy Morrell, Michelle Gregoire and Marla Robertson.

Playing for Fore River, coached by park leader Ann Abdullah, were Travers, McBride, Janice Glavin, Heather Slicis, Micky Daulphine, Sherri Pitts, Kathy McBride, Margaret McBride, Judy Dacey and Sue Dacey.

Registration Underway For City Tennis Tournament

Registration is now taking place for the 11th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Dept. and the Granite Cooperative Bank.

Park Recreation Cleanup Praised By Koch

Not even Proposition 2½ could stop the Quincy Park Department in its efforts to keep recreational areas shipshape this summer.

Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch praised the work of Park and Recreation Department personnel in keeping the playgrounds clean during the eight-week summer program.

This was done, he said, in spite of the "continual nightly littering at a number of the sites by gangs loitering and drinking during the evening hours."

Said Koch:

"The March 27 reduction in the Park Department work force by eight permanent positions and elimination of all youths for summer employment due to the implementation of Proposition 2½ greatly curtailed the effectiveness of the Park Department work force.

"However, the joint effort of both departments and the innovation of daily cleanups at the playgrounds resulted in more desirable recreational facilities for the enjoyment of Quincy youths.

"City Councillor Leo J. Kelly supervised a Quincy District Court-sponsored community service Earn-It Program that conducted periodic cleaning of the municipal-owned beaches alleviating an almost impossible task of Park Department employees.

"The South Shore Rehabilitation Center made available the services of a supervisor and crew to clean debris and broken glass on public park land in conjunction with the Corporation For A Cleaner Commonwealth.

"Realizing that public safety, education and other agencies are prioritized during the present financial municipal crisis, the Park Department Administration has sought to resolve the 28 per cent decrease in its budget and reduction in manpower by seeking other sources of assistance to continue providing recreational facilities for Quincy residents."

Trophies Awarded Winners In Playground Tennis Tourney

The Quincy Recreation Dept. recently completed its annual playground tennis tournament. Instruction was given in basic tennis skills at all city-owned tennis courts and city-wide competition was held with the winners receiving trophies from Recreation Director Charles L. Alongi Jr.

The senior division was dominated for the second year in a row by Matt Tobin, who lost only one game in two matches against Paul Hutchinson and Brian Mock.

The junior boys' division produced the best matches, with all being close and hotly contested. Steve Minichiello defeated Steve Austin and Larry Taglieri to win the title.

The midget boys' matches were exciting with virtually all the matches being decided in the final (rubber) game. Danny McLaughlin won the championship, winning three difficult matches.

McLaughlin won the championship, winning three difficult matches.

The senior girls were dominated by Debbie Noe, who easily rolled through all her matches.

The junior girls' champion, Anne Anderliones, played a long, hard match with Wendy Wheeler before winning her championship.

The midget girls winner was Tina Consolazio, who overcame Julie Buckley in an interesting match.

Granite City Sweeps Elks For Babe Ruth Title

Granite City Electric, winner of the National League title, won the Babe Ruth League championship by topping the Elks, American League winner, in four games.

Granite City won the opener, 10-9 and the Elks took their only win, 9-8, in the second game. Granite City clinched the playoffs and the city crown with 6-3 and 9-5 victories.

The players poured champagne over the coaches following the title victory.

Granite City had swept to the National League crown with three straight wins in the playoffs: 10-4 over Sons of Italy and 10-1 and 4-1 over Hancock Bank.

Capt. Paul (Sid) Cedrone pitched two of the games and hurled a two-hitter in the final win over Hancock Bank. He batted .400 with four RBI in the divisional playoffs. He had an 8-2 record, including a one-hitter and two shutouts.

First baseman Scott Mele played outstanding ball in the field, has been the team's most consistent hitter with men on base, batting .778 in the divisional playoffs with six RBI and the only home run and had a 4-1 pitching record, including a shutout.

Centerfielder Danny Kelly is one of the finest outfielders in the league, making many amazing catches and boasts a strong arm. He is the team's fastest runner and batted .333 in the divisional series. Left fielder Jimmy Madden, also has played outstanding defense.

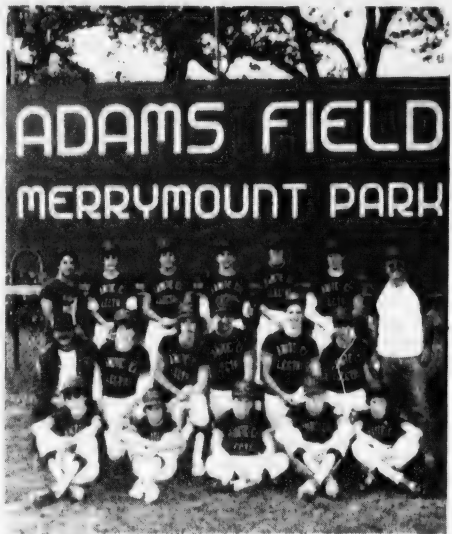

Jack Bolster did a great job in the win over Sons of Italy in his only game as catcher, was the winning pitcher in the first win over Hancock Bank, striking out 14, and holds the season's record of 17 strikeouts in a game. He is batting .500 with four RBI in the playoffs.

Second baseman Mike Coose has played extremely well all season both defensively and offensively. In the divisional playoffs he batted .571 with two RBI. Bobby Flynn, catching only the final two games of the season, did an excellent job and has batted .750. Third baseman Brian Lowe, with a batting average of .714, had an excellent playoff series and right fielder Dino Vaneli, rather quiet during the regular season, exploded in the playoffs with a .778 average.

Granite City's 13-year old players, Mike Barron, Kevin Jolley, Mike Murphy, David Maimaron and Patrick O'Sullivan, all have helped when called upon.

Catcher Bobby Campbell was a steady performer behind the plate and at bat before being injured. Many wins were the results of Bob's arm and his aggressiveness. He ended the season with a .419 average and 24RBI.

21 Panther Cheerleaders Selected

Twenty-one girls have been selected as cheerleaders for the Quincy Point Panthers football team following tryouts at Fore River Field.

Junior Varsity - Captains Diane Trubiano and Kristin McGee, Julie Munn, Tracy Thornhill, Jodi

Farrell, Ann Fahey, Patricia Shaughnessy, Christine Cedrone, Cathy Carney and Julie Coste.

2 Quincy Teams Move Along In Junior Tourney

Two of Quincy's four entries in the triple elimination junior baseball tournament at Artery Fields 1 and 2 are still going strong, while the other two were eliminated last weekend.

The Quincy A team has a 5-0 record and the Braves have a 5-1 mark, while the Indians, the city's 11-year-old team, which won three games, and the AAA team were eliminated.

Quincy's A team scored nine runs in the first inning and rolled over Dorchester Millstream, 12-5. Steve Austin, Chris Marshall and Chris Ricciuti had a double and a single each and Joe Gleba had two singles. Tommy Logan was the winning pitcher.

The A's edged Norwood Colombos, 3-2, with Billy Burkhead the winning pitcher. He also had a double and single. Gleba had a home run and Larry Taglieri two doubles.

The A's kept rolling with a come-from-behind 5-4 decision over the Quincy 11-year-old Indians, with Marshall the winning pitcher and T.J. Steen was the loser. This loss eliminated the Indians, who received an ovation from the large crowd for their out-standing showing.

For the A's Marshall had a home run and Burkhead a double and two triples. For the Indians Ron Fletcher and Steen had a double and single each and John Pennellatore had a two-run triple. Quincy Braves scored a 5-1 victory over Norwood Colombos with Mike Diver the winner, pitching a five-hitter. Tom Tagen had a two-run homer and a single, Mark Bilton a double and single and Dave Tocchio and Bret Heeney a single each.

The Braves scored twice in the first inning and held on for a 2-1 victory over Norwood Police with Bob Laracy the winning pitcher. Jamie McArdle and Bilton had doubles and Tocchio a single. They were the only Quincy hits and all came in the first inning.

The Braves thumped South Braintree, 10-4, with Dever the winner. Tocchio played an outstanding game at shortstop and Tocchio, McArdle, Laracy, Joe Rabs and Kris Mayer had two hits each.

The Braves were also awarded a forfeit win over Milton.

In an earlier loss to Norwood Colombo, the Braves' only loss, Laracy had been announced as the losing pitcher. Bob Callahan was the loser. Laracy pitched four innings and allowed only one run in that game.

The Indians dropped an eight-inning 4-3 decision to Norwood Colombo with Steen the losing pitcher, despite hurling an excellent game. Quincy out hit the winners, 11-6. Dan Biagini hit a home run and had two singles and Tom McDonald and his 10-year-old brother, Bob, had two hits each.

The Indians scored seven runs in the fourth inning and topped Dorchester Millstream, 13-8, with Eddie Flavin the winning pitcher. Tom McDonald had a triple, double and single and Ron Fletcher, Biagini and Bob McDonald had two hits each.

The Indians lost to Norwood Colombos, 13-8, with Fletcher the loser. Mark Hubbard had a triple and single, Mark DiMattio a Double and single and the McDonald brothers two hits each.

Quincy's Triple A team was pounded by Norwood Police, 13-3, with Peter Quevillon, the losing pitcher, having a two-run homer.

The AAA team also lost to South Weymouth, 9-4. Neil Hatfield had two singles. Tony Orlando and Tim Riordan doubles and Brian Roche and Mark Carnevale singles.

Other third round scores: Hingham A 7, Weymouth North A 1; Weymouth North B 11, East Braintree 6; South Braintree 20, Hingham B 3; Forest Hills 13, South Weymouth 5.

Fourth round: Hingham A 12, Weymouth North B 3; Milton 15, Hingham A 6; Norwood Police 4, Forest Hills 3.

Fifth round: Milton 13, Hingham A 2; South Braintree 16, South Weymouth 4; Forest Hills 14, Dorchester Millstream 1.

Sixth round: South Braintree 13, Milton 12; Forest Hills 8, Norwood Police 1.

The tournament, directed by Sal Salvatore, will continue until Labor Day and will resume the games tonight, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at both Artery fields at 8 o'clock.

Larson Wins Close Light Heavy Decision

Ring Larson, the 20-Year-old Quincy light heavyweight, bounced up from a sixth round knockdown, to win a split 10-round decision over Harry Allen of Brockton at Highland Park, Avon.

The decision was so close that, while Referee Joe O'Connor and Judge Watson voted for Larson, Judge Brady cast his vote for Allen and the majority of writers at ringside agreed with him.

After the fight, Jimmy Gardner, Larson's manager, disclosed that his Swedish-born fighter had suffered a dislocated bone in his back three days before and Dr. Earl G. Hersey of Atlantic had recommended the fight be cancelled.

In a preliminary six-rounder, Doug McKinnon, the Quincy heavyweight, won a bruising decision over Henry Owens of Cambridge.

GRANITE TRUST VICTOR

The Granite Trust baseball team combined 16 hits with eight walks and nine visitors' errors to pound out a 21-3 victory over the Neponset Warriors in a South Shore League game at Merrymount Park.

The decision lifted the Granite Trust team into a tie for second place with the Atlantic AA, a half game behind Neponset and a full three games ahead of the fourth place Braintree White Sox.

The Granite Trust lineup: Dennison ss, Forbush 2b, Greenhalgh cf, Owen 1b, McCarthy 3b, J. Hughes lf, Dunham lf, Russell rf, P. Hughes rf, Higgins c, Koerber p.

MERRYMOUNT MARATHON

John Holmy of South Quincy, running for the Boston AA, bested a field of 50 long distance runners to win the 10th annual Quincy Marathon, a 12-miler through Merrymount Park, in one hour, 13 minutes and 12 seconds.

The race was run eight times over a 1½-mile course, starting at Pageant Field and continuing to Black's Creek, Southern Artery, Hancock St., Fenn St., lower Merrymount Park back to the starting point.

The team prize was won by the Lynn YMCA, led by its young captain, John Semple, the newly crowned New England Junior marathon champ, who finished fourth in 1:15:30.

SOCCER CHAMPS HONORED

The champion Clan MacGregor soccer team received the James M. Curley Cup, the Thomas Grieve Challenge Cup and individual gold medals and rings at ceremonies in Walter Scott Hall, South Quincy.

Players honored included Capt. Archie Allison, Bobby Allison, Johnny Bell, Doug Logan, Tommy Hay, Al Craig, Dave Nicol, Johnny Milne, John McIntyre, Willie Hutchinson, Dave Murray, Jimmy Hay, and Sandy Steele.

FRAZER NO-HITTER

Donald (Freckles) Frazer pitched a no-hitter and struck out five in leading the Squantum Racketeers to a 6-1 victory over the Atlantic Wolverines at J.W. Moses Playground.

KINGSON KLUB WINS

The Kingson Ping Pong Klub of Quincy, led by Capt. Sturgis H. Hunt, decisively defeated the Provincetown Ping Pong Club, 69-19, with Sturgis sweeping every point in his matches.

SPORTSBITS 31

The Manet AC football team of South Quincy held its first light workout of the season under Coach Sar Marini at the Ward 3 Playground . . . Charles Griffin of Wollaston, with a score of 92-24-68, won the Class C competition in the annual two-day open golf tournament at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham . . . Katherine McCoy's Houghs Neck team successfully defended its playground slugball title with a 14-4 victory over Elm Street at Pfaffman's Oval . . . Two successful squeeze bunts by Dick Dennison highlighted Granite Trust's 10-7 South Shore League victory over the Weymouth Town Team . . . Coach Steve White announced that the new Quincy semi-pro football team will open its season Sept. 13 against the Providence Steamrollers . . . White promised to sign such popular local stars as Kimmy Cameron, Tede Balducci, Ray Granai, Huck Listman, Gunnar Olsson, Neil Eaton, Fred Taylor, and Rex Kretschman . . . Rena MacDonald, the great girl shot putter, was scheduled to appear in a Sept. 20 track meet sponsored by the Karhu AC of Quincy at the Huvila Recreation Grounds in East Weymouth . . . Georgianna Murphy and Mary Reardon led the Faxon Field girls of Quincy to 5-3 victory over the Braintree playground tennis team on the Thayer Academy courts . . . Doug Hebert pitched and Freddy Greer batted the Fore River Shipbuilders to an 11-3 win over the Jamaica Town Team at For River Field . . . Walter Kelly had perfect rounds of 25-25 to lead the field in the Sunday skeet shoot at the Quincy Gun Club . . . Hope was fading for the Boston professional baseball teams with the Red Sox (47-73) in seventh place in the American League and the Braves (58-65) trailing the St. Louis Cardinals by 22½ games in the National League.

Moves Underway To Save County Rec. Facility

assure that operationally Wollaston would be self-sustaining.

Initiate action again to acquire a liquor license from the city of Quincy.

Nourse pointed out that the facility "has been virtually level-funded for the past four years at approximately $277,000 per year in spite of an average 13 per cent inflation rate. It normally takes four to five years for a course to become profitable.

The average cost to the taxpayer has dropped in four years from 25 cents per person to 11 cents for fiscal 1981.

"The income during the same four-year period has risen a dramatic 124 per cent from $94,000 to approximately $210,000.

"Income has increased an average of 17.5 per cent each year for the last three years. Based on the past income record a projected 17 per cent increase in income for fiscal 1982 would realize $249,000 for Wollaston."

That, combined with the $231,000 budget, would result in an $18,000 profit, even without a liquor license.

"With the award of a liquor license," said Nourse, "the facility would net even more income."

The Nourse survey also pointed out that if the facility were closed "an initial cost of an estimated $8,800 would be incurred to board up the buildings and install a vandal system."

"In addition, an estimated annual cost of insurance, maintenance and security will be $53,275."

"In fiscal 1982 the above closed costs are 88 per cent of the 1981 deficit."

The 90-acre facility was purchased from the Wollaston Golf Club with a $1,750,000 grant from the federal government, which, said Nourse, would further complicate its sale.

"The conditions under the federal grant," he said, "make it unlikely or at very best extremely difficult to sell the course without replacing it with like recreation space or facing a federal penalty."

"The county owns 800 acres of conservation space in 11 Norfolk County communities. All these open space properties are held for conservation purposes, including Wollaston, as a long-term investment for all of the residents of Norfolk County."

"It is not our collective best interests to pit one area of the county against another."

"But Quincy and Milton residents, where the Wollaston Recreational Facility is located, could parochially contend that they get no benefit from the 228 acres of conservation land in Foxboro and Sharon therefore it should be sold.

"This would serve no useful purpose."

Bryant Carter To Be Installed Wollaston Post Commander

Bryant L. Carter of Quincy will be installed as commander of the Wollaston Legion Post for his second non-consecutive term at ceremonies Friday, Sept. 11, at 8 p.m. at the post home.

Carter was also post commander in 1955-1956. He served as commander of Norfolk County in 1971-1972, and is serving his 11th year on the Department Finance Committee of the American Legion.

The last four years, he served on that committee's executive committee.

Carter was also Department National Security Chairman of the American Legion in 1973-1974, and has served on other county and department committees.

Father of three children and grandfather of three children, he has been employed as an accountant and as a comptroller for the Brewster Wallpaper Corp., Boston, for the last 24 years.

Other officers to be installed are: past commander William H. Connolly, senior vice commander; past commander Joseph A. Cuniff, junior vice commander; past commander J. William LeClair, adjutant; Harry F. Massey, finance officer; past commander Wade M. Burnhauser, chaplain; past commander Albert Googins, historian; Eugene C. Hultman, sergeant at arms; Frederick Flores, John Belcastro, past commander Kenneth Riggs, past commander Jack Savits, past commander Wade M. Burnhauser, Eugene C. Hultman, executive committee; past commander Arthur I. Senter, service officer; Kenneth Taft, personnel officer; and Richard Travis, Americanism officer.

Norfolk County commander Willard J. Timcoe of Quincy, past commander of the Houghs Neck Post, will direct the Norfolk County Installing team. Charge for the commander will be given by past department commander Robert Leo Eng of Quincy Legion Post.

A collation and dancing will follow the installation.

Guest speaker for the evening will be City Assessor John P. Comer, newly installed National Executive Committeeman. Comer is also a past Alternate National Executive Committeeman, past department commander, past commander of Suffolk County and past commander of the Roberts Post, West Roxbury.

Fire Protection Designs Course At QJC

A new two-semester course on the basic elements of designing fire protection systems will be offered at Quincy Junior College, 34 Coddington St., starting Wednesday, Sept. 9.

A cooperative effort between the junior college and the Institute for Fire Safety and Protection, Inc., Medway, the course will be taught by John J. Cheney, Jr., president of Fire Protection Engineering Co., Inc., Medway, and the institute's founder.

According to Cheney, the course, which carries three college credits each semester, will give students the skills to begin a career as fire protection sprinkler technicians.

"This is a hand-on program," states Cheney, "which will allow those taking the class to get practical experience." Class sessions will focus on understanding blueprints, fixed fire protection extinguishing systems, water supplies, fire pumps and tanks, state and local building codes, National Fire Protection Association rules and regulations, as well as the preliminary design of sprinkler systems.

Cheney points out that the fire protection industry is in need of designers, particularly as the demand for extinguishing systems continues to grow.

The first semester of the course will be conducted Wednesdays 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through Dec. 18. A registration brochure is available.

For information, contact Quincy Junior College at 786-8777. Enrollment will be limited to 30 students.

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED.

BE PREPARED.

THINK AHEAD.

Wisdom from the past invites us to prepare for the future. There are many important life events that we should and do prepare for. Some, like weddings, or buying a house are pleasant and we eagerly look forward to gathering information and planning for them. Others, like death and funerals are more difficult to think about ahead of time. They are no less important! There is information that we can provide so that you can plan ahead. Death is a major event in all of our lives. Funerals and visitations are designed to help us cope with death. If you'd like more information about funerals for yourself, your church, or civic group, call or write us. We'll gladly assist you. Taking time to get accurate information about death now will help you deal with the actual event.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 27

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Easy to be deceived now, especially by casual acquaintances and concerning financial details. Spotlight stays on you through the weekend. Lucky cycle starts Monday.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Stubborn streak is prominent, working counter to relationships. Loved one's attentions are shared by many. New educational prospects are emerging on the horizon.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Vague goals are coming into sharper focus, and you begin to understand why you want what you want. Friends are supportive, but you have to speak up.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

You surprise friends and colleagues with your candor and great willingness to please. What prompts this changeover? Perhaps the discovery that romantic roads are paved with gold.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

The trick this week is to tackle problems - especially technical ones - systematically. Financial obligations can ease up, but only if you seek help actively.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Communications tie-ups dominate the week, and there's little you can do to sort them out. On a brighter note, new life may be breathed into an old, forgotten financial venture.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Unexpected happenings become matter-of-fact events by the end of this period. At work, a promotion is more likely than a raise and a VIP becomes your ally.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Patience is important, with loved one perhaps tied up with family matter. Politics may demand attention, and you could be nominated for membership in a select group.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Mingling with new personalities changes your perspective and clears your thinking. For shoppers, this is a good week for "linds" - especially if in the market for antiques.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Doubts diminish when you receive the commitment you've been seeking. Now it may be time to help friends over their anxieties. Work involves lots of picky details.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Good ideas may meet resistance, and the problem may relate to your presentation. Homelife is generally harmonious. Overseas communication - incoming or outgoing - is accented.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Watch out for troublemakers in career environment, and in general don't reveal "secret" information. Recreation may be as important as rest... and a way of meeting new faces.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Nobody examines his/her life more closely than you. And once your curiosity is aroused, you are eager to explore. In fact, through much of the next twelve months you'll be involved in a series of educational and professional adventures.

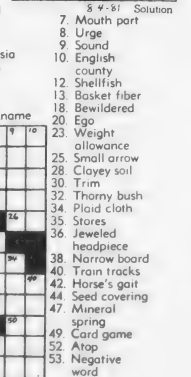

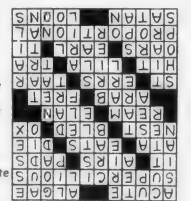

BORN THIS WEEK

August 27th, actress Tuesday Weld; 28th, actress Nancy Kulp; 29th, actress Ingrid Bergman; 30th, actress Joan Blondell; 31st, actor James Coburn, September 1st, actress Yvonne DeCarlo; 2nd, writer Cleveland Amory.

JACK TULLISH

JOSEPH CLANCY

Tullish & Clancy Join Century 21

Century 21 Tullish and Clancy Real Estate Inc., with offices in Quincy and Weymouth, has joined Century 21, the nation's largest real estate franchise.

Announcement was made by Jack Tullish, president and Joseph P. Clancy, treasurer.

Tullish said his firm will retain its independence, and there will be no change in ownership or control of the firm. Customers of Century 21 Tullish and Clancy will benefit by the extensive media advertising and the instant recognition extended to the 7,600 Century 21 offices throughout the U.S. and Canada.

More than 275 real estate offices in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont have joined the international plan since it opened in this region in October of 1977.

Century 21 Tullish and Clancy

Real Estate was organized in 1972. It has 11 sales associates in two offices. The offices serve Quincy, Weymouth and other South Shore area communities. Tullish is a member of the Quincy and South Shore Board Of Realtors, The Brockton Board Of Realtors, The Plymouth County Board Of Realtors, and the National Association Of Realtors and is a multiple winner of the multiple listing million dollar club as is Clancy. He has received the designations of certified residential specialist and is a graduate of the Realtor Institute.

Transactions close by Century 21 last year represented 10 percent of all business conducted by organized real estate during the period, the firm said. Nearly 1,100 sales were reported every day by affiliated Century 21 brokers in 1979.

Fred Isleib Joins

Hurley Insurance Agency

Paul E. Hurley, of the Hurley Insurance Agency Quincy, announces that Fred Isleib has recently joined the agency.

His primary responsibilities will be coordinating the marketing and placing of commercial business in the agency.

Associated with the Aetna Casualty & Surety for more than 20 years, he began his career with the company in its home office, then worked in several branch offices while serving in various underwriting, marketing and supervising capacities.

Isleib attended the University of Hartford. He now lives in Rockland with his wife, Mary Ellen, and two children, Fred and Bryan.

Peter Covini Named District Manager At John Hancock

Peter J. Covini Jr. has been appointed district manager at the Quincy district office of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Covini joined John Hancock in 1967 as an agent at the New Britain, Conn., office and was named staff manager there in 1975. He was appointed regional supervisor of the southern New England region in 1980.

He is a member of the company's president's club and a nine-time qualifier for the John Hancock regional honor club of leading district agency sales representatives.

Covini and his wife, Brenda, have two children.

Eleanor King 'Realtor of the Year'

Eleanor King, GRI, of Century 21-Daniel Brown Company, Braintree, and president of the Quincy & South Shore Board of Realtors, has been named 1981 Realtor of the Year of her board.

Award ceremonies were held recently at the South Shore Country Club, Hingham.

Mrs. King received the honor for her outstanding contributions and dedication to the Realtor association and the real estate profession. She is a director of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors.

Milton H. Shaw, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, presented the award to Mrs. King and congratulated her for her efforts on behalf of the members of her board.

Among those present for the ceremonies was Robert King, Mrs. King's husband, and her four daughters as well as other members of her family and business associates.

As local Board Realtor of the Year, Mrs. King's name will be placed in nomination for the Massachusetts Realtor of the Year award to be presented in October at the Massachusetts Realtors convention in Puerto Rico.

'Deadly' School Crossing To Be Unguarded By MDC

year-old to kindergarten and have him cross that street.

"I can't always be there to cross them. I have a 2-year-old at home. If my 2 year-old is sick I don't know how I can send the others to school."

There is a similar problems the other way, said Mrs. Swanton, with Central Junior High School students who live on the other side of Quincy Shore Drive crossing at Squantto Rd. to get to school.

Mrs. Swanton said she got in touch with the MDC on Wednesday, Aug. 19, and she was told that the decision to lay off the crossing guards was not yet final.

"The guards received their layoff notices Friday (Aug. 21)," she said, "and they were dated Aug. 11. I feel that the MDC lied to me."

She said she has also contacted the office of Gov. Edward J. King, Sen. Paul D. Harold and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell for help in the problem.

Meanwhile, Brownell and City Council President Leo J. Kelly moved to head off the plan to eliminate the crossing guards.

Brownell urged MDC Commissioner Terrence Geoghegan to put aside the plan and he appealed to Gov. King to intercede on Quincy's behalf in the controversy.

Calling the plan "a foolish personnel policy," Brownell said any reduction in force could be disastrous for the safety of school children crossing Quincy Shore Drive.

"While I understand the monetary constraints within which the MDC must operate, clearly the MDC has misplaced its priorities," said Brownell.

"If personnel cuts are necessary, I suggest there are more expendable positions than those involved with the public safety."

Kelly prepared a resolution for the special meeting of the City Council today (Thursday) at 5 p.m. recording the Council's opposition to the MDC plan.

The resolution directed that "a strong letter of opposition be forwarded to the commissioner urging that the traffic supervisors be retained in the interest of public safety."

Sen. Paul D. Harold also urged Gov. King not to eliminate the crossing guards. He noted that seven locations in Quincy are covered.

Harold said he urged the governor to maintain the current system for the protection of children attending the Merry-mount, Willard, Myles Standish, Furnace Brook, and St. Mary's schools.

"The MDC proposes to replace these crossing guards with MDC police officers, which would appear to be more costly, and far less dependable," Harold said.

"If there were an emergency in the MDC district, the police would be ordered to the scene of the emergency, leaving the crossing locations uncovered."

Harold said parents were justifiably alarmed, since all of the schools in the MDC district in Quincy are for elementary grades.

"To be told a week before school opens that there might or might not be protection for these young children on heavily-traveled roads is certainly cause for concern," he said.

Sun Jerry Lewis Telethon Pledge Center

The Quincy Sun for the fifth consecutive year will be the Quincy-South Shore area pledge center for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon this Labor Day weekend.

Thirty-two extra telephones will be installed in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., to handle donation pledges from the Quincy-South Shore area.

The special telephone number to call to make a pledge locally is: 328-6622.

The pledge center will start operations at 7 p.m. Sunday and continue 24 hours through to Monday at 7 p.m.

More than 200 volunteers will man the phones on various shifts during the Jerry Lewis Telethon which will be carried by WCVB-TV (Ch. 5) over the labor Day weekend.

Quincy radio station WJDA (1300) will carry live progress reports every half-hour from the pledge center starting at 6 a.m. Monday. WJDA's Win Bettinson and Roy Lind will also interview pledge center volunteers and those coming to The Sun office to make donations to the "fishbowl".

Mayor Arthur Tobin has proclaimed Sept. 6-7 as "Jerry Lewis-Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon Weekend in Quincy."

Anyone donating $1 or more to the fish bowl will be eligible

Union Criticizes Decision

No MDC Plans To Rehire Guards At 7 School Crossings

By TOM HENSHAW

Schools open Wednesday, Sept. 9, with no indication that the MDC plans to rehire laid off crossing guards who have for the past dozen years helped youngsters to cross hazardous streets in MDC jurisdiction.

Seven of the crossings are in Quincy.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey said he conferred with Dennis Hanley, an aide to MDC Commissioner Terrence J. Geoghegan and Hanley could promise no immediate solution to the problem.

Meanwhile, there were rumblings in the MDC unions in favor of a work stoppage that would shut down the whole MDC unless the guards, 55 in number around greater Boston, were rehired.

"The MDC commissioner has a bunch of political hacks around him," said union president Edward Gallaher. "They have no conception of priorities. We want to warn the mothers and the public."

In announcing the termination of the crossing guards, the MDC said that it will assign police officers to five of the seven crossing locations in Quincy that are being stripped of guards.

"The Police Division has reviewed all school crossing locations with the prime concern being safety of school children," said the MDC's press release.

"In the event of dire police emergency, the MDC may be required to make contingency arrangements with the school system or the local police force to insure proper coverage."

The police presence failed to mollify Morrissey.

"Police are not as reliable as crossing guards," he said. "The guards are really a small expense ($220,000 in all) to pay for the safety of school children. I hope the MDC can find the money."

City Council President Leo J. Kelly said there appeared to be some confusion among parents in Quincy about the presence of crossing guards on city streets outside MDC jurisdiction.

"There is no truth to the stories that Quincy is also laying off crossing guards," he said. "All crossings will be covered, except for the five schools that have been Possible Moratorium

Special Council Meeting On Condos

The City Council will hold a special meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. to discuss and possibly take some action on a moratorium on condominium conversions in Quincy.

Council President Leo J. Kelly said a move is also afoot to set up a committee to study such an action.

A resolution filed by Councillor Francis X. McCauley to have the city solicitor study the legality of a moratorium was sent to the Council Ordinance Committee last Thursday.

Tonight's special meeting was called in view of the large amount of interest in condo conversions that showed up at a public meeting last Wednesday at the high school media center.

At that meeting, McCauley and Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, both candidates for mayor, said they favored some type of moratorium in their first public statements on the issue.

Some 300 tenants in Quincy apartments attended the meeting.

In the past few years, 15 apartment buildings with more than 700 living units have been converted from rental apartments to condominiums.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Citizens Association reminded the City Council that it voted last June to recommend some stringent rules be set up for condo conversions.

They included: The city's vacancy rate must be 3 per cent or higher; the present owner must have held the property for five years; overdue taxes must be paid; and adequate time must be permitted for tenants to find new apartments.

Turns Financial Corner

Junior College Enrollment Up 13%

Quincy Junior College apparently has turned the corner toward becoming a viable community college and, for once, Proposition 2½ gets a share of the credit, not the blame.

Enrollment is up 13 per cent in spite of a hefty tuition hike; the new career tech courses are attracting students; and there has been a small but significant amount of outside aid.

"It's extremely encouraging," said Carl Deyeso, director of academic education in the Quincy schools, who has been assigned to revamping and stabilizing the school since last December.

The junior college was on the ropes as a financial appendage of the public school system last winter when Proposition 2½ drew a noose around such expenditures.

Since then, it has been cut loose from city funding with a revolving account of its own; it has absorbed the Grades 13 and 14 technical programs; and it has gained accreditation.

"In a way," said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, "Proposition 2½ has been a help to Quincy Junior College."

"We were told a long time ago that sooner or later we were going to have to come to grips with these issues. If it wasn't for the push from 2½ things might tend to limp along."

Deyeso placed the total enrollment of Quincy Junior College as of Aug. 28, at 1,285, including 166 in the new career tech programs. The enrollment last year was 997 for just academic courses.

This came in the face of increases that saw tuitions go from $660 ($770 for non-residents) to $1,050 a year; and a new tuition charge of $1,650 for

N. Quincy Odor Traced To Algae

That unpleasant odor that has hung over parts of North Quincy since the weekend has been traced to dead algae washed up on the beach between the yacht clubs and Moswetuset Hummock.

Win Wade of the Health Department said the MDC started cleaning the beach Monday but the algae may persist in the Quantum marshes for two or three days until it is washed out by high water.

Wade said the first complaints of the odor came to him on Friday.

City Readies Crackdown Gillis Eyes $500,000 In Delinquent Fines

City Clerk John Gillis added the newly created post of parking clerk to his many hats Tuesday and served notice that the day of non-payment of parking fines will soon be over.

"As soon as we get the mechanics in place in about eight weeks," said Gillis, "we'll start going after the backlog of some $500,000 in tickets still pending at the court."

Parking tickets have in the past been handled by Quincy District Court with the fines going to the city but the courts have become bogged down in a tremendous backlog of past due tickets.

Newly passed legislation gives a city or town the option of taking over the processing of the parking tickets, which can mean as much as $250,000 in income in a year.

The City Council accepted the authorization last Thursday, four days before the Sept. 1 deadline for picking up the court's backlog, and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin named Gillis to the post.

Gillis is authorized to hire such personnel as he needs or contract for certain duties and he also is authorized to suspend licenses and registrations.

He said his first move will be to study the court system "and see what parts of it we can apply to our own."

He said he has been contacted by several of the city's banks to use their computers to process tickets. That method could be easier and cheaper than using the school computer, he said.

The city will also have to have new tickets printed since the ones currently in use specify that they be paid to the clerk of the Quincy District Court.

"We will need an appropriation from the City Council to get this started," said Gillis. "I don't know how much. We'll have a better understanding of it by the end of the week."

He said he won't know for a while whether he will need additional help in carrying out his new duties as parking clerk, which will include presiding at hearings on ticket appeals.

Granite, Presidential Cooperative Banks Merge

State Banking Commissioner Gerald T. Mulligan has approved the merger of the Granite Cooperative Bank and the Presidential Cooperative Bank, both of Quincy, into one bank that will retain the Granite Cooperative Bank name.

Bernard C. Cohen, president of the Granite Cooperative Bank, will be president of the combined banks, which will be headquartered at 440 Hancock St., North Quincy, the main office of the present Granite bank.

The Granite Cooperative Bank has deposits of $23.6 million and the Presidential Cooperative Bank had deposits of $14.5 million.

Francis X. McCauley, current president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, will serve as a vice president. He is a candidate for mayor of Quincy.

Members of the boards of directors of the two banks who will serve on the combined board include:

Robert T. Colman, Kenneth P.

Fallon Jr., Stephen T. Keefe, Allan F. MacDonald, Edward F. Percy, William F. Shea, and Samuel M. Tuttle, of the Presidential Cooperative Bank.

Bernard C. Cohen, Sidney Dockser, Thomas S. Grossman, Richard J. Koch, Henry G. Berry Jr., Richard B. Cohen, Nissie Grossman, and Peter F. O'Connell of the Granite Cooperative Bank.

Nissie Grossman, present chairman of the board of the Granite bank, will be chairman.

Investment Broker Named To Hospital Board

Arthur F. Good of 71 Pope St., Montclair, an investment broker, has been named to the City Hospital Board of Managers, replacing Leslie Brierly, who resigned.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said Brierly stepped aside to that Good could be appointed because the Hospital Corp. of America, the firm that manages the hospital, wanted an investment man on the board.

Tobin said Brierly will be appointed an honorary member of the board so that the hospital will

Judge Kramer To Return To Work Sept. 8

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, will return to work Tuesday, Sept. 8, after recuperating this summer from triple bypass heart surgery.

Kramer, 48, underwent the surgery June 23, at Mass. General Hospital.

He will be sitting on a limited basis, according to his secretary, Joyce Aronson, who explained Kramer will mainly take care of administrative matters at first.

Mrs. Aronson said Kramer's recovery is "coming along very well."

"We'll be glad to have him back," said the secretary.

Kramer's surgery involved taking arteries from his legs and using them in his heart to bypass clogged arteries.

The surgery was a preventative measure as Kramer had experienced angina pain but not a heart attack.

Judge Lewis Whitman has been acting justice of the court in Kramer's absence.

Wonders About Golf Road

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In your weekly quiz, the answer given for the location of "Golf Road" as being in Montclair section of Quincy is questionable in my mind.

I've lived in Montclair for over 60 years and know of no road named Golf Rd.

If you are referring to the driveway to the Presidents Golf Course, it has never been signed as such. The entrance road from West Squantum St. is Evans St., a public way as far as Pope St. and a private way as far as Ruthven St. Beyond that it is nothing but a driveway.

James F. Kelley

Editor's Note: The Street Directory and Business Guide issued by the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association lists Golf Rd. as running from 122 Evans St. easterly to a dead end. It is an unaccepted street.

Quincy Quiz

Only one winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Brian Condon, 77 Bromfield St., Wollaston, wins a T-shirt.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Name the oldest living ex-mayor of Quincy.
2. True or false: Squantum was named for Squanto, the Indian friend of the Pilgrims.
3. What well-known Quincy landmark stands at 36 Miller Stile Rd.?

4. In what section of the city is Estabrook Rd.?
5. Which of these islands is located within the boundaries of Quincy: Long Island? Raccoon Island? Sheep Island?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Robert E. Pruitt was Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon's immediate predecessor as superintendent of schools in Quincy.
2. The Josiah Quincy House is located at 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston.
3. The second largest Quincy in the United States is located in Illinois.
4. The South Shore Bank was founded in 1836 as the Quincy Stone Bank.
5. The chairman of the Quincy Licensing Board is City Clerk John Gillis.

Parking Meter Blues

The City Council has paved the way for a crackdown on parking ticket scofflaws.

The council has flashed the green light for the city to take over from Quincy District Court responsibility for collecting delinquent fines. The court has been dragging its feet.

City Clerk John Gillis will now wear two hats. Mayor Arthur Tobin has named him parking clerk to hustle in the old, uncollected fines. And to keep new fines coming in.

Some of the old tickets which could add up to an estimated half-million dollars go back five years — maybe more.

If the city can pick up a half-million bucks, good luck. I have no beef with that.

But I do have a bit of a beef about who's getting the tickets and for what.

It still seems that Public Enemy No. 1 in Quincy is the shopper who puts his (her) three dimes in a meter for three hours and doesn't make it back in time.

The meter maids have been pretty fair about it. But I'll bet most of the tickets left under windshield wipers are cars tagged in the municipal parking lots. And that's where most shoppers park.

But how about some of the beauts we have parking cars in other areas and for the most part getting away with bigger violations.

Like the car that parks on the sidewalk on Maple St. every now and then. Those that straddle crosswalks. And all those cars strung out between No Parking signs on good old Chestnut St. (alias Nut St.) from Maple St. to and beyond Quincy District court.

And how about the clowns who make U-turns on Hancock St. Or the speeders who think Hancock St. is a continuation of the Southeast Expressway.

And all the ones who roar through the pedestrian light in front of City Hall. Etc. etc.

I hope some of them are among the ticket scofflaws and they are the first to be caught up with.

Meanwhile, however, if they're going to tag parking meter violators, how about getting the other guys, too.

Incidentally, some of those meters in the Hancock parking lot must be related to the slot machines in Las Vegas.

A few of them, at least, have been known to shortchange you. Put three dimes in and you get two and three-quarter hours instead of three.

This week it took me 40 cents to get 30 cents worth. (Meter No. H332)

So you come back in three hours and you might find a tag. The meter maid didn't know you didn't get your money's worth. And you wouldn't know it either, unless you checked the meter.

But let's not pick on the shopper and let some of these other more serious violators keep getting away with whatever they're getting away with.

Quincy needs more shoppers. Things are bad enough without discouraging them from coming back.

LAST WEEK WE wondered who is getting the most mileage out of political bumper stickers. And reported that maybe it was Daniel Raymondi who has a Raymondi Mayor sticker circulating in San Francisco on a car owned by former Quincy resident Susan Craig.

Now, Susan MacGregor of West Quincy, says that Frank McCauley can top that. He has a McCauley For Mayor sticker making the rounds in Glasgow, Scotland.

Mrs. MacGregor says that she and her husband, James, recently had Fr. John McCauley of Glasgow as a house guest. He got a kick out of seeing his last name on a bumper sticker and took one home with him. "It's causing a lot of interest over there," says Mrs. MacGregor. "They don't go in for that kind of thing — bumper stickers."

So, if Raymondi carries San Francisco, McCauley will probably carry Glasgow.

23 Sought Here For Unclaimed Insurance Money

The State Treasurer's Office is seeking 23 persons whose last known addresses were in Quincy and who are owed money by insurance companies doing business in Massachusetts.

The money has gone unclaimed for seven years at which time, under the state's Unclaimed Money Law, the treasurer is directed to locate the owners before the money is turned over to the treasury.

The names of the Quincy residents being sought include: Wayne Christian, Marie E. Coffey, Margaret Dooling, Madeline Flaherty, Edward W. Gallagher, Florence M. Gavin, Joseph J. Gavin, Burton Hanson, Catherine E. Heideman, Nick Katsimanis, Helen J. Kelley, Gaetano Lacave, Frances Lacava.

Anne E. McCoubrey, John W. McCoubrey, John Monti, Pauline Pappas, William J. Peters, Steven M. Recchia, Louis A. Youngworth, Joseph P. Youngworth, Paul E. Zamagni, Gail C. Zamagni.

Treasurer Robert Q. Crane said more than $800,000 is owed to about 6,000 Massachusetts residents by the insurance companies, mostly in sums of less than $100.

Crane said 90 per cent of the money represents the cash value of term life insurance policies which many owners do not realize they are entitled to claim.

"For too long the insurance companies of Massachusetts have made little or no effort to locate the owners of these unclaimed accounts," he said. "This practice must stop."

"We've already taken the John Hancock Insurance Co. to court for withholding what we believe to be in excess of $3 million worth of its customers' money."

55 MPH Speed Limit To Be Strictly Enforced Over Labor Day

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, anticipating heavy traffic over the Labor Day weekend, issued a warning to motorists that the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit will be rigidly enforced along its 135 mile roadway.

Chairman John T. Driscoll said, "State Police from Troop E who patrol the turnpike will augment regular radar teams in order to discourage excessive speeding."

In addition, radio-equipped emergency service patrol vehicles will assist police in locating and assisting motorists in disabled vehicles and a full force of toll collectors will be at all interchanges across the turnpike.

Service stations and restaurants along the turnpike will be opened 24 hours a day, everyday. Driscoll said, "The Howard Johnson Restaurants along the turnpike will provide free coffee to patrons of the turnpike to promote safe driving."

Certificates will be distributed at toll plazas allowing motorists to be served coffee without charge from 10:00 p.m. Monday, Sept. 7, to 7 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Driscoll added, "It has been proven that compliance with the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit has reduced fatalities by at least 10% annually along our nation's highways. It is especially important during this weekend that all motorists, without exception, limit their speed to this legal limit. We are determined to enforce this law. In doing so, we will achieve a safer weekend for all."

Tickets Available For Jim Mulcahy Friendship Party

Tickets are available at $10 per person for the "Jim Mulcahy Friendship Party" to be held Saturday, Oct. 24, at U. Mass-Boston's Harbor Campus, Dorchester.

The party is in honor of Mr. Mulcahy, a Merrymount resident who recently suffered a massive stroke. The event is being organized by the Jim Mulcahy Friendship Fund Committee to help Mr. Mulcahy and his wife, Dorothy, with their financial burden, and to thank them for all they have given of themselves.

Mr. Mulcahy is past president of the Merrymount Association.

The party will begin with cocktails at 7:30 p.m. and will continue until midnight. There will be dancing to music.

Ample, free indoor parking is available at the Harbor Campus.

For ticket information, or to contribute to the friendship fund, write to Jim Mulcahy Friendship Fund Committee, c/o Robert Feeney, P.O. Box 25, South Boston, Ma., 02127.

Checks should be made payable to the Jim Mulcahy Friendship Fund Committee.

Quincy Educators At Harvard Workshop

A delegation from the Quincy schools recently attended a three-day workshop on building confidence in the school system held at the Harvard Graduate School.

The Quincy group, including School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, were those involved in the merger of the student bodies of the Parker and Quincy Schools.

They included Eugene Creedon, principal at the Parker; Eugene Ronayne, former principal at the Quincy, now assistant principal; and teachers Gerald Butler and Nancy Hebert.

Also included in the delegation were Ann Burke, president of the Parker PTA; Louis McDonald, outgoing president of the Quincy PTA; and Karen Gamsby, a parent.

Other communities that sent representatives to the workshop were Fall River, Concord and Needham, Mass., and Amherst, N.H.

Signal Snafu Spoils Quincy Test Blackout

A test air raid blackout in Quincy turned into chaos when a worker at the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. misinterpreted a signal from the Fire Department and turned street lights on in the middle of it.

Residents in turn, thinking the air raid drill was over, turned on the lights in their homes and some air raid wardens were reported to have packed their gear and left their posts.

E. J. MacEwan, the Civil Defense coordinator for the region, said he will ask state authorities for permission to hold the test again until Quincy got it right.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Defense Council received word that the new blackout mobilization signal would be a five-second whistle blast, a two-second pause, a five-second blast repeated for four minutes.

SCRAP IRON SOUGHT

The Quincy Salvage Committee moved to reclaim for the war effort some 150 tons of scrap iron from six rusting hulks that had been eyesores in the Town River for many years.

Chairman D. Foster Taylor inspected the many old barges and boats abandoned in the river and selected for salvage three dredging scows, two towboats and one coastal shipping barge.

SCHOOL CLOSING

The School Committee, after hearing petitions by two Quincy Point residents, voted unanimously to reaffirm its decision to close the 84-year-old Washington School.

City Councillor Louis A. George questioned the legality of the closing and asked the city solicitor for an opinion.

"It is my personal opinion," said George, who was also a lawyer, "that the School Committee has no legal right to close or abandon a public school once it is established."

4 Generations At

Aurora, Ill. Family Reunion

Mrs. Susan H. Hughes of Quincy, wife of the late Mr. Henry H. Hughes who was Quincy Sealer of Weights and Measures, recently traveled to Aurora, Ill. for a family reunion which spanned four generations.

Mrs. Hughes made the trip after celebrating her 75th birthday in June at a party at the Ridder Country Club.

During her trip, Mrs. Hughes visited her great granddaughter, Erin Marie May, six months, of Aurora; Erin's mother, the former Deborah A. George; and Erin's father, Arnold May, comptroller for Executive Affiliates, Inc., of Big Rock, Ill.

Also on hand for the reunion were Erin's grandmother, Mary Hughes George of Frackville, Pa., formerly of Quincy, and Erin's grandfather, Robert George, formerly of Braintree, vice president of manufacturing and engineering for Zapata Industries. Erin's paternal grandmother is Gertrude George of Braintree.

The Hughes family has lived in Quincy over 100 years.

Cousins Kristen Bowes, Matthew Koch Baptized

Cousins Kristen Marie Bowes and Matthew Richard Koch born a day apart, July 25-26, at Quincy City Hospital were baptized Sunday.

Kristen Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Bowes of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, was christened at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy by Rev. Cornelius Heery.

Matthew Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch Jr., 46 Putnam St., Quincy was christened at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, by Rev. Romeo Levesseur of St. James Church, Stoughton, uncle of the father.

Family and friends attended an outdoor reception at the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Special guests were Mrs. Anna Bowes, grandmother of Kristen Marie Bowes and Mrs. Dorothy Kelly, grandmother of Matthew Richard Koch.

Mrs. Ruth I. MacDougall Honored At Retirement Party

Mrs. Ruth I. MacDougall, assistant treasurer of Granite Cooperative Bank, was honored recently at a retirement party in the Quincy Room of Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy, with her family and co-workers in attendance.

Mrs. MacDougall has been an employee of Granite Cooperative Bank for the past 25 years. She started her career at the North Quincy office, and was appointed managing officer of the Granite Street Branch when it opened in 1965.

Among those attending the reception were Mrs. MacDougall's husband, Howard, and her sons David, Richard and Jay.

Special guests included Mrs. Mary Holmes, retired treasurer, and Mrs. Julia Mulvoy, former assistant treasurer of Granite Cooperative Bank.

Mrs. Barbara Lynch, bank treasurer, presented a portable color TV to Mrs. MacDougall from her co-workers at the bank.

A set of diamond earrings was also presented to Mrs. MacDougall from the bank for her 25 years of dedicated service.

A collation was also held recently at the North Quincy Office and a reception given Mrs. MacDougall for employees and customers to extend good wishes.

Let's End The Confusion About The All Savers Act

Small and large investors who are confused about the advertising by some banks concerning the All Savers Act and the interest available should read this material. This guide to the All Savers Act has been prepared by the United States League of Savings Associations of which The Quincy Cooperative Bank is a member.

Q What are the key features of the All Savers Certificate (ASC)?

A - It is a one-year savings certificate that pays 70 per cent of the yield on one-year U.S. Treasury bills. It can be offered between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1982. Savers can exclude ASC interest from income subject to federal taxes. The exclusion can total $1,000 on single tax returns and $2,000 on joint returns.

Q Why is the All Savers Certificate important for savers?

A - It gives them a substantial tax break for many the first decent tax break they've ever had.

Q Why is the All Savers Certificate important for borrowers?

A - Its great appeal to savers should help stimulate savings flows and make mortgage money more plentiful. Also, because the ASC's nominal rate (70 per cent of the Treasury yield) is below lenders' present new money cost, it should help lead to more affordable mortgage rates.

Q Why is it called the All Savers Certificate?

A - First, because all savings and loan associations and any other depository institution can offer them. And second because all institutions offering the ASC must make it available in a $500 denomination. This low denomination assures that this tax break will be enjoyed by the greatest number of savers, including those with only modest sums to deposit.

Q Can the ASC be sold in denominations other than $500?

A - Yes, as long as it is also available for $500. For practical purposes, the largest deposit most people will make is the amount required to earn the $1,000 maximum tax exclusion for individuals and $2,000 maximum for joint returns.

Q What are the advantages of an ASC over a money market mutual fund?

A - The tax break and the knowledge that the yield is fixed for an entire year. Rates paid by money market funds fluctuate daily. If interest rates fall, money market fund rates will drop sharply.

For taxpayers in higher tax brackets, the ASC after-tax return will be higher than that available at money market mutual funds.

In addition, the ASC offers insured safety and the convenience of a nearby financial institution and can be purchased for less than it takes to get into most money market funds.

Q What is the nature of the $1,000-$2,000 tax exclusion?

A - It is a one-time, total lifetime exclusion of interest income per individual regardless of the number of certificates purchased or the number of years in which exclusions are taken. Any ASC interest above $1,000 for single taxpayers and $2,000 for joint returns is fully taxable.

Q If you buy one or more ASCs in 1981, in what tax year would the interest be exempt from federal tax?

A - In the year the interest is earned. You'd receive a Form 1099 early in 1982 telling you how much was earned in 1981; and a Form 1099 you'd receive in early 1983 would tell you how much you earned in 1982.

Q Suppose I don't have enough savings to earn the full $1,000 or $2,000 tax exemption in one year. When that certificate matures, can I buy another one and earn more tax exempt interest?

A - Yes, provided, of course, that you renew your initial ASC or buy a new certificate (or certificates) before January 1, 1983, when under the present law these certificates could no longer be offered. That means you'd have to buy the first certificate (or certificates) before the end of this year.

Q Can savers add to ASCs and extend the maturity?

A - No. This certificate is limited to the initial deposit and matures in one year.

Q What happens to the money when the certificate expires?

A - Generally, unless the saver gives specific instructions to the contrary, the money would begin earning the passbook rate.

Q When are interest rates on ASCs established?

A - On a four-week cycle, generally on Thursday, when the U.S. government holds auctions for new 52-week Treasury bills. The average investment yield on those newly issued bills becomes the basis for the following four weeks' ASC yields.

Q How is the ASC yield calculated?

A - The yield to maturity on the certificates, including the effect of any compounding, is 70 per cent of the yield to maturity on one-year Treasury bills at the last auction. The new limit becomes effective the Sunday following the auction and remains in effect through the Saturday following the next auction.

Q When will the yield limit for ASCs to be sold begin October 1 be established?

A - It so happens that October 1 is a Thursday - and that a regular 52-week bill auction is scheduled for that day. Consequently the limit for ASCs offered on October 1, 2 and 3 would have been set on the basis of the previous auction, scheduled for Thursday, September 3. On Sunday, October 4, the new ASC limit, as determined by the October 1 auction, will go into effect.

Q - Does the "70 per cent of the yield" on one-year Treasury bills that can be paid to savers mean 70 percent of the auction rate?

A - No - and this is a very important distinction. It means 70 of the investment yield, which is higher than the auction rate. That's because Treasury bills are sold on what's called a discount basis.

Q - What's the difference between the auction rate or discount rate and the investment yield?

A - There's a considerable difference, primarily because when you buy a bill on a discount basis, you don't invest the entire face amount. You invest the face amount minus the interest you are to be paid if you hold the bill to maturity. The "discount rate" is figured on the face amount, but the yield is figured on the actual investment, providing a larger percentage.

The government makes these calculations following every auction and makes the results public.

Q - Then buyers of ASCs will be paid a considerably higher return than 70 per cent of the auction rate for one-year bills?

A - Yes. The yield on ASCs will be closer to 80 per cent of the auction rate.

Q What is the attraction of the tax-exempt feature of the ASC?

A - In general, it provides a bonus in the form of a substantial tax break along with a good yield for people who can save $500 or more. And in particular, for many savers in middle-income tax brackets and above, the ASC's tax-free yield will be higher than the after-tax return available in the marketplace.

Q - Give some examples showing how taxpayers in various tax brackets would benefit from the ASC's tax exempt feature.

A - To cite a few examples, let's assume the Treasury investment yield is 15 per cent. The All Savers rate would be 70 per cent of that, or 10.5 per cent.

If you are in the 21 per cent tax bracket, the ASC would pay the equivalent of a taxable yield of 13.29 per cent.

If you're in the 28 per cent bracket, an ASC would pay the equivalent of a taxable yield of 14.58 per cent. If you're in the 32 per cent bracket, the equivalent yield would be 15.44 per cent; in the 37 per cent bracket, 16.67 per cent; in the 43 per cent bracket, 18.42 per cent; and in the 49 per cent bracket, 20.59 per cent. In addition, you have the extra advantages of insured safety at a local financial institution.

Q - Will the ASC benefit savers who aren't in higher tax brackets?

A - Definitely. Even without the tax break, for many savers the ASC is worth buying on its own merits. It provides a good one-year return for a low minimum deposit. Buyers of MMCs must have at least $10,000 and buyers of small saver certificates must commit funds for 2½ years. Even in lower tax brackets, the effective ASC yield is boosted by the tax-free dollars savers don't have to give to the government.

Q - Are there limitations on who can take advantage of the tax exempt feature of the All Savers Certificate?

A - Yes. ASC interest can be excluded from taxation only by individuals and by estates that receive ASCs due to the buyer's death. Consequently there would be no tax advantage to their purchase by corporations, institutional investors or other non-personal classes of investors.

Q What are the penalties for early withdrawal from the ASC?

A - First, if any portion of the certificate is withdrawn prematurely, the saver loses the exemption on all interest earned on the ASC. Second, the penalty on a one-year certificate is loss of three months interest on the amount withdrawn.

Q - Suppose interest paid on the certificate was excluded from income in one year, but the certificate is prematurely redeemed or disposed of in the following year.

A - Then the amount of interest that was excluded in the first year must be included as taxable income for the year of redemption or disposition.

Q - Can savers be paid any interest on ASCs prior to maturity?

A - Yes. Receipt of any interest earned on an ASC before maturity is not considered a premature distribution. Institutions may pay earned interest on ASCs prior to maturity - for example quarterly or monthly.

Q - Can the ASC or any portion of it be used as collateral for a loan?

A - No. If the ASC or any part of it is used as collateral, it will be treated for tax purposes as a redemption of the entire certificate.

Q - If a saver earns more interest than can be excluded and the certificate's life is in the two calendar years, does the saver have a choice as to which year in which to take the exclusion?

A - No. The first interest earned up to the lifetime limit of $1,000 for single returns and $2,000 for joint returns is what is excludable. The exclusion must be taken in the year or years this interest is earned.

Q - If you borrow money to buy an ASC, can you deduct the interest on the loan for income tax purposes?

A - No. The law prohibits deducting interest on loans to buy ASCs (the same as with any other tax-exempt investments).

Q - Are there any requirements as to how money put into ASCs is to be used?

A - Yes. The lesser of 75 per cent of the funds raised by ASCs or 75 per cent of the net new retail savings deposits in any one quarter must be invested in residential or agricultural loans by the end of the next quarter.

We hope this set of questions and answers will help to clear up the confusion presently existing in the minds of customers or possible customers who would like to understand what they would be doing with their money if they invested in an All Savers account.

The Quincy Cooperative Bank will offer All Savers Certificates beginning October 1st.

Streamlined Government Needed For Prop 2½, Says McCauley

Streamlining of city government is essential if cities and towns in Massachusetts are to comply with the dictates of Proposition 2½, says City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for mayor.

Speaking at a pool party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Burton Cook, 87 Ames St., West Quincy, McCauley noted that the city must reduce its tax levy 15 per cent a year until it is down to 2½ per cent of the total valuation.

McCauley suggested that certain city departments could be combined or work crews shifted between departments to help eliminate a backlog of work.

When he is mayor, he said, he will direct his public works commissioner to analyze work procedures in the departments under his jurisdiction, with the goal of increasing productivity.

"No longer can the city afford to send a work crew of six persons to a job that can be handled by two or three people," he said.

McCauley emphasized his intention of providing as many services as possible to the residents of Quincy.

He said he hopes to maintain these services through updated methods and procedures and by giving the workers the proper directions for working efficiently.

"The challenge of Proposition 2½ is to find better ways and methods of delivering city services," said McCauley.

Raymondi Pledges No Scare Tactics In 2½

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, a candidate for mayor, has promised that "under my administration, there will be no scare tactics in carrying out the Proposition 2½ mandate."

Raymondi told a coffee party at the home of Leah Shea, 33 Grossman St., South Quincy, that he will conduct a professionally managed course of action in implementing Prop. 2½.

"My record of 10 years of public service in Quincy has been one of acting in behalf of city taxpayers," he said.

"Last year, as a member of the Finance Committee in a leadership position, much of my efforts helped to assure Quincy's budget was kept within the 4 per cent tax cap."

Raymondi said he favors a bill currently before the Legislature that would revise the local aid formula to guarantee each community at least 40 per cent of its Prop 2½ losses.

The bill would add $2 million to the $3 million in additional aid the city is scheduled to get.

"I wrote to Rep. George Keverian, who sponsored the bill, and offered my support for this legislation that is so vital to Quincy," he said.

"As the local aid formula works presently, it does not address the issue of funding decreases because of Prop 2½. The current system is unfair and Keverian's bill would change that."

A properly financed and managed city is a city which does not rely heavily on borrowing, said Raymondi.

"As mayor," he said, "I will take immediate steps to control city borrowing and institute a program of reduced reliance on borrowing."

"My work in the leadership of the Finance Committee has given me the insight of how to hold down city expenditures."

O'Brien Asks More School Public Input

James J. O'Brien, a candidate for the School Committee, says he feels the people of Quincy must have more input into the school system in order to make it work.

O'Brien, speaking at the home of Paul and Mary Gifford in Squantum, questioned whether meetings of the School Committee were really "public" meetings at all.

"Why," he asked, "are the agendas for the School Committee not published and made easily available to the general public? Why can't the public make comments or ideas at the meetings?"

"You must realize you are the employers of the people who work in the system; you pay their salaries; you as the employer must demand the right to be heard."

O'Brien repeated his promise to hold informal weekly meetings to discuss both the good and the bad of the system after he is elected.

"Your involvement must not end with the election," he said. "I will need you, your friends, your neighbors to work with me to make the system not better but the best."

GOP City Committee To Meet Sept. 8

The Quincy Republican City Committee will hold a meeting Tuesday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wollaston Methodist Church.

Joyce Baker, chairman, speaking at a recent executive meeting of the committee stressed that "Republicans are once again in vogue and now is the time to capitalize on our positive image with the electorate."

She said "the 'grass roots' are more important than ever and are the tie that binds the whole package together."

All City Committee members are urged to attend the September meeting and all interested voters are invited to attend, she said.

North Bayfield St. Escapes Traffic Ban

Residents of North Bayfield St., Atlantic, probably don't realize how close they came to being banned from their own street.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond offered a resolution Thursday night calling for a Traffic Commission study of "Do Not Enter" signs at the intersection of North and South Bayfield Sts. and Quincy Shore Drive.

Fine, said Joanne Condon, the local ward councillor, only North Bayfield St. is one way in from Quincy Shore Drive and there motorists are already forbidden to enter the street at the East Squantum St. end.

"I'm sure that the Traffic Commission is not about to make North Bayfield St. inaccessible to its own residents," said Mrs. Condon.

The resolution was amended to call for a traffic study of the two Bayfield Sts. plus nearby Appleton St. and Colby Rd., both two-way streets.

"We do have traffic problems on all those side streets off Quincy Shore Drive," said Mrs. Condon. "Councillor Raymond saw only one of them."

McGrath Asks Traffic Study On Quincy Shore Drive

The Traffic Commission has been asked to make a survey of hazardous conditions on Quincy Shore Drive near the Beachcomber Restaurant, which is under the jurisdiction of the MDC.

Several people have been killed or injured on that stretch of road in recent weeks.

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath acknowledged that it was an MDC problem but, he added, "the time of casting blame is past."

"It's time for someone like our Police Department to take a leadership role and come up with some suggestions about what to do," he said, "even to the point of further regulating the liquor license at the Beachcomber."

A CHECK-UP WITH DENTURES?

Q: Even though I wear dentures my wife says I should have a dental check-up every so often. Why?

A: It's important to check the tongue, under the tongue, and the ridges of the gums.

Q: I've been wearing the same set of dentures for a long time, and they're very loose. Is there any danger in this?

A: Definitely yes. Loose dentures can make the jawbone wear down even faster, and the constant friction on the gums can cause extra tissue to grow on the ridges. Chronic irritation from loose, ill-fitting dentures can sometimes lead to a sore which can become cancerous if left unattended.

George J. Lynch, 66, Veterans Services Commissioner

A funeral Mass for George J. Lynch, 66, of Quincy, commissioner of Veterans Services in Boston, was held yesterday (Wednesday) in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Lynch died Aug. 28, in Cape Cod Hospital after a sudden illness.

He was born in Boston. A graduate of Boston English High School, he was also graduated from Boston College in 1937.

Before joining the veterans services, he was a sales representative at Tetley Tea Company for 25 years.

Mr. Lynch was a member of the state Consumers Council and Real Estate Board.

He was a former department treasurer and a past department commander of the Disabled American Veterans Association.

Mr. Lynch was also a former member of Redberry Council.

Knights of Columbus, and a late member of Old Dorchester Legion Post and McKeon Post, Dorchester.

He is survived by his wife, Catherine V. (Moloney) Lynch; two sons, George J. Lynch of Quincy and Kevin J. Lynch of Weymouth; a daughter, Catherine J. Shea of Milton; a brother, William Lynch of South Boston; and six grandchildren.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Mattapan.

Jay Sumner Swingle, 81, Former Quarries Owner

Funeral services for Jay Sumner Swingle, 81, of Clearwater, Fla., former owner of the J.S. Swingle Quarries of West Quincy, were conducted Monday in Clearwater.

Mr. Swingle died Saturday at his home. He was born in Quincy in 1900.

Mr. Swingle attended Quincy schools and Chicago School of Art.

After his father's death, he returned to Quincy to take over operation of the four quarries, one of which was reportedly the deepest working quarry in the country.

The quarries are located near the site of the country's first operational industrial railroad which was used to bring Quincy granite to Boston for the Bunker Hill Monument.

Mr. Swingle was married to Agnes (Jennings) Swingle of Quincy until her death. His only son, James Sumner Swingle, died at the age of 11 after being struck by a car while walking home from school. James was in a coma for three months.

Mr. Swingle often entertained handicapped children on boat excursions around Boston Harbor.

The Swingles lived in Milton until Mr. Swingle sold the quarries and retired to Florida in 1955.

A World War II Coast Guard veteran, he served as a chief warrant officer and remained active from 1942 to 1962.

A member of Quincy Yacht Club for many years, Mr. Swingle was also a member of Quincy Masonic Lodge and East Milton Congregational Church.

Mr. Swingle is survived by his wife, Barbara Crosby Vossumus of Boston; two daughters, Jeanne Hall of Quincy and JoAnne Hennigan of West Quincy, formerly of Worcester; two sisters, Maxine Dumke of California and Pauline Sieverts Schultz of Kingston; five grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the memorial fund Campton Congregational Church, Campton, N.H., where his nephew is pastor.

Anna Ricciuti, 82, Mother Of Public Works Commissioner

A funeral Mass for Anna (Gaudiano) Ricciuti, 82, a lifelong Quincy resident who had written poems, music and prose, was held (Wednesday) in St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

Mrs. Ricciuti died Sunday at Quincy City Hospital.

Educated in Quincy schools, she wrote music for "The Lord's Prayer" which was played in church at all of her grandchildren's weddings.

Wife of the late John Ricciuti, a former owner of John Ricciuti and Sons Monument Company, she is survived by three sons, Quincy Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, Philip L. Ricciuti and John T. Ricciuti, all of Quincy; three daughters, Genevieve M. Palumbo and Marie J. D'Olimpio, a news writer at The Patriot Ledger, both of Quincy, and Gloria A. Pelleriti of Milton; three sisters, Angela Baldassini, Nancy Ward and Adeline

Corcoran, all of Quincy; a brother, Michael Gaudiano of Quincy; 22 grandchildren, 11 great grandchildren and more than 100 nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in her memory may be made to the charity of one's choice.

S.S. Coalition Discusses Solidarity Day Plans

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights was scheduled to discuss plans for Solidarity Day Sept. 19, at a meeting last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m., at Quincy Center United Methodist Church, Granite and Fort Sts.

Election of officers for the coming year and nomination of the "Citizen of the Year" was also to take place.

The coalition is joining other community, church, civil rights groups and labor organizations in supporting Solidarity Day.

Many coalition members and their families and friends will be joining in the march on Washington to protest such issues as unemployment, and efforts to end health care, educational aid, and women's rights.

More information is available by contacting the coalition at 472-3396, the coalition's Solidarity Day coordinator Sandy Eaton at 472-4935, or Rawle Garner at the NAACP 267-1058.

After the Mass, there will be refreshments in the lower church. The public is welcome.

Mite Box Thrift Shop To Open For Season

The Mite Box Thrift Shop at St. Chrysostom's Church, Linden and Hancock Sts., Wollaston, will open for the winter season Wednesday, Sept. 9.

The shop is open Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with consignments and donations.

GLAD TIDINGS CHURCH

Jesus was concerned about people - people who had family problems, sickness, fear, sorrow, lack of purpose, worry, emptiness. Jesus was also concerned about those who had it "all together" yet were missing the fulfillment of life's only true meaning. Our lives have been changed since we discovered life's purpose through Jesus Christ, and we are excited about what God has done for us. He has given us eternal life - "strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow." Through a faith that is Christ - centered and Bible-based, He enables us to live confidently in our uncertain world, to deal effectively with the stresses of life's challenges, and to know God's purpose in our lives. It is our desire that you and your family also experience this new life through trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ - now and always.

Glad Tidings Church is a warm, friendly church that believes the Bible and offers the answer for the problems we all face. We would be privileged to share our lives, touched by the Holy Spirit, with you. We really do care about you!

Cable TV Training Center Opens

The Cable Career Center began a four-week Cable Installer Training Program Monday with 20 students learning to install and service cable TV equipment at the Myles Standish School.

The program is funded by a $40,000 grant from the federal Comprehensive Education and Training Administration (CETA). The Center was started by American Cablesystems Corp. with a pledge of $100,000.

American's subsidiary, Quincy Cablesystems Corp., has the cable television franchise in Quincy.

In the future, the Center will also provide other regional training and educational services to people interested in or preparing for careers in the cable TV industry.

The initial program, said Director Anne Bailey, will include training in telephone pole climbing, splicing, installing and servicing skills.

Instructors are currently active in the industry, including Al Kuolas, project engineer for Quincy Cablesystems, who will teach servicing skills.

The 20 students now in training passed mechanical and dexterity tests at the CETA Skills Center in North Quincy and were recommended for the program by CETA Director Paul Ricca.

QJC Women's Center Sponsoring Courses

Three courses of interest to women are being sponsored by the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College during the fall semester.

"Roles of Women in Society" will be held Mondays, 6:30 to 9:20 p.m. beginning Sept. 14. Alicia Coletti, women's center director, will teach the three credit course.

Students will analyze how women learn to behave inside and outside of the roles set for them by society, learn about the emancipation of women in political, economic and cultural areas, and examine the lives and writings of women who have influenced and changed women's lives.

Carla Goodwin will lead a non-credit "Career Workshop for Women" beginning Monday, Sept. 14, 7 to 9 p.m. The course will focus on increasing self awareness, assessing skills and interests, and developing realistic goals.

Miss Goodwin, who has led personal growth workshops for the Women's Center, will also lead a "Assertiveness Training" workshop which begins Wednesday, Sept. 9, 7 to 9 p.m.

The non-credit course will cover the differences between assertiveness, aggressiveness and non-assertiveness through role-playing and group discussion.

Course registration will be conducted Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. through the continuing education office of Quincy Junior College.

For more information, call 786-8741.

Luce Wins Pigeon Club

Young Bird Race

Bill Luce was the winner of the second young bird race of the Quincy Homing Pigeon Club season last Sunday, which started in North Adams.

It was a grueling race for the 257 birds from 19 lofts as they must have run into rain and fog on their return.

The final race from North

Adams will be run Sunday and the following week the birds will fly from Iliou, N.Y.

Luce finished third in the first race two weeks ago. Last Sunday's other top ten finishers: 2. B&G Loft; 3. Gene Tanzi; 4. Vinnie Redman; 5. Mike Stetson; 6. Al Ruriane; 7. Paul & Donna Loft; 8. Tony Rezzotto; 9. Jim Swindler and son; 10. Rezzotto.

"There may even be guards at different schools because of the closings."

The seven MDC crossings in Quincy are listed as:

- Willard St. at the on ramp to the Southeast Expressway.
- Willard St. at the off ramp from the Southeast Expressway.
- Willard St. at Larry Place, West Quincy.
- Reardon St. at Furnace Brook Parkway, West Quincy.
- Furnace Brook Parkway at the Furnace Brook School.

- Quincy Shore Drive at Tirrell St. North Quincy.
- Quincy Shore Drive at Squanto Rd., Merrymount.

The MDC said all the crossings will be covered by police officers except those at Tirrell St. and the Furnace Brook School. There are traffic lights at those crossings.

School Committeewoman Patricia Toland urged Geoghegan to review his "ill-timed and ill-considered decision."

"Many parents from around the city have contacted me this past week," she said. "They speak as a single voice and the message is loud and clear: Restore the crossing guards! "Otherwise they will not send their children to school."

the career tech courses, which had previously been free.

"That's a big jump, although it's not as big as some schools," said Deyeso. "But last week the enrollment was up 13 per cent. If it holds, and we expect it will, we will have turned the corner in revenue."

Outside funding, said Deyeso, has come from the state ($120,000 to $130,000), local hospitals for the nursing school (a little over $200,000) and the development fund ($25,000 to $50,000).

The next effort by the junior college will be an expansion of the development fund through solicitation of alumni and businesses, just like any other college.

"First," said Dr. Creedon, "we had to demonstrate to the people that we were worth it."

"We had to show them a track record of what we have been able to do before they are willing to give their support. We couldn't ask them to support a dying institution.

"I think we have proven to them that we are viable."

Hancock Bank Softball Registration

Registration will close Tuesday, Sept. 8, for the second annual Slow Pitch Single Elimination Softball Tournament sponsored by the Hancock Bank for the benefit of the United Way.

The tournament will be held Sept. 11 through 21 at Rotary Field.

Sun Telethon Pledge Center For Quincy-South Shore Area

to win a $450 Litton microwave oven being donated by John Poreca, president of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

The first 1,000 persons donating $2 to the fish bowl will also receive a handsome color photo poster of one of the famed Tall Ships that visited Boston. They will have their choice of the Christian Radich or the Gorch Fock II.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more will also receive two tickets to the Wollaston Theater donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler, owners of the theater.

Youngsters who want to help Jerry's Kids may obtain an official cannister at The Sun office with which to collect donations. They will receive a Jerry Lewis iron-on patch when they turn the cannister in.

Anyone donating to the fish bowl will also receive an iron-on patch.

There will be a number of activities outside The Sun office, including:

Music by Baron Hugo's orchestra and The Citations and a performance by The Joy of Movement Dancers. There will also be a dunking booth sponsored by the Quincy High School Band Alumni Association.

And, making special appearances will be Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Tweedie Bird and Sylvester The Cat.

Last year, a record $117,076 was raised in the Quincy-South Shore area at The Quincy Sun pledge center and through special events sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Of this figure, $67,438 was raised from special events, $40,417 in Labor Day weekend pledges and $9,220 from fish bowl receipts on that weekend. The heavy load of coins cracked the fish bowl.

The $117,076 brought to $360,740 the four-year total raised here.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee and co-ordinators of the pledge center.

This year's Jerry Lewis Telethon - the 16th annual - will again originate from the Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas. It will start at 9 p.m. Sunday and continue 21 1/2 hours until 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Ch. 5's Chet Curtis and Natalie Jacobson who are Massachusetts co-chairmen for the Muscular Dystrophy Association will co-host the local portions of the telethon live from the Dorothy Quincy Suite at the old John Hancock building.

Representatives from the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee and pledge center will be among those making appearances on Ch. 5.

In Las Vegas, Jerry Lewis will be assisted by Ed McMahon, David Hartman and Chad Everett. The show will be carried by more than 200 stations in the U.S. and Canada.

Among those appearing will be:

Sammy Davis Jr., Tony Bennett, Johnny Cash, Bill Cosby, Crystal Gayle, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers, Ben Vereen, Don Rickles, Pearl Bailey, Wayne Newton, Tony Orlando, Charo, Norm Crosby, Jack Jones, Mel Torme, Virginia Capers, Danny Deardorf, Dizzy Gillespie, Julius LaRosa, the McDonald's Jazz Band, Robert Merrill, the Broadway cast of "Sophisticated Ladies", the 139th Street Quartet, Chita Rivera, Tommy Hearn, Sugar Ray Leonard, and many others.

Baron Hugo, Citations To Entertain At Pledge Center

Once again there'll be plenty of good music at The Quincy Sun pledge center in Quincy Sq. for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Baron Hugo's orchestra and The Citations will both be on hand outside the center on Labor Day doing their thing for Jerry's Kids.

The Citations will start playing at 12:30 p.m. Monday and the Baron will take over from 3 p.m. to the end of the telethon.

The Citations will have Paul Ricca on trumpet; Joe Ricca, tenor saxophone; Angelo Pagliuca, choravox; Wally Farrell, drums; and Joe Contrino and Fuzzy Fasano singing.

In the Hugo group, Baron will be on drums. Ken Lodge on trumpet, Bill Milesky at the electric piano and Arthur Cronk on trombone.

Baron will also lead an old-fashioned sidewalk sing-a-long.

Both groups entertained last year.

Mickey, Minnie, Donald Duck Tweetie Bird, Sylvester At Pledge Center

Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse and Donald Duck will make a return appearance at The Quincy Sun pledge center on Labor Day.

And, they're bringing along a couple of friends: Tweetie Bird and Sylvester The Cat.

All five lovable characters will be inside and outside the pledge center during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon on Monday.

They'll be helping to collect donations for the fishbowl at help fight muscular dystrophy.

Come on down and meet them in person.

WJDA To Again Cover Sun Pledge Center Activities

WJDA will again be The Quincy Sun's partner in helping Jerry's Kids.

The Quincy radio station (1300) will provide live coverage of activities at the Quincy-South Shore pledge center at The Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

WJDA will broadcast from The Sun office Labor Day starting at 6 a.m. Monday and continuing to the end of the telethon at 7 p.m.

Win Bettinson, program director, and Roy Lind will give progress reports, interview volunteers working at the pledge center and those coming in to make donations to the fishbowl. They will also cover special events at the pledge center.

WJDA is teaming with The Sun through the cooperation of James D. Asher, Jr., president-treasurer of the radio station.

So, if you want to know what's going on at the pledge center, stay with WJDA throughout Labor Day or drop by The Sun office.

$450 Microwave Oven To Be Awarded At Center

A $450 Litton microwave oven will be awarded as a prize at The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

The microwave oven is being donated by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

This is the fourth year in a row that he has donated a large prize to help Jerry's Kids. Three have been microwave ovens and last year's was a $350 13-inch Panasonic color TV set.

Anyone contributing $1 or more to the fishbowl at the pledge center will be eligible to win the microwave oven. The lucky name will be drawn at the end of the telethon Monday.

The Sun pledge center will be in operation from 7 p.m. Sunday night to 7 p.m. Monday night.

1,000 Tall Ship Posters For Donors

You can get a handsome color poster of a famed Tall Ship and help a worthy cause at the same time.

Some 1,000 posters of the Christian Radich and Gorch Fock II that visited Boston will be available at The Quincy Sun based pledge center during the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon this Labor Day weekend.

Anyone donating $2 or more to the fishbowl at The Sun office will receive the ship poster of their choice while they last.

The $2 contribution will also entitle the donor to a chance on a $450 Litton microwave oven being given by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy, as a prize.

The Sun pledge center, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., will be open 24 hours from 7 p.m. Sunday to 7 p.m. Monday.

100 Wollaston Theater Tickets To Be Awarded

One hundred tickets to the Wollaston Theater will be awarded at The Quincy Sun based Jerry Lewis Telethon pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more to the fish bowl at the pledge center will receive two tickets each to the theater.

The 100 tickets are being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler, owners of the theater on Beale St., Wollaston.

This is the third straight year the Chandlers have donated 100 tickets.

The $5 or more donation for two tickets will also entitle the donors to a chance to win a $450 Litton microwave oven being given as a prize by John Poreca, president of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Call 328-6622 To Make A Pledge

If you live in the Quincy-South Shore area and want to make a pledge during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon this Labor Day weekend, the telephone number to call is 328-6622.

The number will ring one of the 32 telephones being installed in The Quincy Sun office, pledge center for the Quincy-South Shore area.

The telephones will be manned by more than 200 volunteers on various shifts during the Jerry Lewis Telethon being carried on WCVB, Ch. 5.

You may also make a contribution to the fishbowl by visiting The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The pledge center will be in operation 24 hours, from 7 p.m. Sunday to 7 p.m. Monday.

Quincy Junior College Accepting Fall Admissions

Quincy Junior College is accepting applications for full-time and part-time day studies for the academic year 1981-82.

Among the associate degree programs the college offers are Criminal Justice, Early Childhood Education, Accounting, Management, Retailing, the Liberal Arts transfer - oriented program, Medical, Legal, and Executive Secretarial Science programs, Computer Science, Electronic Technology, and a new Hotel-Restaurant Management

One and two year certificate programs are available in Culinary Arts, Dental Assisting, Dental Laboratory Technology, Practical Nursing, and Surgical Technology.

A one year health preparatory program is also available for people needing remedial work in the science, English, and math areas. While this program is not a pre-requisite for nursing or health programs, nor a guarantee of acceptance into a program, it does provide an exploratory time for people considering education in the health science area.

"Quincy Junior College's approach to education is humanistic - students know and visit with faculty members; administrators are available for advising and counseling; and friendship and acceptance is the common denominator of students, faculty, and administrators," Edward Pierce, Quincy Junior College President, remarked to a group of visiting students.

Students transferring from another college should also arrange for their grades to be sent to Quincy Junior College.

People interested in part-time day studies can also walk in to the Admissions Office to choose their courses. Courses can be arranged around individual schedules and needs.

Women South In Joint Meeting

Reservations must be received before Sept. 10, for the second annual joint meeting of Women South, Women West, Women West Evening, and Women North of Boston Tuesday, Sept. 15 at Wellesley Country Club.

Youth Baseball Leagues Registration Sept. 12

Registration for the 1982 Quincy Youth Baseball Leagues will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, from 9 a.m. to noon at North Quincy K. of C. Hall, corner of Hancock St. and Hollis Ave.

Anyone who played Junior Farm, AAA, International or 12-year-old Junior League must register as well as any 8-16 year-olds wishing to join the program. Application fee is 50 cents. Information on tryout dates will be issued on registration day.

Registration is open only to Quincy residents born after July 31, 1966 and prior to Aug. 1, 1974.

Quincy Youth Baseball operates 57 teams in various age groupings and enroll nearly 1000 boys and girls in their programs.

Hancock Clinches First Place Tie In Bankers League

Hancock Bank clinched at least a tie for the South Shore Bankers Softball League championship for the fourth year in a row as it scored a come-from-behind 10-9 victory over tough luck loser Bay Bank and runnerup State Street Bank lost to South Shore Bank, 12-11.

Hancock (14-2) with two games to play), State Street (12-4 with two to play) and South Weymouth Savings (10-7 with one left to play) have clinched playoff berths.

The rest of the standings: South Shore, 6-10 with two games to play; Bay Bank/Norfolk, 5-9, four games to play; Quincy Savings, 5-11, two to play, and Quincy Co-Op, 2-13, three to play.

A run-producing single by Bill Guerard and heads-up base running by Bob Marsh and Brian Griffiths highlighted Hancock's victory over Bay Bank.

Warren Troup and Kevin Schwede swung the big bats and Ed Kelly sparked in the field as South Shore upset State Street.

In last week's other game South Weymouth squeezed by Quincy Savings, 12-11.

VFW-Police Softball Raises $350 For MD

The Bryan VFW Post "Week-end Warriors" defeated the Quincy Police, 6-4, in a softball game at Rotary Field that raised some $350 to fight Muscular Dystrophy.

Junior Tournament

Quincy A's Edge Braves For Title

It was an all-Quincy final in the annual baseball tournament for junior teams as the Quincy A team edged the Quincy Braves, 5-4, in the championship game at Artery Field 2.

The A team finished the triple elimination tournament with a 9-1 record, losing only to the Braves, who finished with a 7-3 mark.

The A's rallied for three runs in the bottom of the sixth to squeeze by the Braves in the exciting finale. Steve Minichello was the winning pitcher and Bob Laracy the loser.

Mark Bilton got the Braves off to a quick 2-0 lead with a two-run homer in the first after Jamie McArdele had doubled. The A's scored once in the bottom of the third on a Steve Hensley homer, the Braves made it 3-1 in the fourth when Bilton walked. Tom Tegen doubled, Dennis DeCoste and Laracy walked, forcing in Bilton, and the A's came back with a run in the bottom half on singles by Steve Austin, Chad Hallet and Minichello.

The Braves took a 4-2 lead with a run in the top of the sixth when Tegen singled and scored on DeCoste's double. In the bottom half Hallet singled, Chris Marshall doubled and Chris Riccutti's double scored both with the tying runs. Hensley then singled Riccutti home with the winner.

Tournament director Sal Salvatore and assistant Judy Swanson selected Billy Burkhead of Quincy A's as the Most Valuable Player. The umpires selected the all-star team which includes Burkhead, Marshall and Austin of the Quincy A's, Laracy and Bilton of the Braves, Tom McDonald of Quincy's 11-year-old team, the Indians: Mike Case of Forest Hills, Bob Fingler of Norwood Police, Paul Fahney of Milton, Vin Joyce and Kevin Healy of South Braintree and Mike Wall of Norwood Colombos.

"I would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wheeler, Lino Salvatore, Chris Swanson, Mike Bille and Judy Swanson for all their help in taking care of the fields, keeping score and other chores and also the Park Department for the use of its equipment," said Salvatore.

The Quincy A's had defeated the Braves, 8-4, in the semifinal game with Burkhead the winning pitcher and Mike Dever the loser. Joe Gleba had a single and a double, Burkhead two singles and Hallet, Hensley, Minichello and Kyle Roberts a single each for the A's. For the Braves Dave Tocchio had two singles, Bilton and Tegen a double each and McArdele and DeCoste a single each.

The A's walloped Forest Hills, 8-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Larry Taglieri. The big hit was a grand slam homer by Marshall in the third. Austin had a two-run homer, Burkhead and Rob Fitzgerald had two singles each and Hallet, Minichello, Marshall and Robertson a single each.

The Braves upset the A's, 4-1, with Laracy pitching a seven-hitter and Marshall the loser. The A's took a 1-0 lead in the third when Austin singled, stole second and scored on Minichello's single.

The Braves scored twice in the fifth on walks to DeCoste and Bob Callahan, a passed ball and McArdele's single. They added two in the sixth when Steve Happs walked, Amal Abboud-Zed reached on an error and DeCoste tripled them home.

The A's edged Norwood Colombos, 3-2, with Burkhead the winner. Norwood was last year's champion. Austin had a single and triple, Robertson two singles, Riccutti, Tegen, Minichello and Burkhead a single each.

MacLean, Donahue Unimpressed

Both Coaches Munroe MacLean and Jack Donahue were unimpressed with the play of their teams as Quincy battled Hingham to a 6-6 tie and North Quincy defeated Rockland, 13-0, in the annual high school football jamboree at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy's Al Halloran broke through the right side of the line and raced 35 yards for the first touchdown but an intercepted pass set up the Hingham score on a 40-yard run by Bud Waugh. A 70-yard touchdown run by the Presidents' Charlie Sacchetti was nullified by a penalty.

"We must sharpen up our blocking," said MacLean. "We weren't knocking people down." But the Quincy coach had high praise for his sophomore backs, Aldo Lombardi and Sacchetti, who were playing their first varsity games.

Sid Cedrone knifed through tackle for one yard and a touchdown on the third play of the game and Bob Richards scored the second North Quincy six-pointer later on an eight-yard sprint. Quarterback Jack Gillyoley sneaked in for the extra point.

"We're still untested," said Coach Donahue, whose Raiders were scheduled to open a week later against Class B powerhouse Watertown. "These two touchdowns didn't mean a thing because North was just too big a school for Rockland."

SQUANTUM FALLS BEHIND

The Weymouth Town Team collected 14 hits off Bob Driscoll and Joe Callahan to pound out a 12-2 victory over Squantum and take a two games to one lead in their best of seven playoff series for the South Shore League championship.

A day earlier, Driscoll, playing right field, belted a two-run single scoring Ralph McLeod and Jack McDonald to highlight a three-run 10th inning for a 6-4 victory to tie the series at a game apiece.

The Squantum lineup for the two games: Casey 3b, Warstler 2b, McLeod cf, McDonald ss, J. Frazer c, Wallace rf-p, Rinaldi lf, Conley 1b, Forbush rf, Callahan p, C. Frazer ph, Gumpwright ph.

MANETS WIN OPENER

Frank Saba, the coach at Brockton High School, passed to Hank Woroniec, another Brockton boy, for the first touchdown and the Quincy Manets went on to a 27-0 victory over the Brockton Pros in their opening exhibition game at Municipal Stadium.

Lanny Lombardi scored two touchdowns and Frank St. Peter one as the Manets warmed up for their first season in the newly founded New England Pro Football Conference. Kelly Tocci's last minute interception kept Brockton scoreless.

PARK LEAGUERS TIE

Blessed Sacrament's Paul (Iggy) Reddish struck out 15 and Ed Daley of the South Quincy Chiefs fanned 14 but it was all in vain as the two teams battled to a 4-4 tie in 14 innings in Park League playoff game at LaBree Field.

South Quincy - Durant 1b, McKinnon 3b, Shattuck 2b, M. Daley cf, McKinney c, A. Belmont lf, Sleep lf, T. Belmont ss, Lang rf, E. Daley p.

Blessed Sacrament - Curry ss, Walters 3b, Scanlon 3b, Lemon c, Dempsey 2b, Cumming 1b, Gerstel cf, J. Rouillard rf, F. Rouillard rf, Reddish p.

NORTH ALUMNI WIN

Tom Meade scored touchdowns on runs of 40 and 48 yards as the North Quincy Alumni outclassed the Gerald Press eleven of Cambridge, 40-0, in their opener at Cavanagh Stadium. Coach Pete Zoia used his entire 33-man squad in the rout.

HURLEY-SEREUS WIN DOUBLES

Paul Hurley of Quincy and Ed Sereus of Braintree upset Harold (Brownie) Soule of Weymouth and Paul Bloch of Boston to win the men's doubles title of the Quincy Tennis Club. The scores in the torrid, five-set match were 3-6, 4-6, 6-2, 12-10 and 6-4.

AUSTIN TAKES ROAD RACE

Fran Austin, still carrying World War II shrapnel in his body, entered the elite of road-racing by winning the Walter G. (Doc) Kendall 10-miler, sponsored by the Quincy Point Bocece Club, in one hour, one minute and 22 seconds.

SPORTSBITS

The Wollaston Yacht Club's Penguin fleet, headed by Roger Kent, lost to the Manchester Yacht Club in foul weather on the North Shore... Rain forced postponement of the Quincy Manets' New England Pro Conference opener against the New Bedford Whalers... The Quincy Warriors spoiled Vic DiGravio's debut as coach by fumbling away a 6-0 decision to the Readville AC at Municipal Stadium... The North Quincy Associates and the pneumatic Sealers were eliminated in the first round of the Metropolitan Amateur Softball Tournament in Somerville.

LaBrique Girls Edge Pollard At Buzzer For Basketball Title

LaBrique Playground edged Pollard at the final buzzer, 14-12, to win the Recreation Department junior girls' basketball championship.

Susan MacDonald led LaBrique with eight points, while Chrissy Loud, Diana Norling and Nora Joyce also played well. For Pollard Julie Coste and Kris McGhee had six points apiece.

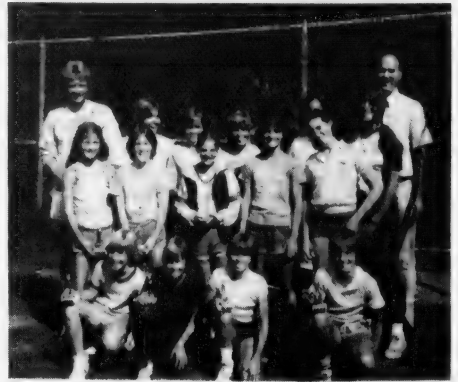

LaBrique also won the senior title with a 28-15 victory over Fore River. Maryanne Agres had 12 points and grabbed a number of key rebounds to lead the champions. Kathy Dunn also was strong off the boards. For Fore River Tricia Travers had seven points and Patty McBride five.

Montclair defeated LaBrique, 29-23, to win the junior boys' basketball title. The fine shooting of Steve Austin and Bob Callahan kept LaBrique in the game until the third period when Montclair pulled away to a seven-point lead. Greg McGlame had 11 points and Mansoor Rashid eight for Montclair. Pat Leary played strong defense for Montclair.

Shea Rink held on to edge Beechwood Knoll, 35-33, for the senior boys' championship. Shea exploded to a 13-point lead at the half but Beechwood's full-court press enabled it to chip away at Shea's lead. Shea, led by Kevin Riggs and Mark Righini, barely held on for its two-point win. John Phelan, Bob Flynn and Bob Mudge played excellent defense for Beechwood Knoll.

McPhee Unable To Coach At North

Ken McPhee, an assistant football coach for the past several years at North Quincy and who despite losing his teaching job, had been re-appointed as an assistant, informed Head Coach Dave Burke last week he will be unable to coach this season.

At this writing no replacement for McPhee had been named. He and George Liset had lost their teaching jobs due to Proposition 2½, and Burke began practice Monday with returning coaches Ted Sadowski and Jack Rayer and volunteer coach Pete Zoia.

Koch Women's League Gets Set For 27th Season

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League will prepare for its 27th season Thursday, Sept. 10 at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, Broad St.

Members will start bowling three weeks for averages to assemble the teams for the 1981-82 season.

There are a number of openings for regular and spare bowlers. The league bowls Thursday evenings during the fall and winter and closes out the season with an awards night with dinner and dance in May.

Officers for the 1981-82 season are Maureen Robertson, president; Ellen McAdam, treasurer and Lorraine Ryan, secretary.

The Women's League members are all active in the organization's charitable and scholarship programs.

The league was founded in 1955 and bowled at the Norfolk Downs Alleys site on Hancock St.

Couple's Relatives Recovering From Hotel Walkways Collapse

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
A Quincy couple's relatives who were seriously injured when two walkways across the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Kansas City, Mo., collapsed July 17, are recovering at their home but "suffering some depression."

William and Lillian Hancock of Viden Rd., South Quincy, are being kept informed of the recovery of Mr. Hancock's brother and sister-in-law, Harry and Dorothy Hancock of Grandview, Mo., through letters from their niece, Cindy Barker.

Wrote Mrs. Barker recently, "Mom was fortunate to have gotten out of the Hyatt quickly with the help of two people that remain unknown, but I praise the Lord for them... Dad, being less seriously injured, had to see an awful lot of terribly injured people. He doesn't care to talk about it."

The Harry Hancocks were attending a Tea Dance at the year old Hyatt when the collapse occurred.

The couple had stopped to watch the festivities from a walkway which was subsequently collapsed into the lobby by a higher walkway which fell.

Mr. Hancock suffered a broken leg, collar bone, and right ankle, and cuts and lacerations on the ears and head.

Mrs. Hancock had a compound fracture of the right leg, fractured ankle, and cuts and lacerations on the ears and head.

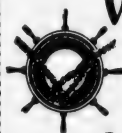

The local Hancocks learned that their relatives had been injured when a nephew called them from Missouri.

"The whole thing is very sad for them," says Lillian Hancock. "Thank heaven they're alive."

Concluded Mrs. Barker in her letter, "... my folks were so fortunate. They both have therapy to go, which will help them. It's been quite an ordeal. But I have faith it will be all right."

"I'm really angry at the idea of such a thing ever happening. There's no excuse for it... I don't see how they (the architects and others involved) can sleep at night."

Swim-a-thon Raises Over $2,500 To Help Jerry's Kids

A TOTAL OF $6,044 was pledged for the recent Swim-A-Thon for Muscular Dystrophy held at the Lincoln Hancock Community School. Among those donating their time to help Jerry's kids were, from left, front, Zoe Bohl and Margaret McLean, both age five, Margaret's mom, Betty Lou McLean, back, also helped out. Some $2,500 in the pledge money has been turned in so far.

158 SWIMMERS signed up for the Swim-A-Thon. The event was co-sponsored by the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee in co-operation with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Stay Alive!

PLAN FIRE ESCAPE WHERE IT COUNTS

Fire drills are required in schools but neglected in the American home where the chances of fire are 200 times greater, where more than 10,000 persons die each year from fire—more than half of them children and old people. So, do your family a favor and plan a fire escape procedure.

Here's how. Appoint a "fire chief". When the father is home, he's the chief, otherwise the mother, a teen-age son, or daughter, even the baby sitter.

The chief stresses that all doors should be closed at night. It takes fire 10 - 15 minutes to burn through a wooden door.

Next, your family visits each bedroom and figures out two escape routes. The usual route is the shortest way outside. The second route is an emergency exit through a different door or window. Plan how each member can reach the ground using the emergency route. Next decide on a meeting place outside the home. Then practice!

The Campaign Trail

Cahill 'Clean-A-Thon' Nets 80 Bags, $500

"We wanted to do something differently because we felt that the citizens of Quincy were looking for a fresh alternative to city politics," said Timothy Cahill, a candidate for city councillor at large.

And that's why Cahill and his friends were out for five hours Sunday cleaning up city streets and collecting 80 bags of rubbish that could mean $500 in campaign funds if all pledges are kept.

It was such a novel campaign tactic that Channel 4 sent a camera team out from Boston to record the event on video tape for showing on the 11 p.m. news.

The "clean-a-thon" started at 10 a.m. in front of Cahill's headquarters on Hancock St. and moved to Quantum where Cahill started his campaign for the City Council in June.

Then it was back to Hancock St. in North Quincy and south to School St. and St. John's Church. They cleaned sidewalks, gutters, empty lots and side streets off Hancock.

They finished at 3 p.m.

"The important thing about the clean-a-thon," said Cahill, "was that we accomplished something positive for the city. It restored some city respect for us and for the people who saw us on the streets cleaning."

Fore River Barrels Ignored, Says Cortese

Joseph F. Cortese, a candidate for City Council from Ward 2, has charged that the barrels used to control traffic at the Fore River Circle are being ignored by motorists.

Instead, he said, they are being used for rubbish disposal.

"I was astonished," said Cortese, "by not only the stench from the barrels but by their failure to prevent rotary traffic from detouring from Washington St. through this residential district."

"Cars cut through these barrels daily, ignoring the one-way and do-not-enter signs, creating a danger to the residents of the area, many of whom are children and senior citizens."

"In my opinion, the barrels should be filled with sand or cement, mainly to prevent them from being easily moved aside."

"But this would also deter those individuals who have been using these barrels for rubbish disposal and fish waste who would then be forced to stop this practice."

Cortese said the barrels should be "strategically placed in order that traffic from the rotary cannot enter Dec Rd. from the circle, which also gives access to other side streets."

"I feel that this hazard should be corrected at once and a safer alternative be placed into effect immediately, not five years from now as it sometimes seems to take that long to be fully acted upon."

"This cannot be blamed on Proposition 2½, because according to many neighbors in this area, this condition has existed for approximately five years."

"I intend to pursue this situation in order to effect a solution to this problem not corrected in the past."

Koch Backs Retention Of Recreational Facility

Richard J. Koch Jr. has reaffirmed his position that the Norfolk County Recreational Facility in Wollaston should remain an open space and recreation site for the enjoyment of county residents.

Koch noted that the annual financial loss at the facility has gradually decreased and with an effective management approach by county officials a profit might well be realized.

But, he added, the proposal by some state officials that a liquor license would be the answer to the problem is questionable.

"This might create a precedent for a surge of liquor licenses at public recreational facilities throughout the state similar to gambling and the new slot machine concept of revenue."

It has been proposed that a proposal to sell the facility go on the ballot as a referendum in the state election in 1982 and an application for a liquor license comes before the licensing board Sept. 8.

Koch noted that public golf courses at Cranberry Valley, Harwich, Dennis Pine and Yarmouth Bass River all have shown surpluses of $80,000 and none of them have a liquor license.

He stressed the importance of protecting all public lands whether federal, state, county or local, "especially in the cities where available property has diminished, public open space becomes priceless."

"The county also would be required to provide a facility equal and acceptable to the federal government if the recreational facility were sold," he added, "or pay the current market value of the acquisition and development."

'Broadway On The Beach' Water Carnival Theme

The Quincy Recreation Department conducted its 33rd annual water carnival, "Broadway on the Beach" at the Avalon Swim Station, Quincy Point, recently.

This year's carnival, coordinated by Water Safety Supervisor Nancy Joyce, featured skits prepared by the swimming instructors for the participants in the department's 11 Learn to Swim Stations.

Over 250 children participated in the program while 200 spectators jammed the beach to view the show.

The carnival featured skits derived from stage hits on Broadway. The swim stations and the skits were as follows: Mound Street - "Peter Pan", directed by Holly Borden; Baker and Palmer Park - "Oliver", directed by Julianne Evanson and Robert Peters; Bayfield - "South Pacific", directed by Ann-Marie Boness; Perry - "Annie", directed by Katherine MacDonald and Mary Wright; Elm - "The Wiz", directed by John Kavanaugh and Linda Morash; Avalon - "A Black Tie Affair", directed by Carolyn Nee; Nickerson - "West Side Story", directed by Beverly Josselyn; Heron - "The Sound of Music" directed by Patti Morris.

The department's 12 Water Safety Instructor's took the roles of clowns to demonstrate swimming strokes as part of a staff act.

The Annual City Championship Swim Races were conducted at the close of the carnival. Winners from each of the swim stations compete in age group races for individual and beach honors.

Winners of the races, by age, are:

Boys six to seven: First place, Michael Anane - Elm Beach; Second place, Dean Morris - Avalon Beach; Third place, Ernie Conti - Nickerson Beach.

Girls six to seven: First, Amy Connell - Avalon Beach; Second, Susan Callow - Elm Beach; Third, Karen Brown - Rock Island.

Boys eight: First Matthew Connell - Avalon; Second, Jack Sullivan - Nickerson; Third - Kevin Glennon - Bayfield.

Girls eight: First, Karen Flaherty - Heron; Second, Jackie Mina - Perry; Third, Karen Carney - Mound.

Boys nine: First, Sean Sugie - Avalon; Second, Tony Blake - Elm.

Girls nine: First, Allyson Lawrence - Avalon; Second, Maureen Shea - Heron; Third, Kelly Colthean - Perry.

Boys 10: First, Brian Tobin - Bayfield; Second, Mike Negias - Nickerson; Third, Jason MacKay - Rock Island.

Girls 10: First, Rachel Ryan - Mound; Second, Mary Goguen - Avalon; Third - Patty Morrell - Perry.

Boys 11: First, Ricky Morris - Avalon; Second, Jerry Bowen - Elm; Third, Larry Hickey - Nickerson.

Girls 11: First, Kristen McGhee - Avalon; Second, Patty Feeney - Elm; Third, Gail Morrell

- Perry.

Boys 12: First, Kevin Flaherty - Bayfield; Second, James Summer - Nickerson; Third, Larry Morash - Elm.

Girls 12: First, Julie Damiano - Perry; Second, Linda Flaherty - Heron; Third, Kara McCabe - Elm.

Boys 13-14: First, Victor Papagno - Bayfield; Second, Brian Callow - Elm; Third, Doug Morris - Avalon.

Girls 13-14: First, Carol Goguen - Avalon; Second, Jean Boudreau - Mound; Third, Helen Mina - Perry.

Boys Open: First, Jim Boudreau - Mound; Second, John Murphy - Elm; Third, Ronnie Reichert - Avalon.

Girls Open: First, Ann Marie Shea - Heron; Second, Ellen Feeney - Elm; Third, Lauren Grant - Avalon.

Nancy Joyce awarded Junior Leader certificates to the following youngsters who assisted swimming instructors during the summer: Paul Tobin, Maureen Flaherty, Rachel Ryan, Sheila O'Connor, Kim Ferguson, Colleen Monahan, Krista Colwell, Ann Marie Shea, Ricky Morris and Nancy Mellin.

Director of Recreation Charles L. Alongi presented certificates to the winners of the freestyle races. Barry Welch, Assistant Director of Recreation was master of ceremonies.

WEEK OF: SEPTEMBER 3, 1981

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

It's essential that you address the right people — perhaps those at the top — with your questions, objections or congratulations. Love is loveless through the weekend.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

A significant lifestyle change may happen shortly, and this week you receive clues about what that change can really mean. A friend's crisis may leave you exhausted.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

In the background, changes are happening that will affect you positively in terms of career and/or finance. The actions of friends can provide you with key insights.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

It's easier now to break the ice — perhaps through lighthearted conversation — with a new friend. Avoid being generous to a fault. Large outings are more rewarding than usual.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Your famed gift of gab can get you into difficulties — it may be wise to be somewhat more reserved than usual, especially in dealings with older relatives, newer colleagues.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Romantic dilemma continues, and you can't pretend to ignore it. Follow instincts more closely. Interesting social opportunity is knocking — but very gently.

LEO - July 23-August 22

A generally successful week if you or close family members are entering contests of skill. Meanwhile, conflict with sharp-tongued colleague can come to a head now.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Don't make decisions based on pity. You may have to take a firm stand, and you can't afford to cave in. Social life perks up and you're back in circulation.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Reunions — especially if you're involved in their planning — are delightful and educational. A domestic dispute can again flare up — but you can put the problem to bed for good.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

A professional stalemate continues, but neither side is quite ready to give in. More time than planned is needed to straighten out the errors and misconceptions of others.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Legal questions can be answered — but only by professionals. Minor financial setback can prove a blessing in disguise. Romantic picture brightens considerably.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Stay clear of feuds — even if certain you have the solutions to everyone's woes. Hobbies and educational advancement are both emphasized — for fun and profit.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Practical and realistic, you have your feet planted firmly on the ground. Be less finicky but no less discriminating than usual, and look forward to building contacts that will prove helpful over the years.

Sun Pledge Center Raises $40,979 For Jerry's Kids

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Well, $40,979 isn't bad.

Neither is $73,000.

Nor $434,000.

The Quincy South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon pledge center based at The Quincy Sun raised $40,979 over the Labor Day weekend.

Telephone pledges amounted to $35,616 and $5,363 in cash and checks was poured into the fish bowl.

In addition to that $40,979 combination, more than $32,000 was realized from special events sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore

Telethon Committee.

That $73,000-plus with more still to come in from those special events.

It puts us well on the way to the half million dollar mark -- money to help fight muscular dystrophy, a cruel disease -- especially what it does to children.

The $40,979 raised over the weekend didn't match last year's $40,417 in pledges and $9,220 in fishbowl receipts. But we really didn't expect to top last year's mark. Things are tougher and money tighter for a lot of people this year. Galloping inflation is still galloping and unemployment growing.

QEA Vote

Teachers Relax Work-To-Rule Regulation

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy teachers are no longer mandated by their union to "work to rule."

The Quincy Education Association voted Tuesday to remove the mandate and let each teacher decide whether or not to work to the letter of the contract with no extras.

QEA President JoAnn O'Malley said the edict was relaxed because the association and the school system "are about to enter a year that will present a great deal of difficulty."

"The contract is up at the end of the school year," she said. "Under Proposition 2 1/2, $4 million will have to be cut from next year's school budget."

"We are trying to put our energies into what we feel we can accomplish."

Mrs. O'Malley said the QEA hopes to get negotiations going on a new contract sometime in October.

"We don't want to wait too long," she said. "We didn't get started until December or January last time and it caused a lot of problems. The contract wasn't ratified until the school year had started."

The emphasis on the association's new contract requests will be on hours and conditions of employment.

"We will ask for a raise, of course," she said, "but the emphasis will be on working conditions."

"We are asking the membership to go through the contract page by page to shore up some of the ambiguous points that are open to conflicting interpretations."

"I'm sure one of the additions to the new contract will be early retirement incentives."

The QEA is still trying to get the city to honor the salary section of the last contract. The teachers were given a raise but the city has yet to

Board Approves Downtown Video Amusement Center

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy Video World, Inc., which has two Quincy city officials as "shareholders," was granted a permit on a 3 to 2 License Board vote Tuesday for an 80 machine amusement center at 1358 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The permit is for a probationary period of one year.

Charles Shea, acting purchasing agent for the city, is treasurer and principal shareholder of the corporation. Dennis Harrington, assistant city solicitor, is also a shareholder.

The license board had turned down two recent requests for amusement centers in Quincy saying they were not in the best interest of the city.

"If we're going to go for one (an amusement center), I'd rather Charlie Shea get the first whack at it," said Police Chief Francis Finn who voted for the venture along with City Clerk John Gillis and Health Commissioner Dr. Robert

P. McKeogh.

Opposing the Video World were Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald who had tried but failed to get a one week continuance on the request.

Barry felt the Video World was not in the best interest of the city. MacDonald said he voted no because he was denied the right for a one week continuance.

Earlier in the meeting, Gillis had told board members that City Councillor Daniel Raymond, Burgin Platner and Co., Insurance, and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association board of directors opposed the venture.

In a Sept. 4, letter to the board, the QCBPA had asked that the matter be continued. It stated in a second letter Tuesday that it opposed the venture because it was not "compatible with ongoing and future development plans for the City of Quincy."

No opposition to the proposal was registered at the meeting.

Video World, which will be located where Blazing Salads is currently in operation, will feature 65 TV games and 15 pinball machines.

Managing the center along with Shea and Harrington will be Andrew D. Holland of North Quincy, Shea's brother-in-law.

Management rules will include the prohibition of food or alcoholic beverages on the premises, wagering, smoking, loud, foul or abusive language, loitering or school children during school hours.

If the police chief determines a police detail is necessary, Video World will comply Shea said.

Finn said he has been "adamantly against" amusement centers, but that they can be "run right."

"Owners have to cooperate 100

New Civil Service Police Exam

Quincy residents who have been waiting for two years for appointment to the Police Department soon will have to go through the exam procedure all over again.

The current Civil Service list, which was established in 1979, expires Sept. 24.

Mary M. McGinty, the city's director of personnel, said the exam for the next two-year list has been scheduled for Nov. 14. The last date to file for the exam is Oct. 22.

Meanwhile, Mayor Arthur H. Tobin bypassed the Civil Service list to appoint six new patrolmen by transfer from other Massachusetts departments. Two of them are Quincy residents.

Tobin said the transfers were made to save time and money.

"I didn't want to hurt any individuals," he said, "but we have a desperate need for additional police officers and we can't afford to wait 14 weeks while they are being trained."

"We have to pay overtime to other officers while the new ones are at the academy. The transfers can go out in the streets right away."

Tobin said he has received few if any complaints about the transfers.

Door Still Open For Firefighter Compromise

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said Tuesday "the door is still open" for another round of negotiations with the Firefighter's Union in an effort to save the jobs of 10 firefighters laid off last April.

Members of the union voted for the second time last week to reject a plan of contract concessions worked out by the Tobin administration and leaders of the union.

"We are always open to suggestions of ways to resolve this issue," said Tobin. "I don't know what their problem is. No one has told me why they turned it down. But we have to keep trying."

Tobin said acting Purchasing Agent Charles L. Shea, who has been conducting negotiations for the city, told him that Union President George Lamb wants to continue negotiations.

But, he added, no date has been set and Lamb was not available for comment.

The proposal rejected by the firefighters included a two-year wage freeze and the union's withdrawal of its minimum manning case that has reached binding arbitration.

Tobin said if the union wins the arbitration, it could mean the loss of up to 20 more firefighter jobs so that the city could remain within the Proposition 2½ budget.

Brownell, Johnston Ask Probe Of MDC Break-In

Reps. Thomas F. Brownell and Philip W. Johnston have called upon Inspector General Joseph Barresi to investigate a break-in of the MDC office of Robert Quinn, director of the Financial Division.

The week-end break-in at MDC Headquarters came at a time when the Commission is being investigated by the inspector general for alleged corruption in the awarding of contracts, conflicts of interest, and questionable engineering titles bestowed on some personnel.

Brownell and Johnston, a Marshfield Democrat, called for the initial investigation. They said they are suspicious of the nature and timing of the break-in.

The Financial Division stores records of all financial transactions by the MDC. While the intent of the break-in is not known, Brownell and Johnston said they have learned that portable radios and other valuable items were visible but not taken.

Zoning Question On Wollaston Rec. Liquor License

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"They have no right to be before the board until they resolve the question of zoning," said License Board member Allan MacDonald Tuesday on the request for a liquor license at the Wollaston Recreational Facility.

The board voted to take under advisement for one week the request for a common victualer-all alcoholic license, but not before it heard both sides of the issue.

MacDonald, who is the city's Building Inspector, maintained that the facility is zoned Residence A which does not permit dispensing of liquor.

Since a ruling was not immediately available from the city solicitor, John Nourse, planning director for Norfolk County and administrator of the facility, explained his position.

"We're in deep trouble," said Nourse, "we're living under danger of no budget."

"We're not interested in a liquor license, per se," said Nourse, "we're interested in increasing play at the facility."

The facility is down to a "bite the bullet and bare bone" budget said Nourse who explained there is pressure from the House of Representatives and Senate which don't want a further deficit.

Nourse said a House Bill under consideration would put a referendum on the 1982 ballot to sell the facility.

Atty. James Shannon, representing Rosie's manager Rosemary P. Foster, the actual petitioner for the license, said the county could go in and build a jail if it doesn't sell the property.

Rep. Michael Morrissey said there is a large amount of opposition to the liquor license.

"People in the area are concerned about security and kids drinking there now," said Morrissey.

County Commissioner George McDonald explained that the facility can't look for additional funding unless it is operating in the black.

He said he would fight to retain the golf course and open space.

Saul Lipsitz was among 16 people at the meeting against the license. Lipsitz said he opposed the license request on behalf of himself, his neighbors, Councillor Frank McCauley and the Quincy Citizens Association.

James F. Kelly of Vershire St. told the board the Montclair Men's Club also opposed granting of the license.

Anne Kelliher of 42 Elliot Ave. was among 13 area residents in favor of the license.

A Nautical Wedding For Robin And Brian

Robin M. Petz became the bride of Brian M. Mitchell during a late afternoon ceremony recently on the floats of Quincy Yacht Club.

BRIDE TO BE Robin M. Petz is escorted to her wedding to Brian M. Mitchell by her stepfather Theodore K. Johnson (second left) aboard the Castaway III.

The bride and wedding party were transported to the floats aboard the Castaway III shipped by Commodore Robert Perry of Town River Yacht Club.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Winston Clarke.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Theodore K. Johnson commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club, and Mrs. Johnson of Quincy.

She is a graduate of Quincy High School.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell Sr. of Quincy, is a graduate of Quincy High School and Fitchburg State College. He is a medical photographer.

Maid of honor was Stephanie Petz of Quincy. Bridesmaids were Frances Stanley and Dorothy Clarke, both of Quincy.

Best man was Dennis McGilvary of Quincy. Ushers were Charles Djerf and Mark Lorgere, both of Quincy.

A reception followed at the Quincy Yacht Club.

Following a wedding trip to Cape Cod, the newlyweds are making their home in Quincy.

WITH THIS RING — Robin M. Petz and Brian M. Mitchell exchange wedding vows during wedding ceremony on the floats of Quincy Yacht Club. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Winston Clarke.

Kelly Names Condo Study Committee

City Council President Leo J. Kelly has named a six-member committee to study and propose condominium conversion regulations for the city of Quincy.

Appointed to the committee and directed to return a proposal to the Council in six weeks were:

John J. Quinn and Stephen J. McGrath, representing the City Council.

Joseph O'Brien, president of the Executive House Tenants Association, and Ruth Adams of Town Houses, representing the tenants.

Roger Lyons, president of the Quincy Builders Association, and John Marrone, developer, representing the landlords.

Kelly said he has directed Quinn to organize the first meeting of the group at which a chairman will be elected.

He also asked the Planning Department and the Rent Grievance Board to make their resources and data available to the committee.

Jason Feldman Square Dedication Sunday

The intersection of Hancock and Cliveden Sts. in downtown Quincy will be dedicated to the memory of the late Jason Feldman in ceremonies Sunday, Sept. 13 at 10 a.m.

Feldman, a downtown merchant for many years and past president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, died recently.

There will be a short parade in his honor starting at City Hall and moving down Hancock St. to Cliveden St. A collation at Beth Israel Synagogue in Quincy Point will follow.

Sidewalk Art Show At County Jail

Sheriff Clifford Marshall announces that the Norfolk County House of Correction and Jail will sponsor its first annual sidewalk art show Sunday, Sept. 13.

The art show will be held 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the front yard of the jail, 47 Village Ave., Dedham.

Marshall said that the show will exhibit art work by students in the Vocational Art Program at the jail.

The sidewalk art show was made possible by the efforts of vocational art instructor, Carol Babayan, who coordinated the program, according to Marshall.

Miss Babayan said that paintings and crafts will be available and will be reasonably priced.

All proceeds will benefit those inmates that have submitted paintings for the display.

The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Town Brook Residents To Visit Anheuser-Busch

Residents of Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., Quincy Center, will travel to Merrimack, N.H., Tuesday, Sept. 22, for a tour of the Anheuser-Busch Brewery.

The group will be guests of Anheuser-Busch in their hospitality room.

The local residents will visit Clydesdale Hamlet and the Clydesdale team of horses.

Following the visit, residents will dine at Hannah Jack's Tavern and return to Quincy about 4 p.m.

fund it.

At last reports, the salary dispute was in litigation, en route from the Superior Court to the Court of Appeals.

The School Department released a fact sheet outlining the impact of Proposition 2 1/2 on the Quincy public schools like this (with last year's figures given first):

School budget, $33,457,905 to $26,711,495, down 20 per cent.

School buildings, 26 to 21, down 20 percent.

Total staff, 1,513 to 1,057, down 31 per cent.

Administrative-support staff, 32 to 20, down 38 per cent.

Instructional staff, 944 to 654, down 31 per cent.

Non-instructional staff, 537 to 383, down 29 per cent.

Classroom teachers, 718 to 486, down 33 per cent.

Elementary classroom teachers, 260 to 191, down 27 per cent.

per cent with the police," said Finn who praised Shea as did the other board members.

"But not even for Shea will I go along with it without the probationary period," said Finn.

Chief Barry said that while Shea is "a very dedicated person," he had reservations about Video World's location.

Gillis also praised Shea who he noted was the first Quincy man to come in for such a license.

MacDonald said he was afraid that granting the license to Video World would be "making fish of one, and fowl of another" where two previous applicants had been denied the license.

The board recessed for 30 minutes to obtain City Solicitor

Robert Fleming's opinion on the request.

Fleming said he did not think the board would be in trouble legally by granting Video World the license.

When the license was granted, Shea told the board, "We'll come back one year from now and you'll say 'congratulations'."

'People Are Crying'

Executive House Being Converted To Condos

"People are calling me," said Joseph O'Brien, president of the Executive House Tenants Association. "They are crying. They are wondering what they are going to do."

"These poor people figured it was their last place to live and they sold their homes and they furnished this place and they took good care of it. They paid their taxes through the middleman, the owner."

O'Brien was expressing the stunned reaction of tenants of Executive House to receipt of a letter notifying them that the apartment building at 1025 Hancock St. is going condo.

The letter from the U.S. Condominium Corp. of Boston said the tenants would be able to purchase their apartments at a "preferred price which will be substantially lower" than the offering price to the general public.

But no price was set and the tenants were notified that a representative from U.S. Condominium Corp. will be at Executive House Sept. 15 through 17 to discuss possible purchase.

"I got the notice yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon," O'Brien told WJDA news director Herb Fontaine. "I think the leases are up at the end of November. It's a nice Christmas present."

O'Brien made his comments at the conclusion of a special City Council meeting Thursday at which it was voted to ask the Legislature for permission to impose a moratorium on condominium conversions.

The Council tried to pass a moratorium ordinance on its own but the 5-2 vote fell one vote short of passage. Two thirds of the nine-member council was necessary.

Councillors Stephen J. McGrath and John J. Lydon Jr. voted against the ordinance, saying they questioned its legality.

Indeed, City Solicitor Robert Fleming told the special meeting that the ordinance would be "blatantly illegal" and in conflict with the Massachusetts Constitution.

He warned the Council that its members might possibly be held personally responsible for any losses incurred by apartment house landlords if the moratorium passed.

"In the last 15 or 20 years," he said, "there has been a tremendous amount of litigation involving the federal civil rights act which exposes both the city and public officials individually to personal liability if they deprive anyone of their property rights under the law."

"I would indicate that we're treading on very dangerous ground in exposing both the city and you members of the City Council to personal responsibility."

"There is no authority at the present time in the Quincy City Council or the Mayor to pass and execute any condominium restriction. The courts already have ruled on that issue and they've ruled that it's in violation of the Massachusetts Constitution."

Fleming noted, however, that the Council could take action on a home rule petition and, with the approval of the State Legislature, enact some form of condominium conversion restrictions.

Board To Explore QSD Traffic Problems

The Quincy License Board voted Tuesday to continue for one month a hearing on traffic problems on Quincy Shore Drive, the site of several serious traffic accidents this summer.

At the request of Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, James P. McGettrick of The Beachcomber, 797 Quincy Shore Drive, appeared at the meeting to discuss the problems.

McGettrick's establishment is located in the vicinity where a young woman was fatally struck while crossing the boulevard Aug. 13, at 2:31 a.m.

The car which struck the woman was travelling at 60 m.p.h.

Calling the hearing an attempt to begin to explore solutions to the traffic problems, Dr. McKeogh suggested such options as a second access to the Beachcomber, flashing speed indicators, and speed bumps.

Officer Carl Schuster, of the MDC Police, which has jurisdiction on the roadway, suggested installing high pressure sodium lights, conducting a feasibility study of rumble strips which can alert drivers to possible dangerous situations, and signs prohibiting parking on the beach side of the road at night.

Schuster also suggested a median strip with a fence from Fenno St. to the Wollaston Bowladrome.

Councillor Stephen McGrath suggested an MDC police detail be stationed at the Beachcomber at night adding a police presence in the area.

City Clerk John M. Gillis said he would like input from the Quincy Police as well.

The month's continuance will also allow the License Board time to hear the Traffic Commission's study of the situation as requested by McGrath at a recent City Council meeting.

Capavella Resigns PR Job At Hospital

John Capavella has resigned as public relations director at City Hospital to enter private business or return to the broadcasting field.

His resignation is effective Oct. 31.

Capavella, who lives in Braintree, was named to his post at the hospital two years ago after serving as administrative assistant for press relations to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

"My association with city officials and hospital employees was a very rewarding experience," he said.

TEMPORARY CROWN?

Q: What's the purpose of a temporary crown?

A: A temporary crown restores esthetics and function, keeps the tooth comfortable, and keeps the gumline in a stable position while the permanent crown is being constructed. It is held in place with temporary cement, so it can be removed easily.

Q: Recently, I was having a cap made. Before the dentist took an impression, he packed what looked like a piece of string under the gum, all around my tooth. Why?

A: The string is called a "retraction cord" that helps the dentist get an accurate impression, not only of your tooth, but also under the gumline. When the cord is removed, it leaves a temporary space around the tooth, into which the impression material can flow.

O'Hare Urges Vote To Change Status Quo

William J. O'Hare, a candidate for the City Council at large, has urged all citizens of Quincy to vote in the preliminary and general elections "if we are to change the political process of

"During my campaigning," he said, "I have been constantly told by voters that the present administration of our city is not doing a good job.

"As a result, most people say they will not bother to vote in the upcoming elections.

"I urge all voters to think of their own best interest by going to the polls on election day.

"Failure to vote will only perpetuate the status quo.

"If you are disenchanted with the way things are done in this city then exercise your right to change things by voting.

"The larger the voter turnout, the more likely the best candidates will win."

Toland Urges City Find Use For Closed Schools

Patricia M. Toland, a candidate for the City Council at large, says there is an urgent need to find appropriate use for the schools that have been closed and turned over to the city.

"Residents in the areas where these closed schools are located have expressed concern that these schools are prime targets for vandalism," she told a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gardner, Deerfield Rd., Squantum.

"I share their concern for indeed vandalism has occurred. The city needs to move more quickly to determine appropriate alternative use of these buildings."

She noted that the Planning Department has been given a grant to study appropriate uses of the buildings and she urged the planners to seek citizen input in their studies.

"The buildings should be aggressively marketed as prime real estate; some buildings readily lend themselves to office use, others to some kind of housing," said Mrs. Toland.

"The city has had the Hunting and Great Hill Schools for some two years and in June the Adams, Quincy, Cranch and Gridley Bryant schools have been returned to the city.

"I believe that the city needs to insure that these buildings become tax producing properties which enhance the neighborhoods in which they are located."

Brownell Assails MBTA Student Fare Increase

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has urged MBTA General Manager James O'Leary to rescind the plan to increase student bus fares from 10 cents to 25 cents.

He charged that the MBTA has gone back on its word regarding "fare policy" and threatened to call a special meeting of the Joint Transportation Committee so the public will not be "duped by double talk."

"The MBTA states prior to the Aug. 1 general fare increase that sufficient operating revenue would be generated if the fare increase were authorized," said Brownell.

"The increase was allowed and one month later the fare is seeking more money, this time from students, on a 150 per cent increase! Any additional fare increase at this time is unwarranted and unacceptable.

Koch Reminds Voters City Elections Non-Partisan

Richard J. Koch Jr., a candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council, has reminded voters that Quincy city elections are nonpartisan and voters do not have to declare a party affiliation to vote in the Sept. 22 preliminary election.

Koch said that on several occasions during the current campaign he has heard candidates discuss party affiliations and such talk may mislead new residents who have moved to Quincy from places where local elections were conducted on a partisan basis.

Although he is a Democrat and proud of his affiliation, Koch said the need for Quincy city government is strong harmonious leadership with officials working in unison to provide effective and efficient public service.

Koch did not mention any names but Gregory P. Brooks, who is also a candidate for the City Council at large, has repeatedly announced that he is running as a Republican.

Raymondi Opposes Sale Of Recreational Facility

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has gone on record in opposition to the proposed sale of the Norfolk County Recreation Facility, particularly if the sale is for the purpose of development.

Raymondi, who is a candidate for mayor, wrote to Rep. Charles F. Flaherty of Cambridge and Sen. Sharon Pollard of Methuen, chairmen of the Committee on Counties, in opposition to a bill to put the sale on a referendum in 1982.

"I am concerned," said

Odometer Law

Effective

People who sell their cars must insert the odometer reading on the transfer form on the back of the vehicle title under legislation effective this month, Sen. Paul D. Harold says.

Under the former law, car mileage had to be listed only if it differed from that shown on the odometer.

Harold said the new law requires that the actual reading on the odometer, and not an estimate of mileage, be provided on the title transfer form when the vehicle is sold.

Raymondi, "as are the residents of the Montclair area, with any bill that could lead to the loss of this vital recreational and open space resource for the Quincy community.

"Montclair is a densely populated, close knit residential community consisting mainly of single and two-family homes.

"Any type of major development in the area would result in a detrimental impact on the community.

"Development would result in a huge influx of traffic and a loss of neighbor hood integrity. It would erase the character of the community.

"I urge you to table any measure which would initiate the eventual loss of this open space and recreational site."

Verenis Charges Schools Lose Sight Of Purpose

Nicholas Verenis, a candidate for School Committee, says the Quincy schools are too busy developing and selling the education system and have lost sight of their fundamental purpose "to educate students to their maximum competency."

He told a gathering at the home of Jim and Carolyn Conroy, 43 North Central Ave., Wollaston, that his immediate attention will be given to promoting sound basic skills at all levels so Quincy's students will be better equipped to compete in the world.

"Academic standards are lower than what should be expected and this is evidenced by the low SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) scores," he said.

"It wasn't until last September that the word came from the main administrative offices that those scores were too low and teachers and administrators were to make those scores a top priority item.

"It took the Quincy public schools 10 years to recognize this downward trend, even at the downward trend, even at the warnings of teachers and parents."

Verenis, a former teacher at North Quincy High School, said he takes issue with school officials who admit low scores in Quincy but cite the fact that this is the trend around the country.

"Whatever they're doing in the rest of the country does not make it right and certainly in the area of SAT scores, Quincy can dare to be different," he said.

McDuff Plans To Seek Counsel From Seniors

John H. McDuff Jr., a candidate for City Council from

Ward 2, says he plans to organize "a volunteer group of senior citizens in our ward and meet with them regularly to discuss their problems."

"Our senior citizens are among our greatest resources," he said, "and we must utilize fully their wisdom and experience."

"They have made Quincy the great city that it is and I intend to make full use of that wise counsel."

Creedon Sees Confidence Lack Greatest Threat To Public Schools

By TOM HENSHAW

Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon opened the Quincy public schools first year under Proposition 2½ this week with the admonition to his depleted staff that:

"The greatest threat to the public school is the issue of lack of confidence in public education."

"However," he added, "the issue is not so overwhelming that there is nothing that I, you, or we can do at the local level."

Dr. Creedon, in an address to school employees Tuesday morning in the Vocational Technical School gym, gave a bristling defense of public education, particularly as practiced in Quincy.

"The issue of confidence must command the attention of every person affiliated with the public school," he said.

"Slick PR programs will not restore public confidence in the public schools. Speeches by school superintendents and by leaders of professional associations and unions will not do it."

"Public confidence in the public school will be restored when the following things happen:

"When community by community schools do a good job and thus quality education is evident in terms of programs of instruction.

"When professional and support personnel are proud of what they do, are proud of their individual contribution to the school and are pre-active advocates for the school.

"When educators and parents recognize more fully and openly their common responsibility for the education of the young and thus build a bridge of mutual trust.

"When parents and the community feel that the school is responding to their needs."

Creedon cited other major issues in the schools as declining enrollments, the tax cutting mood of the nation, the push for tax-support for private schools and "the priorities of an aging population."

"By the end of this decade," he said, "only 25 per cent of the adult population of this land will have children of public school age."

"The needs and demands of a 75 per cent majority will not be the same as the 25 per cent minority unless we work with that majority in order to gain their support for providing quality education for today's young people."

"Tax cutting initiatives such as Proposition 2½ have not run their course and as a result public school officials are going to have to be students of organization and institutional management in a way never here-to-fore contemplated."

Creedon warned his staff against wringing their hands over the losses due to Prop 2½.

"The reality of fewer colleagues in the classroom," he said, "the elimination of instructional programs, the closing of schools and the increase in class size when all taken together could give license for one to despair, but such an attitude will not do."

"We must ask ourselves in a strong and positive way what can I do to make certain that we in Quincy continue to offer quality education for all our learners and by doing so contributing how can I help to restore public confidence in public education?"

Creedon said he felt that U.S. Secretary of Education Terrell Bell was wrong when he said last month that "public education in America is failing and public educators are to blame."

"The allegation doesn't fit Quincy and the documentation is there to prove it," he said. "We need not be defensive about our practice in Quincy; we need not feel guilty and doubt our competence; we need not apologize."

"I think I can make my point with one illustration - basic skills or minimum standards. The community has a right to expect that Quincy educators will do a good job in teaching basics.

"Last spring 3,000 Quincy youngsters in Grades 3, 5, and 8 took a minimum standards test approved and mandated by the Massachusetts Department of Education. The results are as follows:

"Reading, Grade 3, 93 per cent passed; Grade 5, 99 per cent passed; Grade 8, 97 per cent passed.

"Writing (grammar), Grade 3, 94 per cent passed; Grade 5, 95 per cent passed; Grade 8, 97 per cent passed.

"Composition, Grade 3, 98 per cent passed; Grade 5, 97 per cent passed; Grade 8, 98 per cent passed.

"Math, Grade 3, 98 per cent passed; Grade 5, 97 per cent passed; Grade 8, 90 per cent passed.

"These scores are good, very good, but I'm not surprised. I have confidence in the quality of instruction being offered in the basic skills program of the Quincy public schools."

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

59 Candidates In Plan E Election

A total of 59 candidates for City Council, headed by former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, and 15 candidates for School Committee qualified for the ballot in Quincy's first Plan E election.

All the candidates were invited to a meeting of the Quincy Civic Association to hear an explanation and see a slide presentation of the complicated proportional representation voting process.

Burgin suggested that perhaps every registered voter in the city should be trained in how to vote under the PR system or election officials would be faced with many invalid ballots.

PARKING WORK BEGUN

Mayor Charles A. Ross turned the first spadeful of earth to start reconstruction of the Municipal Parking Area, work on which was scheduled to be completed in time for Christmas shopping.

"This is a red-letter day in the history of Quincy," said Ross. "This fastest growing city in this part of the country will soon have a parking area second to none."

Meanwhile, the City Council rejected a proposal to take land on the west side of Hancock St. between Clay and Chapman Sts. for a municipal parking lot in the Wollaston business area.

SHIPYARD WORK STABLE

John I. Wiseman, general manager of the Fore River Shipyard, said the work force at the yard was 9,550, the largest ever in peacetime, and he predicted it would remain stable at least through 1990.

He attributed much of the stability to some 2,500 employees who had worked there for 25 years or were the sons of workers with 25 years of service.

The SS Texas, the Texas Oil Co.'s 36,250-ton tanker, one of the world's largest bulk carriers, was back at Bent's Creek for finishing touches after trial runs off the Massachusetts coast.

FOUR NEW JOBS

The City Council approved four new city jobs in the Veterans' Services and Public Welfare Departments -- two investigators at $2,700 and $2,450 a year and two clerk stenographers, each at $1,800.
